Also included will be this sentence from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (p. 60): "Soul has infinite resources with which to bless mankind, and happiness would be more readily attained and would be more secure in our keeping, if sought in Soul."

When Is a Joint Return a Real "Joint Return?"

A husband filing a separate Federal income tax return for 1962 cannot claim his wife's $600 exemption if she had income or was the dependent of another taxpayer, Alvin M. Kelley, director of Internal Revenue for the Boston district, said today.

Husband and wife may file a joint return even though one of them had no income or deductions for the year. If the wife had income, they may either file a joint return or separate returns. A joint return must include the income of both husband and wife. If separate returns are filed, neither may claim an exemption for the other unless the other had no income.

For example, suppose a wife earned $400 from which $80 income tax was withheld. If she files a separate return to obtain her $80 refund, the husband cannot list her as an exemption on his return.

If husband and wife file separate returns, both must use the standard deduction, or both must itemize their deductions. One cannot itemize and the other use the standard deduction.

Taxpayers having questions about filing by husband and wife may get Document 5107, "Filing Your Tax Return," by calling their local Internal Revenue Service Office, or writing to District Director, Internal Revenue Service, 174 Ipswich Street, Boston 15, Mass.

Army Aviators In Demand

In discussing recent developments surrounding Army Aviation's current increase in aircraft, Army officials have turned to the question of where to get the pilots to fly their new planes. Sgt Jack Bateson, Army recruiter in Winchester, pointed out that $520 million dollars has been approved for new aircraft procurement for the Army's Air Arm, but now top officials are turning to personnel considerations or as Sgt. Bateson puts it, "Where do we get our pilots?"

This avaitor shortage is a direct result of the Army's latest reorganization (Road concept) which requires a 100 per cent increase in aircraft from the old pentomic divisions. Right now there is a need for over 1,000 warrant officers to fill existing spaces in Army Aviation.

Although the Army declines official comment, Sgt Bateson points out that reliable sources indicate consideration of a plan to allow high school graduates to enlist directly to attend flight school and graduate as warrant officer aviators.

The current program allows enlisted men within the Army to apply for Warrant Officer Aviator Candidate School who are high school graduates between ages of 20 and one half and 30, and who can meet the mental, moral and physical prerequisites.

Added opportunities in Army Aviation are available during the month of February for those young men who can qualify for training as part of the largest organic air force of any military ground crew in the world. Details on Army Aviation are available from Sgt Bateson, located at 49 High Street, Medford, telephone EX 6-5777.

Gilday. Nancy will be the youngest member of the group.

Facts About Your Town Meeting Member Candidates Compiled By The Local LWV

As a public service the Winchester League of Women Voters has gathered and compiled accurate and unbiased information about the candidates who are running for Town Meeting Members in the six precincts. The background information on the education, occupation, and local activities of the candidates is being furnished by the League, in cooperation with the Star, in an attempt to provide the voters of Winchester with pertinent facts about their candidates so that they may more ably choose their representatives at the March 4 election.

Besides serving as a Town Meeting Member for several terms, I have been on the Finance Committee, Flouridation Committee and the New Waterways Committee.

John J. Barry, 10 Euclid Avenue

Having served three years on the Finance Committee I consider myself qualified as a candidate for Library Trustee and also Town Meeting Member in Precinct 1.

Henry L. Clark, Jr., 16 Hillcrest Parkway.

Town Meeting Member 15 years. President and Director J. H. Winn Inc. Director Winchester Co-operative Bank. Homeowner in Winchester 17 years. Past President Winchester Rotary Club. Former member Board of Appeals.

Donald J. Fritch, 8 Kenwin Road.

Town Meeting Member past seven years. Resident twenty-two years. Library Addition Committee. Graduate Winchester High, M.I.T., Northeastern University. Sincerely interested in future of Winchester.

Vito A. Giarrizzo, 20 Sawmill Brook Road

I believe every Winchester voter should be a Town Meeting Member, if possible, for one term. I have the time and desire to serve now.

An immense satisfaction to be aware of this town government and to participate in the decision of its problems as a Town Meeting Member.

PRCINCT TWO

Vincent F. Erhard, 194 Washington Street

Not easy being a Town Meeting Member for 15 long years—numerous sessions—but consider it a duty as home owner and 26 year resident.

R. Francis Haley, 28 Crescent Road

I have been a Town Meeting Member (for the past three years), I am a life long resident of Winchester and have an interest in Town affairs.

Formerly chairman and member, Lynch School Building Committee; five years Town Meeting Member; lawyer. I believe my experience can be useful to the Town.

Clarence S. Borggaard, 22 Frankland Road

These written "qualifications" actually count for very little. Unless a Member "stands up" and "speaks up" his opinions have little influence on Town Meeting.

John H. Caldwell, 21 Symmes Road

Walter J. Farrell, Jr., 33 Pierrepont Road

Openings for adults are available in the following classes: "Design Experiments" on Tuesday evening; "Beginners' Drawing" on Wednesday afternoon; "Oil Painting" on Wednesday evening; "Drawing Techniques" on Thursday morning, and "Oil Painting" and "Watercolor" on Thursday evenings.

'62 Activity Report Of Fire Department

During the year the Fire Department responded to 704 Still Alarms; 112 Box Alarms; 9 False Alarms; 26 Mutual Aid Alarms for a total of 851. 39 Calls for the Rescue Truck for emergencies and the resuscitator. Responded on 5 Ambulance calls with the Police Department.

The apparatus has travelled a total of 15,349 miles and has pumped 558 hours. Used 17,400 feet of 2½-inch hose; 14,200 feet of 1½-inch hose; 69,700 feet of booster hose and raised 2,956 feet of ladders. 162 soda, acid and foamite extinguishers were filled for the other town departments and residents of the town. The department responded on two multiple alarms during the year.

133 inspections were made of oil burner equipment and permits issued for a total of 30,500 gallons of fuel oil. 10 permits for inflammable liquids and 30 permits issued for blasting operations.

All motor equipment is in good running condition and the new 1000-gallon Mack Pumper was delivered December 14, 1962. The Underwriters acceptance test was held December 18, 1962, and it passed all tests. The 1936 Ford (Eng. No. 4) front end pump was turned over to the Water Department.

All fire alarm boxes and circuits of the Fire Alarm System have been tested every month. 15,100 feet of new fire alarm wire has been replaced along with new fire alarm lines. Fire Alarm Boxes installed in 1962 are as follows: Box No. 265 at Dennett and Hollywood Roads; Box. No. 513 at Squire Road; Box No. 342 at Charles and Bradford Roads.

The department has conducted four fire drills in all the schools of the town. All buildings, stores, gas stations, etc., have been inspected. The Winchester Hospital and the Home for the Aged have to be inspected four times a year and reports filed with the state.

Members of the department with a member of the Water Department tested all the hydrants in the town. Most of them were in good condition. These hydrants are being corrected by the Water Department.

In October of 1962 we had very heavy rains causing flooded conditions all over the town. We received over 160 calls for assistance and completed 105 using 2 sump pumps; 2 front end pumps; trailer pump; one portable gasoline pump.

The manual force consists of 36 permanent men and 6 callmen. The permanent force consists of the chief, 3 captains, 4 lieutenants, 1 mechanic, 2 fire alarm alarm men, a clerk, and 24 firefighters. Francis Nowell of the call force resigned February 1, 1962. He was appointed to the force in March, 1934.

Home building in the town has increased by 48 single homes and 5 duplex homes, a block of stores, a commercial garage; 2 light industrial buildings; cabinet shop; an apartment and an addition to the hospital. This calls for more fire protection, and the West Side Fire Station should be built as soon as possible.

International Bonspiel On Country Club Rinks Today

Some 96 men, four each to a curling team or rink, take to the ice at the Country Club indoor rink this morning for the Winchester 9th International Men's Bonspiel, which will feature the strongest curling to be seen in the East this year.

They bring to Winchester the same singleminded enthusiasm that was present on a similar winter afternoon in 1911 when the first remembered exhibition took place in windy Boat Club cove on the Mystic Lakes.

Coming from Canada (8 rinks) and many states, they also reflect the same international flavor of the game that was an element of that first match here. For the 1911 exhibition was instigated by Charles P. Young, whose devotion to curling was born, as was he, in New Brunswick, and brought here with him where it thrived in the early days of the Boston Curling Club and motivated his efforts to establish curling here, not successful in his lifetime.

It was 17 years later that Bowen Tufts, as chairman of the winter sports committee at the W. C. C., brought the now nearly 500 year sport to acceptance here.

There are many other Winchester names in local curling history. But among those which already span generations are the Bartons, Bonnells, Neills and Neileys, to say nothing of the Charles Young progeny, K. T. Young and Mrs. Harold Farnsworth, and his sons-in-law, Farnsworth and C. P. LeRoyer.

Of these families, the only one said to boast three generations of curlers so far is the Neills. And today W. C. C. president, Stan Neill, son of E. Y. and father of Ted, will compete as a member of one of three home rinks entered. His rink will be skipped by Dave Shean, Jr., and Bill Adams and Fred Cardin are its other members.

The rink to beat this year is a local rink. Title defenders Dr. Paul Sheeran, with Bill Croston, George DeVries and Ralph Bonnell, Jr., backing him up are rated Winchester No. 1 with good reason. The third Winchester rink is skipped by George Whitten, with Ken Colony, Ed Little and Ron Davis behind him.

That the enthusiasm of curlers for their sport is in inverse ratio to their numbers in these parts is too bad. The reason given that rink construction is expensive doesn't seem to hold. For the Canadians, who embrace the game in a solid popular way, and play much of it out of doors, have semi-public indoor rinks as well as private ones. In Scotland, of course, it is a national sport even more popular than baseball here as far as participation goes. And there, of some 600 rinks used by intertown leagues and clubs, only about 10 are indoor.

Local Rotarians are more familiar with curling on paper than many other groups due to the good reporting of Rotary-sponsored league play much of which centers in upper New York, Minnesota and Canada. The Winchester Country Club has been fostering the game among the young here with some 30 secondary school age players now members of a Junior Curling Club. Of this group two rinks (made up of boys although girls are in it too) journey this weekend to compete in Norwalk, Connecticut. Going down are: S. Downes, B. Little, R. Chase, B. Cardin, and J. Wilcox, R. Porter, K. Trevitt and C. Reeves.

Burns vs Bruegel

In testimony to their claim of its origin there in the early 16th century is a long literary history from Burns and Scott through every minor poet and in great volume.

Typical of the boisterous virility with which numberless poems resound is the following introductory stanza to an 18th century verse.

"Auld Daddy Scotland sat ae day
Bare-legged on a snawy brae
His brawny arms wi cauld were blae
The wind was snelly blawing"

Counter evidence to this kind of lust, paternalism from Scotland is a Flemish claim to it quietly but eloquently stated on canvas by Pieter Bruegel the elder. More than one of his detailed landscapes, including "Return to the Village" (1565) shows children on wintry canals, engrossed with stones and brooms - a casual, unpremeditated "the kids have been curling here for ages" sort of suggestion. In addition, the word "bonspiel," which has a pleasant, "gemutlich" ring, is said to derive from an early French use of "bon" for place (not good) and the Teuton "spiel" for play.

Although not barelegged like "Daddy Scotland," the group of about 36 men who finally got curling off to a start in Winchester in 1928 did so with the wind "Snelly blawing," for they played for the first few years up on the windswept skating pond at the Club. In fact, with the exception of later weekly indoor practices at the invitation of the Country Club in Brookline, and of the war years when they tried flooding a tennis court (it didn't work, too well designed for summer drainage!) curling centered on the pond until 1954 when an indoor rink was finally constructed through the generous support of a nucleus of curling stalwarts.

The curling roster at the Club now numbers around 250, more than one third of whom are women. Annual in-club matches grow in number and now include for the men, in addition to the historical firsts, the Charles W. Young and Alfred J. White Cups, the Fulton Trophy, and the Chairman's trophy.

This year's Men's Curling chairman, Larry Fessenden, and Women's Curling chairman, Marion Reeves, get together to arrange the in-club mixed curling award, the Coulson Cup. The Winchester women curl alone for the Dyer trophy and for the annual Swizzle Cup in March.

The attention getters are of course the bonspiels, or invitation meets such as today's, numbering about six per year. And in addition to this, the name of Winchester goes as far west as Chicago, down to New York and Connecticut and up to Canada, with competing rinks as well as over to Scotland with individual curlers.

The Clean-Up Man Doesn't Sweep

And what is this game that holds its adherents so close and content? Most akin in this country to shuffleboard, it is a placement game wherein the object is to put as many 40 pound, handled stones as possible in the bullseye or "tee" of a concentric "house," one of which is at either end of a 42 yard rink of ice. Also, of course, to keep as many as possible of one's opponents' stones out of the house.

The stones are slid along the ice with a curve (or curl). Delivery technique is very individual. It can take the whole body with it onto the ice, or it can appear a gentle shove, very like a ballet movement when executed by a lithe female in stretch pants, the winter sport equivalent of the leotard.

The progress of the stone is assisted by sweepers using their brooms on the ice. A holdover from outdoor games when sweeping took snow and impediments from the path of the stone, it has become, indoors, a refinement which tempers the ice surface just enough to add speed to the curling stone.

When the Winchester skips take to the ice this afternoon, they bring to their job an authority inherited from the games' beginning. Innately a team sport, depending on the sum individual skill of its four teammates, it nevertheless gives to its skip much the same strategic direction as yacht racing does to a skipper. He not only calls the shot placements, but is himself sort of a clean-up batter, making the final placement for his team in the two-shot per man inning, or "end."

Winchester curlers, like all others, appear to invest their stones with some of the romance of the long history of the game. This, no doubt, comes from the fact that almost all of the stones used in the U. S. and Canada come from the same spot in Scotland, quarried from the adjacent rock, processed in one small shop.

Perhaps the stones carry with them some of the tradition of the game. For pride in its finest traditions is a real common denominator of curlers. Its distinctive aura of good fellowship and good will is said to compel a person toward his or her best behaviour. An early Scot put it this way: "Its' kindly influence rubs off the asperities of sect and party and promotes harmony and good feeling among those who could otherwise be estranged by political and ecclesiastical contentions." A game can be tight, close, sharply fought; but it must still retain the amenities accrued over the ages. There has never been a professional in the sport, gambling has never been allowed. Rhubarbs are unheard of and nothing suggestive of the sour is tolerated. So-

"Hae ye trouble? Hae ye sorrow?
Are ye pinched wi wordly care?
Redd the roarin' rink to-morrow
Peuch! They'll fash ye never mair."

Winchester Town League

George MacMillan led off for the Giant Killers in quest of play off position for the second half, with consistent strings of 105-103-102 for 310 and Jackie Rochels pulling out a 301. Score: Giant Killers 1389 to Hoboes 1305.

Strike Lanes conquered J. H. Winn after the losers came strong, but did not survive the total as Strike Lanes won 6 to 2, as Paul Avakian put down his tools and picked up his bowling ball to help his team in a combined effort.

Converse Market continues a fine pace as they made distant cousins out of the Brothers-in-law. High for Converse B. Perkins 95-92-111 for 298. C. Fuedo put on his shoes and with Andy Buzzotto led the losers to no avail.

Grandma's Teeth continued their quest for second half leader, as they bombed the Mill Hillers. Bill Sipp stroked 95-128-95 for 318, and Joe Consalves 109-86-118 for 313 led Grandma's boys against stubborn Fred Kimball 92-116-116 for 324 and B. Kelley 104-107-105 for 316 high for the losers.

The Atlantic Gelatin 8, St. Mary's 0. Steve Ganley 103-103-104 for 310, as Oscar Lovgren 103-118-101 for 322 and O' McClay 110-98-100 for 308 were the big whip, as the Nash's trick to make a match of it. Leo Manoli rolled his consistent self with 108-96-100 for 304 for the St. Mary's.

The 49ers squeezed by the Post Office 1436 to 1385. Bob Buckley the "gentleman grocer" led the 49ers with 95-121-95 for 311. C. Foley and "Mickey" Donovan were high for the Post Office, as Art Griswold was sidelined due to a leg ailment.

Diplomats In Good Show Last Saturday

Those who saw the Harlem Diplomats against the faculty all stars last Saturday evening in the high school gymnasium, had a pleasant evening with lots of laughs. The Varsity Club sponsored their appearance here.

The Diplomats won as they pleased and really showed the 800 in the gym some nifty ball-handling and dribbling. They pulled out all the stops, showing a "yo-yo" basketball, and lop-sided ball that took funny bounces. They also played baseball and football, a la the Globe Trotters, and did them well.

One of the Diplomats, in an argument with Frank Provinzano, one of the referees, got a big laugh when he asked Frankie if he was still using "that greasy kid stuff on his hair." The irrepressible Goose Tatem II while leaning on referee "Izzy" Battino's shoulder, exhorted his mates to "get going" at the other end of the gym.

There was an expert dribbler who gave a fine exhibition of ball-retention just before the half, the Diplomats all leaving the floor while he was in action.

Still another Diplomat called attention to one ball being missing, and said it was undoubtedly hidden in Coach Jimmy Phillips' spare tire.

The Diplomats clowned and horsed around, but when the chips were down, they could play real good basketball. The faculty all stars were hardly worth while opposition, though they contributed to the amusement of the crowd.

Badminton Club Double Shut-Out

Less than a week after shutting out their Framingham opponents, the Winchester Badminton Club scored its second consecutive sweep of the season by winning all ten doubles competition against the Maugus Club of Wellesley at the Winchester High School gymnasium on Tuesday, February 5.

The unprecedented double shut-out sent officials scurrying to the record books in search of a smiliar occurrence. Not only was this the first time in "D" league history that a team had swept two matches in a row, but no record of any similar achievement could be found in any M.B.A. competition, regardless of league classification. The accomplishment is comparable to, and as rare as, two consecutive no-hit no-run games in baseball.

The winning doubles pairings who contributed to the team victory, and the scores by which they defeated their opponents were:

Men's doubles: Bill Macneill and Russ Meade (15-5, 15-8); Al Kajander and Ed Williams (15-3, 15-8); Bob Gallant and Brad Hersey (15-6, 15-5); Dan Hritzay and Russ Meade (15-6, 15-14).

Ladies' doubles: Alison Hersey and Maxine Kajander (15-2, 15-4); Paula DiIorio and Stella Gallant (15-0, 15-1).

Mixed doubles: Ed Williams and Paula DiIorio (15-4, 15-2); Bill Macneill and Alison Hersey (15-6, 15-4); Jay Gottesfeld and Gloria Gottesfeld (15-7, 15-8); Whit Gray and Lois Hersey (15-6, 15-6).

With the season now half over, the Winchester Club leads the North Division of the league with 26 wins and only 4 losses in the individual doubles competitions.

First Baptist Guest Speaker

Chaplain Frederick Brown of the Lyman School for Boys, Westboro will speak to the combined Junior and Senior High BYF's Sunday, February 17 at 6:00 p.m. He will share with them the needs and problems of the boys committed to the Institution and his approach to communicating the Christian faith to them. Lyman School is the state institution which is responsible for the problems of boys ages 10-16 in the state of Mass.

Middlesex League Hockey

The completion of the Middlesex Hockey League changed considerably last week end when fourth place Winchester handed leader Belmont its first defeat of the season, 3 to 2 at the North Shore Sports Center.

Going into last Saturday's round Belmont enjoyed a four point lead over second place Melrose and a five point bulge over third place Wakefield. Now Melrose is just two points off the pace and Wakefield three.

In this Saturday's feature game Melrose and Wakefield oppose each other and Belmont meets seventh place Reading. Stoneham faces Lexington and Winchester squares off against Watertown in other pairings.

In their last meeting Wakefield upset Melrose, 2 to 0 and snapped the defending New England Champions' 27-game win streak. If Wakefield can repeat that performance, it would vault into second place.

The Wakefield unit may hold the key to the outcome of the league, because two of its next games are against the top two clubs. Wakefield faces Belmont a week from Saturday when the season ends.

Belmont, however, still seems to be in a favorable position to capture its first Middlesex League title. Its three remaining rivals are Reading, Watertown and Wakefield in that order. Reading and Watertown have won only five games between them and should not offer Belmont too much opposition.

The race for top goal tending honors in the league continues to be amazing. Belmont's Dave Crisafulli, Melrose's Bob Quinn and Wakefield's Bob Ring are deadlocked. Each has allowed 14 goals in 11 games for a startling 1.27 average.

Winchester's Barry Johnson scored two goals and assisted on a third last week to retain the individual scoring leadership in the Middlesex Hockey League with 22 points. Johnson has registered eight goals and 14 assists.

Paul Hurley of Melrose and Ed Cutting of Winchester each picked up three points and remained deadlocked for second place with 19 points.

K. of C. Bowling League

The match of the week was between the league leading Yankees and the Twins, with the Twins making a clean sweep 8 to 0, preventing a run away for second half honors. Capt. Bob Fiore led his Twins with a 331, with Joe Cullinane at 282 and Bill Sullivan at 280. High man for the losers was Capt. Dick Fiore with 315 total.

Taking advantage of the Yankee's setback were the Red Sox, who moved 4 points off the top by defeating the Indians 6 to 2. Standing out in this match were Jim Caulfield of the Indians with 325, while John Mulrenan led the Red Sox with 309.

The Orioles moved into third by taking the Tigers 8 to 0. Capt. Charlie Doherty's 305 led the way for the Orioles while Ed Thompson's 287 was high for the losers.

With only three bowlers present, the White Sox bowed to the Angels 6 to 2. Charlie Doucette, Frank Rolli and Bob Taylor gave it all they had, but Dick Tofuri's 298 for the Angels killed all hopes of an upset.

The Senators served notice on the rest of the league as they rolled over the Athletics by a score of 7 to 1. We originally received this score as 8 to 0, but a check of the score sheets found the last string ended in a tie, which explains the odd points. Leading gunner for the Senators was Everett Kimball at 287, while Ed Forbes' 269 was the big effort for the Athletics.

Next week's matches find the Yankees taking on the upset-minded Tigers, Red Sox versus Athletics, the Orioles against the Senators, the Angels and Indians doing battle, and the Twins tangle with the White Sox.

STAR SPORTS

S. O. I. Bowling League

Yale whitewashed next to last place St. Mary's to maintain first position in the standing. Doing their part for Yale's victory were Capt. Richie Bucci who hit for 109-134-109, Joe Capone 94-97-122 and Hokie Procopio 100-107-98. Mike Collucci was not too far behind with 106-98-90. St. Mary's was without the services of its Captain Max LaCarubba because of an ailing back and Joe Ciarcia filled in nicely, but in a losing cause with scores of 96-105-93 while teammate Mingy Frongillo was far off with 89-102-98.

Second place is still held by Alabama after defeating ninth place California. Dom Provinzano was leading scorer for the winners with 101-99-103 followed by Emile Doucette's 98-107-83. Carl Bertolucci topped all performers for the losers with respectable scores of 113-109-127 with Tony Bavuso next in line with 126-93-86. Paul Gangi fell five pins short of the 300 mark with 104-86-105.

After taking twelfth place Maryland, B. C. still holds onto fourth place. Having a big hand for the victors were Capt. Johnny Mangano with 92-138-94, Slim Lentine 98-105-111, and Jim Figlioli 98-104.92. Closest to 300 for Maryland were Maxie DiMambro with 111-104-82 and Dan Gattineri 96-92-104.

Navy was sunk by Harvard 4-0 with Dom Pantaleo hitting for 92-119-96, Capt. Babe Tofuri 85-98-121 and Tony Lentine 118-94-90. Pete Lonigro ended up as low man with good strings of 90-108-97 and doing one pin better was Jack MacIsaac who had 98-99-99. Navy's Capt. Choppers Gangi had a good night in a losing cause by rolling 127-94-123 and behind him was Paul Amico who ended up with 97-108-105.

Sixth place Georgetown won over tenth place Notre Dame by a 3-1 score and going great guns for the winners were Capt. Dick Trabucco who had excellent strings of 135-119-99, Joe Marrone 94-112-113 and Chick Vespucci 108-87-99. Leading losing Notre Dame were Al Repucci who had 80-115-112, Al Malatesta 101-95-104 and Capt. Dick Tofuri 96-102-96.

Taking Penn 3-1 moved Army from eleventh to eighth spot while the losers still hold bottom place. The best bowling of the evening was performed by Capt. Tony Saraco of Army who knocked the pins over for 98-153-120, and getting good hlep from Woozy Giacalone meant a lot for the victory. Woozy hit for 108-111-112. Penn's top bowlers were Geri Cerullo 108-109-107, Capt. Jeff Gaudioso 95-112-108 M. J. Saraco 106-99-97 and Art Dunbar 84-109-103.

St. Mary's Captain, Max LaCarubba, and the Captain of California, Muskie Tofuri, were out last week because of ailing backs and we hope that both will be able to return to action soon.

Important matches next time out will find first place Yale vs tenth place Notre Dame, second place Alabama against thirteenth place St. Mary's, third place Holy Cross vs ninth place California and fourth place Boston College vs eleventh place Navy.

An exciting Winchester win at Arlington last week put the Winchester High School team at the top of their Northern Section group of the Greater Boston Mathematics Association's "Mathletic" contest.

The winning score was 90, over Haverhill's 85 points. Arlington High and The Bishop Fenwick School tied for third with 76 each and the other six schools followed.

Representing the High School with the Bakers on the five-man mathematics team were senior Joan Zrowdowski, and juniors Bill Hopkins and Brian Kincaid. Advisers Jack Waite, department head at the school, and Miss Irene Thromoulus, advanced math teacher there, were pleased with the showing of the group as a whole.

They expect their lead to hold through the next sectional meet to be held in April in Chelsea, and that they will go on into the Greater Boston League finals in May, in which they last year placed thrid for the year among the competing public and private schools in this Boston area.

YMCA Invitation To Square Dance

A special Valentine Square Dance for adults will be held at the Woburn Area Y. M. C. A. this Saturday night, February 16, beginning at 8 p.m. and running through 11:30 p.m.

Beginners, veterans and all persons interested in enjoying an evening of round and square dancing are invited to this special Valentine program.

Mr. Walter Hawley, a veteran square dance caller from the North of Boston Callers Association will direct the calls and instructions will be given to beginners.

For additional information call WE 3-2668 or visit your Woburn Area Y. M. C. A. Association at 555 Main Street.

In the biggest upset of the year Frank McNamee and Alan Hodge's Duke team won over Jim Sullivan's Cincinnati team by a 33-30 score. Cincinnati playing without star center John Doherty, were unable to stop Duke's Rickey Kidder who racked up 19 points.

Rickey played his usual steady game and his team really wanted to win this game very bad. Bob Blanche returning to action helped Duke win their first victory of the year.

For the first round winners Tom Harris had 12 points, Mike Ciarcia had 10 points, and Frank Giacalone had 7 points, all in a losing cause.

Bobby Thompson and Jack Horn's Holy Cross team bombed Dan Winn's Navy team 70-26. Big Paul Rigney racked up 30 points against a much smaller team. Danny McGee played his best game of the year and scored 15 points. Tommy Martin hooped 9 points and Tom looks like he is going to follow in the footsteps of his brother John.

Rich Rogers again led the losers with 19 points, while Pete Mawn had 6 points. It should be known Navy played with only four men.

Lots of luck to Holy Cross co-coach Jake Horn. Jakes going in the Army this week and thus will be working for Uncle Sam. Jake only hopes his buddy Fuzzy also coach of Holy Cross, can manage without him.

Winter Swimming Scout Program Gets Under Way

On Saturday, February 9, Scoutmaster William Krupsky assisted by several of his staff members, took the scouts of troop 524 out for the first of the eight consecutive weekly swims during which they will work for their merit badges, and first class and life saving certificates.

This is an extremely worthwhile program in line with the President's recommendation that every boy be started on the road to physical health and fitness at the earliest possible time in their young lives.

Winchester won the big one last Saturday when the Sachems, showing their finest hockey of the season, set back unbeaten, league-leading Belmont High, 3-2, in the best all around schoolboy hockey game seen at Lynn in a couple of years.

For Winchester it was a team effort. Barry Johnson scored the winning goal, but by and large it was the Sachems' combination play that was the deciding factor. Belmont played well, too, and had it not been for the sterling goal-tending of Chrisafulli in the Belmont net the margin could well have been even more decisive.

"Gerry" Hills in the Winchester nets also played a good game, his best of the season, and he had to be right for Belmont never stopped trying and it took some "Kitty-bar-the-door" over the last three minutes to hold the winning edge.

For once, Coach Frank Finigan told his boys to play defensive hockey with the winning goal chalked up and Winchester played just that way, driving long passes the length of the rink when in possession of the ball.

Belmont broke the ice at 6:07 of the first period while Barry Johnson was in the penalty box for slashing. It was a pretty wing-to-wing pass from Jerry Weatherbee to Bob Gardner, who delayed at the blue line, and soloed in, faking Hills out of position to score.

Winchester tied the score at 1:19. Eddie Cutting went to the side board at center ice where he cut in front of Don Chiofaro to take a clearing pass from the Belmont defense and skate in all alone..

Pulling the goalie to the left he passed to Johnson who was trailing the play and Barry slapped the puck into an empty net.

Winchester dominated play and had plenty of scoring chances. However, the goal tending of Chrisafulli was little short of sensational. This lad has been the class of the league all season, Winchester being the only team to score more than two goals against him, doing it twice. Wakefield was the only other team to score twice against Chrisafulli, doing so only once.

With the score tied and the Arena a bedlam, Belmont again went out in front at 1:19 of the second period. Chiofaro picked up the puck behind the Belmont goal and flipped it out to Wood at center ice.

Wood took a long shot at the net which Hills split to save. The puck, however, went between the goalie's legs and Belmont went wild.

With the big Winchester crowd begging for the equalizer Winchester was dominating play and continued to do so during the remainder of the period. The Sachems had five good scoring chances, including a break-away by Tom Johns. Chrisafulli saved beautifully and when Dave Eaton trailing in the play tried to slap in the rebound the Belmont goalie saved again. It was defensive play of a high order.

Winchester sent the big crowd into transports when the Sachems tied it up at 1:48 of the final chukkah.

Barry Johnson intercepted a Belmont clearing attempt and faking the defense to the side, passed bautifully to Eddie Cutting, who picked up speed behind the defense and taking Johnson's pass, scored to make it all even.

The arena was rocking at the seams as Winchester put some real pressure on Belmont but was unable to score until 6:13 of the final period.

At this point George Murphy, by a determined effort, picked the puck out of the corner and passed out to Cutting. Cutting shot, but once again Chrisafulli saved.

Barry Johnson, however, was trailing the play and drove in a sizzling rebound that went right through the strings of the net at the back of the cage.

Belmont protested that the puck went over the net and not through, and the goal umpire did not light the scoring light. However, Ed Roubian and Jim Mahony, the officials were following the play every step of the way and awarded the Sachems the goal, which looked legitimate enough from the Winchester side of the arena.

Winchester's second line of Dave Eaton, Bob Murray and Kevin O'Callaghan, dominated play while they were on with the Belmont second line. The summary:

St. Mary's Nips East Boston 5-4

Frank Manzi's goal at 4:21 of the final period gave Saint Mary's of Winchester a 5-4 victory over 3rd place Sacred Heart of East Boston in a bruising hard fought game at B. C's McHugh Forum.

Bob Nannene and John Stabile got Saint Mary's off to a quick 2-0 lead by lighting the lamp at 1:58 and 2:30 respectively. Nannene's goal was the result of a pass in front of the East Boston cage by Frank Hession which Bob quickly converted. Stabile's counter came after Manzi and Cunningham had traded passes with the latter sliding the puck over to Stabile who drilled it low into the cage.

Saint Mary's attack bogged down after these initial goals however, and East Boston was able to take advantage of a sloppy Winchester defense to knot the count at two all.

Sacred Heart continued their scoring surge in the second frame. the result being that at 7:50 of the period they enjoyed a 4-2 advantage.

At this point Saint Mary's was awarded a penalty shot as a result of an East Boston player having thrown his stick. Pepper Cunningham was awarded the extra shot and the St. Mary's captain made it good by firing a low shot which broke through the pads of the Sacred Heart goalie and skidded into the cage.

With 52 seconds remaining in the period East Boston was assessed with a tripping penalty and St. Mary's first line of Stabile, Manzi, and Cunningham began a merciless bombardment of the East Boston cage which ultimately resulted in a fluke goal which bounded into the net after deflecting off of a Sacred Heart defenseman. Cunningham got credit for the goal with both his wings picking up assists on the play.

With the start of the final stanza, it was evident that East Boston was willing to settle for the tie. Saint Mary's however was not so inclined and as time was running out Stabile broke through the Sacred Heart defense, led off to Cunningham, and the tricky center faked the shot and whipped a pass in to Manzi who found the short side open and supplied Saint Mary's with their margin of victory.

One of the biggest oddities of the season occurred when Skip Fucillo missed the net on a penalty shot but later in the game, lofted a high shot from deep in his own zone which hit the ice in front of the Sacred Heart goalie, bounded high into the air and came within a half inch of dropping into the cage. The shot was estimated to have been over 100 feet.

Next Saturday at 1:00 St. Mary's will face off in the quarter finals of the C. Y. O. League playoffs against a Southern Division opponent which has yet to be decided upon.

Women's S.O.I. Bowling

Kay Lentine it was nice to see you bowl better last week. You will be captain next year by popular demand. Gosh Cusi, aren't those splits terrible. Speedy recovery to Emily Buzzotta. Aren't you glad that you took the advice of all the "doctors" down the alleys. Hope to see you next week. Don't we all wish we were in Florida with Terry.

What a fall. Sue Barbaro, did somebody slip? I think you think that you know somebody that nobody thinks you know. Guess again.

Next is the cha-cha girl, Rose Fiore. Golly, Rose, you and Emma could create a new dance. Something with a curve and a wiggle.

Jean DiDonato, one of the nicest girls around, surprized herself by joining the 100 club the hard way. With 63 in the 8th box she bowled a 10 in the 9th box and then she rolled two strikes with a 9 pin drop in the 10th box. Are you still shaking Jean.

A little confidence and you can do it all the time. We are so happy for you.

Glad to see two newcomers to the 100 club. I know Eleanor and Jean both worked hard and it finally paid off.

Don't forget the Bloodmobile, February 25, from 1 to 7 p.m. Give a little to help a lot.

There is a bowling meeting February 20 after bowling at the hall. Please try to attend.

Wellesley Group Hears Reports, Book Reviews

On Tuesday afternoon, February 5, in the delightful home of Mrs. John H. McClennan, a goodly number of Wellesley alumnae met for the annual meeting of the Winchester Wellesley Club.

Mrs. Richard O. Jordan, retiring president, opened the meeting and called for reports. Mrs. John S. Lerch told of the great success of the 1962 series of Winchester Mornings and Mrs. Colin L. Wheeler reported progress on the program for 1963.

Mrs. McClennan, the development fund chairman, Mrs. Frederic E. Abbe and Mrs. Ellis J. Green gave glowing accounts of the Alumnae Council at Wellesley which they had recently attended. All were most enthusiastic and optimistic. Announcement was made that the six million dollars required to meet the Ford Foundation's grant of two million has already been raised and the fifteen-million-dollar project for faculty salaries is within 15 per cent of its goal.

A fact which surprised and pleased this club's representatives at Alumnae Council was the far-reaching fame of the Winchester Mornings program. Over the years this series has attracted much favorable attention among the members of other clubs in various sections of the country and the Winchester Wellesley Club takes pride in being able to present it to this community.

Mrs. Paul C. Dunn presented the report of the nominating committee and the names of members elected to office are given at the close of this article.

The Wellesley Club is fortunate to have among its members Mrs. Katrine C. Laban, librarian at the Winchester Public Library. After the business meeting Mrs. Laban spoke informally on "New Fiction Today." She feels that current fiction is at a low ebb. "The novels on the best-seller list are not always the best - some are very poor," Mrs. Laban said. She pointed out that many of these books on the list are pushed by the publishers and the book clubs and people read them because it seems the thing to do, but very often they don't enjoy them.

"Sometimes," she said, "people are afraid to express their own opinions and say that they don't like certain books which appear on the best-seller list. However, some very excellent novels never make the list but are delightful reading, such as: "Long and Happy Life" by Price; "George" by Emlyn Williams; "Before My Time" by Niccolo Tucci; and "The Uncle" by Margaret Abrams." Mrs. Laban was very generous in answering questions at the close of her talk.

After the meeting, Miss Molly Hodge and her committee served delicious refreshments, as usual. At a most attractive table, Mrs. H. Gardner Bradlee poured.

Officers who were elected for 1963-64 are: president, Mrs. Ellis J. Green; vice-president, Mrs. John S. Lerch; secretary, Mrs. A. Lane McGovern; treasurer, Mrs. John C. McCrillis; ways and means chairman, Mrs. Colin L. Wheeler; publicity, Mrs. F. Milne Blanchard; social chairman, Mrs. Richard Lindenfelser; acquaintanceship chairman, Mrs. James Dorsey; nominating chairman, Mrs. Louis A. Zehner, Jr.

VWF Post 3719 Auxiliary Bowling

Without a doubt, Nellie was our star bowler last week, and this week we have two new bowling stars. Marguerite O. and Ruth very quietly really had things in an uproar. Marguerite rolled two strikes in a row then topped it off with a spare. A 118 total for the string. After things had quieted down a bit, Ruth stepped up rolled the ball, turned her back on the ball and low and behold a strike. You can guess what happened then, she very calmly rolled another one. A 110 total for that string. How do you stay so cool and calm, Ruthie?

Everyone seemed to be at their best. The bowling sheets were covered with marks. Eleanor had a high total of 290 which included a 106 string, Phyllis was second with 289 that featured a 102 string. Marguerite O. third high with 279 and Magda fourth with 274.

The match between the Hearts and Spades proved to be a very exciting and suspenseful one. The Spades took the first string by 5 pins, the second string ended in a tie, the Hearts had a 22 pin lead in the third and as a result was able to claim 3 points.

The Clubs were defeated by the Diamonds, 4 to 0. Don't get so discouraged next time, Clubs, take credit for all the pins you can. You gave yourself a 1041 total which should have been 1141. Good thing we caught the error. Please be careful, girls, when you add up those scores. Stina may have been gypped out of high single last week, there is a possibility that her 116 string should have been a 126 but without the sheet we will never know. When in doubt there is always someone around to help, so just sing out and someone will come a running.

Weekly Weighing In

Seven white mammals with pink ears are due to end a five week visit with the 22 members of Miss Carolyn Curtis' fifth grade class at the Vinson-Owen School tomorrow.

They have been star participants in a nutrition experiment there and the subject of weekly "rat reports" which have spread its data and results to all other classrooms from kindergarten through the six grades.

They have demonstrated clearly to their observers and reporters that though they may like coffee and doughnuts for breakfast as well as tomato juice, whole grain cereal, milk, toast and margarine, they cannot grow well on such a diet.

The youngsters borrowed the animals through an interested parent. They have kept them in well secured cages and they have designed their experiment in such a way that the animals on the "deficient" diet for the first three weeks were changed to the "adequate" diet for the last two.

The class has enjoyed the excitement of the weekly weighing, when, with gloved hands, they have put their charges into preweighed "weighing cans" and added to the statistics which have made them an impressive wall graph telling a clear story of what constitutes good growing food and what does not.

The whole group has become expert at informal "rat reporting," and was quick to point out that to translate their information to the area of human growth one must multiply the day of a rat's life by about 30. They admitted having become more thoughtful about what they themselves consume at breakfast and it was clear that the main impact of the experiment was being taken home with them even though some of their enthusiasm for the animals themselves might not be coming through as well.

They reported finding evidence of real deficiency symptoms such as paler pink coloration and less luxuriant fur growth even in three weeks, but the real drama of their study came through in the statistics on the wall.

For instance, rat No. 1, on an adequate diet, who came to them (They were all very young animals) weighing 35 grams, had jumped by weeks to 66, 77 and one half and 93. Rat No. 5, beginning at 42, up to 60 and one half, 62, and 67. In contrast the chart for deficient diet rat No. 1 ran from 43, to 47 and one half, 46, 39, before his change to better fare and No. 5 from 41 and one half to 53 and one half, 57 and one half, 48 and one half.

An important part of the lesson involved was the preparation of the diets, using, in the deficient diet the actual ingredients of dried doughnuts and coffee but in the adequate diet a preparation from tomato juice, water, whole wheat flour, milk powder and mayonnaise.

The class will miss the visitors.

ACROSS THE COUNTER

For years, the comment of Mr. Dirker when I would suggest combining his home policies was, "Oh, what's the use? It wouldn't save anything, and it doesn't give me any extra coverage. Leave it alone. This way, it spreads the cost."

And I couldn't convince him, even though he had five policies including three on his house, one on the contents, and one for personal liability.

But this year I was ready for him when one of the house fire policies expired.

"Mr. Dirker," I said, "I can combine your five household policies all into one. But this time I can throw in extra coverages and increase some you presently have. The better production is not expensive. In fact, the combined policy would cost substantially less than five separate ones providing similar coverages. My all-in-one policy is called the Homeowner's B. Here's how it works for you."

"That really is a nice package of protection," he said. "Go ahead."

May we show you how you will benefit under a Homeowner's Policy?

Mistakes Found In Birch Knoll Plans; Deficit Boundaries

Approximately 50 concerned Birch Knoll development property owners appeared at an informal Planning Board hearing on Monday night to discuss controversial errors made in the recorded subdivision plan map of the area.

Basically, the errors amount to incorrect boundary lines of about 3 feet on a dozen house lots on Pocahontas Drive and Mayflower Road. There is a small amount of footage less on the actual ground measurements of the properties than is recorded on the true map plan. Essentially, the errors are technical in nature and minor in that they do not greatly affect the values of the properties involved. However, the legal aspects are important to the town and to the property owners, and the Planning Board is trying to see that the property documents and recorded plans are corrected.

The errors originated seven years ago when registered engineer Harry R. Feldman, Inc. of Boston, submitted his plans for Harry J. Stabile, Jr.'s (Massachusetts Development Trust) project to the Planning Board. Unbeknownst to the engineer, the developer, and the Planning Board, there was an error of a few feet in about 12 house lots. The errors would only have been found by having another complete survey taken of the area, an expensive procedure which is infrequently undertaken.

The Planning Board in 1956 approved the true plans of the subdivision as submitted. In having satisfied itself that the plans provided for clearance of all town rules and regulations regarding subdivisions including adequate area requirements, frontage, setback, drainage and sewerage, roadways, etc., the board relied on the professional competence, ethics, and accuracy of the registered engineer when it approved the true plan. This is customary Planning Board action in all towns, for an engineer's license is in jeopardy of revocation if he is proved to knowingly violate the standards of the profession. The present Planning Board, in investigating the errors, has been "more than satisfied that the errors were simple and honest mistakes."

"In fact," said Joseph C. Gray, chairman of the board, "the engineer has made substantial efforts to correct the situation and to make good all the way around."

The errors were discovered by the Town Engineer's office while a survey was being made on Lockeland Road, adjoining the Birch Knoll development, late in the fall of 1961. The developer's engineer was notified of the mistakes, and he has since resurveyed the project to make a corrected map plan. In the following months attempts were made through correspondence between the town board and the developer to find possible solutions to the errors.

Passengers Still Flock to B. & M. Pilot Experiment

Passengers continue to flock to the Boston and Maine and they seem to like the demonstration program undertaken by the Mass Transportation Commission.

For the fifth reporting week, January 31 through February 8, over-all passenger volume has increased, both over the same period last year and each of the previous weeks this year.

Dr. Joseph F. Maloney, executive director of the MTC, in commenting on the continued growth said, "It is heartening to watch the figures increase—word is getting around about this experiment and people are telling people about this mass demonstration project. I am particularly pleased that a levelling off has not set in as yet.

"Our figures show that the Boston and Maine carried 25.8% more passengers from January 31 through February 8 than in 1962. The total passenger count was 135,414 in 1963 versus 107,668 in 1962, some 27,846 more passengers.

"This is the more remarkable because last year's figures were very high for this period. The Boston area had a great deal of snow with generally poor driving conditions, which always increases the train riders. By contrast, this year the weather has been good for driving, with all roads clear."

This mass transportation experiment has been made possible through a two-thirds grant from the Office of Transportation of the Housing and Home Finance Agency. Their $3.6 million grant was matched by $1.8 million of State funds, which is one-third of the total. The Boston and Maine experiment is to last one year and the contract terminates in January, 1964.

Heart Fund Seeking Research And Aid $

The 1963 Heart Fund starts rolling toward its Heart Sunday climax today.

More people will live longer in Winchester because of heart research advances discovered just last year. Yet heart disease still will cause more fatalities than all other diseases combined, last year claiming 54 per cent of all deaths in the nation.

Across the state, thousands of early bird Heart Neighbors will begin visiting their neighborhoods to collect funds for the Massachusetts and American Heart Associations' annual fund campaign which supports lifesaving programs of research, education and community service.

With varying schedules in the state's communities, Heart Neighbors will cover their areas between now and nightfall Sunday as a public service toward the conquest of cardiovascular disease, Massachusetts' Number One Killer.

Appealing for "the most complete support ever given a Heart Fund campaign in Massachusetts" Jerome Rosenfeld, Boston publisher-producer and 1963 Heart Fund chairman, cited the substantial research support made possible by Heart Funds in Massachusetts this year.

"Between the Massachusetts and American Heart Associations, no less than $825,643 is being devoted to vital research projects in our Massachusetts hospitals and laboratories at the present time," he revealed.

"Such large-scale support is possible," he said, "because Massachusetts, as a world medical research center, possesses some of the finest medical genius and facilities in existence anywhere."

"Research already accomplished in Massachusetts has been responsible for pace-setting advances which have saved uncounted lives, and will save thousands more," he said.

In the past year alone, Mr. Rosenfeld disclosed, these research progress reports have been made possible in Massachusetts with Heart Fund aid:

LWV Candidates Nite At Lynch On Feb. 26

A Candidates' Meeting to be held at Lynch Junior High School on Tuesday, February 26 at 7:45 p.m. will again be presented by the League of Women Voters of Winchester. Last year, 300 people nearly filled the Lynch Cafetorium in spite of poor weather, to hear the candidates speak and to meet candidates for Town Meeting.

Each candidate for contested town office has been asked to speak briefly about his qualifications for the position he seeks, and each town meeting member appearing on the ballot has been invited to attend. Refreshments will be served following the meeting when the voters will have an opportunity to meet and talk with town meeting members from each precinct.

Dr. Leonard Mead, senior vice-president and provost of Tufts University, will again be the moderator. Dr. Mead conducted the meeting last year with charm, wit and competence, enforcing the time rule firmly but with complete good humor. The pattern will be the same for this meeting, allowing plenty of time at the end of the evening for informal questioning.

This is a public meeting, held by the League as a service to the voters. Further information can be obtained from Mrs. Leslie DeGroot League Voters' service chairman, PA 9-3144.

Clergymen Speak On Brotherhood; Hit Segregation

Winchester's clergymen, although their denominations may differ, are united in their belief that discrimination against anyone because of his color, creed, or national origin cannot be tolerated.

During February, two Sundays were especially designated to emphasize this point, February 10, Race Relations Sunday, and February 17, Brotherhood Sunday.

The Winchester Fair Housing Association asked the clergymen of the town for quotations from sermons delivered on one or both of these Sundays or for statements with regard to brotherhood in general and fair housing in particular. The response showed that nearly every church in town observed one or both of these days and all of the clergymen agreed to be quoted, directly or indirectly, on the subject.

The Reverend Joseph O'Donnell, Jr., pastor of the First Baptist Church, delivered a sermon on February 17 entitled "The Same Creator" in which he said:

"God who is the Creator of all never intended that man should be set over against his fellow man. God's love will be evident when man acknowledges God as the creator for all men. To continue segregated living, working, studying, and worshipping is an indication of our rebellion (sin) against God's will and lack of love and understanding for one another. To continue such practices only reinforces a prevailing conviction among the

Only fifty-two new voters have registered since November to bring the number eligible to vote at the town election a week from Tuesday to a total of 11,134, according to Mrs. Elsie M. Nelson, town clerk.

Registration for this election is now closed, the lists to open up again after the March 4 date.

Jaycee Survey Yields Interesting Opinions

Today begins the second week of the month-long town attitude survey being conducted by the Winchester Junior Chamber of Commerce. Six hundred families will be interviewed, representing ten per cent of the family population of the town.

According to Joseph Saylor, chairman of the survey, the amount of time needed to complete the survey adequately is between twenty and thirty minutes. It was estimated previously that the time would only be ten to fifteen minutes. He also commented that in three and one half pages the survey covers practically every aspect of Winchester.

Cooperation by the people selected to be interviewed has been excellent. A great deal of enthusiasm has been exemplified by the willingness of individuals to comment at length to some of the questions.

Although no preliminary analysis has been attempted on those surveys completed, it is evident that there is much interest in Winchester in improving many things from traffic direction to recreational facilities.

Mr. Saylor pointed out that the survey, constituting a month's work for nearly forty Jaycee members, represents the largest undertaking since the founding of the organization. From a community standpoint, it is a very important civic event of the year. The Jaycees are finding that people in Winchester are unafraid to speak out against things which need correction. They are also equally vocal on the many outstanding features of this community. The results of this survey should uncover many things which are talked about around the neighborhood, but about which not much is done.

The Jaycees will make known through the Winchester Star the results of this month-long project. They will also attempt, either directly or through the proper channels, to correct any deficiencies brought to light by the surveyed members of the community.

MAIN STREET SNOWSTORM ACCIDENT. Shortly after 6 p.m. Tuesday night Mrs. Helen W. Reeves of Sonoma, Calif., turned the corner under the bridge on Main Street and reached over to open the passenger window to ask Officer Flaherty for directions. She apparently stepped on the gas instead of the brake and the station wagon lurched over the sidewalk, narrowly missing the patrolman. The vehicle knocked over a parking meter and litter basket pole, and struck and damaged the doorway to the shop of Fred the Hair Stylist at 558 Main Street. Mrs. Reeves received only minor cuts about the face, police said, and the wagon was towed away with over $300 damage to the front end.

Near Home Fire Tragedy Averted As Mother Of 4 Leads Young To Safety

A quick-thinking Winchester mother led her four young children to safety Monday morning after she awoke and discovered a fire blazing through a major portion of their two-story wooden home at 49 Dunster Lane.

Mrs. Arthur A. Reinold arose shortly after 6 a.m. to find a fire burning through the living room and first floor front hallway of her home. She raced to the second floor bedroom where her four children, Diana, 7 months, Cheryl 1, Scott 3, and Arthur, Jr., 4, were sleeping. She gathered the youngsters and led them down the front stairs, through the dining room and kitchen, and out the rear door before the fire blocked their path.

Mrs. Reinold took the children to a neighbor's home and the Arlington Fire Department was called at 6:20 a.m. Arlington firemen alerted the Winchester Fire Department and both towns sent fire apparatus to the scene under the mutual aid arrangement between the two towns for fires on the border areas.

The owner of the home, Arthur Reinold, had left the house at about 5 a.m. to start the day's work with the Midtown Catering Service of Woburn.

Fire officials said the fire started in the living room area, at or near the parlor sofa, but that the cause is undetermined. The State Fire Marshal's office is currently investigating possible causes.

The fire gutted the entire living room area, extended to the main hallway leading from the second story, and later spread to the dining room. It destroyed most of the first floor, and threatened the second story bedrooms by climbing the wall partitions. The fire was contained within the house by outside fireproof siding.

Fire Chief James E. Callahan estimated the fire damage at approximately $10,000, adding that smoke and water damage might make the figure a little higher.

The combined efforts of the Winchester and Arlington Fire Departments prevented a total loss of the home. The all-out was sounded and the last piece of apparatus left the scene at 10:07 a.m.

Two firemen were injured in fighting the blaze. Winchester Firefighter John Horn received a laceration of the left foot from stepping on a nail, and Arlington Firefighter John Cahill received a back injury when he slipped on ice leading up the steps to the Reinold home.

Run-A-Way Trailer Fells Elderly Man

A 73-year-old Winchester man was seriously injured while walking along Swanton Street Tuesday morning when a run-away trailer carrying an air compressor caused him to be knocked to the ground.

Donato Mantini of 275 Washington Street suffered a severe laceration on the side of his head and complained of injuries to his side and his hip. The elderly victim was lying on the sidewalk bleeding profusely when police responded to an emergency call for aid. He was in a semi-conscious state when rushed to the Winchester Hospital in the ambulance by Officers Alfred Poole, Robert Baird and David Boyle. A hospital spokesman said yesterday that Mr. Mantini was listed in "fair" condition.

Mr. Martini was walking on the sidewalk towards Neno's Market on his way to perform household errands when the freak accident occurred.

A huge four-wheel trailer air compressor attached to the rear of a truck owned by the Suburban Construction Company of Main Street, operated by Paul Pecoraro of Everett, in some fashion broke loose from its hitch mooring on the truck and skidded along the roadway a distance of about 100 feet and jumped the sidewalk in the area where Mr. Mantini was walking.

Police at first believed that the wayward air compressor struck Mr. Mantini, knocked him over, and continued on its way until it collided with a parked oil truck owned by the Marchesi Oil Company of Winchester, where it came to an abrupt halt. The oil truck was extensively damaged.

Donations Sought In Scholarship "Shares"

This week more than a thousand families in Winchester received by mail an appeal for the Winchester Scholarship Foundation from Levon K. Boodakian, chairman of the finance committee, who asked their continued support of this unique town scholarship program.

The contributions of these citizens along with the donations of Winchester business and civic organizations last year totalled $13,100. This year's fund must surpass this record. The national interest requires more than ever that students of ability be encouraged to continue their education beyond high school. With the cost of such education increasing, more and more of these youngsters require assistance. The need for scholarship funds continues to mount.

Each year requests to the Winchester Scholarship Foundation for scholarship increase, according to Neil H. Borden, general chairman. Awards are made on the basis of need. Last year 19 Winchester High School seniors were scholarship recipients and 14 former graduates still in college or professional schools received further aid.

With the growth in need comes a growth in the number of individuals who care enough to give to the Winchester Scholarship Foundation. Add your name to the list of regular investors in the future of our country's youth.

Shares in the Winchester Scholarship Foundation can be purchased at all Winchester banks, which make them available as a public service.

Time, talent and money of interested individuals tell the story of the Winchester Scholarship Foundation's first 18 years: individuals like the past officers of the Mothers' Association who, in 1944, formed a committee to investigate the need they felt there was for such a foundation in our town; individuals like the committee of five who worked tirelessly to bring the Foundation into existence in 1945, Mrs. Lyman Smith, Mrs. George A. Marks, Dr. Otis Alley, Mr. Borden, and Joseph W. Worthen; individuals like this year's trustees, William J. Speers, John L. Donovan and Wade L. Grindle.

Unique at the time of its formation, the Foundation, non-profit and voluntary in essence, has been a model for other towns and service organizations interested in giving financial aid to worthy students. Winchester has been proud to be the leader. Students numbering 260 have already been helped and more than $100,000 has been raised in past years.

Fire Department Has Stickers For Invalids' Homes

The Winchester Fire Department has announced the adoption of a plan to aid them in a rescue operation in getting as quickly as possible to any room where an invalid might be staying in the event of a fire.

The plan involves the placing of a small red and white sticker, with Fire Department and a large "I" printed on it, on the front door of the house. Another fluorescent sticker would be placed on the window of the room where the invalid is located.

A record of where these stickers are placed will be kept on the bulletin board of the Fire House so that the firefighters may become familiar as to what area invalids are housed. And when the invalid is moved from one room to another the home is asked to notify the Fire Department so that a new sticker may be placed on that window and the old one removed.

Large Winchester Attendance For "Miracle Worker"

A large contingent of Winchester residents journeyed to Concord to see the Rose Hawthorne High School performance of "The Miracle Worker," directed there by Mrs. Carlene Samoiloff of Highland Avenue.

The difficult, emotion-laden play by William Gibson was acted by a group of young people whose wholly believable characterizations heightened the impact of a fine drama.

The contrasts of personality; the variety of mood and feeling within the characterizations themselves, provided a strong performance of great vitality.

Mrs. Samoiloff, director of the Winchester Children's Theater here, guided the development of these roles with a sensitive interpretation of the play and her deft use of restraint in many tension-filled scenes resulted in a drama to which the most sophisticated theatre goer could respond with enthusiasm.

Among the Winchester people in the packed audience were Commander and Mrs. Cecil Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. Kezar Nichols, Alexander Samoiloff, Senior and Junior, Mrs. William Todd, with members of the Winchester Children's Theatre School, Mary Ellen Todd and Edward and Ronald Marcy. Mr Joel Hoff, and Khogendra Das teachers of the Helen Keller School for the Deaf-Blind at Perkins, also attended and were very enthusiastic about the production and the accuracy of the acting.

George M. Bryne

George M. Bryne, noted marine contractor and chairman of the Board of Selectmen successful in getting a bill through the State Legislature to make Mabel W. Stinson the first woman town clerk in Massachusetts, died Monday at the Salem Hospital. For the past three years he had been making his home at 15 Gregory Street in Marblehead. Previously he had lived in Winchester for 55 years.

GEORGE M. BRYNE

Mr. Bryne was born April 30, 1870, in Truro on Cape Cod, later moving to Wellfleet. He attended "fisherman's school from age 6 to 10 which was the extent of his formal education. His first job was wielding a pick and shovel on an East Cambridge sewer project, and he contracted his first job in 1890, installing a sewer in Everett. He often went hungry in the "old days," but by frugality, hard work, ability and fair dealing he built up the Bryne Contracting Company of Boston, of which he was the active directing administrator at the time of his death.

It was his boast that every contract he had undertaken was successfully completed without loss to any bonding or surety company. During his active lifetime as a contractor he had constructed sea walls, breakwaters, bridges, dams, rock tunnels and foundations, installation of sewers and water mains, raised sunken ships and dredged rivers.

Mr. Bryne came to Winchester in 1915, and made his home for many years on Copley Street. He was a member of the Church of the Epiphany and of St. Michael's Episcopal Church in Marblehead.

Active politically, he was elected selectman in 1920 and served in that office through 1923, being chairman of the Board in his final year. It was during his year as chairman that he was largely instrumental in getting through the State Legislature an act enabling the Town of Winchester to appoint Mabel W. Stinson the first woman town clerk in Massachusetts.

This wasn't an easy thing to do as Mr. Bryne had to overcome Legislative opposition to a woman town clerk as well as contending with a certain amount of local prejudice. Once done, the choice of Miss Stinson was applauded throughout the Commonwealth. Mr. Bryne, himself, listed her appointment among his greatest accomplishments.

Mr. Bryne was a member of the Finance Committee, and for many years a member of the Republican Town Committee, being active in many red hot local political campaigns. A loyal Republican and close friend of Former Governor Channing H. Cox, he was honored by Mr. Cox, who appointed him as public trustee of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company in 1923.

In Winchester Mr. Bryne built two bridges in 1914, one the Converse Bridge over the Aberjona River at Main Street and the other, the Waterfield Bridge over the river at the Postoffice. The Mill Pond Dam was built as a part of the Converse Bridge construction.

A third bridge over the Aberjona River at Bacon Street was built while Mr. Bryne was a selectman in 1925 and while his company did not actually construct the bridge, Mr. Bryne worked closely with the contractor that did the work and it was in large measure due to his care and supervision that the brdige turned out so well.

The layout that now goes so well with the underpass at Wedgemere was the product of the then town engineer, the late James Hinds; the then superintendent of streets, the late Parker Holbrook, and Mr. Bryne.

Mr. Bryne also installed a section of the Metropolitan sewage system in Winchester in 1914 and also did much work for the City of Boston, laying pipe lines under Boston Harbor.

The work for which Mr. Bryne was most generally known, and for which he received a good deal of national publicity was the raising of the sunken freighter, "Arizona Sword" from the Cape Cod Canal in 1952. The ship, 319 feet long, with a gross tonnage of 3,133, sank in 35 feet of water, following a collision with a collier May 5, 1951.

The job of raising her was difficult because of the swift current and tide conditions and the salvage operation, believed by many experts to be impossible, was allotted six months time for completion under government contract. Mr. Bryne got the freighter completely afloat within the established time and he successfully withstood a suit by the government for the cargo of the ship, but the expense of the suit and the taxes, left Mr. Bryne with no bank balance for a job that many believed would make him a millionaire.

Mr. Bryne leaves his wife, Mrs. Blanche (Bruce) Bryne; and two sons, George H., and John D. Bryne, both of Marblehead.

Funeral services will be held Friday forenoon at 10:30 at the Church of the Epiphany. The rector, Dr. John W. Ellison, will officiate. Burial will be in Oakdale Cemetery, Wellfleet.

Surgery on babies with congenital heart defects who otherwise could not be helped now is possible in a huge compression chamber at Children's Hospital Medical Center.

Twin techniques, which simultaneously measure total and nutritional blood flow in heart patients have been devised.

A project is under way to survey records of 30,000 Harvard graduates to determine the relationship of body build to heart disease susceptibility.

A method for quick, accurate determination of the volume of blood flow to the limbs has been found.

It has been established that surgical correction of open ductus arteriosus can be done as late as a child's eighth year without fear of stunting his growth.

It has been found that a relationship exists between cigarette smoking and emphysema, a chronic destructive process of the lungs which is fast becoming a major U. S. health hazard.

A simple, inexpensive test, using plain paraffin, has been found to help medical science find those in whom high blood pressure results from a potentially curable adrenal abnormality.

A significant new test has been developed for diagnosis of pulmonary embolism, a serious and often fatal clotting condition.

"I submit to the people of our state that this is a splendid research record, and one which their help has made possible," Mr. Rosenfeld said. "It is only a part of the progress steadily being made through the partnership of medical science and the public."

"Nevertheless," he pointed out, "as long as heart disease continues to kill more of our people than all other causes combined, we must, in the name of common sense, humanitarianism and enlightened self-interest, give ever-increasing support to this work."

He urged that Bay Staters "welcome your Heart Neighbors as bearers of a golden opportunity, rather than just as representatives of a 'worthy cause', when they ring your doorbell this weekend."

More than 200 fathers of Simmons College sophomores and seniors joined their daughters for the first Father-Daughter Weekend sponsored by the college February 15 to 17. Attending the weekend from Winchester were Mr. Robert E. McCaffery of 14 George Road, whose daughter Nancy is a sophomore in the School of Science; and Mr. Mortimer H. Nickerson of 34 Thornberry Road, whose daughter Gail is a sophomore in the School of Science.

K. of C. Off To Rollicking Start For April Musical

On Sunday, February 10, the Winchester Council Knights of Columbus held auditions for its second annual Musical Show.

Many of last years performers, having had a taste of footlights and grease paint, were in attendance. Chairman Bart Conlon sparkled with enthusiasm and Director Frank Flahive was large in his praise of the assembled talent.

The theme of this year's production is to be a Hobo Minstrel, incorporating the use of end men singing old time melodies, a touch of dancing and an ample supply of comedy.

Director Flahive started the rehearsal by conducting the chorus in a few numbers from the show, and if this initial performance is any indication of things to come, the rafters of the high school auditorium will vibrate, come April 27 and 28.

It is generally concluded that the most difficult task of any director is to select the end men. Mr. Flahive indicated that six would be selected from those who auditioned. Nine men converged on the stage and rendered their selections, accompanied by Richard Burke at piano. The names of those who sang are as follows:

Richard Fiore, Al Lawton, Robert Sullivan, Joe Cullen, Joe Lynch, John Sullivan, John Mulrenan, John Magee and Robert Coakley. These fellows must have been practicing in the shower for weeks, because each of them crooned like old pros. However, three of these men had to be cut because Mr. Flahive needed only six. What a decision!

An executive conference was held and after much deliberation, and with a great reluctance it was decided that Messrs. Bob Sullivan, Joe Lynch, and John Magee would not have the opportunity to make their marks in the annals of Show Biz. According to the K. of C.'s reporter, what then followed went like this:

When the announcement was made, one would have thought that an atom bomb had fallen. Cries of "discrimination," "favoritism," and 'politics" rang throughout the hall. Richard Burke, the pianist, was accused by Joe Lynch of deliberately dropping one full key while he warbled "Honey."

Bob Sullivan, the pride of the Winchester Fire Department, let it be known in no uncertain terms that he was hurt deeply by the "cut," and contended heatedly that he had received more applause than PGK John Mulrenan. John Magee cried politics and accused Joe Cullen (who hails from the sand banks where many past minstrel men were found) of packing the audience with his followers and waving an applaud sign when he sang.

Noting the tenor of the situation, Director Flahive, diplomat that he is, pacified the three men by offering them a role in the "School Room Skit." Joe, John, and Bob accepted and things returned to some semblance of order. Keeping in mind the happenings of the first rehearsal, it would take a 20 mule team to keep us from those in the future.

Dr. Palubinskas To Speak On Children's Clinic

The Winchester Mental Health Association today announces an open meeting to be held at the Mystic School on the evening of March 5 at 8 p.m.

"Does Winchester need Its Mental Health Clinic For Children?" will be the subject of the meeting and Dr. Alice Palubinskas of the Department of Psychology, Tufts University, will be the speaker.

Bloodmobile Day

As you read in this column last week the Red Cross Bloodmobile will be stationed next Monday, February 25, at the Sons of Italy Hall on Swanton Street, from 1:00 to 7:00 p.m.

The Bloodmobile visit is being sponsored by the Winchester Sons of Italy but is intended for any one and every one wishing to donate the life-giving fluid.

Donors must be between the ages of 18 and 59; you are eligible to give if you have not already done so in the past two months; and if you are questionable because of past illnesses the professional staff on hand can determine whether you can donate or not.

The donors and their immediate families are assured normal blood for one year after their donations so why not become a donor now. We pray you will never need it but one never knows, so come and protect your family while helping those that need it as you are giving it.

Richard Penta and his S.O.I. Blood Donor Committee have been working diligently to go over the top in recruiting more than 75 donors so let them count on you. The committee has also arranged a "carpool" for those desiring transportation so you are urged to call PA 9-9898 for this assistance.

We hope to see you on Monday, February 25, at the Sons of Italy Hall on Swanton Street from 1:00-7:00 p.m.

Board of Appeal Permits Children's Daytime Nursery

The Board of Appeal has granted permission to a petition from Mrs. Angelina Orgettas and Mary Minghella to establish a day nursery for children at 216 Cross Street.

The only stipulation outlined by the board in its opinion was that the day nursery must be conducted entirely on the first floor, due to the fact that there is only one means of egress, a stairway leading down from the second floor. The board established the condition because the building would, in effect, be a school housing small children and it should therefore meet standard precautionary safety measures against the danger of fire.

The board noted that if second-floor space is needed by the petitioners in the future, another application could be made to the board for authorization if a second egress way is provided.

The decision by the board followed a public hearing in the Town Hall on Tuesday, January 8. No one appeared at the hearing as objectors.

The petitioners told the board that the proposed nursery will be for children of kindergarten and pre-kindergarten age. The ten-room building is in a general residence district zone, has an area of 17,588 square feet, and would be fenced in for the safety of the children. A long driveway should be able to provide a certain amount of off-street parking space, the petitioners claimed. The day nursery would be operated in the morning hours, during the school year.

In handing down its decision, the board noted that under the General Laws of the Commonwealth the "minimum requirements" would be controlled by the Department of Public Health in the form of "rules and regulations." The local Board of Health could, if it wished, impose even higher standards and requirements. These rules and regulations would relate "to the safety transport of children and adequate physical plant and necessary equipment." Any failure to comply with the rules and regulations could result in the revocation of the nursery's license.

Parent-Faculty Patron Appeals For "Varieties"

Mrs. Frank T. Barnes, Jr. and her committee composed of Mrs. Robert G. Ingraham, Jr., Mrs. Roland Hanson, Mrs. Robert P. Wild, and Mrs. Edmund A. Merriam, Jr. are giving many hours of their time and effort to solicit the parents, teachers, friends, and the business and professional men of the town as patrons of the Parent-Faculty Association Show, "Varieties of 1963."

The Winchester High School Parent-Faculty Association has one large money-raising event each year. The proceeds from this make it possible to participate financially in many worthwhile projects and to make available to the school and faculty numerous items not otherwise provided.

A very large portion of the money raised is donated to the Winchester Scholarship Foundation and another substantial amount goes to the support of the Foreign Student Exchange Program. In June of each year, the Association puts on a lobster luncheon for the faculty and provides gifts to any retiring teachers. In addition to many smaller miscellaneous items provided for the school, it has also been possible during the past two years to include in the budget such items as an addresser for the school office, a library bookcase, and a sizeable sum for the purchase of professional books.

A letter from Mrs. Barnes inviting you to participate as a patron may be in your mailbox. The Parent-Faculty Association needs your support and interest. Please add your contribution and name to the list of Patrons which will be published in the Winchester Star.

The solution proposed by the Planning Board to the attendants at the Monday night meeting was to have new boundary line agreement maps prepared by the engineer made available to the homeowners and their banks for a signed agreement that the new front lot lines were acceptable to them.

Several of the homeowners concerned said they had no objections to this plan, as it did not appear to alter their property physically or value wise to any great extent.

Several others, not fully understanding what the real nature of the problem was, or why they and their property lines should be affected by what had happened before they purchased and took possession of the lot, were somewhat skeptical of undertaking any changes at all.

The board informed the group present at the meeting that the town still had not released one of the development lots, and that if it appeared there would be any substantial property loss inequities suffered by any of the homeowners, the town would have the right to take over the lot and sell it to pay for rearranging the boundary lines.

The board said that it believed it was within its jurisdiction to do this because the developer is directly responsible to the town for any errors in the development until the town finally and completely releases him from all responsibility.

There was one immediate and vehement objector to this plan. Stanley Rokenetz, attorney for the Mass. Development Trust, took the floor and argued that the developer had complied with all the rules and regulations of the Planning Board and that the plans had been accepted by the board. Atty. Rokenetz said that the developer was not responsible for the error and should not have to pay for the mistakes of others.

Mr. Rokenetz further charged that it was his opinion that the Planning Board and the Town Engineers's office had been the ones who made the mistake by not surveying the project to check the plans, and that they just would not own up to their mistake. (No town in the Commonwealth appropriates large sums of money to its Planning Board to have "recheck" surveys made on all the subdivision plans submitted. Neither is it the sanction of the Town Engineer's office to survey private business or residential developments at the town's expense.)

Mr. Rokenetz proclaimed to the homeowners that if they measured their lots they would find them to be correct in size according to the deeds and the map. "It is the street that is incorrect," he said.

Mr. Rokenetz insisted that it was within the board's jurisdiction to allow that the streets be 37 feet in width instead of the 40 feet planned.

Many of the residents seemed to like this idea, and applauded the suggestion. Several offered the opinion that a 37 foot street would be an ideal solution as far as they were concerned: for it would tend to preserve the private way nature of the roads.

Some persons questioned whether either of the two plans, to agree to boundary line changes or to let the town take up the slack and have a 37 foot road instead of a 40 foot road, would materially alter or affect the resale value of their homes. The board said that neither plan would affect the essential values of the homes.

Vincent Clarke, town counsel, attended the meeting to advise on the situation. He said that although he could find no similar case in the law books, the possibility might exist that the town could be held liable for damages on the missing 3 feet from each of the homeowners with less than the map measurements.

He recommended that the simplest, best, and most reasonable solution would be for the homeowners involved to agree to new boundary lines as prepared by the engineers corrected maps.

In further discussion, one board member noted the fact that since Pocahontas Drive was a dead end with a turn-around it made the 37 foot width of the street a possibility. Another board member countered with the fact that the town's policy is to have a 40 foot minimum for widths on all new roads, with 50 foot widths as a minimum for major ways. Also, he said, if the Planning Board gave way on the required width of this road it would be in the position of having to show equal consideration to other developers who would ask for special favors in escaping from the town's development requirements.

After the public hearing was over the Planning Board met to discuss the next best step in solving the dilemma. The board was split over which of the two plans was the better solution, and decided not to vote on it until after having had further consultation with just the dozen homeowners directly involved, to see if they would be amenable to the boundary line agreements.

DISCUSSING FOREIGN EXCHANGE STUDENT PROGRAM in Winchester are Miss Constance Trickett of the High School Guidance Department, Miss Anna Sant'Elia of Como, Italy, and Robert Ten Have of Amsterdam, Holland. Miss Trickett and the two visiting students will give talks on the Winchester exchange program at a public meeting at the McCall Junior High School on February 26.

Foreign Exchange Student Program Is Topic Of Talk

Winchester's two foreign exchange students will assist Miss Constance Trickett of the High School Guidance Department when she speaks Tuesday evening, February 26 to the McCall and Lynch Junior High School Associates in their annual combined meeting hosted at the McCall School at 7:45 p.m.

Her subject will be "The Foreign Exchange Student in Winchester."

Miss Trickett has a strong record of interest and activity in the international exchange field. Since 1950 she has been an active participant in the "Experiment in International Living," with headquarters in Putney, Vermont. She has led groups under their sponsorship on trips four different years to Finland, England, Switzerland and Italy. She recently spent a summer in their San Francisco office.

In 1961 she led a dramatic group of Scarsdale, N. Y. High School students playing Thorton Wilder's "Our Town" in England, Holland, Germany, Poland, Denmark and Norway. She has been a dramatic coach as well as an English instructor at the High School.

The Town of Winchester has been a part of this exchange of International students. The Winchester High School Student Council sponsors an exchange program under the chairmanship of Joan Zrodowsky. Mrs. William Gustin is chairman of the homes committee. Some of our Winchester students who have participated in this exchange are: Quentin Roberts who spent a half a year in Germany, Laurel Ingraham who spent a summer in Switzerland under "Experiment with International Living" as was Betsey Schaefer in Norway and Peter Rainey in Denmark. At present there are three applicants one to be chosen by the "American Field Service" for the coming summer.

At present we in Winchester are hosts to Miss Anna Sant'Elia of Como, Italy. She lives with Mr. and Mrs. George Lemay, 10 South Gateway and Robert Ten Have of Amsterdam, Holland is living with the H. Kimball Archibalds, on 5 Penn Road. Both are sponsored by the American Field Service. These young people living in our town give all of us a wonderful opportunity to learn of other people of other lands and to return the gracious hospitality shown our participants from Winchester who have also been strangers living in new surroundings. Anna and Robert are assisting Miss Trickett in the program and are also writing their experiences for you to read.

The public is invited and a large turnout is expected for a very fine program.

He is a gifted preacher and was about to be appointed to the position of "convention preacher" before this opportunity to come to America was presented.

Convention preachers are expected to preach sermons of an hour and a half duration. However, he promises that his sermon on Ash Wednesday will not exceed the normal length of sermon heard around here.

A Penny For Your Thoughts . . . Five Dollars For A Scholarship Share

The noted education philosopher John Dewey once said "It is in education more than anywhere else that we have sincerely striven to carry into execution "The Great American Dream:" the vision of longer and fuller life for the ordinary man, a life of widened freedom, of equal opportunity for each to make of himself all that he is capable of becoming."

For many years the citizens of Winchester have recognized that good education through a good school system has been of paramount importance to the children of this town. Every parent wants for his child the vision of a longer and fuller life, a life of widened freedom, and the equal opportunity for the child to make of himself all that he is capable of becoming. For these reasons, and because of the general community attitude regarding education as the primary stepping stone for the young to advance and progress toward a successful future, Winchester has attained and maintained an elite school system in this state. The schools here are ranked among the top ten in the Commonwealth, and Massachusetts is rated among the top five states in the nation for the quality of its public school education.

The effort to continue the fine standards of quality and the reputation the town enjoys for its schools may be seen as the School Committee approaches the Town Meeting with a proposal to substantially raise teachers' salaries. The purpose in raising the salaries will be to encourage the teachers that are already here to stay, and to attract new ones of high caliber to replace those that are retiring or leaving for other reasons. We cannot continue to have a good school system without having the best teachers obtainable. Also, it is worthy to note that the town spent $2 million last year for its schools, or $37.61 out of every taxpayer's $70.80 tax rate.

To continue to maintain the excellence in our schools is in the best interests of the town and all of its citizens. But there is another aspect to the education of Winchester students that is equally important, the higher education offered at college and university levels.

High school students are encouraged to make use of their good educational background and go on to further study and learn more. They take competitive exams and apply for colleges and universities, and a high percentage of them gain acceptance at one of the higher educational institutions of their choice. But here the responsibility of the town drops off abruptly, for the local government no longer subsidizes or contributes toward paying for the education of its youth after the senior graduation exercises. The whole financial burden suddenly falls upon those families whose children are attempting to go to college.

In Winchester there are, fortunately, many families for which the paying of the large college tuition and related expenses represents little or no problem whatsoever. They are lucky.

There are several families each year whose children are fortunate enough to obtain scholarships through some outside agency or from the college itself. They, too, are lucky.

But the many families with children who have literally earned their way into a college or a university through their displayed talent in scholarship or in some vocational training field, but yet who cannot afford the terrific expenses of higher learning institutions, are in a less fortunate position. They are lucky only when they can either borrow the needed money, or when the Winchester Scholarship Foundation comes to their aid.

For many years the Scholarship Foundation has been helping quite a number of Winchester High School students get through the financial expense of the first year in college. Last year, for the first time, the Foundation was able to increase its scope of service due to the generous contributions to include some students who have been through a few years of college by scholarships and borrowing, but needed more to finish and get their degrees.

Now the Scholarship Foundation is again seeking contributions to continue in serving the well-educated youth of Winchester in advancing their learning at higher educational institutions. Many of the merchants in town have already bought their scholarship "shares," and they proudly display the share emblems. This week the Foundation is soliciting by mail for private contributions.

The Foundation hopes that this year's amount to disburse to students will be even greater than last year's.

If you have ever been tempted to offer someone a penny for their thoughts, think now about offering a few dollars for "shares" in some Winchester student's scholarship . . . and the thoughts he'll have will be more learned.

Guest Editorial:

Open Letter To Parents Of Winchester Students:

May I address some questions to the parents of the students of Winchester High School — "Suburbia's Coddled Kids?"

Do you know where your kids were after the basketball game last Friday night?

Was one of yours among the group who so desecrated a church last year that the churches have stopped holding "open house" on Friday nights?

Was it one of yours who took it upon herself to pass the word through school that "open house" was being held last Frdiay night in a home where the parents were out?

Was one of your kids among the group who, after getting no answer to their knock on the door, walked in anyway?

Maybe yours was one of the few who, after seeing that no open house was planned and that no parents were present, left when asked to. If so, you are lucky.

Was yours one who pulled the telephone jack out and hid the phone so that the sixteen-year-old classmate who had been left to "sit" for her two younger sisters couldn't call the police for help?

Was yours one of the group who formed against her on the stair steps so she couldn't get to the upstairs phone?

Did your kids join in enough noise that a neighbor 300 feet away finally called the police any way.

Was yours one who climbed in the cellar windows after finding all the doors to the house locked.

Maybe your kid "conformed" and just went along with the group.

Maybe she didn't do any of these things. Maybe she simply helped to create the 40-odd empty beer cans and Vodka bottles which were left behind after the police routed the group. (There was no alcoholic beverage in the house before the kids arrived.)

Was it your daughter who grabbed packaged food from the pantry while fleeing from the police and shouted obscenities at the "hostess" when asked to leave it behind?

Was yours among the group who hid upstairs in the bedroom and squirted beer on the wallpaper while the police were trying to bring order?

Did your kid happen to "adopt" a nice collection of phonograph records that night? They are missing.

Was it one of yours who took the door knob off the house "to be sure nobody else came in"?

Was it your kid who said to his classmate, "I don't care what you tell the police about me—my father'll have it fixed anyway"?

This wasn't a gang. It wasn't somewhere else. There weren't any switch blades. There wasn't any real bad damage and no injuries as far as I know. It was simply "Suburbia,'s Coddled Kids" enjoying Friday night before vacation in what seems to be the only way they know. About 15 automobiles furnished transportation. Class officers, honor students, professors' kids, athletes and all sorts of "wheels" were present.

We have quietly watched this sort of thing grow. Two of our kids have had their share of this sort of foolishness. My questions are, what is in store for the rest of them? Where do they go from here? What happens when this sort of entertainment is too mild? This was a real eye-opener. Now we can speak aloud. Because our daughter sought the protection of the law she will be a "fink" and a "scab" anyway.

The school has no jurisdiction. The police department is, I'm sure, as a matter of policy, very cognizant of the lasting affect that a "record" will have on the future of an exuberant youth. The Registry of Motor Vehicles has proven itself to be very reluctant to withdraw drivers' licenses on any but major violations.

Please. If you think it wasn't your kids—find out anyway. Parental discipline is a very sadly neglected thing in Winchester.

Our home was built to live in and the recreation facilities are "better than average," but not ample for the whole town. We would like to have them used on a continuing basis by groups who are invited.

What has happened to plans for a youth center? It could handle kids and it would have someone in charge before the doors are opened.

Bill for School Boards to Get A Legal Counsellor

The Joint Legislative Committee on Education has split on a bill to allow local school committees to hire legal counsel.

The commmitee voiced support and opposition to a proposal by the Massachusetts Association of School Commitees to give school boards power to appropriate funds for attorneys.

Haskell C. Freedman, an attorney and Legislative Counsel for the school commitees association recalled cases in which school boards have been forced to seek a legal opinion in a controversy with a regular municipal agency from town counsel who is generally answerable to the municipal government.

Committee members Rep. George L. Sacco, Medford Democrat and a member of the local school committee endorsed the authorization bill, and reported a 1962 case in which the Medford school board hired its own legal representative to contest the city's refusal to purchase "educational supplies" as ordered by the committee.

The outcome was decided by the state Supreme Court, said Sacco. He cited controversies in Malden and Somerville when a city solicitor has felt obliged to find for the government in a council-school board dispute.

Atty. Freedman also recalled an aldermanic-committee argument in Newton that was settled by the Supreme Court.

Other members of the education committee tried to pinpoint other so-called disputes and suggested that school boards can turn to local solicitors for legal aid.

Rep. Allan McGuane of Greenfield, House chairman of the committee asked if enactment of the bill would drive a "wedge" between school boards and selectmen and councils and he suggested the set-up "would encourage rather than discourage disharmony."

Mr. Freedman answered, "If there is a wedge, I suggest it is already there." He added that city or town attorneys, when a school board and council or agency are at odds, will "usually" find against the committee.

A town counsel "often is not familiar with school law," said Mr. Freedman.

Rep. Sacco agreed that school committees are not protected because they do not have legal assistance.

Mr. Freedman replied to a committee member that municipal-school board differences to be settled legally are not uncommon, and there is concern over the rights of the school committee to hire counsel.

The predominant argument, said Mr. Freedman, is that because the Legislature has empowered regional school districts to employ counsel, this should be interpreted as meaning that local boards cannot.

The opposing argument, he declared, is that because a school committee can be sued, it has the right to hire counsel in its defense.

William Hebert, assistant executive secretary of the Mass. Teachers Association, cited cases where town meeting members have voted to cut school budgets "they are not legally authorized to cut," and he pointed out that town counsel is obliged to support the action of the town meeting.

Mr. Hebert called the controversy a "serious situation."

House Decides To Increase Firemen Retirement Plans

Legislation to liberalize terms of retirement allowances to firemen under the contributory retirement law has passed the Massachusetts House by roll call vote of 66 to 150 on the question of reconsidering a favorable vote.

The bill would entitle a local firefighter to receive a superannuation retirement allowance after 20 years' service before reaching age 55.

Rep. Sidney Q. Curtiss of Sheffield and House party leader, criticized the measure for not including a home rule acceptance proviso, and stated a financial burden was being imposed on cities and towns without any voice in the matter.

He said firefighters should not be regarded as a special class and suggested proper legislation would include extending the benefit to all municipal agencies.

"There is no reason to set up firemen of this Commonwealth as a special class," he said. He added the House has passed too much legislation puting firemen in a "special category. Maybe this is justified, but there should be a limit."

Rep. Curtiss maintained, "This bill in no way provides for any acceptance by the communities it simply imposes on the cities and towns additional costs for employing firemen."

He concluded saying firemen knew the conditions of employment when hired, and they accepted them.

He maintained the retirement formula would not be disturbed, but the percentage ratio would be revised.

He predicted savings in disability compensation paid firefighters because they could be retired earlier, and he added a 55-year old man should not be lugging a high pressure hose and that the hazards of the profession are increased.

He said that because only the system was being changed, the state and communities would not be required to pay any more money to support the program.

On the question of reconsidering the vote by which the House passed the bill, Rep. Harrison Chadwick voted "yes."

The bill passed by the House to liberalize pension benefits to firefighters and allow retirement at age 41 after 20 years' service has been postponed by the Senate. Further action is expected on Monday. Observers predict defeat in the Senate.

News on Conflict Of Interest Law: Brooke to Advise

The conflict of interest law set to become effective May 1 came into the news on two fronts this week at the State House.

Attorney General Edward W. Brooke announced the appointment of a five-member advisory council to oversee problems in administering the new law.

The Mass. Selectmen's Association made a renewed effort to clarify provisions of the law, suggesting three amendments.

Atty. General Brooke's new force will advise the law office of the state on handling "many" requests for advisory opinions, and assist locales in getting a "clear understanding" of the law.

The selectmen's group, with their bid to delay the effective date of the law until 1965, has filed with the judiciary committee some buffer amendments if the delay fails.

One amendment would delete the 10 per cent interest clause extended to families in business, and it would set up exemptions of employees who have no responsibility and do not participate in private contrasting agency activities if the contract is made through competitive bidding, and employees who file full disclosure statements.

A second amendment would exempt from court proceedings an employee who is reported by the interpreting authority as having no conflict.

The third amendment would delete administrative prerogative to punish violators of standards enumerated in the law.

Legislative Notes

Approved by the House was a bill to impose a fine of up to $100 and a jail term up to 30 days for a minor who falsifies his age to obtain alcoholic beverages. The bill still requires approval of the Senate.

By a roll call vote of 88 to 114, the House upheld its vote of last week to kill a bill to regulate Summer employment in the Department of Public Works by removing patronage.

On the question of reconsidering the vote to kill the bill, voting "yes" was Rep. Harrison Chadwick.

Both the House and Senate accepted adverse reports on legislation to require that public water supplies be left free of fluoridation.

Parents' Guide To The Children's Hour

"Between the dark and the daylight,
When the night is beginning to lower,
Comes a pause in the day's occupation,
That is known as the Children's hour."

Longfellow

What are you reading to your children tonight? Is it a book of their choosing or of yours? Whatever the book, the fact you are reading with them is of prime importance, and the enjoyment derived will be justly rewarding.

Calvin Ryan, writing for the Horn Book says, "The father who doesn't have time or who doesn't take time to relive the storybook world of Peter Rabbit or Little Black Sambo...and relive them through the eyes and minds of his own children is missing a great deal of fun." This fact goes for mothers and grandparents as well.

Assuming that you have already exhausted the books in your home and the classics you remember and cherish from your childhood, may I suggest a few recently published books that you might like to read together.

Sleep Book by Dr. Seuss. A book made to order for bedtime reading, for here all the creatures settle down quietly in beds of their choosing. That these beds are varied and unconventional, to say the least, makes for good fun. A first choice for reluctant fathers, for who can resist the highly imaginative illustrations and rollicking verse of Dr. Seuss?

The Dragon in the Clock Box by M. Jean Craig. For the occasion when time is rather short, this little picture book will fill the bill. Joshua said there was a dragon's egg hatching in the clock box, and day by day he gives a progress report to his curious family. A perfect example of childlike imagination and repartee.

Time Was by Hildegard Woodward. Present day children will be amazed to learn that "time was" when people didn't have sewing machines, porcelain bathtubs, or automobiles. How these remarkable innovations came to four families gives us a story that is both lively and amusing. This I would keep for the day when Grandmother comes to visit. She will read it with nostalgia and I'm sure, go on to reminisce about when "she was a little girl".

Life Story by Virginia Burton. The author, through the device of the drama, gives the reader a feeling for the sweep of life on earth from the beginning to the present day. Each of the five acts covers a geologic era which comes alive in the detailed and artistic illustrations as much as in the descriptive text. For the family made up of science enthusiasts, this would be a good springboard book leading to more scientific books on this subject.

African Traveler by Ronald Syme. Armed with an umbrella and a remarkable sense of humor, and wearing a long-sleeved blouse and ankle-length skirt, Mary Kingsley sets off to explore the mysterious interior of West Africa. Her encounters with cannibal tribes and trips down crocodile-infested rivers, will captivate an audinece of any age.

On the Way Home by Laura Ingalls Wilder. This is the actual journal Mrs. Wilder kept of her trip from South Dakota to Missouri in the year 1894. Comments by her daughter Rose who recalls the trip from her childhood adds humor and suspense to the story. Families who have enjoyed together the pioneering adventures of the Wilders in the "Little House" series, will be delighted to learn of this new book.

Now with the Children's Hour over, and the magic stardust still in your eyes, may I recommend one more book just for you, before you turn to your Wall Street Journal. It is an anthology called That Eager Zest by Frances Walsh. In this book, well-known people reminisce about their own childhood reading experiences, and affirm the enchantment that comes from the joyful meeting of children with the right book.

Myopia Club Had Its Beginnings In Winchester

PART 5

The Old Tomb

Lodge Visits Myopia

Another item of interest was the visit of Henry Cabot Lodge, made in November of 1892 to the town to attend a political rally. As he became an original member of the Myopia Hunt Club when it was first formed in 1883, he probably called at the earlier club to rest for a while after his speech and to pay his respects.

Much has been said about the live Myopians, but some other Myopians died while the club was active and their remains rested in an old tomb near the clubhouse for a much longer period of time than the Myopians resided on the hill. Many never knew of the spot, but children used to go to the tomb and play with the bones of the skeletons.

Evidently as early as the year 1881 the Myopians were undecided as to whether Winchester or Essex County was to be the permanent headquarters of the hunt. The year 1882 decided the question with the lease by the club of Gibney Farm in Hamilton.

It will be seen that the club did not remain long in the new clubhouse built expressly in 1879, less than four years previous, for their departure was recorded as follows by the Woburn Jaurnal.

Farewell to Myopia

> "July 13, 1883, Myopia Club—This swell club of Boston have given up their elegant Club House and grounds overlooking Mystic Pond and at the same time has been taken by Mr. James C. Davis, the famous soap man. This is to be regretted as it is a sore loss to the town. The blooded horses and the English fox hounds and their keepers and grooms have all departed and no more will be seen in our streets and swell parades, the music of the dogs and the bold hunters of the famous club . . . We are sorry to have the gentlemen, horses and dogs go."

Still another farewell piece in the local paper read:

> "Our Myopia Club with its hounds and their keepers have left these regions and the house and grounds taken by Curtis Davis. Alas, what shall we do without our nearsighted friends and their handsome associates."

So now the scene of Myopia doings around Wedge Pond and on Myopia Hill, which can boast of having been one of the first clubs in the country, changes to other centers.

As the Prince family was so closely identified with Winchester, often called the "Modern Athens of America," one of the chroniclers of the Myopia era, Allan Forbes, visited their place on the borders of Wedge Pond, known as the "gang place" for the boys of the neighborhood. Here the Princes, Charles P. Curtis, Dr. Frederick Winsor, Governor Curtis Guild, Admiral Thatcher, Commodore Spicer and other prominent families moved and formed a very important coterie. At the foot of the declivity and nearer the pond could still be seen the stable in which Mr. Prince, Sr., kept his horses. This building used to be the Winchester Railroad Station, and when it was discarded he purchased it and moved it about a quarter of a mile on to his property and built stalls. Later the building was used as a garage, but one can see the old ticket window where the Myopians used to purchase their tickets to Boston. The old hardware and the old framework for the station lantern outside, and the "frosting on the cake" still decorate the edges of the roof.

The old clubhouse was torn down in 1900 and the countryside in the vicinity of where it stood has changed a lot in recent years.

Policeman's Lot Is Time Honored. But the Pay Low

Editor of the Star:

Poets, artists, and educators since the days of Socrates and Aristotle have proclaimed the tragic human fallacy of all mankind-his inability to perceive hidden truths - to see below the surface of exterior events.

Every day of the week a resident of Winchester drives by a traffic cop or passes a patrolman on the street or watches a patrol car cruise around the block; occasionally he visits the station to report an accident or a theft, or to obtain a firearms license or a bicycle permit. What does he see? He sees a big fellow in a tailored blue uniform with shiny gold buttons and a badge, a pistol, a set of hand-cuffs, perhaps a night stick, and that's all. He doesn't see the police reports, the collected evidence, the special research and detective work. He doesn't read the daily blotter and the arrest book. He doesn't attend the house calls, the emergency requests, the court time, or the police courses in higher education. He can't really! But he should be made more aware of the highly intricate, complex, and vitally important work carried on daily in our Police Department.

The Seventeenth Century essayist, Thomas Hobbes, once said that the life of man in a society where there is no enforcement of written laws is "solitary, poor, nasty, brutish, and short." In his Twentieth Century novel, Lord of the Flies, William Goulding makes it quite clear that a civilization cannot exist where organized laws are not asserted on its members. People are very inclined toward taking their civilized state for granted. Didn't it ever occur to them that without men in tailored blue uniforms with shiny gold buttons there would be sheer anarchy in the nation's streets?

A policeman does more than wave a white glove at traffic and yell after children who don't walk between the pedestrian lines. He does more than give people parking or speeding tickets and make sure that all the shop doors are locked at night. He apprehends criminals and testifies in court and recovers stolen property and counsels juvenile delinquents. The adventures in a "Scotland Yard" novel are not far removed from the activity in your own Police Department. Every officer is a Sherlock Holmes. Every policeman faces imminent danger at the risk of health or life. He has three major tasks: the prevention of crime, the protection of property, and the preservation of life. There is no other branch of any public service that asks so much of its members and offers so little for their effort.

Did you know that there is only a ten dollar difference between the take-home pay of a single patrolman and that of a married patrolman with three children? Did you know that the chart in the Town Hall places the Police Department on the same status rung as the Maintenance Department? Have you read the statement of job requirements for members of the force? Did you know that a position on the Police force is so unattractive that in the past year only five men have applied for Police work? Do you think that a man intrusted with your welfare and safety should receive a salary equivalent to that of a blue-collar worker?

The usual reaction to such problems is to chalk it all up to the "mysteries of iniquity;" but if people took the time and the trouble to look beneath the badge and the shiny gold buttons on a tailored blue uniform, then the office of a Policeman would be one of the most honored, best appreciated, and highest paid professions.

Sincerely,
Mary Ellen Robbins

Selectmen Oppose Referendum On Election Ballot

Editor of the Star:

We feel the voters of the Town should have the benefit of the Selectmen's position on questions on the ballot prior to voting on March 4. The Selectmen's position is as follows:

No. 1 The Board of Selectmen is unanimously opposed to acceptance of Chapter 647 of the Acts of 1962 which was a law passed following Winchester's acceptance of the basic Chapter 32B Insurance Act. The law does not make available to the town the same package for the employees who retired prior to October 1, 1962 as is now being provided for active town employees. The insurance offered would cost nearly twice that for current employees $22.24 vs. $13.87 per month for family plan. With the liberal retirement allowances available to municipal employees which are far above the general industry practice, the board does not feel the Town should provide this insurance, particularly at a greater cost both to the retired employee and the Town than does like insurance cost those still in the service of the Town. If this Act was to be adopted, the average family involved would benefit by only $33.00 per year while the increased premium to Blue Cross and Blue Shield will be $6,500.

No. 2. The Board of Selectmen is unanimously opposed to sharing the cost of group insurance for future retirees. The municipal retirement allowances are much higher percentage wise than is common in industry. For example a person with 32 years of service can retire at 65 with 80 per cent of his last two years average salary. The town employees' contribution toward this annuity would be approximately 8 per cent and the Town's contribution 92 per cent.

Very truly yours,
Paul C. Dunn
Chairman
Board of Selectmen

Later investigation, and police reasoning that if Mr. Mantini had been struck by the air compressor he could have been killed outright by the impact of the blow, opened up the possibility that Mr. Mantini, whose approximate position at the time of the accident was next to that of the oil truck parked parallel with the sidewalk, could have fallen against the oil truck during the course of the weird accident.

Police say that the operator of the truck did not become aware of either the accident or the missing of the trailer until he was in Somerville.

Officer Baird and James Manning, district inspector for the Registry of Motor Vehicles, are investigating the accident. The Registry is inspecting the trailer carrying the air compressor and the hitch used to haul the heavy vehicle used in construction jobs.

Clergymen

minority that we of the majority are fearful, insecure, and talking about brotherhood without really believing in what we say."

The Reverend William Jackson, pastor of the New Hope Baptist Church, in a sermon on February 17, said that, while the idea of observing Brotherhood Week is a splendid one, Christ came to this world to prove that all men can live together, and that if it is to be proven, we shall have to stress it consistently—365 days of the year instead of seven. He further stated that, although we are all made by one pattern, and of one blood, each of us is an individual, with our own characteristics, features, coloring, and will; however, we must remember that God's promises will not be returned void; thus, it is up to all of us to be ready to accept them in our own hearts.

On the same day, at the Immaculate Conception Church, the Reverend James F. Kenny, curate, said in his sermon:

"Christ reduced His ten commandments to two for us. The second of His two great commandments tells us that we must love our neighbor as ourselves. That is all Our Lor said. He made no exceptions to this rule. He did not say that our neighbor was only he whose country of origin was similar, or whose skin color was the same, or whose last name was easy to spell and pronounce. All men are our brothers in Christ. Hence all men, regardless of race or color must be treated alike. Too often, I am afraid, in this section of the country, we become smug and complacent concerning our attitude towards and practice of brotherly love. Think back, for a moment, to that shameful chain of events that occurred in the state of Mississippi. Were you not indignant and outraged at such happenings in our country? I think, perhaps, we all were. Keep this in mind and ask yourself this question: Would my thinking remain the same if I were asked to accept into my neighborhood someone whose skin was different, or whose physical characteristics set him apart, or whose accent made his speech seemingly unintelligible? Answer that question in your hearts. Answer that question as Our Lord would have answered it; for that is the only way it can be answered."

The Right Reverend John M. Manion, pastor at St. Mary's Church, said he believes that discrimination is an evil, and that housing should be sold or rented to anyone without regard to color, creed, or national origin. He preached a sermon on the subject of brotherhood early in February.

The Reverend Dwight Cart, pastor at the First Congregational Church, in a sermon delivered February 10th and entitled "Future Makers," said:

"Future makers believe in the dignity of all men. Our most difficult problem in the world is in learning how to live together as brothers—how to do unto others as we would have them do unto us—how to understand one another, appreciate one another, forgive one another, love one another. It is difficult to understand how any person who is honestly concerned over the future of mankind is able to escape the fact that unless more is done to break down walls which divide, unless more is done to bring about justice and understanding and brotherhood and forgiveness between races and groups and peoples, we are not future makers, but future breakers."

The following Sunday, the Reverend Cart's sermon was called "Everybody is Somebody." In it he said, "Everybody is somebody, and all of us can be of more help, can have greater influence, can feel a worthier sense of responsibility than we do. There are such projects as the Winchester Fair Housing Association, and the need for more people to take a good, honest look at what is involved in being a Christian neighbor."

The Reverend Ralph H. Earle, pastor of the Second Congregational Church, said in a sermon on February 10th:

"Our world has shrunk into a community. Our task is to make it into a community based on brotherhood. What can you and I do about this responsibility? First, we must get rid of all our race hate and prejudice. Second, we can seek to make our local church more Christian in this area. We can demonstrate that all God's children are welcome in His house of worship. Third, we can make it known that those of other races are welcome not only to worship in our church on Sunday morning where we can politely ignore them, but we can make it known that they are welcome to share in the fellowship of our smaller and more intimate community. We can participate in the program and purpose of the Winchester Fair Housing Association. By doing so, we openly declare our common humanity with those of other races and creeds. We have been slow to recognize that racial segregation is an insult to God, the Giver of human dignity and human rights. Also, we have often forgotten that discrimination against others of different religious beliefs displays a lack of understanding of our faith."

The Reverend John W. Ellison, rector at the Church of the Epiphany said he regretted that because of a number of other commitments he had been unable to speak on the subject during February. He wanted to make it plain that he is strongly in favor of fair housing; and he wished it to be remembered that he had been quoted at some length on the subject a year ago in the Star.

The Reverend H. Newton Clay, pastor at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church, delivered a sermon on February 17th entitled "Cultivating the Grace of Brotherhood." In his sermon, the Reverend Clay traced the ideal of human brotherhood through the Holy Scriptures starting with the question asked at the dawn of human history, "Where is thy brother?" and the reply of Cain, "Am I my brother's shepherd?" Many of the words of the Old Testament prophets and the teachings of Jesus were cited to illustrate the pre-eminence of the teaching of brotherhood throughout. The Reverend Clay said: "I do not think we are born with prejudices, but most of us acquire some all too soon. So, brotherhood becomes a grace that every Christian should try to cultivate in every area of Christian social concern. In a town like ours the matter of fair housing practices is of importane. In this and other areas we must cultivate the grace of brotherhood."

The Reverend Robert A. Storer, pastor at the Winchester Unitarian Church, preached a sermon called "Faith In Action" on February 17th in which he said:

"The interfaith meeting of the three major faiths held recently in Chicago, called upon local congregations of all churches to set their local houses in order. There are problems on the local level, north and south, in this matter of housing inequities. There are problems in our town. Some of us may not be aware of them but there are deep seated prejudices in the minds and hearts of people, of some of our church-going townspeople. The Fair Housing Committee was not organized to be a snooping committee, or to be a law enforcing committee, or to stir up dirt under the rug. It was organized to be an educational instrument, a means of discussing and of informing people of ways to counteract prejudice. But Fair Housing can never tell you to whom you shall sell your house, Fair Housing cannot say you must accept or like your next door neighbors. Your faith cannot tell you you must like your neighbors or even accept them. Your faith can only reaffirm that your neighbors are spiritual brothers, and when you treat them as less than this, when you reduce or diminish them, you reduce your own nature, you reduce your God, you reduce your faith."

Emmons Ellis, president of the Winchester Fair Housing Association, said that he was delighted by the firm stand taken by the town's clergymen. He went on to say that he hoped that the emphasis the clergymen had placed on the subject of Brotherhood in general and Fair Housing in particular had stimulated interest in Winchester's Fair Housing Association. He announced that a meeting of the Association would be held on February 28th, at eight o'clock in the Symmes Room of the Unitarian Church, and he hoped that as many members and friends as could come would do so.

Notes on Last Crittenton Meeting

Mrs. Shepard Pond opened her home last Friday for the February meeting of the senior circle of the Florence Crittenton League. Plans were discussed for the book review to be given on March 1 at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church. Dessert and coffee before the meeting were both enjoyed on a cold day.

Mrs. Everett Tisdale, service representative, gave a very interesting report on the arrangement between the Boston School Committee and Crittenton-Hastings House, through which two public school teachers are provided to teach the girls of high school age all the subjects they miss while away from home. Thus they may keep up with their classes, and, if seniors, may graduate in their own year.

Mrs. Wallis from the Home then spoke about the "Family Plan" through which girls are placed in carefully selected homes as mother's helpers. She emphasized that the plan is entirely planned for the girl's benefit, to make her a more mature person, and the family who receives her services is helped only secondarily. Tremendous care is taken in screening and selecting the families. This plan has been a tremendous success and the waiting list of applicants for mother's helpers is long.

Crawford Church Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church will be held next Tuesday evening in the Parish Hall with the Rev. William J. Ogle, district superintendent, presiding. The Womans' Society will serve coffee and dessert at seven o'clock and the business meeting is scheduled for 7:45. All members of the church are invited and all over 18 years of age may participate and vote on all matters.

Reports will be given by all officers and the chairmen of all standing committees and commissions. The treasurer and financial secretary will report as will the chairman of the finance committee who will submit the 1963 budget for final adoption. The pastor will give his annual report. The several organizations of the church will submit their reports.

The election of all church officers, boards, committees and commissions for the church fiscal year 1963-64 will also take place; including trustees, stewards, and the Pastoral Relations Committee.

Mulford Talk To Crittenton On MSPCC Problems

Mr. Robert M. Mulford, executive director of the Massachusetts Society for the prevention of cruelty to Children spoke to a large group of enthusiastic members of the Winchester Jr. Circle of the Florence Crittenton League, on Tuesday February 12, at the home of Mrs. Edward S. Read, Jr. Mr. Mulford, a resident of Pierrepont Road gave a most interesting and informative talk describing the work of the MSPCC.

Mr. Mulford stated that the MSPCC, first founded in 1874, handled 265 cases from all parts of the state in 1962, with only 5 per cent of the cases having to be referred to the courts. Three children died as a result of cruelty.

In a large majority of the cases, the MSPCC found that the children had been victims of severe emotional disturbances, i.e., being left home for long periods of time without food, clothing or proper shelter, rather than brutality.

One of the major problems the MSPCC is faced with is inadequate housing facilities for children who have been taken from their parents. Although, this may only be temporary, more facilities are needed in addition to The Nickerson House on Huntington Avenue in Boston. Foster homes are generally not used for the reason that since the home will only be temporary, and the child will be eventually taken from the foster parents, this would only breed more insecurity. A question and answer period followed Mr. Mulford's enlightening talk.

Stickers

In the event of a fire, while the fire engines are racing to the home, the man on the desk would remind the lead engine firemen by radio message that the household has an invalid and where he or she may be found. In addition, when the firefighters arrive at a house with this sticker on the door the firefighters would immediately look for the room with a sticker and give first attention to rescuing the invalid.

The small but brightly colored stickers have been available for a few days now and already several have been distributed to Winchester residents. They are available at no cost to the homeowner, and a call to the Fire Department at PA-9-1801 can arrange a quick delivery of the stickers.

The campaign to get stickers on every home having an invalid is strongly supported by Fire Chief James E. Callahan, and is sponsored by Lt. Ernest Howard and firefighter Robert Swymer.

Lt. Howard and firefighter Swymer plan to talk to the pastors of all the churches, representatives of Winchester service organizations, and local store owners, in an effort to get their cooperation in advising the use of the stickers in all the homes where there are invalids.

New Voters

The office of town clerk is this week sending out for the first time to all candidates for office the new Form E 22 and 22a relating to campaign expenditures, directed by a state law passed last year.

All candidates whose aggregate expenditures exceed $50 must list them for the town.

Space Age Slide Rule Course At Science Museum

Teenagers and pre-teens: If you're figuring on a space-age career, you'd better learn your space age figuring now!

So says Boston's Museum of Science where the spring session of their popular Slide Rule course for young people is about to begin.

Open only to Museum of Science members aged 11 to 15, the first of four classes gets underway Friday March 8, at 4:30 p.m.

Totting up some of the reasons for taking the course, instructor John N. M. Howells says it is important, challenging, and fun. He calculates the importance by the number of job opportunities available in this space-age to mathematically knowledgeable young people.

Applications for this course are now being taken by the Museum's Education Department. Individual members, or children of family or contributing members are eligible. There is no tuition, but a very small fee for materials is required in addition to Museum membership. (Open to all).

V. A. Pensions And Your Income Tax

Massachusetts veterans are reminded by State Veterans' Services Commissioner Charles N. Collatos that they are not required to list income from VA pension and compensation checks on their 1963 income tax return.

"Veterans benefits are tax free," the Commissioner points out. Exempt from taxation are divided on GI insurance policies, disability compensation and pension, education and training allowances, subsistence allowances for disabled veterans receiving vocational training, grants on homes for "Wheelchair living," grants for motor vehicles for physically handicapped veterans and death benefits paid to survivors.

Sole exception, Commissioner Collatos declared is interest earned by National Service Life insurance dividends left on deposit with the Veterans Administration. Only the interest earned by such dividends, not the dividend itself, is taxable and must be reported, he pointed out.

Candidate For Selectman

EDWARD E. HICKS

To the Voters of Winchester:

An effective Selectman should have a thorough knowledge of his community, an understanding of its problems and a familiarity with the personnel staffing its departments, boards and committees. He must also understand the workings of municipal government and be capable of exercising the administrative responsibilities of his office.

I have been a Winchester resident for over 26 years; I was educated in the Winchester school system, and I have participated in a wide variety of community affairs. I believe that I have a thorough knowledge of Winchester and the problems it faces. As a member of the Winchester Finance Committee and an elected Town Meeting Member I have had a unique opportunity to familiarize myself with the workings of our Town Government and to work with the personnel of our Town. As a practicing lawyer with experience in the field of municipal law, I am familiar with the procedures and the legal frame work of Massachusetts town government.

I respectfully submit that if I am given the opportunity to serve on your Board of Selectmen I will be able to work effectively in your behalf. I ask that you give me that opportunity by supporting my candidacy on March 4th.

An Error!

The Star regrets the error that identified Roland E. Simonds as assitsant assessor in last week's issue of the Star. Mr. Simonds replaced the late Percival Lewis in this capacity, and we had forgotten that Roland has retired, he always seems so spry. We offer both him and the Board of Assessors our apologies and are sorry for our mistake, And while we are at it we want to thank Roland for the fine job he did in locating the residents of Winchester born here who have reached the age of 85. There was no mistake here!

• MAY WE speak frankly about costs? It seems to us that making this a "hush-hush" subject only leads to dissatisfaction and possible recrimination later on. At our establishment it is possible to clarify the subject of costs—itemized and total—privately and discreetly. It is something between the person making the arrangements and the funeral director to which no outsider need be a party. Experience repeatedly has shown us that frankness in advance of arrangements removes many doubts and worries from the mind of the person who discusses them with us.

The club is especially grateful to the Winchester Star for publicizing the event. Over $300 will be sent to the American Contract Bridge League to be given from Winchester to the Multiple Selerosis Society and the Institute of Logopedics.

Having sponsored this charity game, the Winchester club can now hold a similar event for a local charity. This will take place in the spring for the benefit of the Winchester Scholarship Foundation under the chairmanship of Mrs. Dorothy Ellis.

Mrs. Joseph W. Dean wishes to thank Mrs. Malcolm Wilkinson for her help in soliciting door prizes. Mrs. Dean on behalf of the club extends her appreciation to the following merchants who donated prizes: Winchester Jewelers, Bixby and Northrup, Berlow's, Turner's Sunoco, Randall's, Converse Market, Converse Florist, Christie McDonald's Winton Hardware, Cradock Apothecary, Renton's, Loralane's, Wilson's of Winchester, McCormack's Apothecary, Frank Paul's, Hillside Paint and Wallpaper Co., Winchester Camera Shop, Spaulding Bookshop, Harmon's, Winchester Meat Co., Winslow Press, and Walker Stewart. Winchester organizations are most fortunate in having Winchester business so faithful in its support.

Winchester bridge players are always welcome at the club's regular Wednesday night game at the Knights of Columbus Hall. It is best to arrive by 7:15 p.m.

Since during the evening some questions were asked about scoring in duplicate, reporter Darrell Root chose the following board from section C to illustrate how a board is scored in a duplicate game and to show the bidding problems in a typical hand where neither side has sufficient points to bid game. South was the dealer and East-West was vulnerable.

North	West
♠ Q 7 4 2	♠ K 10 9
♥ K 5	♥ A J 6
♦ A K 10 8 4 2	♦ Q 7 5
♣ J	♣ K 9 7 4

South	East
♠ A J 6 5	♠ 8 3
♥ 10 8 4 3	♥ Q 9 7 2
♦ 9 3	♦ J 6
♣ 10 8 3	♣ A Q 6 5 2

The hand was played at 2, 3, and 4 clubs by West; 3 hearts and 4 clubs by East; 1, 2, and 3 diamonds as well as 2 spades by North.

The dealer obviously passed, and West probably opened one club to be overcalled by 1 diamond from North. East then bid his four-card major or raised the clubs. The heart bid would be my preference, planning to end the contract in 3 clubs or 3 hearts unless partner has sufficient count to jump to game, but only one pair ended in a heart contract. Since East played the club contract twice, West must have passed on the first round to see what would develop. At one table North must have bid his four-card spade suit at the second round, and that ended the bidding at that table, and another North must have bid 8 diamonds in order to push East-West up to four clubs. At diamonds one trick should be lost in each suit and three diamonds can be made. A good defense at spades, by punching out the trumps with club leads each time East-West must lead, can hold the contract to eight tricks.

East-West can make only 2 clubs with good defense, and as mentioned above, one pair playing at 2 clubs made 4. Inasmuch as East-West is vulnerable, they must be careful about overbidding more than one trick, because a set of two tricks gives North-South more score than they can make with a partial score to say nothing of what happens when North-South has the insight to double any bid of three or more clubs.

In scoring partial games at duplicate, the same trick values are used as at rubber bridge plus an additional bonus of 50 points for a completed contract. Any of the above diamond bids, therefore, scored 110 points for North-South, and the two spade bid produced the same score. If the spade bid could make nine tricks, then the score would be 140 which of course is better than 3 diamonds making 110.

One East-West contract ended at 2 clubs making 4 for a score of 130. All other club contracts went down, and since East-West was vulnerable, North-South's score was 100, 200, or 300, depending upon the number of tricks. After this board had been played by eleven different tables, the score sheet showed the following numbers: North-South 300, 200, 200, 110, 110, 110, 110, 100, 100, 100, and East-West 130. The North-South pair that scored 300 did the best on this hand and was awarded 10 match points, one point for each pair they surpassed. The North-South pair that allowed East-West to score 130 points did the poorest on the hand and earned a zero. So the match-points for the above North-South scores are as follows: 10, 8½, 8½, 5½, 5½, 5½, 5½, 2 2, 2, 0. So much for the North-South scores on the board.

The East-West pair which scored 130 points did the best on the board and received 10 match-points while the East-West pair which was set 3 tricks did the poorest and received a 0. The East-West match-point scores on the above board then are just opposite the North-South scores and are 0, 1½, 1½, 4½, 4½, 4½, 4½, 8, 8, 8, 10.

At the end of the evening the match-points earned on all the boards are added together to obtain the best scores for the play. Twenty-two boards were played, and if a player scored an average of 5 match-points on each board, his score for the evening would have been 110 which was average for the number of boards and players in this movement. The actual scores for this session ranged from 154½ to 64½ with thirteen pairs above average and thirteen below.

Moral: When you are vulnerable and have only enough points for a partial score, be very careful not to be set more than one trick, thereby giving your opponents more score than they can earn only by themselves.

Three films will be brought to Winchester by the Winchester Smith Club which is presenting "Smith Film Festival" for the benefit of the Scholarship Fund.

These films will be shown on alternate Tuesday evenings beginning March 19th, with subsequent dates April 2nd and April 16th. All are urged to attend for a very pleasant and worthwhile evening. The curtain time is 8:15 p.m.

The first film of the series will be "Great Expectations" based on the classic novel by Charles Dickens. The superior photography of this film has been universally acclaimed as an outstanding example in the black and white medium.

The second showing to be presented on April 2nd is a foreign language film "La Belle Americaine," a French comedy based on the hilarious antics of a Frenchman who somehow acquires a snappy American sports car and the subsequent difficulties that befall him. For those who are not bilingual there will be English subtitles so all the nuances of the delightful humor will be caught.

The last of the trio will be Laurence Olivier's epic film "Henry V." This film is in technicolor and the magnificent spectacle of the Battle of Agincourt will not be soon forgotten. Shakespeare's recounting of this battle inspired Olivier to create the great visual impression he did and shows so clearly to the eye what Shakespeare brought to life on paper with the written word.

Tickets are available now at the Winchester Theater and will be on sale at the High School after midwinter vacation. For further information about the films call Mrs. Fred Morgenthaler, PA 9-5437. Each single ticket is good for all three showings.

The purpose of the "Film Festival" is to supply enough money to the Scholarship Fund to enable a Winchester girl a full tuition scholarship to Smith. This opportunity is available to any Winchester student admitted to the college.

A worthy cause and three enjoyable evenings for family and friends. Don't miss it!

Plans are nearing completion for the Committee's Irish Night, the winter social which will supply additional funds for the Committee's activities. All signs point to another successful Democratic affair.

Mrs. Bee Wilson, chairman of the Irish Night social, which will take place in the Elks' Hall, Vine Street, on Sunday evening, March 17, is confident that this will be a most enjoyable party. She is being ably assisted by Bill Dailey, treasurer and John Costello, who is in charge of the Irish film showing, and an assisting committee.

In addition to entertainment, which will consist of the films, Irish songs, music, and step-dancing, there will be one of Bee Wilson's delicious buffets. In this department she will be assisted by her co-chairman Mrs. Helen Nadeau and Mrs. Anna Notemyer.

The next meeting of the Irish Night Committee will take place at the home of Mrs. Peggy Harsch, 10 Nassau Drive, Tuesday evening, February 26, at 8:30 p.m.

Book Review

Sailorometer One Of the Features Of Boat Show

State Director Wilton Vaugh announced that the Massachusetts Division of Motorboats, as part of its water safety campaign, will give pleasure boaters a free chance to test their nautical skill with a life-like demonstration at the New England Boat Show, February 16-24, at the Commonwealth Armory.

There will be no charge for the use of the Sailorometer, the unique test-boat, which has been brought here from the West Coast by the Aetna Casualty and Surety Company for use by the State in conjunction with the boating safety crusade. It is similar to the simulated auto trainer, which the company invented for promoting highway safety.

The Sailorometer is unique in the pleasure boat field, providing for the first time a realistic way for part-time skippers to learn what it takes to stay safely afloat while they're still safely ashore.

The Sailorometer consists of the bow half of a motorboat which is equipped with the same controls found in real boats. Ignition switch, starter button, clutch, throttle, speedometer and steering wheel.

Motion pictures taken from a moving boat and projected over the bow of the Sailorometer show the waterway as it would appear to an outboard operator.

The five-minute film produced by the Aetna safety specialists covers key rules of the road, use of navigational signs, and proper reactions in water-borne emergencies.

Driving the Sailorometer simulates what you experience at the helm of a real boat. Advancing the throttle makes the film go faster, giving the sensation of greater speed. Turning the wheel moves the bow toward the course you select.

During the film, a sort of mechanical "master mariner"—actually an electro-mechanical scoring device—logs your performance in a series of 10 test situations designed to show your skill as a skipper. Your score on each situation and your total score is automatically recorded on a score sheet given to all who take the test. The score card also states the correct boating maneuver or rule of the road for each of the 10 situations.

Crittenton Group In Book Morning

Florence Crittenton suggests welcoming spring early by getting out to the gay and stimulating "Morning" at the Methodist Church. Mrs. Cann's remarks on books promise to be both diverting and illuminating. Talented Mrs. Philip Hovnanian at the piano will provide the soft music and clever Mrs. Clifton McNeill is in charge of decorating the hall with touches of spring. To anyone who has seen any of "Fran's" wonderful flower arrangements, no more need be said!

Coffee will be served at 9:30 a.m. Tickets may be purchased at the door or call Mrs. Babakian at PA 9-3895. Do join us Friday morning, March 1st for fun and stimulating ideas, all for a good cause.

YOUR

SPEAKS

By: Fred McCormack

Some people are prone to complain that five dollars doesn't buy enough antibiotics to fill an outsize thimble. This is rather short-sighted thinking in that the worth of medicine should be measured in terms of effect rather than bulk.

It was only three decades ago, for instance, that lobar pneumonia was a costly as well as a serious illness. The patient spent weeks in a hospital, some of the time in an oxygen tent, and considerable nursing and attention from the doctor were required.

Today, however, barring complications, pneumonia is cleared up in a matter of days; hospitalization is seldom required, and the whole unpleasantness is little more inconveniencing than a severe cold.

Inconvenience is no problem at McCORMACK'S APOTHECARY in the matter of getting prescriptions filled. You can count on efficient, accurate service, using only the finest of drugs and medicines at McCORMACK'S APOTHECARY, 568 Main Street. Phone PA 9-2700.

At the mid-winter meeting of the Unitarian Players held February 13, Mrs. Olive Anderson, players president, announced that "Everybody Loves Opal" has been selected as the spring play.

This three-act comedy, written by John Patrick, will be presented at evening performances on April 26 and 27. Tryouts will be held Monday and Wednesday evenings, March 4 and 6, at 7:45 in the Windsor Room of the Unitarian Church.

Entertainment for the meeting was a one-act play, set in a graveyard with a judgment day theme. Production was by Mrs. Creighton Vallee. The comedy was expertly handled by the cast of Mr. Tony Carrigan, Mrs. Vallee, Mrs. Percy Hill and Mr. Cecil Prest. Mrs. Marjorie Olson was prompter, Mr. Edward Knowlton handled sound effects, with the lighting chores done by Mr. William Sorenson.

The meeting concluded with a social hour. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Marjorie Bradford and Gladys West.

Motion Choir To Perform Original "Prayer" in NYC

Seven members of the Motion Choir of the Unitarian Church will attend a mid-winter workshop sponsored by the Sacred Dance Guild at the International House in New York City on February 21st and 22nd. Guest teachers for the sessions include Leda Canino, dance educator; Mary Hinkson, solo dancer with the Martha Graham Company; and Ruth St. Denis.

The Winchester girls have been invited to present an original choreographic work entitled "Universal Prayer," which they derived under the direction of Virginia Huffine. They have incorporated prayer movements from the major world religions, and original music for this was composed by John Baldwin. This work will be evaluated by the panel of dance experts.

A trip to the United Nations as guests of the Unitarian-Universalist representative will be enjoyed by the group, who will be accompanied by Mrs. George Kimball and Mrs. Coy Huffine. The girls in the Motion Choir are Faith Barker, Suzanne Fontneau, Anne VerPlanck, Merrilee Zimmer, Nancy Goodale, Nancy Robinson and Martha Kimball.

This trip has been made largely possible by a grant from the Women's Alliance of the church. Dr. Robert A. Storer, who is vice president of the Sacred Dance Guild, will preside at the meetings.

Charles River Power Squadron, a unit of USPS will be conducting these free classes at Rindge Technical High School, Broadway, Cambridge. Registration and start of courses on February 25, at 7:30 p.m.

The USPS recognizing the increase in the number and horsepower of outboard motors has made it mandatory to include special lectures for the outboard boatman. Other lectures cover such subjects as "Rules of the Nautical Road" - "Lights & Equipment" - Seamsnship, Compass, the Use of Charts, Aids to Navigation Safety, etc.

Earl Kaufman JN commander of Charles River Power Squadron, urges all boatmen and prospective boat owners to enroll for the free classes. He emphasizes the increasing importance of safety in the operation of small craft as more and more people turn to boating for recreation.

St. Mary's Mothers' Club

The Rev. Angus Quinlan, well known in the field of education, will be the guest speaker for the monthly meeting of the St. Mary's Mothers' Club. His topic will be "The Informed Mother." Catholic Press Month will be celebrated at this meeting. Mrs. Francis Hurley chairmans this program. Do note the change of this meeting. Remember! Monday, February 25th at 8:30 p.m

Republican Women Hear Talk

On Wednesday afternoon February 13 at the home of Mrs. Earle Spencer of 26 Glen Road, the Women's Republican Club enjoyed hearing an informal talk by Richard Fleming, our executive secretary for Massachusetts State Committee.

There was a large turnout for the occasion. In Mrs. Spencer's charming home and in a Valentine motif, coffee and refreshments were served by Mrs. Arthur Cann and her committee. Mrs. Herbert Wadsworth and Mrs. Charles Sweetser poured.

Mr. Fleming spoke mainly on streamlining the Republican Party. At the conclusion of his talk there was a period of questions and answers which proved to be lively and interesting. A short business meeting concluded this pleasant afternoon.

Sons Of Italy News

As previously announced Blood Donor Day is to be held next Monday, February 25, at the Sons of Italy Hall from 1:00-7:00 p.m. It should be a must for all eligible members but should also be mentioned that non-members are welcome and their immediate families will be assured normal blood if the need arises for a year after donation.

Saturday evening, February 23 is Social Night at the Sons of Italy Hall so come on down and enjoy a good evening of dancing and refreshments. Admittance is free and it is a wonderful opportunity to meet others and have fun.

We, of the S.O.I. Men's Lodge, certainly extend our congratulations to the Ladies' Lodge which held a most successful presentation of the old Italian festival, "Carnavale." More than two-hundred were in attendance to enjoy a tremendous night of fun, dancing and the putting away of delicious sausage and meat ball sandwiches. It was a big disappointment when the call for "closing time" was given, so girls, it was wonderful and have more such occasions!

Scoutleader Skitchy Fiore and Carl Bertolucci and Randy Kazazian have the S.O.I. Troop going at full swing and plans are being arranged for a trip to the Skimobile at North Conway, N. H. Because of vacation week there was no meeting this week.

The Men's Lodge held its nomination of officers at its last meeting and urge all members to be present at the next regular meeting on Monday, March 4th to vote for your likely choice. Voting will take place between 8:00-10:00 p.m. so be there to vote for your man. An organization is as strong as its officers and membership so be present to make our Lodge the strongest in the state. Come with an empty stomach because a spaghetti dinner is to be served!

On last Sunday evening the Men's Lodge held its annual "Members' Appreciation Party" at the club hall with 175 present. The affair is a means of telling the members of the lodge that the officers and various committees performing during the year certainly appreciate the cooperation and strong support all have offered for the various functions held.

Randy Kazazian was chairman of the "kitchen help" for the affair and his right hand man of delicious Italian taste was Chef Paul Marchesi. Assisting Randy and Paul were Art Dunbar, Mingy Frongillo, Richie Penta, John Paonessa, Bill Fiore, Boss Dattilo and Frank Dattilo, Jr.

The Lodge's Board of Directors acted as waiters with headwaiter being Mike D. Saraco and taking orders from him were Frank Diappella, Joe Paonessa, Carl Bertolucci, Chick Vespucci, Dickie Tofuri, Dom Provinzano, Gus Baldacci, Larry D'Onofrio and Sam Tibaudo.

There was a social hour from 6:00-7:00 and at the end of the hour, the men were seated and serving started with olives, cheese, peppers and celery. Following this was a delicious plate of roast beef, gravy, rolls and butter, tossed salad, potato and vegetable.

Following the dinner various "gossip sessions" and community singing took place and all left with a larger waistline and kind words for a job well done.

Members of the lodge have been informed that Frank DiMambro was planning to drive down south to Florida and was looking for a passenger. Beany Perry applied and Frank accepted him. Neither would be able to fall asleep at the wheel because of Beany's steady flow of words. Here's wishing you a good trip boys and drop us a line.

Also enjoying a two weeks' stay in Florida are Mr. and Mrs. Angie Amico but they did not want the slow way down by car so took off by jet. Nice going and have a pleasant stay.

We of the Women's and Men's Lodges express our sincere sympathy to the family of Mr. Anthony Cefali who passed away this week.

Union Lenten Services

The Protestant Churches of Winchester are planning special Union Services throughout the Lenten Season.

The World Day of Prayer will be observed on Friday March 1, with a special service at the New Hope Baptist Church at 1:30 o'clock.

Union Services will be held each Wednesday evening of Lent at 7:45 o'clock with guest preachers being featured at each church. The first of these services will be next Wednesday, Ash Wednesday, at the Church of the Epiphany.

As in former years there will be Union Services on Wednesday mornings for the young people of high school and junior high school age. These services are held at the Unitarian Church because of the proximity of the high school and McCall Junior High School. The first of these services on Ash Wednesday morning, will be in charge of the young people of the Second Congregational Church with the Rev. Ralph Earle as the speaker.

High School Pressures Were Reviewed By Panel Wednesday Evening

Is the high school student under too much pressure for academic performance? This was the question for consideration at the Winchester High School Parent-Faculty Advisory Council meeting in the Music Room of the High School on Wednesday evening, February 13. A large group of parents and teachers gathered to hear a five member panel present viewpoints concerning academic pressure.

Principal Howard Niblock was moderator for the panel. Speaking from the faculty viewpoint were Miss Constance Trickett, dean of girls at the High School; and Mr. Henry K. Fitts, instructor in the English department. Mr. James Case, III, instructor in the High School English department and formerly assistant dean of freshmen at Harvard College, offered the college deans' viewpoint, and the Reverend Wesley A. Mallery, assistant minister of the First Congre gational Church, represented the community youth workers. Mr. Robert C. Ericson, chairman of the Parent-Faculty Advisory Council, addressed the gathering from the viewpoint of the parents.

Mr. Ericson stated that parents recognize the need for high standards in the high school. Therefore, the question is not pressure vs. no pressure, but rather the amount of pressure in relation to the maturity of the student. The problem lies in establishing a reasonable outside work load, in coordinating and planning the due dates for term papers, for example, and in work loads over holidays and vacations. Mr. Ericson stressed that it is important for parents and faculty to recognize the lack of experience and needs of care-free children.

Miss Trickett focused the problem on an American dilemma: For many years, we were expecting schools to produce well-rounded individuals, but now we want scholars. The problem becomes most real in a college-oriented community such as Winchester and particularly in the case of the average student. Many parents feel that they do not want their children to be "average." What then becomes of the student who asks: "What will happen to me if I don't get into college?"

Miss Trickett stated that everyone cannot be put into the same academic mold. Perhaps some should start looking for other goals. For example, other good qualities besides high grades will benefit the student. One might also ask whether students are thinking about what they are learning. Miss Trickett summarized by saying that students are under pressure to get good marks, parents are under pressure to urge for them, teachers are under pressure to give them, and colleges are under pressure to accept them.

The Reverend Mallery answered the question under discussion with a conditional "no." The high school student is not under too much pressure: 1. when he sees the school's purpose and 2. when the school recognizes other areas of influence. He affirmed that young people are ready to understand that school is for study. In addition, just getting high marks may be misleading to youngsters and parents and lead to dangers, the first of which comes from an emphasis on getting high marks at whatever cost. Dishonesty in school is a threat to the student's integrity. The second danger comes from a youngster's choosing only courses for which he has talent rather than allowing himself to be exposed to many areas.

The second condition in Rev. Mallery's answer rested on the idea that a school cannot be all things to everybody. It must leave some action to the family, church and community.

Mr. Fitts approached the question on the basis of feeling rather than confidence in mere statistics. It was Mr. Fitts' feeling that generally those students not headed for college are not under too much presure and that the college bound students who have purpose are those who have made some sort of choice as to where they will go.

Mr. Fitts observed that very few boys seem to be as conscientious as to be under too much pressure, but many girls are, although some create their own pressures. Students should learn to work efficiently and judge how much activity to assume. How much work and how much recreation is a matter for debate. If the work is unbearable, then the student has gone too far in one direction. Fresh air is also important. Mr. Fitts also maintained that learning, rather than just making a grade and passing a test, is of prime importance.

Mr. Case began by presenting a picture of a college freshman: a student confronted with a work load amounting to approximately 70 hours a week, in and out of class (including such items as weekly themes of 1,000 words each and language and science laboratory requirements). In comparison, the hard working high school student may average about 50 hours a week. Mr. Case stressed that this freshman picture is not unrealistic. The work load for an average student in an average four year liberal arts college is not significantly different from the above picture.

Mr. Case said that some people may object to the picture and say that schools should not copy colleges, or colleges are wrong. Nevertheless, Mr. Case emphasized, the facts remain: there is too much of a sudden difference between a high school and a college work load; colleges feel that since they have the best they should get the best out of them, and finally we are not going to change the colleges.

It was Mr. Case's belief that the quantity of work in high school cannot be lessened, and that lowering the standards would also be unfair to the student. Parents should realize that pressure is already there. They don't have to add to it. Mr. Case felt that schools could help more to bridge the work gap by teaching methods of study, such as showing students how to skim material, take good notes, and organize work and time.

Mr. Niblock, after briefly summarizing that the problem was one of priorities, conducted a question and answer session in which many from the audience participated.

L W V Election Information For Voters On 1963 Candidates For Town Offices

The Winchester League of Women Voters has prepared the following tabulation of background information concerning the education, occupation, and activities in community affairs of candidates seeking election to town office in the March 4 Town Election.

CANDIDATES FOR SELECTMAN

1. What do you think are the principal challenges facing Winchester, and what would you suggest as solutions?

2. How are you particularly qualified to deal to deal with these challenges?

Edward E. Hicks, 4 Churchill Road

1. I believe the principal challenges facing Winchester are the preservation of its residential character and maintenance and improvement of the services it provides its residents in the face of the pressures being exerted by:

A. A steady and significant growth in our population and settled, residential areas;

B. Increasing cost of municipal government by reason of such growth and the rising costs of goods and services, and

C. Encroachment of other governmental bodies and agencies thereof in municipal affairs.

I suggest a policy of orderly and consistent application of zoning principles and planning; careful budgetry controls of all town departments; careful evaluation of applicants for regular Town employment; appointment of interested, capable citizens to our boards and committees; modernization of practices and procedures in Town Departments where indicated; active participation in area studies and projects pertaining to mass transportation, natural resources, law enforcement, highways, civil defense and similar matters having a direct impact on Winchester. To better accomplish the foregoing, I suggest closer liaison between the Board of Selectmen and the various advisory boards and committees.

2. My qualification:

A. As a resident of Winchester for over 26 years I am familiar with its growth, its problems and the personnel of the various Town Departments;

B. Through my services on the Town Finance Committee I am familiar with the fiscal procedures of our Town government, and I have an understanding of the inherent problems of Departmental budgeting, planning, borrowing, allocation of facilities, etc.

C. As a practicing attorney with experience in municipal law, I have a working knowledge of the laws and procedures applicable to town government.

James M. Looney, 37 Tufts Road

1. It would be gratifying if it were possible to suggest here a program for solving the town's problems through the office of Selectmen so comprehensive in its plan, so complete in its parts, and so convincing in its presentation that it would challenge the thinking of the intelligent citizens of Winchester.

The most precious and valuable assets we have are our high type citizenry, our excellent services, and our green suburban residential character. Our greatest challenge will be to preserve and improve this image. These assets serve to increase the value of your home. Within the next ten years the number of communities that can claim true residential status will shrink considerably. This eventually will serve to further increase the value of your home.

We should discourage additional industry from permeating into our residential town.

The energies and talents of our Planning Board should be in this direction. It is better that we frankly take our latitude and longitude in relation to our residential values than to attempt the perilous practice of self delusion for tax expediency.

My background includes six years as Director and Vice President and General Manager of a medium sized Meat Packing Co. employing 150.

Also six years as General Plant Manager for a National Meat Packer. I am presently responsible for some 15 million dollars in sales each year. A Selectman's duties are MANAGING: My background in management, I believe, qualifies me to serve you.

David S. Wardwell, 39 Lorena Road

A principal challenge facing Winchester is the ever increasing cost of our Town government. The Selectmen's close supervision of expenditures and administration of the several Departments under their jurisdiction is extremely important towards stabilizing the Winchester tax rate. A Tufts University Economics graduate, Production Superintendent at J. H. Winn Inc. Winchester, 3 year Personnel Board and 5 year Town Meeting member qualifies me, as your Selectman, to achieve maximum return for each tax dollar expended without jeopardizing essential services expected from our Town.

Another challenge, where I sincerely believe my Personnel Board and administrative business experience will be most helpful as a Selectman, is in instituting a program of attracting capable men and women to enter the employ of our Town. Those serving on various Town Boards, as Personnel, School, Park, Library, are fully cognizant of this challenge; for many Department heads and Town employees have emphasized the problem of recruiting qualified man-power for the Town Departments. (Recently mentioned by Police Salaries Committee in the Star.) An active program informing Winchester citizens of the Town job opportunities is required.

Other challenges include Metropolitan mass transportation and informing Winchester regarding Town affairs. In these and other areas, I feel better communications with all Winchester residents will encourage greater interest and participation in Town Government.

The fact that I am an available, local, business executive, willing and desirous of participating in Town Government, is a qualification of importance in meeting these challenges.

Thank you for your consideration.

CANDIDATES FOR PLANNING BOARD

What information would you like to give to voters concerning your qualifications for the office you seek?

Earle F. Littleton 14 Cranston Road (5 year vacancy)

My thirty-one years of engineering education and practice as a civil engineer (registered professional engineer, Massachusetts 4254), my service to the town on many committees including six years on the School Committee, and my year on the Planning Board, qualify me to ask to be reelected.

Eugene B. Rotondi Sr., 224 Forest Street (5 year vacancy)

The Planning Board needs a duly qualified member, one who is familiar practically and educationally with construction, Real Estate, Water, Sewer, Road, and general planning. My election will assure this Board of one with 40 years experience, who can render valuable understanding, and knowledge with impartiality for a better Planned Town.

Neil H. Borden 58 Winford Way (3 year vacancy)

In light of my retirement I can give time to the position. I served for several years on the Planning Board of Lexington, am interested in planning and know Winchester quite well from twenty five years of residence here.

CANDIDATES FOR SCHOOL COMMITTEE

How will your election or reelection improve the administration of the office you seek?

Richard M. Alt, 7 Pine Street

I shall continue to support the policies of the present School Committee. These include:

1. Improvement in quality of education following C.A.C. recommendations;

2. Maintenance of highly competitive basic salaries for teachers combined with recognition of superior performance.

3. Anticipation of facilities needs;

4. Extension of modern business methods including automatic data processing.

Lawrence E. Beckley, 5 Marshall Road

Good towns to live in have good schools. Good schools require effort from all the community. I recommend maximum cooperation with our citizen professional advisors and school administrators to develop an advanced curriculum, an enlightened teacher salary plan, short and long range plans for adequate facilities, and expanded student counseling.

CANDIDATE FOR BOARD OF ASSESSORS

What information would you like to give to voters concerning your qualifications for the office you seek?

Alfred D. Elliott, 5 Chesterford Road

My life long residence in town and my experience in many phases of Winchester civic life are valuable assets that speak for themselves.

CANDIDATES FOR PARK COMMISSIONER

How will your election or reelection improve the administration of the office you seek?

Edmund A. Williams, 12 Myrtle Street

Running unopposed is no joy. The chance to serve is. Service above self is a well known phrase. Putting this into practice in an elective office, by striving to save the townspeople dollars in taxes, while keeping the common, playgrounds and beaches in top condition is my goal.

Albert MacDonnell, 34 Grove Street

Did not answer.

CANDIDATE FOR BOARD OF HEALTH

What information would you like to give to voters concerning your qualifications for the office you seek?

Warren J. Taylor, M.D., 10 Edgehill Road

Statutes require that a physician serve on the Board of Health of cities. While not specified this seems desirable for towns and support is found in Town Records and in conversation with townspeople. As a physician interested in Winchester I seek election to the Board of Health.

CANDIDATES FOR BOARD OF PUBLIC WELFARE

How will your election or reelection improve the administration of the office you seek?

Esther Page Borden, 58 Winford Way

My experience on the Welfare Board during recent years, together with my deep interest in its work, lead me to think I can be of real service to the Board.

Howard W. Bates, 5 Winthrop Street

This office requires four basic essentials: 1. Willingness to effectively serve the community, 2. Recognition of human and social facilities and a desire to assist people. 3. Knowledge of the Federal, State and local aid programs. 4. Ability to assess facts and judiciously administer the five assistance programs.

I have so served for three elected terms; Chairman two terms.

CANDIDATE FOR CONSTABLE

How will your election or reelection improve the administration of the office you you seek?

William T. Ryerson, 184 Washington Street

I will be prompt in serving all civil processes and carry out the duties of Constable with efficiency.

CANDIDATE FOR CEMETERY COMMISSIONER

How will your election or reelection improve the administration of the office you seek?

Ralph W. Hatch, 2 Meadowcroft Road

Perhaps my greatest asset as a Cemetery Commissioner is that my business is in Winchester where I can be reached at anytime by the citizens for consultations.

Interested in Winchester as a Town Meeting Member, 1929-1941, Finance Committee 1940-1943, Permanent Clerk 1943-1956, Cemetery Commissioner 1958-1963.

CANDIDATES FOR TRUSTEE OF PUBLIC LIBRARY

How will your election or reelection improve the administration of the office you seek?

John J. Barry, 10 Euclid Avenue

I believe my experience qualifies me as a candidate for Trustee of the Public Library.

This year marks my completion of three years as a member of the Finance Committee and am therefore familiar with Town services.

I am also a candidate for Town Meeting Member in Precinct 1.

Arthur W. Pratt, 1 Salisbury Street

Long residence in the town, a family of six who have used the Library, service on Town Finance and Fiscal Survey Committees gives me familiarity with the Library's service to the community and some of its problems. My engineering experience would add balance to the collective judgment of the Board.

Philip P. Wadsworth, 66 Oxford Street

As the Trustee with the most senior experience on the Board, the continuity of another term should be helpful in carrying out many current problems concerning the Library.

CANDIDATES FOR COMMISSIONER OF TRUST FUNDS

How will your election or reelection improve the administration of the office you seek?

Joseph P. Abdella, 439 Washington Street

My ten years experience as Assistant Treasurer of a $70 million Investment Trust enables me to bring to this office extensive knowledge of the securities market. The Commissioner of Trust Funds must make prudent investment decisions to meet changing economic conditions. Experience is the prime requisite for effective administration.

Leo Roche, 26 Sargent Road

I offer prompt service and handling of any matters that come before this office. I am a lawyer with experience in this area.

CANDIDATE FOR COMMISSIONER - WATER AND SEWER BOARD

How will your election or reelection improve the administration of the office you seek?

Olcott L. Hooper, 228 Highland Avenue.

I have served one three-year term in this position, the last year as chairman of the board. I am employed by Stone & Webster Engineering Corp., as a consulting engineer, and my basic experience was acquired as a hydraulic engineer, all in the field of public utility engineering, management, and regulation.

24% of Local Homes Built Since 1950

The production of new housing in Winchester, over a 10-year period, has been at a rapid pace, according to cumulative figures released by the Government.

The facts and figures on the amount of new housing in the local area and in other communities across the country are contained in reports released by the Department of Commerce. They show that home building went on at a great rate, with records being set in many localities.

In Winchester, some 1,305 new dwelling units were produced in the period. Taking into account the number of old houses that were eliminated to make room for new ones, the town ended with a total of 5,493 units.

This wave of construction played an important part in the local economy, providing work for people in the various building trades as well as outlets for suppliers of building materials, appliances, home furnishings and the like.

The reports show that 23.7 per cent of the homes now in use in Winchester were built since 1950.

This compares with 19.8 per cent in the New England States.

The upsurge of building, locally and in other parts of the nation, is attributed in part to the easier financial climate that prevailed throughout most of the decade. Because of Government support, mortgages became easier to negotiate and home ownership was made possible for more people.

As a result, over 15 million new dwelling units were constructed in the United States. Partially offsetting these additions were 3 million old houses that were demolished.

The value of the new dwellings erected in Winchester, based on average market prices prevailing in the region during the 10 years, is approximately $19,445,000.

Not taken into account, in connection with these figures, is the huge amount that was spent on modernizing older houses. One-fourth of the income of construction companies, reportedly, came from this source.

Cub Pack 524 Swim Party

Many of the boys took advantage of the opportunity to complete swimming and floating requirements for Cub Scout advancements. One or two "non-floaters" were discovered in these tests. The boys also had relay races which ended in a dead heat, dead tired, that is.

Next outing for Cub Pack 524 will be a skating party at the Winchester Country Club under the sponsorship of Mr. Robert L. Swanson, pack chairman.

Mrs. Udell White At Fortnightly

The Fortnightly will convene on Monday, February 25th, in the Social Hall of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church. The refreshments will be served by Mrs. William Sorenson, social chairman, and her committee at one o'clock.

Mrs. Robert Perkins, club house fund chairman, will introduce the speaker, Mrs. Udell White.

Mrs. White's visit to the hospital of Dr. Albert Schweitzer, in Lambarene, Republic of Gabon in 1958 and her more recent visit in the summer of 1962 to the same will provide a most interesting lecture on "My Ten Days with Dr. Albert Schweitzer."

The divine source of man's intelligence will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Mind" to be heard at Christian Science church services this Sunday.

From the Bible this passage will be read (James 1:5): "If any of you lack wisdom, let him ask of God, that giveth to all men liberally, and upbraideth not; and it shall be given him."

Correlative readings from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include this sentence (p. 506): "Spirit, God, gathers unformed thoughts into their proper channels, and unfolds these thoughts, even as He opens the petals of a holy purpose in order that the purpose may appear."

The Golden Text is from Proverbs (3:5): "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding.

Living With Your Heart

The trouble with taking a vacation to become "a new man", or woman, is that one must do it with the same old body.

After 50 weeks of sedentary living, that body doesn't change at 5 p.m. on the Friday when vacation begins. So it's important not to plunge with dangerous zest into the physical activities you plan during your time away from work, the Massachusetts Heart Association counsels.

For instance, if you're traveling from a moderate to a hot and humid climate, remember weather extremes put more strain on the heart. This makes it all the more important to take it easy for the first two or three days.

En route to your vacation, break up long-distance motor trips with frequent stops. If you are traveling by public transportation and your doctor has placed you on a special diet for a heart condition, mention this when you make your reservations. Most airlines, ships and railroads are prepared to serve appropriate food. Be sure to take along extra supplies of, and prescriptions for any medicine your doctor has ordered. If you take anticoagulant drugs, carry an identification card, obtainable from your Heart Association. They may be important in an emergency.

On vacation, plan activities you know are within your physical capacity. If your plans call for particularly vigorous exercise, visit your physician first, and follow his advice.

While you're on vacation, pay attention to such warning signals as shortness of breath, tired muscles, dizziness or fatigue. It's your physical plant ordering you to slow down.

When temperatures soar, not only on vacation but at home as well, your heart must work harder; it helps cool your body in hot weather as it helps warm you in winter. (Many doctors recommend air-conditioning for their heart patients).

At home or away, here are some Heart Association tips to help you cope with the heat and humidity:

"Try to "think cool" so your mental attitude doesn't add to your body temperature.

When it's uncomfortably hot, forget it if you can, and try not to complain.

Run cool water over the insides of your wrists periodically.

Be careful about your diet. Eat more fresh foods and leafy salads than in the winter; lighter meals with fewer spicy, heavy or fat foods.

Remember that iced drinks can make you feel hotter, not cooler.

Curator of Zoos Speaks to Local MSPCA Chapter

Questions flew fast and furiously and retorts were quick when Mr. Edward Stone, curator of Franklin Park and Stoneham zoos, addressed the Winchester Auxiliary of M. S. P. C. A. last Monday at Mrs. Robert Durfee's Cabot Street home.

"Stoneham Zoo is horrible!" "Franklin Park is worse than Stoneham!" "Why were there large slabs of black meat lying around the lion's cage?" These and similar questions were asked of Mr. Stone. He told the group that Stoneham Zoo is to be torn down, everything but the elephant house, which is to become an aviary. Requests for bids go out in two weeks, so it won't be long now before Stoneham can boast areas of typical natural surroundings for many varieties of its animals. The plans call for a "revolving zoo," which will borrow animals from other zoos, so different fauna may be observed every six weeks or so.

A well-equipped animal hospital with full-time "vet" in charge is in the works for Franklin Park. There, sick and injured zoo animals may be treated. Certain rare varieties may thus be saved for posterity.

As for shabby Stoneham, this place has not received a coat of paint in two years, but that is because it is about to be torn down. Actually conditions in zoos often appear worse than they are, Mr. Stone declared. For instance, one might think "Look at that big lion in that small space; he must be suffering." Really a lion is fairly lazy and if his food is served to him regularly, he'll hardly stir. Why should he?

And the "black meat?" Mr. Stone said the lion at Stoneham Zoo was greatly over-fed, which is as detrimental to beasts as to humans. Now there is a carefully-prepared diet sheet for all the animals at both zoos.

Speaking of diets, especially delicious sandwiches and cookies were served by Mrs. Clifton McNeill and Mrs. Marshall Bassford of the tea committee. Mrs. Dean Carleton and Mrs. Richard Cannon poured.

Friendship Guild

The Friendship Guild of the First Congregational Church will meet Monday, February 25, in Chidley Hall at 6:30 p.m. for a "Pot Luck Supper Meeting." We are very happy to have as our guests this month, members of the Business and Professional Women's Guild.

It is hoped that all members will turn out for this supper meeting and that each will bring a new church friend. Please call Helen Shasta (PA 9-1569) promptly in order that she may give you your food assignment.

The program for the evening will be under the direction of Mrs. Jenness Eugley and Mrs. Frederic Withington. It is based on a "South East Asia Festival Exhibit." The purpose of the exhibit is to give a little of the cultural and human aspect of this part of the world during Lent.

How's About Some Books!

Winchester Rotary wants books for its big auction coming up in April, and there must be a lot of books kicking around houses in Winchester that some one would be glad to buy if they were just displayed where they could be seen.

You never know about books! That little black-letter volume you didn't think so much of may mean a lot to a collector, and the old college trigonometry book may be of real help to some guy trying to get an education on his own.

Now there is no law against giving new books to the auction, but the point is the Rotary boys will take anything between covers, new, second hand, good or bad shape.

The Rotary has lots of calls for books at the auction and would like to be able to do something about these calls. If you have any books kicking around the premises, put them in a pile and call PA 9-4108. You'll get action; will get rid of them in a hurry!

Why not help the Rotary with their book shelf. It is really a worthwhile thing to do since every penny the club takes in at the Town Hall Auction in April goes back to the town in charitable grants to this or that worthy object. Your favorite charity is probably one the club helps regularly so why not give the auction a boost.

Look around for books. Any kind of books. Stack them together. It would help if they were tied, and call PA 9-4108. It's as easy as that!

Pack 506 Annual Blue and Gold Banquet

On February 7th, at 7:30 p.m. Pack 506, Cub Scouts of Winchester, held its annual Blue and Gold banquet at the Unitarian Church hall.

In a delightful setting created by Mrs. Joseph Maspero, ably assited by Mrs. Sten Tullberg, Mrs. Lloyd Butterfield and Mrs. Elaine Holland, the Cub Scouts sat down to a delicious meal, to which full justice was done.

The Rev. Robert A. Storer, minister of the Unitarian Church, opened the proceedings with a short invocation.

Mr. R. J. Dickman, principal of Mystic School, spoke briefly about the importance of Cub Scouting; to complete the evening a film of the 1962 World Series in New York and San Francisco was shown after the dinner was served.

Article 47 Asks Town Hall For MV Children's Clinic

The Mystic Valley Children's Clinic is a public clinic. Two thirds of its total annual budget of about $53,000 being furnished by State monies in accordnace with Chapter 123 of the general laws, (originated in 1922, and amended in 1955) which allows for the establishing of psychiatric children's clinics to serve areas of the State with minimum population definitions. The state provides money through the Department of Mental Health for the professional staffs of these clinics and this department closely regulates the medical and professional qualifications of these staffs.

The remaining one third of the Clinic's budget (made up of the overhead items of rent, non-professional personnel services, etc.) has up until now been sponsored by the United Fund as a health demonstration project to show the results of early and preventive treatment in this field. Inasmuch as the United Fund pilot project is concluding this year, this town, along with the other Mystic Valley towns of Bedford, Lexington, Arlington and Woburn, is being asked to take over its share ($2,500 or less) of this third of the total budget ($12,080) so that service to Winchester children will not terminate.

The legislative authorization for the support of these clinics through town budgets to the amount of money required for overhead expenses is defined in Chapter 124, 40C of the General Laws, passed in 1958.

1. Is there a need for a clinic?

Yes. Boston area child psychiatric services carry very heavy case loads often with long waiting times before treatment is available. In addition, much of their time is tied to research projects which preclude help with many kinds of cases.

2. Is there any evidence that treatment in this clinic has been successful?

Yes. Police juvenile authorities here, contrasting the Clinic's treatment of delinquents with the usual court action, have reported that they have had no repeat offenders among those youngsters sent by them for Clinic help. High School counselors have also reported marked behavior improvement from treatment, including pupils who are no longer disruptive to classes after help.

3. Was this Clinic designed to treat mentally retarded children?

No. Although the areas of mental retardation and emotional disturbances cross in many children, this clinic and the training of its staff was designed to alleviate emotional disturbances in children rather than retardation of organic origin.

4. How much has Winchester used this Clinic?

The 1962 use, not including consultation hours was 318 hours.

5. How will Winchester maintain control over any disbursements to this Clinic?

By representation from the Board of Public Health on the Mystic Valley Board.

6. How are fees for use of the Clinic arrived at?

Ranging from fifty cents to twenty five dollars an hour, fees are decided by income and number of children in the family.

Proponents of this measure have had strong support from police, School and Visiting Nurse administrators who deal continually with children in need of psychiatric help. The Board of Health has also expressed its accord with this state program of regional clinics, and hopes that the Town of Winchester can participate in the Mystic Valley Children's Clinic.

In a medical field as new and little understood as psychiatry, there are bound to be more questions than in, say, the health areas of polio prevention or care of the teeth.

Asked about the value of the Clinic to the town, Mrs. James Wingate of 76 Pond Street, president of the Winchester Mental Health Association, says, "The Clinic provides a kind of preventive service which is diffcult to estimate in worth. If it is successful in its treatment of troubled and or delinquent children, it can save the town many hundreds of dollars in time of School and Police personnel, as well as in private property. In the terms of its potential prevention of serious teen-age or adult emotional breakdown, its lessening of personal misery, work hours lost, alchoholism and many other of the wide areas of mental or emotional problems and illnesses, its worth is hard to put in round figures."

S. O. I. Bowling League

Yale continues to remain on top of the fourteen-team S.O.I. Bowling League after taking eleventh place Notre Dame by a 3-1 score. Capt. Richie Bucci had a big night for the leaders when he rolled 111-114-128 with Hokie Procopio also taking a big hand in the victory with scores of 101-110-97. Both have now bowled over 300 every night out for 20 of the 21 meetings. Notre Dame saw some good bowling by Capt. Dick Tofuri who rolled strings of 128-114-106 and Al Repucci 96-105-107.

Second place Alabama knocked St. Mary's to last place with a clean sweep of 4 points to nothing. Bill Fiore was top performer for the victors hitting for 111-112-81 with Dom Provinzano next to him with 99-93-160. Both of these boys have shown much improvement this year.

For losing St. Mary's old Mingy Frongillo tried to carry the load for his unit but as he says "One man can't do it all." St. Mary's was without the services of Capt. Max LaCarubba and Frank Dattilo because of ailments.

Holy Cross maintains a firm grip on third place while it dropped California from ninth to tenth spot. Capt. Moose Bellino had an excellent night for Holy Cross while knocking the pins over for 96-119-146. Rudy Fiore did fine with 113-118-111, as did Arka Amico 102-104-110 and Phil Ardagno 111-98-90. It should be mentioned that we have now bowled 21 nights and Moose has hit over the 300 mark in 20 of the nights. Nice going Moose! California's top men were Tony Bavuso 112-110-103 and Carl Bertolucci 105-102-113.

Despite the fact Navy defeated Boston College, the latter still stays in fourth place while the victors jumped from eleventh to 8th. Finding the range to sink Boston College were Capt. Choppers Gangi who rolled 114-105-129 and Paul Amico 96-120-99. Boston College's big arms were Capt. John Mangano 91-110-111, Slim Lentine 106-94-104 and Jim Figlioli 86-102-110.

Bates climbed two notches to fifth place after blanking Army who sank from eighth to ninth. Capt. Skitchy Fiore again came through in flying colors for the winners by rolling 148-116-112 which keeps him right up there with Moose in being able to bowl over the 300 mark every meeting but one. Skitchy uses his own ball which might be a factor in his favor. He really has good form and every pin is a must for him.

Bates is loaded with grand performances as shown by Mario Mascioli's 105-113-112, Jake Ciarcia's 113-96-111 and Nick Molea's 117-87-104. Army's Capt. Tony Saraco tried hard to offset the above by rolling excellent strings of 123-100-132 but his teammates failed to total over 278 for three strings.

Sixth place Georgetown defeated next to last place Penn by a 3-1 tally but at least the latter has climbed out of the cellar position. Chick Vespucci had a good night for the Townies with 95-135-112 and Capt. Dick Trabucco did well with 96-115-103. Geri Cerulli was top man for Penn with 107-96-95.

Harvard and Maryland split at two-all making Harvard drop two places to seventh while Maryland retains twelfth spot. Coming closest to 300 for Harvard was Jack MacIsaac who bowled 95-98-102, while Maryland had two going over the mark with Dan Gattineri's 105-95-105 and Capt. Sonny Mistretta's 89-97-117.

Important matches next time out will find first place Yale vs twelfth place Maryland, second place Alabama vs seventh place Harvard and third place Holy Cross vs fourth place Holy Cross. The latter needs to take four points to tie Holy Cross for third notch so it could be the most exciting game of the evening.

K. of C. Bowling League

Last week produced no major changes in the league standings. The Yankees, led by Dick Fiore's 304 total beat the Tabby-Cats, excuse us, Tigers, by a score of 6 to 2. Tom Mullaney was "top cat" with a 276 total.

The Red Sox moved two points off the top as they clobbered the Athletics 8 to 0. Ernie Cantella was the big clean-up man for the Sox with a score of 308. Pat Tofuri with 288 and Dick Burke's 286 were the stand-outs for the A's.

We've heard of some people leaving their bowling shoes home and three Indians did. They also stayed home with the shoes. The result, Angels 8, Indian 0, by forfeit. High score in this no contest was 275 for Jim Caulfield of the Indians. Dick Tofuri was archangel with a 272 score.

The Senators clipped the Orioles' wings by an 8-0 score, as the big bird, Capt. Charlie Doherty was among the missing. Charlie Riordan had the floor for the Senators with a 282 total, while Danny Callahan was flight leader for the Orioles at 272.

The Twins moved up to fifth by bombing the White Sox, 8 to 0. Bob Fiore at 329, Bill Sullivan's 308 and Bob Stevenson's 299 led the Twins, while Frank Rolli and Charlie Doucette at 278 and 273 respectively, were high for the White Sox.

Attendance prize was won by Bill Gibbons of the Tigers.

See you at the minstrel show!

Tonight's schedule finds the Yankees and Indians matched up, the Red Sox fighting off the Twins, the Angels versus the Senators, the Orioles meeting the Athletics and the Tigers taking on the White Sox. Hope to see you there.

The raffle was a huge success. Cusi, Ann Gerade and Terry Walsh and Kay Pizzo won prizes. Thanks go to the men for buying so many tickets, and Rose DeTeso and Jean DiDonati for their donations and help in obtaining prizes.

Lillian Ciarcia went crazy with the strikes and spares for her string of 115 and high triple of 276. Gosh, Lillian, we are so glad that you found yourself. See if you cant keep it up.

We are going to discuss the Luckies this week. Hope "Charlie" is ready. Captain Emma Blanda has a ball on Wednesday nights. Wish we could all be that happy. Did you ever see such a curve? Eleanor Lucci, does sticking the little finger out help you get such good scores?

Vi Bruno had the makings of a darn good bowler until she got that "pain in the neck." Rest up for next year, Vi, we will expect you back. Laura Dattilo, you're so quiet we hardly know you're there. We are so glad to have such a lovely person with us. Pauline Cerulli, so glad your bowling is improving. You have such a pleasing personality it's a pleasure to know you.

Next week we will be discussing the Springs.

Winchester Over Waltham 58-46 In Bay State Tourney

With Capt. Jim Devaney and Vic Papadinis shouldering the scoring burden Winchester High's basketball team advanced to the second round in Class A of the Bay State Tourney Monday night defeating Waltham 58-46 at Fitzgerald School gym in Cambridge.

Devaney and Papadinis accounted for 41 of Winchester's 58 points as the former registered 23 points and the latter 18.

Winchester led Waltham at every checkpoint by 14-5, 24-19 and 41-37 scores. The Sachems led from the opening buzzer but had to repell a fourth quarter Waltham surge in order to win.

The Sachems grabbed an 8 point lead early in the first quarter when Devaney hit on three straight jump shots. Good defense by Winchester held Waltham to 5 points.

In the second quarter the Watch City cagers zeroed in on Winchester's basket. With Johnny Peacock providing the scoring spark on his outside shooting Waltham drew to within three points of the Sachems just before the half closed.

Bill Judkins kept Waltham in the game in the third period as he came up with 10 points to singlehandedly prevent the Sachems from stretching their lead beyond three points. Bob Watson, who had nine points for the night, came up with key baskets for Winchester to cancel out Judkin's efforts to put his mates ahead.

At the three minute mark of the last period Winchester clamped a full court press on the Watch City five that completely disrupted their offense.

The Sachems took full advantage of Waltham's frustrated attempts to put the ball in play against the press by gaining possession of the ball in Waltham's backcourt. Vic Papadinis delivered the killing blows when he hit on three straight shots to put Winchester ahead 58-43 with 58 seconds to play.

Reading Upsets Sachems, 4-2

It was a real upset. Winchester led 2-1 at the end of period one, with Bob Murray scoring two within 25 seconds.

The home team lost Barry Johnson, league leading scorer, in the first period when he was cut in the face. He was taken to the Lynn Hospital for treatment and 15 stitches were taken to close the cut. They were also without goalie Gerry Hills, just out of the hospital, and Tom Johns, who broke his arm in last week's Watertown game.

Allan Buros At Hockey Defense For New Hampton

Allan, a senior at New Hampton, has contributed significantly to the team's defense with his fine stickwork and solid checking. Injured early in the season, Buros has returned to hold up the New Hampton defensive effort again. Coach Charles Howard expects much from him before the season ends.

Buros has played only one year of varsity level hockey. He was the captain of the Junior Varsity squad last year. Besides playing hockey, Allan is a member of the Math Club. Last fall he played soccer and in the spring he plays tennis.

J. H. Winn	6	26	5373

The Atlantic Gelatin defeated J. H. Winn by 101 pins in a match that sent them ahead of the standing. Bud Nash 98-114-114 for 325 and Steve Ganley 88-111-119 for 318 led the Gelatin, as their little anchor and big anchor man fell by the wayside. Ralph Jury with 95-98-117 for 310 continues to climb as he rolled the strings he is accustomed to record, but it was a losing cause.

Grandma's Teeth bumped heads with the 49ers in what was to be the match of the week, and it was. The 49ers rolled a 538 to 481 for Grandma's Teeth and thought they were home free, but Grandma's Teeth took over from them, and with a 514 to 536, pulled six points to stay up close to first place. Art Leanos 315, B. Sipp 314 and Joe Consalves, the most consistent team bowler with a 332, held off the 49ers. B. Wilson curved a 324 and B. Letteri 305 for the losers, could not get their team in high gear after a fabulous start.

The Post Office are in contention as they downed the Giant Killers 6 to 2. Ken Griswold 318 and Len Landry 301, offset the prowess of Philip Dresser who had a 308, his best effort to date, as he tried vainly to propel his Giants to the top in this series.

The Mill Hillers, from the Upper Aberjona, pushed the Hoboes under the bridge, but they ran scared the whole evening. Fred Kimball and Elwood Fuller with 308 and 304 were the Hillers guns as the Hoboes slid out of sight after a good start in round one.

Strike Lanes was the man on the hill as they dealt the Converse a blow in the "battle of the building" of which they live. The score Strike Lanes 1393 to Converse 1356.

Richey Smith was the lead-off man with 96-108-102 for 306 as he spearheaded his team to a six to two victory.

St. Mary's lost, won, tried, and fell short as the Brothers-in-law maintained an edge 1422 to 1341. A. Fiorilli 301 and A. Buzzotta 323 displayed form to outclass J. Caulfield, who is starting to hit them as he should with a 303.

St. Mary's Takes St. Catherine's In Six Overtimes

It took six nervewracking, sudden death overtime periods to decide the winner of last week's quarter-final playoff between St. Mary's of Winchester and St. Catherine's of Norwood.

It was Frank Manzie's clutch goal at the 3:50 mark of the sixth overtime that finally put an end to the two-and-a-quarter-hour contest. Prior to this, however, it was the superb goaltending of Paul McCarthy coupled with the stellar performance of defensemen Griffin and Fucillo that kept the Norwood club off the scoreboard save for a single well-deserved tally in the second period on which the entire Norwood first line combined to stuff the puck past McCarthy, who had no chance on the play.

With the contest stalemated at one goal apiece, the opposing coaches locked horns in a strategy contest with Falla electing to go with his starting six of McCarthy, Griffin, Fucillo, Cunningham, Stabile, and Manzie, while the Norwoor mentor persisted in frequent line changes and substitutes.

On the first two overtime periods St. Catherine's appeared to have a slight edge in play but McCarthy closed the door in their faces with some of his best saves of the year, and by the start of the third extra stanza it was apparent that Norwood had shot its bolt.

During the remainder of the contest, St. Mary's bombarded the Norwood cage only to be frustrated by the brilliant play of the Norwood netminder. Finally, in the sixth, and last, sudden death period Dennis Griffin boomed a shot into the corner, hustling John Stabile quickly retrieved the puck and fed it out to Frank Manzie, who slapped it into the Norwood cage to give St. Mary's its most exciting win since last year's overtime championship.

In the third period of regulation play it appeared that Norwood had the winner when a low shot broke off McCarthy's stick and appeared to be headed for the net when co-Captain Dennis Griffin took a headlong dive at the rolling puck in an attempt to smother it. The disc amazingly eluded Griffin but was finally grabbed by McCarthy, who dove over the prostrate Griffin and gloved the disc just a fraction of an inch from the goal line.

While Manzie and McCarthy stole the show the magnificent performances of Griffin, Cunningham, Stabile, and Fucillo cannot be ignored; all played integral roles in the victory.

Next week's semi-final contest pits undefeated St. Agnes of Arlington against twice-beaten St. Mary's with face-off time scheduled for 1:00 p.m. Sunday afternoon.

Middlesex Hockey League News

The Middlesex Hockey League concludes its fourth season this week with two rounds of games scheduled for the North Shore Sports Center, Lynn. The first round is scheduled for Tuesday at 2 p.m. and the league has its finale Saturday afternoon at 1 p.m.

League leader Belmont, seeking its first crown, faces sixth place Watertown on Tuesday and third place Wakefield Saturday. Belmont can clinch the title with a win and a tie.

Belmont enjoys a two point edge over second place Melrose. If Melrose is victorious over fifth place Stoneham Tuesday and seventh place Reading Saturday, it would finish the season with 23 points.

Belmont can clinch a tie for first place with a win and a loss or capture the title with two wins or a win and a tie.

Wakefield was eliminated from the State Hockey tournament Saturday when it lost to Melrose, 4 to 1. Belmont already has qualified and Melrose can qualify with either a win or a tie. It's almost a certainty that Belmont and Melrose will represent the Middlesex Hockey League in the State Tourney which opens at Boston Arena next Tuesday.

Barry Johnson of Winchester retains his leadership in the individual scoring race with 24 points (eight goals, 16 assists). Johnson's linemate Ed Cutting moved into second place (22 points) and Melrose's Paul Hurley is in third place with 20 points.

VFW Post 3719 Auxiliary Bowling

The Spades moved up into first place this week after winning four points. The Diamonds one point win dropped them into second place. It really is a close race however. The Hearts are only one win behind the Diamonds. The Clubs have had a terrible run of bad luck, but remember all you Clubs, in the beginning the Spades were in the cellar for a long time and then they started to win and haven't stopped yet.

Magda's 111 is high single for this week. Two bowlers, Ruth and Eleanor, almost made 100, they each only needed one more pin to make it. Magda also had high total with her 273, Phyllis was second with 270 and Barbara's 259 was third.

Ruth's spares were just too much for Stina. Lucky you had your sweater on Stina. They just don't make seams like they used to.

Nellie, you did wonderfully well this week, keep it up. Mary is another much improved bowler. Good for you, Mary. Lib had some spares this week for a change. That's a lovely curve you throw, Lib, it just needs a little more control to make it really pay off.

The standings:

Hearts	14	10	7085

Winchester Comes from Behind To Tie Watertown, 4-4

In an exciting game of hockey at the North Shore Sports Center last Saturday afternoon, Winchester came for a 1-4 deficit in the final period to tie Watertown, 4-4.

The Sachems got a bad break at the end of the first period when Tommy Johns, star defenseman, broke a wrist and had to be removed from action. This forced Coach Frank Finigan to shuffle his defense, using Bobby Murray from the second line and moving Ed Cutting and Barry Johnson to defense when the second line was on the ice.

The loss of Johns was probably the difference since it was defensive lapses that hurt most during the remainder of the game. However, Winchester was further handicapped for Watertown by the loss of goalie Gerry Hills, who was in the hospital with a tonsilectomy.

Ricky Connor filled in for Hills in the nets and did a good job, but Johns' loss really hurt.

Watertown scored first at 1:43 of the opening period. Bob Morahan grabbed the puck behind the Wincehster net and passed out to Paul Williams. Paul shoved the puck along to twin brother Dick, the Winchester defense collapsed at this point and Dick Williams' shot was screened from Connor and in the Winchester net.

At 7:56 Morahan scored from a melee in front of the Winchester net, slapping in a back-hander that just hit the side of the cage.

The Sachems scored first in the second period. Barry Johnson picked up the puck in the Watertown corner and passed out to Gorge Murphy who slammed it into the Watertown net.

At nine minutes of the second period Dick Williams scored again with assists by Morahan and Paul Williams. This goal resulted from Wincehster's failure to cover a man in front of the net. At 9:15 Camposano sank a long shot that just found the Winchester net.

Facing a 1-4 deficit, Winchester came back with a bang in the final stanza, Cutting scoring in 21 seconds. George Murphy controlled the face-off and passed across to Barry Johnson at right wing. Barry went in over the blue line and hit Cutting with a pretty pass behind the Watertown defense, and Cutting slammed home a high shot in the right hand corner.

Winchester was controlling the puck at this point and scored again at 3:28. Ed Cutting passed the puck back to Vic Lawson at the point, and Lawson let one go from the blue line that just went past the gloved hand of the Watertown netminder.

Winchester continued to control play and had several scoring shots but couldn't get one by the Watertown goaler in the time remaining. Watertown, one of the favorites to start the season, played its best game of the year against the Sachems.

The summary:

One Eagle Scout, Other Awards At Troop 503 Court

On Monday night, last week, a parents night was held at the First Congregational Church to conduct a Court of Honor for scout troop 503. The conclusion and high light of the evening was the bestowing of an Eagle Badge, one of the highest awards in scouting, to Steve Butterfield.

"Steve has worked many years for his Eagle and has done a fine job. More than this, it's a real tribute to his parents, his church and others who have worked with him. Certainly Steve's achievements will be an inspiration to all Scouts and we hope to see more boys from Troop 503 get their Eagle Badge." These were the comments of Mr. Arthur Bonney, executive member of the Minute Man Council, who handed the award to Mrs. Lloyd Butterfield. She, then, presented it to her son, Steve. Mrs. Butterfield also received a small gold eagle pin which she may wear as an emblem of her son's achievements.

Charles Irwin, a Merit Badge for Camping.

This is Charles Irwins twenty-first merit badge, and he now is being processed by the Council for the Eagle award.

The Boy Scout Troop also had some awards and these were presented to the boys by their Scoutmaster, Mr. C. A. Allen.

Tenderfoot to James Wheeler and Richard Bower.

Mr. Robert Ericson briefly described the activities of an Explorer Post. He also explained the benefits to a boy from membership in this organization.

For the group of approximately 50 boys and their parents, it was an eventful night. A film was shown entitled "The Face of Lincoln." Finally, refreshments were enjoyed by all, and Scoutmaster Allen sent the parents on their way with one more request, "Let's have more Eagle Scouts from troop No. 503.

Prior to the meeting, thirty-four of the boys went to Camp Fellsland on an over-night hike. Although, it was very cold, many of the boys were able to pass some of the requirements for their second and first class tests. At the same time, there was a hockey game and many other activities to keep them busy during their week-end trip.

The second door prize, dinner for two at the Hearthside Room at the Hotel Kenmore, donated by Mr. Al Longo, was won by Mr. Thomas Dowd of Penn Road. Committee members were Mrs. Frederick Lindberg, chairman; Decorations Mrs. J. Irving Rawding, Mrs. Donald Senna, Mrs. Marie Barratta, Mrs. Salvador Porras, Mrs. Ed. Rotary Asks Help For Popular Auction

Come Spring, and the good Winchester housewives will be overhauling their manifest in the cellar and attic to see what they can do without. Some of them have even started all ready, and it is to them and to those of you who will soon be taking a "look see" in those spots where skultch collects that this appeal is addressed.

There is always a lot of stuff "down cellar" or "up attic" that you could jolly well do without, even be better off if it wasn't taking up room around the house. There is that big picture of Uncle Homer, you know the one with the huge gilded frame. You don't want it, but some one at the Rotary Auction will go home all smiles if you give it to the Rotarians.

Or there is that funny little table with the three legs. You never liked it and you know you have kept it long enough so those that gave it to you for a wedding present have forgotten all about it. Send that along, and if the whole thing is a bit on the wobbly side, due to one of the legs being on the ostrofagus, as Bob Sullivan used to say, don't let that bother you.

There are all sorts of wood working experts in the Rotary ranks, led by Syd and Al Elliott, stout fellers, who stand ready to put your contribution in top hole shape before a single "what-am-I-offered" is heard in the hall.

Well, you begin to get the idea! There is stuff in your house, you and yours no longer cherish. Matter of fact, you'd be real glad to be rid of it! That's just the point! The Rotary is just hurting all over for that sort of merchandise for its big auction in April.

Look your stuff over and pick out what you don't want any more. Then call Syd Elliott, PA 9-2965; Al Elliott, PA 9-0874; Charlie Murphy, PA 9-2696, or Johnny Wilson PA 9-1566. Some one will respond in a hurry, and you'll have that pleasant feeling that comes from giving a good cause a big boost.

Ther are few charities in Winchester the Rotary isn't mixed up in, and the only way they have to raise funds to give to these worthy projects is at the Rotary Auction. But if Rotary kept every penny of the funds raised at the auction, it would still be well worth helping, as a community venture. Every body goes to the auction, enjoys meeting their friends, tarries over the luncheon and downright enjoys the big baked bean dinner in the evening.

There is more fun and cheap talk at a Rotary Auction than anywhere else you can figure, and when you stop to think that every nickle the Rotary takes in at the town hall goes out again in civic enterprises for charities that desperately need a helping hand, then why wait any longer?

That stuff in the attic and cellar has been there long enough, hasn't it! Why not pick up the phone and get it a good home. You'll be twice as happy. Once on your own account by getting yourself a lot of room that is a darned sight better than the stuff that was filling it, and twice, because you will be helping one of the most worth-while charities in Winchester

Unfavorable Action Recommended On Public Works Board

The five-man study committee appointed by the Town Moderator to investigate possible advantages or disadvantages in adopting that part of General Law 41 which permits the Town to establish a three-man Board of Public Works has released its report recommending unfavorable Town Meeting action on the adoption of such a board as set forth in the state law.

While registering oppostion to a three-man Board of Public Works, the committee said it might have been more favorably disposed if a five-man board had been under consideration.

The main reasons given by the committee for its decision against a three-man Board of Public Works were that the committee was not unanimously in agreement that there was a basic need for such a board, that a three-man board could be susceptible to the rise of a single man's rulership, and that the work load on the three men would be greater than that now dispersed among many citizens who at present contribute their time and effort on a volunteer basis to the independent boards and commissions.

In making its recommendation to the town the committee offered several suggestions for improving present administrative processes within the existing framework of town operation. Included recommendations were a program for a central maintenance for all town owned vehicles for repairs, inspection, lubrication and preventive maintenance, a program for strong and forceful supervision to effect better utilization of available manpower, and that town officials should promote and insist on more cooperation between deparments for use of equipment and services.

At the request of the committee, the complete text of the Public Works Study Committee Report to the 1963 annual Town Meeting is printed below to inform the townspeople on its findings.

"The 1962 Town Meeting voted under Article 61 to adopt a motion that the moderator appoint a committee of five members to consider the advisability of the acceptance by the town of the provisions of Section 69C to 69F inclusive of Chapter 41 of the General Laws, and of matters in connection with the establishment of a Board of Public Works, and that this committee report back to the next annual town meeting with recommendations.

"This committee was duly appointed, organized, and has met approximately every two weeks since its inception. The committee has met with the elected boards administrating the various town services which would be affected by a Public Works consolidation. We have investigated the situations in other towns commensurate with Winchester in population, area and general conditions that are operating at the present time with a Public Works Board, or that have operated in the past under this type of program. We have examined the budgets of the various departments in an effort to determine what savings, if any, could be effected by a consolidation of services. We have taken particular notice of the every day operations of these departments and of the individuals involved. We have heard the views and opinions of the elected officials, department heads, and of many interested citizens, and these views and opinions have been varied and conflicting, but all were offered with good intentions, and the cooperation and interest displayed was most helpful and was greatly appreciated.

WHS Bomb Scare, False Fire Alarm Slows School Day

More than 1,000 Winchester Senior High School students, teachers, and administrative personnel were forced to evacuate the High School building just before classes began Tuesday morning after an unidentified caller telephoned the principal's office and said "There is a bomb in the school.

Howard Niblock, principal of the High School, sounded the school's fire alarm to abandon the building and called the Fire Department.

The Fire Department received Mr. Niblock's call for aid at 7:57, and immediately sent an engine, a rescue truck, and eight men to the school to search the premises to either locate any explosives or declare the situation a hoax so that the school could return to its daily routine.

The students stayed outside the building for about 20 minutes without topcoats in approximately 10-degree above zero temperature while the firefighters combed the school's auditorium. The students then went to the auditorium to wait for a half hour while the search continued through the rest of the school.

In the meantime, at 8:01 a.m., the police had received a call from what was described as a young man's disguised voice saying: "A bomb will go off in the High School today." Patrol cars 51, 52 and 53 were dispatched to the scene to assist the firefighters.

THE CANDIDATES AND THE VOTERS got together under the auspices of the League of Women Voters Tuesday evening. About 250 citizens heard some of the candidates speak and had a chance to talk with others. At the rostrum in photo is school committee candidate Lawrence Beckley. To the right at table, moderator for the evening, Leonard Mead, vice-president and provost of Tufts University. Seated are candidates for school committeeman, selectman, planning board, library trustee and commissioner of trusts. Mrs. Leslie DeGroot, chairman of LWV voters' service, chaired the meeting. Coffee and talk at precinct tables concluded it.

Finance Comm. Will Hold Public Hearing

The Finance Committee will hold a special public hearing at the McCall Junior High School auditorium on Monday, March 11, at 7:30 p.m., to review Article 8 in the Town Meeting Warrant, dealing with the town's budgets.

The forum-type meeting will be the first of its kind sponsored by the Finance Committee in many years. The purpose of the meeting is to acquaint and enlighten both present and newly elected Town Meeting Members, as well as any interested citizens who attend with background information and facts on the town's departmental and board budgets for 1963. It is also hoped, the committee said, that the special meeting will help speed up the Town Meeting procedures and avoid delays that have caused the lengthiness of the meetings in the past several years.

The committee will go through the budgets piecemeal, explaining and discussing them, and also going over the reasons why the committee made the recommendations it did regarding them. (The Town Meeting Members are scheduled to receive the Finance Committee's annual report on Thursday, March 7.) The committee said that after the budgets are discussed, it will then be available for questions from the floor regarding either the budgets or any other Warrant articles.

Tonight Is Lights On For Education Across the State

Lights On For Education will shine in the schools and along the streets of communities all across the state tonight according to reports pouring in to the Massachusetts Educational Conference Board this week. The statewide demonstration is sponsored by the 200,000 school committee members, superintendents, principals, teachers, PTA members, and state college faculties, whose statewide associations are members of the Conference Board, in order to call public attention to the financial needs of the public schools.

Citizens are invited to join in the "Lights On" demonstration by keeping outside lights on during the period of 8:00 to 11:00 o'clock, said the board's chairman, Mrs. Edward F. Ryan of Manchester. All citizens are urged to join in the meetings expected to be held in each town that evening to discuss school budgets and the effects of a new state-support program both in better educational opportunity and relief of the property tax in hard-pressed towns and cities.

Legislation for a new method of state support to local schools (House 1781) has been filed by the Massachusetts Educational Conference Board on behalf of its member organizations: Massachusetts Association of School Committees, Massachusetts Association of School Superintendents, Massachusetts Congress of Parents and Teachers, Massachusetts Elementary School Principals Association, Massachusetts Junior High School Principals Association, Massachusetts Secondary School Principals Association, Massachusetts State College Association, and Massachusetts Teachers Association.

Over $2,000 Taken From Local Home As Occupants Ski

Police estimate that over $2,000 in valuables and money was stolen from a South Gateway home over the weekend of February 15 to 18 when a thief broke into a window at the front of the house and ransacked every room while the occupants were away on a skiing trip.

Among the articles taken were necklaces, earrings, bracelets, pins, watches, gold cuff links, a diamond ring, two radios, six bottles of liquor and $300 in cash. Most of the expensive jewelry taken were Dior fashions.

The homeowner reported to police that Wednesday and Thursday nights of that week, before the family left for New Hampshire, they received telephone calls at the home. When they answered the telephone the party on the other end hung up.

The break was first discovered by a paperboy. He told a next door neighbor that he had seen a broken window at the home and suggested calling the police.

When police investigated they discovered that every room had been thoroughly ransacked.

1963 Local Tax Rate Estimate Of Finance Committee: $70.80; Depends On Town Meeting Votes

The Finance Committee estimates that the tax rate for 1963 will be $70.80, if the recommendations of the committee on the town budgets and the special articles in the Town Warrant are voted by the Town Meeting. This is the same tax rate as last year; thus, if all of the Finance Committee's recommendations are followed by the voting of the Town Meeting Members, there should be no increase in the Winchester tax rate this year.

The Town Assessors won't be able to determine an exact rate until late spring or early summer, the Finance Committee noted, because it will take that time to figure in the amounts of money appropriated at the Town Meeting with the assessed valuations. However, the Finance Committee has made the estimate on the 1963 tax rate according to available figures.

One problem the committee met in making the tax estimate this year which has not been the case in previous years was the lack of a "cherry sheet" from the state. The cherry sheet is an accounting by the State of all monies collected by the Town and given to the State for poll, auto, and income taxes. It also lists all returns and disbursements by the State to the Town as its share of the taxes collected from the Town and from other sources of State revenues. Included in the cherry sheet are deductions made by the State for Winchester assessments for MDC water, MDC parks and MDC sewerage, a Middlesex County Tax, and a fee for the Tuberculosis Hospital District.

This is the first year that the Town has not received a cherry sheet from the State before the usual February 18 deadline. The reason, according to James Costello, town accountant, is that Governor Peabody appointed a new chairman of the Tax Commissioners Board and he has required more time to study the present situation and figures, as well as in studying the Governor's tax revision program.

Since the cherry sheet has not been received, the Finance Committee in making their tax rate figure estimated probable disbursements and assessments from the State according to last year's cherry sheet, and included it in the figures allotted for the Town budgets, the (committee) recommended special articles in the Town Warrant, other Town accounting figures and the estimated assessed valuations by the Assessors for next year. From this complex of account estimates the committee reached its $70.80 taxe rate figure for 1963.

Planning Board OK's New Boundary Plans

At a special Monday night meeting the Planning Board accepted and signed a revised engineer's plan for the Birch Knoll development. The revised plans will be noted with the modified changes by the engineer, Harry R. Feldman, and recorded at the Middlesex Registry of Deeds. The original map, which was filed seven years ago and which contained about a dozen incorrect boundary lines on Pocahontas Drive and Mayflower Road house lots, will be stamped to show that there is a revised subdivision map plan of the area with boundary changes.

Joseph Gray, chairman of the Planning Board, said that the board will prepare boundary line agreements which will be submitted to the owners of the nine house lots affected by the changed boundary line. It will then be up to the owners to execute the agreements, and it will require all nine signatures to make a single boundary adjustment for the area. The new boundary line will be officially recorded, if accepted by the homeowners, and they will all then have corrected property titles.

Mr. Gray said that the acceptance by the nine homeowners of the new boundary line agreements would be the simplest and best method of correcting the actual land situation to conform to the revised map changes, both for the property owners involved and for the Town.

If there are no boundary line agreements, Mr. Gray said, any contemplated resale of their properties by the homeowners might run into some difficulties. He noted that the counsel for any prospective buyer would search the title and see the boundary line problem at the registry. If there are no corrected maps showing the modifications and the agreements, then there is the possibility that this would entail both delay and added cost in the selling process to try and straighten it out on a piecemeal basis between one homeowner and a prospective buyer.

Approximately 15 persons, including eight of the nine property owners directly affected by the revised map, appeared at the board's special meeting by invitation, along with Vincent Clarke, town counsel, Mr. Feldman, the engineer for the development, and Stanley Rokenetz, attorney for the Mass. Development Trust.

The concerned Birch Knoll development property owners were informed that after the errors were discovered by the Town Engineering Department in the fall of 1961, Mr. Feldman prepared revised plans for the area and even individual plans of the lots affected.

Board of Health Explains Reasons On Recent Closure

Peter Marchesi, owner and operator of the Swanton Street Delicatessen, appeared before the Board of Health Monday evening as a result of events which closed down his establishment for one and one half days on February 13.

During the course of the evening, Dr. Harry L. Wildasin, board chairman, explained that "this place isn't the kind of establishment that should have the reputation of being closed down by the Board of Health" and that he had invited Mr. Marchesi before the board in order to have a meeting of minds which he hoped would preclude any further action by the Board relative to the delicatessen.

Dr. Wildasin reiterated throughout the session that the restaurant had not been closed for any reason due to its condition, but because of lack of cooperation with the board on one occasion. And he told Mr. Marchesi that the board and its agents has no choice, when refused permission to inspect any premises, but to presume that there may be a health hazard present there. He also pointed up that such refusal on the part of any victualer in town would always bring the result of an immediate closure.

Personnel Board Ask 3% General Pay Rise

The Personnel Board is recommending a general across the board 3% pay increase to all town employees at the annual Town Meeting, according to the official report released by the board.

In other recommendations to the Town Meeting, regarding Warrant articles affecting personnel, the board has said it will advocate unfavorable action for Police Department increases (other than the 3%), unfavorable action for the 48 hour work-week for fire personnel, but favorable action for four weeks vacation to employees serving the Town for 20 years or more.

As background for its wage and salary recommendations for a 3% across-the-board hike to town employees, the Personnel Board noted U. S. Department of Labor statistics for the Boston area as of October, 1962, saying that office clerical salaries have increased 2.7% in a one-year period, that average earnings for skilled maintenance workers have increased 3.5% and unskilled plant workers 3.4%. The board also noted that the cost of living index has increased 1.7% over the past year.

The Personnel Board said that it had conducted a wage survey comparing the same basic occupations in Winchester to 15 other communities of similar population, area, or standards. These communities include Andover, Arlington, Concord, Danvers, Hingham, Melrose, Milton, Natick, Needham, Reading, Watertown, Wakefield, Wellesley and Weymouth.

The board said that its studies showed that 13 of the 15 other towns were recommending general increases. One town is recommending no increase, and another has not yet reached any conclusion. The recommended increases vary from 2% to 5% for the town employees. (The board footnoted that the accuracy of its forecasts in previous years has been consistently high.)

Charts prepared by the board show that Winchester's 1962 wage and salary schedules are below the "middle positions" the board tries to maintain as a policy in all of six categories. With the 3% increase, the board estimates, Winchester employees will rise in relative position from near the bottom of the scales to just below the middle position in the categories of junior clerks, principal clerks, laborers, and foremen, and to just above the middle position in the categories of patrolmen and firefighters, and police sergeants and fire lieutenants.

The League Town Affairs Committee, under the chairmanship of Mrs. John W. Arthur Erwin Butters

Arthur Erwin Butters of 16 Park Avenue, retired head of the Mathematics Department of Winchester High School and a resident of Winchester for nearly 45 years, died Tuesday morning, February 26, at the Winchester Hospital after a short illness.

ARTHUR ERWIN BUTTERS

Mr. Butters was the son of Charles, and Gertrude L. (Howard) Butters. He was born November 18, 1893, in Old Town, Me., and was graduated from the University of Maine in 1916.

For 42 years Mr. Butters successfully taught mathematics at Winchester High School and received high praise for the quality of his instruction, especially among students in the college field. He had headed the department since 1937 until his retirement two years ago.

Since his retirement he had served as executive director of the Francis Ouimet Caddy Scholarships available for worthy boys who needed assistance with their college financing.

Mr. Butters was identified with Boy Scouting and headed the activity of Winchester Council before it became a member of Fellsland Council. A fine all around sportsman, he played a good game of golf and enjoyed curling and horseshoes and appreciated to the full the repartee that was a large part of the game as it was played at Palmer Beach.

For many years Mr. Butters spent his summers at Bayside, Me. where he was active in boating, being especially proud of the trophy he won for boat racing.

He was a member of the First Congregational Church, the Winchester Country Club and William Parkman Lodge of Masons. A veteran of World War I, he was a first lieutenant in the artillery, teaching mathematics. Flags on the Common and Town Buildings were displayed at half-staff in his honor.

Mr. Butters leaves his wife, the former Margaret Carleton; a son, Arthur E. Butters, Jr., of Norridgewock, Me.; and three grandchildren. He came to Winchester in January of 1919 and had lived on Park Avenue for 38 years.

Funeral services will be held this Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Ripley Chapel of the First Congregational Church with the minister, Dr. Dwight L. Cart, officiating. Burial will be in Wildwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Winifred Alice Bennett

Mrs. Winifred Alice Bennett of 7 Ardley Road, widow of Howard L. Bennett and a long time resident of Winchester, died in her sleep early Sunday morning at her home.

Mrs. Bennett was the daughter of Samuel, and Lillie S. (Choate) Butterfield. She was born in 1881 in East Lexington, but grew up in Winchester and married Mr. Bennett here September 22, 1903. She lived for many years on Highland Avenue, and then on Hancock Street before moving to Ardley Road 20 years ago. She was a member of the First Congregational Church and of its Ladies Sewing group. Mr. Bennett died January 16, 1945.

Surviving are two sons, Nelson Bennett of St. John, N. B., formerly of Lexington, and Gordon Bennett, formerly of Winchester, now living in New Zealand; also six grandchildren.

Services were held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Norris Chapel with Dr. Dwight L. Cart, minister of the First Congregational Church, officiating. After cremation burial will take place in Wildwood Cemetery.

He also showed his enterprise in the way he rebuilt the old Lyceum Building after the big fire there at Christmas time in 1950.

A veteran of World War I, with overseas service, he was a member of Winchester Post, 97, the American Legion, serving the post as vice commander and as welfare officer of the Post, a position he held for many years until his death. Flags on the common ahd town buildings were displayed at half-staff in his honor.

Mr. Foley was a member of Winchester Council, 210, Knights of Columbus; of Winchester Lodge 1445, B. P. O. E.; of St. Mary's Holy Name Society and The Winchester Country Club.

Mass. Political Action for Peace

A new political organization was formed here Tuesday night when a group of local citizens met at the home of Mrs. Karl Terzaghi of 3 Robinson Circle to form the Winchester unit of the recently founded Massachusetts Political Action for Peace. At the meeting Mrs. Terzaghi was elected chairman; Mrs. C. S. Davis of 7 Ravine Road secretary; Mrs. Thos. Wilber of 76 Woodside Road, publicity coordinator.

Massachusetts Political Action for Peace (PAX), a non-partisan political committee, is an outgrowth of the recent Congressional campaign of H. Stuart Hughes, William Hefner and Elizabeth Boardman. Mr. Hughes, a professor of History at Harvard, ran for the U. S. Senate as an Independent candidate against Edward Kennedy and George Lodge; Hefner was the Democratic candidate for Congress from the 1st District; and Mrs. Boardman was narrowly defeated in the primary for the Republican nomination from the 3rd District. All three ran on platforms which stressed the dangers of the current arms race. The new group, PAX, will attempt to place the arms race at the center of the political arena, through a variety of methods. Among them are:

—contact with incumbent legislators to make them aware of existing sentiment for peace and to inform them of current thinking on peaceful ways of resolving East-West conflicts.

—support of candidates for major office within the Democratic and Republican parties or as Independents.

—introduction of bills to the General Court on matters relating to the arms race. Currently the group has five bills before the Legislature, among which are a proposal to establish a commission to study the levels and effects of radiation from all sources, including nuclear fallout, and a proposal for a state commission to study the extent to which the Massachusetts economy is dependent on arms contracts and the potential economic effects of disarmament.

PAX, which has its headquarters in Cambridge at 18 Brattle Street, has approximately 1500 active participants, organized by town, city and Congressional district. Chairman of the executive committee is Jerome Grossman of Waban, immediate past president of the Newton Council of Parent-Teacher Associations and delegate to the 1962 Democratic State Convention; vice chairman is Sumner Rosen of Boston, a professor of Economics at Simmons College; the secretary is Chester Hartman and the treasurer is H. A. Crosby Forbes, both of Cambridge.

Dr. Wildasin reviewed the correspondence from the Board to Mr. Marchesi prior to the latter's opening in December, and reminded him that he had been requested to notify the board before this time. Mr. Marchesi replied that he signed many things without always understanding their exact content and that he perhaps had not entirely understood the requests, requirements and operating ways of the board.

Mr. Marchesi also allowed that he had grown impatient with the inspectors and was sorry that he had become so "ired up," as to tell a representative of the agency to get out of the establishment.

Mr. Marchesi, felt, among other things, that it was unnecessarily embarassing and "in bad taste" for agency members to come in at meal time and inspect the cleanliness of forks and plates in front of customers. Dr. Wildasin replied that the agency makes inspections once a month and makes a point of trying to be present at a busy time at least once a year in each place.

Mr. Bill Lionetta of Hemingway Street, brother-in-law of Mr. Marchesi, accompanied him for the evening, and the meeting with the baord concluded with a shaking of hands all around.

Present for the Board in addition to Dr. Wildasin were Richard F. Norris and Michael Saraco, Health Agent.

The school was declared safe by the protective agencies and the students returned to their classes.

The last such bomb hoax in Winchester occurred on January 31, 1961. After a police investigation, two local High School students were apprehended and given one-year probationary terms by the Woburn District Court.

One police official speculated that the Winchester bomb scare this time could be from the same person who has made six Woburn scare calls in the past few months. In any event, the official said, the Police Department will investigate every possible source of the call and will prosecute the offender if he is caught. He also noted that with the rash of calls recently, the Woburn Court will be likely to impose a stricter penalty on whoever is interfering with the public safety than in the past, even with a juvenile offender.

The penalty for violation of Chapter 269 of the General Laws, Section 14, reads: "Whoever, knowing the same to be false, transmits or causes to be transmitted to any person by telephone or other means of communication falsely reporting the location of any explosive or other dangerous substance or contrivance threrby causing anxiety, unrest, fear, or personal discomfort to any person or group of persons, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state prison for not more than 20 years, or by imprisonment in a jail for not more than two and one-half years or by fine of not more than $1,000 or by both such fine and imprisonment in jail."

FALSE FIRE ALARM

Less than two hours after the students returned to their desks and books at about 10:30 a.m. another false alarm was sounded at the High School, a fire alarm.

Captain Mike Connolly of the Fire Department had anticipated that one of the High School students would follow up the bomb scare with a fire scare "Just to be funny," as he put it, so he disconnected the line to the Fire Station and told Mr. Niblock if a serious situation did arise to call the Fire Department by telephone. The captain's foresight prevented further needless bother to the firefighters in chasing false alarms and prevented risk to life and property by having the fire engines unnecessarily racing to the High School.

But back at the High School the students were forced out into the brisk morning weather again without their overcoats for another 20 minute aggravation. It wasn't funny to them; they resented the second farcial interruption in their work.

Mr. Niblock said that the fire alarm lever was pulled in the gym. He said that it was unfortunate that the alarm system in use can be set off "by merely pushing a tempting lever," rather than having to break a glass enclosed box as in the older types. For an undisciplined prankster the temptation is greater with the 26 alarm stations now used in the High School, he said.

Shortly before noon-time Mr. Niblock addressed the entire student body to tell them that if there were any additional school day interruptions the school day would either be lengthened or classes would be held on Saturday morning to make up the classroom time.

The Finance Committee emphasized that this special meeting is not designed to take the place of the regular local precinct hearings, but rather to supplement them.

"This meeting is important," said Fred Stockwell, chairman of the Finance Committee, "because the great bulk of the town's money is spent in the operating budgets." In Warrant Article 8, just one of the 64 articles in the Warrant, the town will spend somewhere in the neighborhood of $4.9 million, according to the approved requests submitted by the various town departments and boards.

Personnel Board

The board concluded that according to its information and judgment the granting of a 3% pay increase would barely reach the average or middle position in an equitable relation to that of the 15 other communities, and in consideration of this, the board unanimously recommends the town adopt a general increase of 3%.

Within the protective agencies the Personnel Board said it felt there was justification for a change in the relative values to adjust the officers' pay upward to bring them into line with other jobs in the department.

The board recommended that the maximum pay for police lieutenants be raised from $6,790 to $6,924; and for police sergeants from $6,074 to $6,276.

The board also recommended that the maximum pay for fire captains be raised from $6,790 to $6,924; for fire lieutenants from $6,074 to $6,276; and for fire lieutenant-inspector from $6,074 to $6,276.

In its recommendations on Warrant articles affecting personnel, the Personnel Board made the following comments.

"Police Department Increases (Article 5)—The increase in relative values already recommended, and the approval of the 3% general increase unanimously recommended by the Personnel Board will place Protective Department salaries at a sound and equitable level. Therefore, we recommend unfavorable action on this Article."

"48-Hours for Fire Personnel (Article 6)—With regard to the hours worked by the Fire Deparment, 8 of our community towns now have 48 or 50 hours per week and 7 are still working 56 hours with at least 2 towns 'considering' a reduction. As Winchester is in about the middle or average position, a majority of the Personnel Board sees no basis for recommending a change but does recognize a trend toward shorter hours." A minority report will also be given at the Town Meeting.

"4 Weeks Vacation after 20 years (Article 7)—Winchester is the only town which requires 30 years service to be eligible for a 4-weeks vacation. Most of the other towns require 20 years service instead of 30 years. The cost would depend upon how many temporary replacements would be needed for the extra week. This change would affect approximately 28 employees this year. In our opinion 7 to 9 might require temporary replacements - on this estimate, cost would probably not exceed $1,000."

Under the new plan, state aid would be brought up to the national average of 40 per cent and also would be flexible to the relative ability of every community to support its schools, so that a given educational program would be possible at approximately the same tax rate in every town, if based on full property valuation. At present, Mrs. Ryan pointed out, the communities in the state vary so widely in financial ability that, even with state aid as now given, the same expenditure per pupil would cost a town at one end of the scale nine times as much in local taxes as a town at the other end.

Obviously, few towns of less financial ability try to match the educational programs of higher-ability towns, so that the variation in education opportunity is very wide indeed.

As Robert T. Capeless, former state tax commissioner, said at a meeting in Worcester recently, "Education is bread and butter in the Commonwealth." Mr. Capeless noted that the one great economic asset of Massachusetts is the intelligence, the brainpower, of its people, and that the school systems all over the state must be improved to continue the recent economic growth stemming from research and development which uses the state's brainpower.

The Conference Board and its member groups recongize, Mrs. Ryan said, that the new taxes necessary for such a support plan can be enacted only if the general public comes to understand the need and then urges the legislature to take action.

Contrary to much casual opinion, per-pupil costs in Massachusetts have increased a smaller percentage since 1945 than in almost any other state. Massachusetts is also near the bottom of the list of states in respect to state assistance in meeting the costs of local schools. It is also near or at the bottom of states in state and local expenditures for schools regarded as a per capita expense, as percentage of total state and local government expenditure and as a percentage of total personal income. Thus, a greater effort is needed if the state's schools are to be good enough for today's requirements.

Garden Club Hears How To Preserve And Dry Flowers

Holiday colors were predominant in the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church Hall last Wednesday where members and guests of the Winchester Home and Garden Club gathered for their February meeting.

A gay canopy of red and white streamers which had been thoughtfully left for the meeting by the Couples' Club of the church provided a perfect setting for the Garden Club's own decorations and program. The patriotic theme was carried out in the attractively laid refreshment table on which Mrs. Charles Hart had arranged a beautiful centerpiece of red carnations, white chrysanthemums and narcissi and blue iris and bachelor buttons in a toy drum shell. Even the festive dessert added a bright touch of color.

On the stage at the front of the hall were several lovely flower arrangements. At first glance these appeared to be living fresh flowers and it was difficult to believe they were actually treated or dried ones, some three or four years old, which Mrs. Thomas Park the guest speaker, had prepared to demonstrate her talk on "Preserving and Drying Fresh Flowers."

To a conventional flower arranger the process of drying flowers for use in arrangements might be an occasional diversion but in the skilled hands of Mrs. Park, it is just as much an art.

She described in detail old and new methods of oven drying flowers with borax and corn meal or silica gel to insure lasting color and texture. While some varieties and colors take more readily to the conditioning treatment than others, virtually every type of plant can be processed to some degree of success. Her demonstration covered also the drying of evergreens, artificial coloring of flowers and foliage, wiring stems and leaves, the final arranging in containers and the care of the arrangement after it is completed.

Mrs. Park's talk was informal and from the number of questions asked and notes taken by club members, it was apparent that she had sparked their interest in this delightful and rewarding form of flower arranging. It is also quite possible that some of them (Following Mrs. Park's example) might go home to "prepare supper in the fireplace, and put flowers in the oven."

Several announcements of interest were made by Mrs. Joseph J. Vaccaro, president, during the business meeting. A course in flower arranging will be given by Mrs. George Ham at the Waltham Field Station on April 3, 24 and May 1st with the date of a fourth lesson to be announced later. Class enrollment will be limited to 14 and will be on a "first-come" basis. Members who are interested may call Mrs. Vaccaro (PA 9-3196) for further information and should do so promptly to avoid disappointment.

Mrs. Alexander Aitken and Mrs. Atkinson, co-chairmen of the Horticulture Committee, will be hostesses for several informal morning meetings on horticulture. Club members are invited to bring their gardening problems to discuss and suggestions which might be of interest to others. The first meeting will be on February 28, from 9:30 to 12 at Mrs. Aitken's home, 26 Myopia Road. Tentative dates for other meetings are March 7 and 14.

Mrs. Vaccaro announced that there are still members tickets available for the Spring Flower show at Wonderland Park. These may be obtained from Mrs. Leonard Branneman (PA 9-0527) or Mrs. Clifton Shea (PA 9-5871) before March 6.

Mrs. John T. Bagley was graciously welcomed into membership by Mrs. Vaccaro at this meeting. Mrs. Edmund Wright and Mrs. Herbert F. Morris were in charge of refreshments, with Mrs. Frederick Cole and Mrs. Richard Keppler, pouring.

Meeting Tuesday On Town Need Of Children's Clinic

Tuesday March 5 at 8 p.m. Dr. Alice Palubinskas will speak to the citizens of Winchester at the Mystic School auditorium on "Why Winchester Needs Its Mental Health Center For Children."

The Winchester Mental Health Association is sponsoring this program as a public health service to inform Winchester citizens of the medical facilities available at the Mystic Valley Children's Clinic situated in Lexington.

The Town has had the benefit of this Clinic for the past five years with the help of United Fund monies, as a demonstration project for the United Fund to show communities the ways such a Clinic can help its physicians, police and school departments in the handling of children with emotional disturbances.

If Winchester children are to continue to benefit from this type of help, the Town must now assume its share of the overhead expenses of this clinic as per the request to the Town in Article 47 of the Warrant.

Dr. Palubinskas, who lives at 4 Winslow Road, is a professor of psychology at Tufts University, and a very popular speaker in Winchester.

New Building To Open for Vernon Shoe March 12

The Vernon Shoe Clinic is getting ready to open up its handsome doors in the new building at the corner of Thompson Street and Waterfield Road on or about Tuesday, March 12.

The approximate nine month hiatus in service which came about when the old building was pulled down in June interrupted a more than thirty year span of service to their customers by this establishment, now owned and managed by Mrs. Jenny Zamanakos.

Passers by and customers, who have been watching the steady progress of the one story modern colonial brick and white trim building will be able soon to patronize not only the familiar shoe clinic, its complete leather and shoe repair service, and any new features that may be added to the service, but also its new neighbors-to-be the Winchester Camera Shop, Winchester Barber Shop and Palazzo Hair Designer, who expect to be open sometime after mid-month.

The new store has been erected by the Vernon Realty Incorporated composed of Mrs. Zamanakos, president, daughter Myrna, and son Nicholas, secretary. Nicholas, an engineer for Middlesex County, has held the reins for the building's construction and sub-contracted the work.

Mr. Zamanakos points out that two of his tenants coming in from Fred McCormack's block have been able to await the opening of the new building due to Fred's accomodation of the situation in that he has held off the renovation plans of his own area until the Vernon building could open.

The Vernon Shoe Clinic will occupy the corner store with the first entrance in on Waterfield Road. The familiar faces of Mrs. Zamanakos, George Costopoulos, in charge of women's shoes, who has been with the outfit since its onset, and Tony Paparisis, in charge of men's shoes will be seen in the new spacious and sunny windows.

The name "Vernon" stems from the first family shoe service in town which was opened on Mt. Vernon Street, by the late John Zamanakos, where the Trust Company now operates, in 1931, on the Trust Company corner.

In about 1945 the family purchased its present building site and recent building from Al Elliot, with P. T. Foley, who died just this week, as the broker. Since then, among others, the place has housed such businesses as Murray and Gillett's, the old Winchester Herald, the taxi office, Whistle Stop Antiques, David Golart, Bixby and Northrup, and two different Hobby Shops.

The new building, designed to accomodate four stores, covers about 2,640 square feet, is centrally heated with gas and completely air conditioned.

The rather loose usage of late of the term "virus" leads some people to believe that a virus is a rather new and always mysterious malady. Actually, all of us are virtual incubators of viruses for most of our lives.

From the common cold and cold sores to mumps, measles and chickenpox we have all been attacked by and have recovered from viruses. There are other infinitely more deadly viruses, however, such as polio and sleeping sickness and, strangely, even animals, insects and plant life are subject to attack from viruses peculiarly their own.

Not so strangely, McCORMACK'S APOTHECARY should be your first stop for the latest and best in drugs and medicines of all types. The Winchester Star

Editorials:

Youth Will Be Served . . . But Some Of The Services, Weighed In The Balances, Are Found To Be Wanting

It is not in the least unusual or infrequent for the Star to receive dynamic, controversial, or explosive letters intended for publication. Many of these letters never see print because of libelous, unfounded, or illogical content. Occasionally there is an exception which is extremely accurate, incisive, and powerful. And last week the Star printed such a well-written letter as a guest editorial entitled "Open Letter to Parents of Winchester Students."

The guest editorial dealt with one parent's deep concern and aggravation over what took place at a teen-age "open house" at his home one night when the parents were away. "Activities" at the party included among other assorted things, the spraying of beer over upstairs wallpaper, ripping the telephone out of the wall jack, stealing of food and phonograph records, and heavy drinking (and, of course, later, driving after drinking!) The revelry finally had to be broken up by the police after a neighbor 300 feet away complained of the noise.

Had this particular incident (with the acknowledgement that there are conflicting stories as to how it all began) been an isolated occurrence in the town, the Star would have been inclined to print the letter as a Letter to the Editor. If it had happened in your home, would you have been concerned enough to stand up and criticize the occurrence? Well, it does happen, and it happens almost every single week-end in Winchester. And any skeptic who chooses to doubt that statement has only to get off his or her duff and go down and look at the police record book—it is always open for public inspection. For this reason, that there are "wild open houses" staged with great week-end regularity by a substantially large number of high school students, and that they aren't just noisy fun parties but heavy drinking bouts followed by varying degrees of destructiveness and driving after drinking, the Star was duty-bound by its responsibility to the community to print the letter (with the agreement of the writer) as a guest editorial to emphasize the seriousness of this social problem in Winchester.

What were some of the reactions to the controversial editorials? Interesting, to say the least. The following few remarks were directly reported to the Star:

"The same thing happens somewhere every Friday night but this is the first time anybody actually wrote it down."

"You mean all that happened in one evening? I thought it was the composite for the year."

"This happened last year out in Weston and it cost $20,000 to fix up the house."

"My granddaughter must be that same age. If her mother ever thought she'd be in something like that I don't know what she'd do." (She was the one that went in the cellar door.)

"The kids whose parents asked them about it are the ones who weren't there."

If those statements don't strike you as being more than just interesting go back and read them over again. Those are direct quotations from citizens of this town, young and old, and careful readers will assess the significance behind them properly if they see the varying degrees of community awareness and confrontation with the problem that exists.

Last week's editorial asked the parents of Winchester High School students to ask their children if they were involved in the incident in any way, and the ways of involvement were specifically delineated. "Was it your daughter who . . . ? Was it your son that . . . ? Was this damage caused by your kids . . . ? These and other "leading questions" were asked by the parent of a house left in shambles after an unruly teen-age open house.

How many parents of high school students actually did ask their children where they were Friday night after the basketball game? We have not polled the more than 1,000 families represented in the high school to get their answers. Only the parents themselves know whether they fulfilled their responsibility to their children in this respect. But, on the other hand, they aren't the ONLY one who really know, are they? Go back and read those quotes from the kids again. The kids know what they can and cannot get away with, after all, we're educating them to be smart, aren't we?

The quotes regarding which kids were asked as to their whereabouts on the night of the gay party and which were not may be attributed to one of the horses' mouths themselves. That's right, the kids who were wreaking havoc were not asked by their parents where they were, in fact, they count on it regularly. Only the responsible parents would ask their children such an incriminating question and punish them if they were among the guilty party. But they, as could be expected, were fortunate to discover that everything was all right with their children, and thank Winchester's lucky stars that this number represents the majority of well-behaved Winchester High School students.

So what remains open for criticism? The responsibility lies with the parents of those kids who were wreaking havoc in an open house, a house where there were no parents present to chaperone any party, invited or otherwise. It is a clear indictment leveled against the negligence of these parents. To be sure, children have more need of models than of critics, but if their own parents fail in this respect how can the children help but cultivate habits that get the better of them. And once in a crowd, the weak-willed ones become even more weak-willed as they gain anonymity and the animal comes out, superseding even the temporary restraints of supposed reason and upbringing.

But there is one solace to these parents who have remained either ignorant of the activities of their youngsters, due to their negligence or the superior shrewdness of their charges, or who lack the courage to manage the situation adequately. So we want to recognize and commend one quality of character in these parents: For some people do have a perfect genius for doing nothing, and we want to commend those of you who do it so assiduously.

And the kids that were at the rambling wrecking house party? Their parents are not the only idle persons in their families, just because they do nothing. The kids involved were just as idle because they could have been better employing their time . . . take constructive ends like studying and improving their minds, for example, instead of destructive ends like acting like a loose bull in a china shop and depreciating their character.

Where do the police fit into the picture? They are responsible to the Board of Selectmen for their policies, who in turn are responsible to all the voters of the town. Since most of the parents don't want their children to have police records that will injure their reputation in later years, it is understandable that through the chains of responsibility the townspeople have made it clear that police records are to be avoided insofar as juveniles are concerned unless a major crime is involved. This is probably a good thing, but for the incorrigibly unruly youngsters it is really a "good deal."

That was the situation up until a few years ago when the teen-age situation began getting so bad the whole town was up in arms. The police clamped down then, and began taking automobile licenses away from the kids who were drinking and driving, and using cars as weapons on the road and for transporting large groups to wide open "open houses." The method was effective, and it quickly reduced the magnanimity ofthe problem.

It is time for the Police Department to start seriously employing this highly effective preventive medicine again before the local ailment reaches the proportions it did a few years back.

If, for example, the police had taken the licenses of all those teen-agers who drove away from the party (in their family's car) after drinking heavily, there would be a greater assurance that the offenses would not soon be repeated by the same individuals. After the police take the licenses they send them to the Registry of Motor Vehicles, and cannot be returned to the owner without a written permission from the police chief. Suspension of licenses could last anywhere from two weeks to a month or more. This is a good police tool to work with, for no teen-ager wants to be deprived of his ability to use a car.

If for any reason more teeth must be added to the police arsenal to accomodate a habitual offender, the police could warn the parents of the youth that another violation would mean the suspension of the car automobile registration on grounds of use by an improper person by the Registry. This would force negligent or overly lenient parents into properly disciplining their children if they want to have the use of the family car for themselves.

There is an old saying that procrastination is the holiday of fools. The Police Department, we are sure, will employ the preventive method necessary before the wild open "open houses" and other teen-age offenses become any worse than they are now.

As for the current case being investigated by the police, the police would do well to consider the good community example that would be set if the prime offenders were taken to juvenile court and the judge asked to attach assessments to them for the damages incurred.

The prevalent philosophy and attitude in Winchester regarding children seems to be that youth will be served. Examples of this "way of life" here may be seen in the quality of our school system, in the numerous parks and playgrounds, and in the scouting and other youth organizations. One of the best services we can offer our youth is a proper regard and respect for the law. This can be achieved only if the laws are daily kept and enforced by a strong Police Department.

Consumer Council Urges Repeal Of Fair Trade Laws

The Mercantile Affairs Committee at the State House was asked Tuesday to repeal the fair trade laws and conduct a sweeping study of the trading stamp industry in the Commonwealth.

Fr. Robert J. McEwen, member of the Attorney General's Consumer Council, cited trading stamps as a means of averting the fair trade laws.

During the hearing, Samuel Silverman, spokesman for the druggists, condemned the stamp business as unfair competition and he said the system imposes duress to make merchants buy a stamp program to meet competition.

William D. Weekes, speaking for the trading stamp companies, told the committee there are 19 companies licensed to do business in the state, and he warned there would be confusion if one company were required to redeem stamps of another company.

Legislation to accomplish that end was supported by Senate President John E. Powers (D) of Boston, who also proposed a survey of the trading stamp company operations, contending more than $10 million worth of stamps are never redeemed and recognizing that the state might have the funds escheated.

George E. Lodgen, representing Top Value Stamps, said that stamps boosted retail sales for cooperating companies by as much as 34 per cent, to off-set the average two per cent cost for the system—a cost the advocates of controls protested was being passed on to the buyer.

The committee was told that 75 per cent of the families in the state save stamps with the intent to redeem them.

Bill to Stiffen Civil Service Almost Stopped

A brief bill calling for the repeal of a 1935 law that prohibits setting educational requirements for filling non-professional civil service posts was nearly rejected in the House Tuesday.

Only because a group of lawmakers favoring the bill were not caught off-guard was the bill not defeated.

It would empower the setting down of educational qualifications for making civil service appointments. The present law limits educational provisions for filling jobs that require the references under statute.

Rep. Francis J. Bevilacqua (D) of Haverhill moved that the bill be advanced. On a quick voice vote the bill was rejected. Reconsideration was moved and rejected.

Several legislators popped from their chairs and persuaded House Speaker John F. Thompson they had points to make on the bill.

Rep. Bevilacqua then moved that no action be considered taken, and the debate was delayed beyond adjournment.

It was scheduled for a third reading Wednesday.

Bill to Create State Dept. For Better Planning

The Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce endorsed a measure heard by the State Administration Committee to establish a department of Economic Development and Community Renewal and improve state, regional and local planning under urban renewal law. The bill is sponsored by Rep. Sidney Q. Curtiss, GOP Floor Leader of the House.

Local buyers and sellers alike were happy with the results of the first February 22 merchandising day in Winchester, and the ten winners of 22 silver dollars are already gauging their chances for next year.

From the looks of the parked cars - and meters were free on the holiday - a large percentage of the holiday stay at homes took the opportunity to come into the center and get better acquainted with their home town stores. It was a sociable, cracker-barrel sort of a day in town despite the real volume of business.

Forty Winchester stores contributed to the $220 dollars given away. Nine Winchester winners and one from Arlington had to get out the family money bag to take home the silver. The lucky winners were: Frank H. Graham of 11 Water Street; Ann Breeden, 209 Washington Street; Deidre Cooke, 101 Highland Avenue; Walter Colby, Arlington; Andre Lamphier, 27 Church Street; Mrs. James Joslin, 18 Dartmouth Street; Michael Donnellan, 3 Standish Lane; James Barry, 934 Main Street and Barbara Brotherston, 8 Ridgefield Street.

Book Reviews

by Elva L. Nelson, Winchester Public Library

The Torch Of Life

by Rene Dubos

This book has been an experience.

When it became our urgent task to review a book and a thousand thoughts were coming into our mind, we happened to come across several new books belonging to The Credo Series, edited by Ruth Nanda Anshen. We thought: this is it. We'll say a few bright words about Erich Fromm's "Beyond the Chains of Illusion" and some succinct comments on "Man, Nature, and God," by F. S. C. Northrup, etc.

Those books were never touched. Instead, what held our attention is a little gem, "The Torch of Life," by Rene Dubos, one of the world's foremost microbiologists.

The world of academic biology was left behind some years back when we dissected the earthworm. This was the level of our acquaintance. To have expected a poetic, scientific, and philosophical, three-in-one treasure . . . Let's be brief, Dr. Dubos' book has it.

What is his book about? It is about life. The author states . . . "no one can define life," and then from various angles of vision proceeds to direct our attention to the many ideas there are about life, to the theories of the origin of life, its qualities, the cosmic cycles and biological progress, the growth of mankind, the evolutionary process, the goals, etc.

His first chapter delineates the completeness of his view. He evokes the Chinese yin and yang in association with the physicists' matter and antimatter. He states "I have attempted to present with equal favor two opposite pictures of reality, both of which I regard as simultaneously valid and equally useful." As a scientist, he knows the meanness of man and the greatness of his deeds. As a poet he knows "that mankind can convert crude appetites into the splendours of civilization and transmute greed into spirituality."

The relationship between man and the rest of the biological world and their characteristics occupy much of the book. It is tempting to fill up this review with quotes. In discussing biological partnerships, Dr. Dubos tells the amusing story of the shrimp in the Bahamas and the other fish of that area.

In those warm waters, a shrimp and a fish have met. "The fish usually presents its head or gill cover for cleaning, but if it is bothered by something out of the ordinary such as an injury near its tail, it presents itself tail first. The shrimp swims or crawls forward, climbs aboard and walks rapidly over the fish, checking irregularities, tugging at parasites with its claws and cleaning injured areas." And so forth.

Dr. Dubos clearly believes that man is more than an animal and cannot be defined only in terms of his animal characteristics. "Thus, human evolution is primarily a self-conscious psychosocial process . . . " is his view. Man's consciousness, free will, concern with the future, man's ability to make choices and decisions, the pursuit of happiness distinguish mankind from the animal level.

The adaptability of man and the growth of mankind are his concluding chapters. And what is in store for us? The author writes "Curiously enough, the very efficiency of our technological civilization may be one of its undoings . . . Overspecialized and overadapted cultures, like that of the United States of America, might find it difficult, for example, to move on to the next phase of human evolution, to get over the divide which separates present-day industrial civilization from a more sophisticated social and cultural way of life."

He not only poses this challenge but many others, too. "Western civilization," he writes, "still moves mightily under the momentum of scientific materialism, but it does not succeed in defining the good of life. It is all dressed up with no place to go." But on the positive side he notes the unselfishness manifested throughout human history. His final words are that man cannot be completely understood as a piece of machinery . . . "he must be encountered and experienced as a dreaming and throbbing creature."

Winchester Started As A Part Of Charlestown In 1633

Winchester started as a part of Charlestown in 1633. It was at that time part of the original territory granted to Charlestown by the General Court and defined in 1636 as "extending eight miles into the country from their meeting house."

May 13, 1640, the General Court granted Charlestown two miles at their head line provided that they build within two years. On October 7, 1640, it was also voted: "Charles towne petition is granted them, the proportion of four miles square with their former grant, to make a village." (Massachusetts Colony Records)

These last additions to Charlestown's original grant extended much beyond the present northerly line of the eight-mile limit, or "Waterfield," and embraced the territory of the present City of Woburn and the towns of Burlington (Shaw Shin) and Wilmington (the land of nod).

The wild lands of "Waterfield" in 1633 included only the land along the banks of the Aberjona River from Mystic Pond to the land of John Harvard (Winchester Highlands), and the territory bordering on Horn Pond and Horn Pond River.

As its name implied it was a water field. It was surveyed and allotted to the inhabitants of Charlestown previous to 1638. By this record and a map drawn by the late George Cooke, Winchester can define and locate her land owners of 1638.

It is quite evident from both the Charlestown and Massachusetts Colony records that it was the intention of Charlestown to allot the newly acquired territory to her own citizens and to establish a village near the site of Waterfield. So it was that the town's second name was "Charlestown Village" and was so designated as early as 1640.

On November 4, 1640, a committee of thirteen was chosen from the town to "set the bounds between Charlestown and the village and to appoint a place for the village."

Apparently the committee did not agree in its decision. It appears also that after securing the grant of new land a project developed among the leaders of the Charlestown church to establish a new church and a new town.

Hence on November 4, the church, and not the inhabitants of Charlestown, of which the Rev. Zachariah Symmes, ancestor of the present Symmes family of Winchester, was pastor, chose a committee kiel Richardson, John Morsall, Thomas Graves, Samkiel Richardson, John Mousall, Thomas Grave, Samuel Richardson and Thomas Richardson as commissioners for the erection of a new church and town where a "village" has been originally designed within the limits of Charlestown.

In Colonial days the authority of the Puritan church was equal, if not superior, to the civil authority, so it was through the instrumentality of the church, not the town of Charlestown that the town, first Charlestown, then Waterfield, then Charlestown Village, was finally annexed to Woburn in 1642.

Though the church appointed the commissioners, yet when a large number came forward to join the new town the church became afraid that Charlestown would be "depopulated." The church therefore discountenanced the enterprise and watched all who were in favor of it with a "jealous eye."

Subsequently the commissioners seem to have overcome the opposition of the church or to have outvoted the opponents of the new departure as at a church meeting December 3, 1640, it was voted "full power is given to Edward Converse and Company to go on with the work."

It does not appear that the town government opposed the church commissioners though the General Court did not incorporate Woburn into a separate town till October 6, 1642. The act is a model of brevity: "Charlestown Village is called Wooburne."

The bounds between Charlestown and Woburn were not definitely fixed until December 16, 1650, when Charlestown tardily acceded to the repeated solicitations of Woburn and a joint committee settled the bounds. This dilatory action by Charlestown can be taken to show they were not anxious to divide their town and explains the descriptions of some of the Charlestown farms as "situate in Wooburne in Charlestown bounds."

The southerly line of Woburn as laid out by the joint committee followed the present line of Church Street from Cambridge Street to the High School house, then in a straight line to near Black Horse Tavern into the "Common," or woods.

Democratic Leader Takes Issue With Selectmen's Letter

The letter from the Board of Selectmen in last week's issue of the Star was an amazing exposition. The Board of Selectmen, the executive group in our town, bears a heavy responsibility to the citizens of the town. They are not required by law to tell the voters of the community how they stand on a referendum question (as the Finance Committee is obliged to do) and so their communication was simply a notification to the voters that they are unanimously against both referenda with no valid, intelligent, constructive or solid reasons why.

Analyzing their letter, it is very evident that there had been a lack of home work before that communication was issued.

As a consequence of this evident lack of study, there has been placed before the voters of Winchester an erroneous image of the new pension situation as it confronts our town. The language of the letter under discussion is replete with half-truths.

The Selectmen's letter says, "Chapter 647 of the Acts of 1962 which was a law passed following Winchester's acceptance of the basic 32B insurance Act does not make available to the town the same package (benefits) for the employees who retired prior to October 1, 1962, as is now being provided for active town employees." Then the letter goes on to cite the cost to the town, annually, if we adopt referendum number 1.

This is the pension group which I wish to discuss. Who are they? The list constitutes every town pensioner with the exception of two persons who have retired since last October 1; these 2 fortunate employees, John Kelley and Mrs. Mary Flaherty, are the beginners of the new group which will be entitled to the provisions of 32B.

Now, I want to make it very plain that I am talking about all of the other pensioners in the town and two statements about this group which the Selectmen made in their letter.

Immediately after October 1, 1962, this group was put in the "direct-payment to Blue Cross-Blue Shield" category; this requires them to send a three month payment in advance, to Blue-Cross-Blue Shield in order to keep their illness coverage.

In this group which we are discussing, there are 24 teachers and 87 former town employees. The teachers pensions are state-connected but this act concerns them in exactly the same way as it does the town employees.

In the town employee group there are 87 men and women; 60 of these former town workers (68 per cent) are receiving a pension of $200 a month or less; this averages out at $46 per week.

Now take a typical case in this low-pension group. The town employee receives a pension of $173.39 per month. (It is a contributory pension and he paid into it while he worked for the town, the sum required of him.) For 12 months this pension will amount to $2,080.68 or $40.01 per week, with which to support himself and his wife. If he would retain his illness coverage, he must send $3.35 per week to Blue Cross-Blue Shield. This leaves this typical couple $36.66 per week on which to pay living expenses, including taxes (or rent), heat, etc. Is $40.01 weekly a "liberal retirement allowance (which the Selectmen have stated?)

Now, you say, what about the Selectmen's assurance that a person with 32 years of service can retire at 65 with 80 per cent of his salary?

This has happened in a small number of instances to members who were in the 32 per cent section of the group we are discussing, but, they were specific cases such as men who received pensions actually, from more than one source - a town employee for many years in day work, and a call fireman also; or men who were so fortunate as to have had many days and hours of overtime in addition to their regular duties.

The Selectmen say, also, "If this act was to be adopted, the increased premium to Blue Cross -Blue Shield would be $6500. (I figure it would, in effect, be $8500.)

Well, when we consider that it cost $5,663,000 to run our town for last year (1962), $8500 would only pay for running it for 4 hours. To use a cliche, this is a drop in the bucket, and the well-being of 60 employees (all in their late years) is of concern to all. The $8500 will come from taxes and, the pensioners pay taxes, too!

Answers Editorial Inquiry on Youth Center for Teens

Editor of the Star:

Last week there was a question in an editorial in the Star asking what had happened to plans for a Youth Center. The Recreation Committee wishes therefore to make known to parents the present status of the Recreation Center.

On the evening of November 10, the High School gymnasium was opened to the students under the capable direction of Mr. William Shinney, a man with wide experience in this field.

The response was most enthusiastic, and the center has been in operation every Saturday since then with the exception of one evening. The average attendance has been over 200 each night, and there are now 700 members who have joined.

In fact, ping-pong and basketball have been so popular that we have had to buy more equipment.

During the basketball season we have tried opening on Friday nights as well, in McCall Junior High. More than one hundred students come over after the game for a coke and conversation.

All this is well known to the teenagers at High School as it has been well publicized there, and a full report will be made at Town Meeting, but we thought it advisable to acquaint the townspeople with these facts at this time.

Merit Scholarship Plan for Medical Students Proposed

The creation of a Merit Scholarship system in Massachusetts for aiding medical students would be patterned after the National Merit Scholarship system, Dr. Francis D. Moore told the Education Committee at the State House Monday.

Proposed in a Senate Document is a measure to have the Legislature establish a medical scholarship program for Massachusetts residents.

The plan, Dr. Moore explained, would have the state assume the financial responsibility of putting through his medical training a person granted a scholarship.

The suggested yearly grant would be about $3500 per student. The scholarship would be applicable during his medical study, internship and residency, with varying degrees of subsidy depending on need and other financial sources.

Dr. Moore suggested a first year group of 15 students to be selected on the basis of need from winners in a state-wide, open competition.

The cost the first year, he projected, would be between $50,000 and $60,000.

He said the outlined plan would have 15 more students added each year, and that after eight years, the subsidy would be withdrawn from the first group and applied to an incoming group.

The annual cost of the program after the system is operating in full, would be about $360,000.

Favoring the measure were doctors from many areas of medicine, including the Mass. Medical Society.

Public Works

"The existing enabling legislation provides for the election of a three member Board of Public Works - these members to be elected as follows: one member to be elected for one year, one for two years, and one for three years, and thereafter as their terms expire, successors to be elected for full three years terms. The members of the Board shall, after each election, elect one of their members to act as chairman for the ensuing year. They would be vested with the power and duties to supervise and direct the administration of the Park Department, Cemetery Department, Highway Department, Forestry Department, Water and Sewer Departments, and they may also be empowered to assume the responsibilities of the Sanitation Department and Town Engineering services. They would appoint and arrange compensation for a Supervisor or Director of Public Works who would be empowered to carry out the directions and will of the Board. Upon the election and qualification of the Board of Public Works, all other boards, departments, and offices as set forth in the statute shall thereupon be abolished. It is further provided, that the Town may revoke the acceptance of such a program after a three year period has elapsed, and this by a majority vote of the Town Meeting. In essence, this is the legislation and subject matter that this committee is confined to and empowered to report upon.

"The committee at this time does not recommend favorable action on the adoption of a Board of Public Works as set forth in Section 69C to 69F inclusive of Chapter 41 of the General Laws of the Commonwealth.

"This committee has not been unanimous insofar as the basic need for a Board of Public Works is concerned. However, the committee is unanimously opposed to a three member board as proposed by the existing legislation. It might have been disposed to act in a more favorable manner if a five man board was possible. The major consideration appears to be the work load that would be thrust upon a three-member board which would be assuming the responsibilities now assumed by thirteen men serving on the elected boards that would be abolished, in addition to assuming the responsibilities of the Highway Department now under the jurisdiction of the Selectmen. It is felt, this would tend to discourage many capable but busy men from service to the town, as well as to deprive other citizens of the opportunity for public service. Furthermore, we are convinced by knowledge and experience that a three member board can all too easily fall under the dominating influenc of one member.

"The discussions of this committee leading up to this report, brought out many thoughts, opinions, and positive convictions that are not portrayed in the basic negative recommendations to the Town Meeting. Accordingly, this recommendation should not be accepted as a repudiation of a Public Works Consolidation, or that such is unwarranted or unnecessary, or that there is a lack of justification for the adoption of such a consolidation. This is definitely not the case. While most will agree that our town renders perhaps better than ordinary services to its citizens, it is likewise agreed that we pay the price for it. The committee is in complete accord that there is room for improvement in every phase of our municipal operations. From inter-department cooperation, efficiency of operation, labor output, and to the ever important budget consideration, improvement is a necessity and a must. In the light of the ever rising tax rate, the adoption of some form of a Public Works consolidation might very well be a solution as well as a necessity in the near future.

"In a sincere endeavor to render a real service to the Town at this time, the committee suggests to the Town Meeting, the Board of Selectmen, the Finance Committee, and the affected boards and officials, that much can be accomplished within the existing framework of our present administrative procedure to improve town services, and herewith offers the following recommendations:

1. A program of Central Maintenance for all town owned vehicles should be inaugurated, and all necessary and proper facilities be provided for repairs, inspection, lubrication and preventive maintenance. In our opinion the maintenance facilities of all departments are grossly inadequate for this purpose.
2. A program of strong and forceful supervision be inaugurated and insisted upon to effect better utilization of available manpower. The committee's observations have revealed a real need for such a program.
3. The responsible town officials should promote and insist on genuine cooperation between all departments for a better utilization of equipment and services.
4. The Board of Cemetery Commissioners consider the advisability of allowing the Park Department to assume maintenance of the cemetery grounds, and that the Highway Department likewise assume care and maintenance of cemetery roadways.
5. The chairman of this committee, however, is in favor of adoption of present legislation for establishment of a Board of Public Works.
6. That this committee be discharged."

Charles Playhouse Damaged by Fire; Donations Sought

Fire broke out early last Friday morning at the Charles Playhouse, 76 Warrenton Street, Boston. Immediate response from the Boston Fire Department and the theatre's sprinkler system saved the building from total destruction, but the damage was estimated at $100,000. Performances have been suspended indefinitely.

In order to resume production at the Charles Playhouse, Boston's resident professional theatre, a public appeal is being made for funds to repair the damage and re-open the theatre. Donations may be sent to the Charles Playhouse.

The Charles Playhouse, a non-profit educational institution, has been presenting plays continuously in its unique three-sided arena stage theatre for the past six years.

Two-Thirds Vote For Secret Ballot In Town Meetings

Secret town ballots would be limited in town meetings if the House and Senate pass a bill advanced in the House. By vote of 70 to 140, the House endorsed a bill to require two-thirds vote to take secret roll call ballot in town meetings. It was sponsored by the Associated Fire Fighters of Mass., AFL-CIO. Rep. Harrison Chadwick of Everett Avenue voted against the bill.

Planning Board

He gave them to someone in the Stabile organization, who developed the housing area. Correspondence followed between the engineer, the developer, and the board for about a year, until last week's controversial hearing.

About six of the eight homeowners agreed that the new boundary line agreements would not adversely affect the value of their properties, and seemed willing to accept an agreement. A few questioned the affect on the value of their property, and remained uncommitted.

At last week's public hearing, Mr. Rokenetz emphatically suggested that the board consider making the streets 37 feet wide instead of the customary 40 feet to solve the problem instead of taking about 3 feet off the frontage line of the house lots involved.

Most of the 50 persons who appeared at last week's meeting seemed to like this idea because it would tend to perpetuate the private nature of Pocahontas Drive, and Mayflower and Plymouth Roads. The future use of these roads is a related problem in the minds of the Birch Knoll homeowners, as they wish to continue the private use of them as non-thru-ways and not have them extended into the proposed adjacent development and making them public ways.

This related problem ties into and conflicts with the boundary line problem. An additional problem is that some of the homeowners petitioned the Town, in Town Meeting Warrant Article 11, to accept these roads as town ways, so that the Town will maintain and plow them. If the roads are accepted at the Town Meeting, however, they then become public roads and may be joined or extended as the Planning Board approves. There is some speculation on the part of Planning Board officials that the petition for Town acceptance of these roads may be withdrawn from the Warrant in an attempt to prevent the continuance of these roads to Ridge Street and making them full public ways.

ACROSS THE COUNTER

"What do you think the main difference is between your agency and a direct writer as far as my car insurance is concerned?" Mr. Renton asked. "I'm wondering if I should change."

"That's a fair question," I replied. "The basic difference is this. The representative of the direct writing company is an employee of the firm, and subject to its orders. On the other hand, our agency is an independent contractor. We place business with our companies but are not on their payroll."

"How does that affect me?" asked Mr. Renton.

"Suppose you have a large loss and get in a dispute with the company over the settlement. If you're right, we'll press your claim with all the vigor and influence at our command. The company won't dictate to us because it is anxious to retain the business we send. But the direct writer representative is in an opposite position. If he argues, he can be silenced by being fired."

"In other words," Mr. Renton said, "you'll be on my side while the other fellow would have to represent his company."

"That's it," I replied.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. John C. Haggerty of Easton, Pennsylvania. Her wedding gown was of ivory silk peau de soie, fashioned with a cummerbund waist and a full skirt which terminated in a chapel train and accented with a bolero of Alencon lace re-embroidered with seed pearls and made with a Watteau effect in back. She wore a veil of bouffant elbow length French illusion, caught to a crown of seed pearls, and she carried a muff of white roses.

Miss Deborah McCarthy of Lowell was maid of honor at the wedding. She was gowned in a full length bell shaped gown of gold brocade and she wore a crown of matching material which caught an eye length veil of gold French illusion. She carried a flower muff of green ivy and gold chrysanthemums.

The bridesmaids, who were gowned to match the honor attendant and carried the same muffs, were Mrs. William H. O'Neil of Woburn and Miss Patrice Mullaney of Winchester. Mrs. Donald MacDonald of Medford was an honorary bridesmaid.

Mrs. George E. Haggerty, Jr. of Lowell, was guest book attendant.

Mr. Austin J. Gunnery was his brother's best man, and ushering at the ceremony were another brother, Mr. Leonard F. Gunnery, and Mr. Joseph Powers of Saugus and Mr. James G. McCormack of Everett.

Mrs. Haggerty was in milk-colored silk peau de soie and Alencon lace, with a flowered hat and gold accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Gunnery wore a light beige brocade dress with black faille shoes and bag, and a flowered hat tipped in green.

The bride is a graduate of Lowell State College. Mr. Gunnery who served with the air force in Phalsburg, France, is at present studying at Boston University.

The bride was in a winter suit of gold Irish tweed, with black alligator shoes and pocket book as she left for the couple's wedding trip to Bermuda. After the trip, Mr. and Mrs. Gunnery will make their home in Melrose.

The Homefronters Elect Officers To Serve for Year

The annual meeting of the Winchester Homefronters was held in the Edgar J. Rich Room of the Public Library on February 11. Mrs. Alvin G. Smith, executive chairman, presided.

Due to the absence of the secretary and treasurer, their reports were read by Mrs. Addison J. Becker and Mrs. Otis Jason respectively. Reports of the various committees were read and filed. A new Scrap Book was presented and is on display in the Library for all who are interested to read the many letters of thanks from those in the Armed Forces who received Christmas boxes.

The following are the officers who were elected for 1963-64: executive chairman, Mrs. Richard L. Davenport; recording secretary, Mrs. Otis Jason; corresponding secretary Mrs. Harold H. McKinley; treasurer, Mr. Ralph W. Hatch; ways and means, Mrs. Joseph L. Mullen, Mrs. James F. Mawn; publicity, Mrs. Gordon L. Sidebotham; tag day, Mrs. Archibald J. A money saver. Lock a phone, fits all phones. Comes with two keys. For home, office or plant. At the Winchester Star.

Candidate For Planning Board

Every Precinct should have representatives on the various Town boards.

The present Planning Board members are George Redding, Earle Littleton, Neil Borden, all who reside in Precinct 3.

Precinct 5 has Franklin Lane and Joseph Gray.

EUGENE B. ROTONDI, SR.

Apparently Precincts 1, 2, 4 and 6 appear to have no qualified candidates available, the past chairman of the Planning Board submitted the appointments to fill the two vacancies in the past two years. Why did the Board of Selectmen who confirms these appointments with the Planning Board sanction such a move depriving the other Precincts from representation?

Do you voters agree that this method is a true system under a Town Government which is supposed to function as a Democracy?

My opponent is Earle Littleton. I have great respect for Mr. Littleton, he served our school system well, as a gentleman and believer in fair representation, but he should not have accepted this appointment, fully realizing it would deprive another citizen of the Town from another precinct an opportunity to serve his Town.

As a candidate from Precinct 1, I respectfully submit my resume for your consideration:

1. Town Meeting member 22 years.
2. Resident, taxpayer, 33 years.
3. Chairman 1962-1963 Town of Winchester, Public Works Study Committee.
4. Graduate, High School, N. U., School of Law, Bachelor of Law Degree, Graduate Wentworth Institute, Plan Reading and Estimating. Studied Constructional Engineering, M.I.T.
5. Married, father of 13 children, 7 graduated from Winchester High School, 2 at Junior High, twins at Washington School.
6. Civic affairs. Assisted in Red Cross drives, Heart Fund, Community Chest, etc., present chairman W.H.S. Parent-Faculty Assoc. Variety Show.
7. Fraternal Organizations. Past Venerable, treasurer, financial secretary, recording secretary of Lodge 1580, S.O.I. Past Grand Deputy State Lodge, 9 years. Member of Winchester Council K. of C., 210.
8. Business experience. 40 years, theoretical and practical experience in water, sewer, roads, site planning, parks, building and equipment. Also consultant-appraiser for several insurance companies. Real Estate broker for 4 years.
9. You will note that the above members of the Planning Board can not be classified as men of different philosophies of different religious beliefs, or of different Ethnic origin, if this is so, how can full cooperation be attained for the best interests of our Town?

I believe not and I am sure most of our democratic citizens feel the way I do.

If you believe my above statements have some merit, then prove the same Monday, March 4, 1963 at the polls, and vote for Eugene B. Rotondi, Sr., who will be loyal, conscientious, and impartial in problems of planning concerning our Town.

Transportation to polls—call PA 9-3330 or PA 9-2060.

Eugene B. Rotondi, Jr.

The Winchester Antique Group

Because of the storm the February meeting of the Antique Study Group was postponed from the 19th to the 21st.

Mrs. Everett Kidder of 31 Wildwood Street was the hostess and it was a pleasure to meet in her attractive home.

Clarence Blake was the speaker of the evening. When he said he was going to talk of fish and diamonds members were a bit startled as his subject was Pressed Glass. The explanation was simple. In speaking he was going to talk of refraction and reflection. By telling of a fish seeing from under water he gave an example of index refraction. The character of the diamond distinguishing it from glass was another example.

Leaving fish and diamonds he told of pressed glass. Beginning with early goblets he gave dates of manufacture, explained making, ingredients etc. He told of the use of manganese to remove the color caused by impurities in the mixture reminding the group that early bottles were green and brown. Use of cullet was explained. Skillful planning went into the design for the mold of a goblet. There was reason for this. Using Mrs. Kidder's goblets the speaker showed the beautiful effects created. Holding a goblet to the light the design was mirrored throughout. Looking down into the piece one saw the reflections. There were many different designs creating this effect and the bull's eye was used extensively for this purpose.

Mr. Blake named scarce goblets. He stressed that early flint goblets have bell like tones when gently tapped.

Stems and bases were studied. There is much a collector should know to avoid the pitfalls or reproductions.

Sandwich glass was discussed briefly and pieces of lacy as well as other periods were shown.

About the time of the Civil War the use of flintglass was discontinued. The lovely ring of the earlier glass is missing in the later pieces. Some of the old designs were still used but this was a period of design for exterior effect. Birds, flowers, animals etc. were used. These are attractive and collectible. Many are now scarce. Here again there is the reproduction problem.

The group had a delightful time as Mr. and Mrs. Kidder showed their collections and told which were collected and which inherited.

Professors Win Metallurgy Award

Professor John Chipman of 19 Lorena Road and Professor John F. Elliott of 118 Arlington Street were both to be honored at the 92nd Annual Meeting of the American Institute of Mining, Metallurgical, and Petroleum Engineers held in Dallas, Texas, from February 24-28.

Dr. Chipman, professor emeritus and former head of the Department of Metallurgy at M. I. T., is receiving the Benjamin F. Fairless Award, established in 1954 to recognize distinguished achievement in iron and steel production and metallurgy. The citation states Dr. Chipman's "brilliant career in teaching and research has contributed to the education of many men and to our knowledge of steelmaking processes."

Dr. John F. Elliott, professor of Metallurgy at M. I. T. and former student of Dr. Chipman's, has been named to give the Howe Memorial lecture on February 26. An honor of the Institute, the lecturer is designated on recommendation of the Metallurgical Society's Iron and Steel Division. The lecture, in memory of Henry Marion Howe, a former A. I. M. E. president, is given by "an individual of outstanding attainment in the science and practice of iron and steel metallurgy and metallography." Dr. Elliott's lecture will be on "Some Microscopic Transport Problems." Dr. Elliott received his B. S. in Metallurgical Engineering at Minnesota and his Doctor of Scinece at M. I. T. He has also been the recipient of the AIME Hunt Medal and of its student prize.

Scout Troop 524 On Holiday Hike In Snow and Ice

On Washington's birthday, Friday, February 22, Scoutmaster William Krupsky led 12 scouts of troop 524, carrying full packs, and hauling dry firewood on a snow sled, through the Middlesex Fells, on a rigorous hike that amounted to approximately 15 miles from start to finish.

The going was extremely rough due to deep snow and hazardous ice, but the boys had an enjoyable day in the open. En route to their destination, they inspected a panther cave, went through the old silver mine, and climbed about the stone quarry. On arrival at their camp site, the scouts built fires and prepared a hot meal of meat and vegetables thereby fulfilling part of the requirements for both first and second class scouting: some of the boys also erected tents at selected sites in conjunction with their 1st class test.

Tracking, trailing and nature study rounded out their day of healthful activity in line with Scoutmaster Krupsky's policy of keeping his entire troop of scouts busy and active in mind and body. Unfortunately due to some sickness, not all the scouts were present on this hike, but the following boys were able to participate: John Amroso, David Cincotta, Bill Elliott, James Farley, John Farley, Craig Heindel, Wayne Krupsky, Scott Moulton, Richard Pierce, Neil Suneson, Steven Swanson and Albert Thayer.

Rapid Transit Is Next MTC Move In Tests Inclusion

The second phase of a three-pronged program to gauge the public's use of public transportation facilities if service is improved and fares are reduced was put into motion at the State House last week when the Mass Transportation Commission and the New Haven Railroad signed a contract for subsidy funds under a federal-state demonstration project grant.

The New Haven Demonstration will cost an estimated $1.2 million.

The final link in the program will be a test of the extension of rapid transit in the Metropolitan Transit Authority system.

One aspect of the MTA plan will be to reduce fees for car parking in MTA lots from 35 to 10 cents. Dr. Joseph P. Maloney MTC executive director, disclosed.

It is expected two new circumferential bus routes will be added to the MTA system this Summer.

One result of the demonstrations may be extension of the MTA rapid transit to Reading and the South Shore, said Dr. Maloney.

The investment in the MTA test will be $1.5 million.

Foreign Exchange Students From Holland And Italy Give Their Experiences, Observations In Winchester

I hoped and dreamed for almost a year about coming to the United States. I was afraid, too, thinking it was an experience too big for my seventeen years.

My ideas were rather confused and vague, derived mostly from the American movies I had seen, from the books I had read, and from the talks I had heard around. But I thought they were basically right. Long, long cars, frozen and canned foods, huge skyscrapers and very free teenagers. These are a few of the first images which came to my mind in those days.

ANNA SANT'ELIA

Well, now I'm here. My mind is always working, trying to translate feelings into ideas and words.

Of course, I'm especially concerned with the school, with the people of my age, with their thoughts and their desires. I am interested in the education that they receive.

The school system of my country is different. I can't say "my Italian High School" because there is no such thing and it's impossible to translate the terms.

The many school systems grew up independently, according to the history and ideas and needs of each country. They are all trying to do more or less the same thing, but they do it in different ways.

In Italy, after the eighth grade, according to our aptitudes, we choose one school rather than another. Some students may go to a mainly scientific school, others to a literary one. Many of them go to a professional school. In this way, it is not necessary for us to have the choice of subjects inside the school. We stay in one room with our class and the teachers come to us.

Our subjects are many, although all of them lean toward the same goal. For example, since I plan to become an Elementary School teacher, almost all of my lessons are related to education and child psychology.

The Italian cultured background is vast, for Italy is an ancient country. Therefore it is necesssary that we study what can tie our days to the old ones. Because of this, the Italians stress in several schools the importance of Latin, Ancient History, and Philosophy.

In the last few years the scientific branch has greatly developed. Consequently the specialized schools now have a greater importance. Italy is becoming more and more industrialized.

Some of the diplomas which we receive offer us the opportunity to enter the University.

I'm very surprised by the informality of American schools and by the way they are organized. The relationships between teachers and pupils are very friendly here. The Italian pupil is expected to show more respect for his teacher. For example, we usually stand when a teacher enters the classroom.

I could never say which school is better. Both of the systems have advantages and disadvantages. But it is interesting and broadening to study in different countries.

I hope that more and more people have the chance to enjoy the experience which I'm living. I'm really grateful to American Field Service and to Winchester for having made my dream come true.

Anna Sant'Elia
W.H.S. Exchange Student from Como, Italy

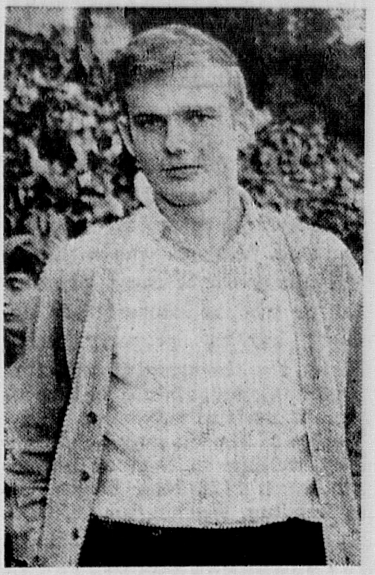
I left Rotterdam, Holland, the 11th of August, last year, on the S.S. Waterman, a student boat, and I arrived in New York the 20th of the same month.

I am in Winchester for one year as an exchange student of the I.S.P.S. (International Student Placement Service). Last year, February, I was hoping to go to the U.S.A. and after a couple of months my "dream" came true.



ROBERT TEN HAVE

I am now enrolled at Winchester High School and find it very different compared to our high school. To begin with: In America there are four or five subjects which you must take. In Holland we have about 14 subjects, but we have each one only twice or three times a week.

Most of the people go home to have their lunches, because the schools do not have cafeterias.

School starts here, in Winchester, at eight o'clock and lasts until 2:30, where as, in Amsterdam it starts at 8:30 till 11:50, then lunch time until 1:30, and then classes again until 2:20 or 3:00. We do not have school on Wednesday afternoon, but instead of that we have to go to school on Saturday morning.

Dutch high schools do not have a sport-system as they have here. However, in winter or spring we play after schools in basketball, volley ball, soccer and baseball. Most of the students belong to sports clubs, separate from the school.

I find that thinking in school work is stressed, more in Winchester than in Amsterdam. The students specialize themselves more because they have each subject four times a week.

The first six weeks I couldn't get used to the system, particularly the assignment sheets, but now I am used to the system and I like it. The relationships between the students and teachers are very good and friendly here.

I am so glad that I am having the opportunity to study here, and to be a guest in Winchester, and I hope that more people from both countries can enjoy the experience that I am having.

Dr. Joseph Sheffer, Orthodontist To Open New Office

Joseph Sheffer, D. M. D. announces that he has assumed the Orthodontic practice of the late Dr. Seymour Abrams at 621 Main Street in Malden. DA 4-7490.

JOSEPH SHEFFER, D. M. D.

Dr. Sheffer, who was associated with Dr. Abrams in Brookline, is a graduate of the Browne & Nichols School, Brown University, and the Harvard School of Dental Medicine. He received his orthodontic training at Boston University School of Medicine, Department of Orthodontics, where he is now a faculty member and on the staff of the Massachusetts Memorial Hospitals. Dr. Sheffer is a member of the American Dental Association, Massachusetts Dental Society, Harvard Odontological Society, Brookline Dental Society, American Society of Dentistry for Children, Greater Boston Dental Society, and Alpha Omega dental fraternity.

Passenger Rate Is Still Rising On Experiment

During the 6th reporting week, namely February 8 through February 14, the line carried 28 per cent more passengers in 1963 than in 1962, reported Dr. Joseph F. Maloney, executive director of the Mass Transportation Commission.

Dr. Maloney stated - "That the 6th week is 3 per cent better than the 5th week which is most encouraging. Each week's figures must be compared against the same week of the preceding year. Actually, the weather picture in 1962 from February 8 through the 14th was severe, with a great deal of snow, which did in fact cause some train cancellations last year. This year's weather picture has been remarkably clear to date. All such factors do change the yearly comparisons."

Fine Arts Head To Address Art Association

Thomas N. Maytham, head of the department of paintings of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, will speak to the Winchester Art Association on Tuesday, March 5.

His illustrated talk is entitled "Barbizon and Boston." As the major exhibition of the spring season at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts will be on the Barbizon school of painting, which includes such favorite artists as Corot, Millet, and Rousseau. Mr. Maytham's talk here will be a timely preview of the subject.

A graduate of Williams College and Yale University, Mr. Maytham has served as an asssitant at the Wadsowrth Atheneum in Hartford and the Yale University Art Gallery. He came to the Museum of Fine Arts in 1956 as an assistant in the department of paintings. He is an active and popular lecturer in the Boston area. Winchester Art Association meetings are held in the Rich Room of the library at 7:45 p.m., and all are welcome to attend.

Climbing of Mt. Everest To Be Shown at McCall

The showing of exclusive color films and first-hand account of the first American expedition to Mt. Everest, May-June 1962, will be presented by Dr. Woodrow Wilson Sayre on Sunday afternoon, March 17, at McCall Junior High School, sponsored by the Winchester Chapter - Guild of The Infant Saviour." Mrs. Albert T. McDougall is chairman.

DR. WOODROW WILSON

"Everest Adventure" will be a public account of the widely publicized attempt by four amateur climbers, three Americans and one Swiss, to reach the top of the world's highest peak. The films to be shown are the only color movies taken on the North face of Everest in the Western World.

The climbing expedition organized by Mr. Norman Hansen, Boston attorney, and Dr. Woodrow Wilson Sayre, professor of philosophy at Tufts and grandson of the late Woodrow Wilson, and including as members of the party Roger Hart, Tufts student; Peter Duttle, Swiss schoolteacher, attempted the unclimbed North face of Everest, which no Western climbers have attempted since the last of the Great British Expedition failed in 1938. The route was the same as the one tried by the British climber Mallory forty years ago, and the one on which he later lost his life.

The expedition was unique in that it was planned by amateurs. Above Bass Camp, no oxygen was used, no guides, no porters, and there were no doctors or reserve climbers.

In his lecture, Dr. Sayre shows pictures of the 180-mile trip through the high valleys of Nepal from Kathmandu to Base Camp at 17,500 feet; of the 25-mile trip from Base Camp to Mt. Everest with the altitude averaging 20,000 feet, and finally of the climb itself on the North face up to an altitude of 25,000 to 25,500 feet.

Another American expedition is presently engaged in attempting Mt. Everest this year - 1963 - led by Norman Deyrenfurth. This expedition, costing $326,000 with fifteen tons of supplies, nineteen climbers, and a small army of porters, is trying the same peak which the Sayre party attacked with four climbers, one-half ton of supplies, no porters, and a total budget of $12,500.

Woodrow Wilson Sayre is the son of Francis B. Sayre, former professor at Harvard Law School, Massachusetts commissioner of correction, assistant secretary of state, high commissioner of the Philippines, and U. S. representative to the United Nations. His brother is the dean of Washington Cathedral, and his sister, Eleanor A. Sayre, is assistant curator of the Print Department at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts.

Tickets may be obtained by writing Mrs. Albert T. McDougall, chairman of the Guild, or calling PA 9-5493.

Nonagon Visits Perkins School

One of the most successful events of Nonagon's year was the trip to the Perkins School for the Blind. Twenty-four members twelve girls and twelve boys, had a wonderful time as guests of Perkins students. Roller skating, bowling, and card playing were included with great success in the entertainment.

The film, "Martin Luther" will be shown on March 3rd, 6:00 p.m. in Chidley Fireside. Nonagon members and their parents are invited. Refreshments will be enjoyed after the movie.

Two lectures on Christianity will be given by Mr. Richard Diehl this spring. The first, on March 16 at 10:00 a.m., is titled, "The Possibilities of Catholic Protestant Unification." The second, on April 13 at 10:00 a.m., is titled, "Christianity Faces the World Religions." These lectures are especially for all Nonagon members, but any adults interested are welcome to attend, and take part in a short discussion which follows.

Of Writers And Writing

By Frank Procopio

On the afternoon of July 2, 1961, a Sunday, it was hot and humid throughout most of America. People were watching baseball games, or crowding beaches, or just trying to sit still in the uncomfortableness of their homes. About 2:30 (EDT) those who had radios or television sets on heard the news flash that the writer, Ernest Hemingway, had shot and killed himself.

Reactions among the critical elite were varied. As a controversial figure Hemingway had the distinction of claiming many more enemies than friends. That temper of his had shattered the dignity of more than one armchair essayist. But most of the obituaries on Monday mornings were kind, and solemnly mourned the passing of an artist who painted his pictures with words.

Those who knew him intimately, and there were only a handful, remembered Hemingway in the nakedness of moods that ranged from sheer adolescence to compelling profoundness. But most people remembered him only as the author of a book called For Whom the Bell Tolls; knew he had a beard, and liked to be called "Papa;" knew he could one day be found drowning his sorrows in Sloppy Joe's, and the next be roaming the woods and streams completely cured; knew he had used his fists a little too often, and talked about the smells of the bullfight arena too much; knew, also, he had won the Nobel Prize for a powerful writing style, sometimes shocking and brutal, that never relented in its expression of realism. "A writer's job is to write the truth," he once said, and no one could ever accuse him of not having done his job. And whether he wrote about forsaken prostitutes and gangsters, or about an old man struggling with the intensity of a saint in the twilight of his life, he wrote simply and honestly.

He never propounded upon the theological aspects that motivated his characters yet still managed to reveal pieces of their souls. "I don't know what Man (with a capital M) means," he stated for reporters after it was announced he had won the coveted Nobel Prize, "but I do know what man (with a small m) means; and I hope I've learned something about men, and about women, and about animals."

Hemingway wasn't a born writer (no truly great writer is), he had to work at it. Every page, every paragraph, every sentence was a personal challenge and sweat-evoking struggle. He spent dry days, and he spent days when the writing came easy. He spent days wondering if he should be writing at all. But he told himself he was a writer, and that he wasn't writing only for himself. He was determined to leave an impression; and whenever he thought about life and death and compassion and love and all the things that mold the sequence of human existence, he felt compelled to pick up a pencil and write. It was as unsimple as that.

Then, on that hot morning in July, he arose before dawn and casually dressed; then he walked down a flight of stairs and into a study that was cluttered with books, letters, newspapers, and mementos. He hated to throw anything away. On one wall hung a handsome collection of rifles and shotguns. He took a 12 gauge shotgun from the rack, sat down with it, loaded both barrels, and cradled it in his arms.

We can conjecture what he thought about, what anyone might think about with time to think. He reflected upon a lifetime, upon the people who were a part of that life, upon the happiness, upon the sadness, upon the perfection every artist trys to attain but, if he is honest with himself, never quite does. After awhile, he tilted the gun upward so that it pointed into his face. Finally, he closed his eyes, and pressed down hard on both triggers.

Death was to him a simple thing, and whether it came slowly, as when a man is old, or whether it came violently and unexpectedly, it was natural. "All stories, if continued far enough, end in death," he had written, "and he is no true storyteller who would keep that from you." But death wasn't something to be feared, unless you hadn't accomplished what you knew you must. Then it became a contsant fear and a throbbing fear and a fear that diseased the mind with a hundred other fears. But, if you had gone out and done what you felt you had to do, and not cared what people thought of you, then death became as easy as being born all over again.

They buried him in Idaho, on a flat expanse that was once a hunting ground. To a small group of friends gathered at the graveside, a priest read something about one generation passing, and another coming, and about the sun that continues to rise upon them all.

Frank Procopio, 27, of 65 Holland Street, was born in Winchester, and educated in Winchester public schools, graduating from Winchester High School with the Class of 1953. In his senior year he worked as copy boy for the now defunct Boston Post. He then served with the U. S. Marine Corps, and contributed to the national Marine journal, The Leatherneck. In 1955 and 1956, he attended St. Francis Seminary in Andover, Mass. Throughout 1957 and 1958, he traveled about the West and South, pausing whenever the need arose to take an odd job. In Montana, he worked on a cattle ranch, in Kansas, a dairy farm; a variety of construction jobs followed in Ohio, West Virginia and Louisiana. He has submitted manuscripts to a number of national magazines and newspapers, and has his share of occasional acceptances and plentiful rejections. He is currently working on a book, and explains that it will be a short one since it loses a few pages each time he tosses it aside for rewriting.

Dancing School Change of Time

The Curry School of Dancing would like to call attention to the change of time for 7th and 8th grade dancing classes on Friday March 8.

On that date, there will be a combined class of Lynch and McCall for both grades. The 7th grade will meet in the Town Hall from 3:00 to 4:15 and the 8th grade will meet from 4:30 until 6:00 in the afternoon.

Curt Godwy Easter Seal General Chairman

Curt Gowdy, national sportscaster and "Voice of the Boston Red Sox," will be general chairman of the $300,000 Easter Seal campaign of the Bay State Society for the Crippled and Handicapped.

CURT GOWDY

The drive, to be held March 7 through Easter, April 14, is the chief source of support of the society's rehabilitation services which last year helped 1,371 crippled children and adults to lead more useful lives.

And in accepting the chairmanship, he said that the "unprecedented goal" is the minimum amount necessary to meet the changing and increasing needs of Massachusetts' crippled persons.

This is the second consecutive year that Gowdy, a member of the society's corporation, has headed the statewide appeal.

"It is a privilege to take such a prominent role again this year in the activities of the Easter Seal organization," Gowdy said. "I invite the volunteer cooperation of every Massachusetts resident to help bring the Society's rehabilitation services to as many crippled children and adults as possible in 1963. Our physically disabled have the courage to try to overcome their handicaps. It is the responsibility of the rest of us to provide sary services."
the financial support for the neces-

Easter Seal programs include a traveling rehabilitation team, the Rehabilitation Center of Worcester, a J.O.B. (Just One Break) placement program, individual case services, vocational counseling for teenagers, information and referral services and a project to eliminate architectural barriers to the handicapped and aging.

From the restful leather-and-mahogany decor, to the light blanket for your nap, Alitalia has only your comfort in mind. It's all very Italian, very thoughtful. Like enjoying Italy non-stop to London.

Italian care is legendary. Italian craftsmanship has been a touchstone since the Renaissance. Alitalia is right in the tradition. The pilots are craftsmen and the aircraft maintenance is perfection. Your flight captain will be a man with millions of miles of flying behind him. You'll be aboard the Super DC-8 jet powered with Rolls-Royce engines. This huge jetliner will have just left the hands of an expert Italian technician, having satisfied hundreds of checks and rechecks. That's the kind of care Alitalia takes of you.

Alitalia convenience is important, too. When you plan your trip to Europe, you have to choose a date. When you choose Alitalia you can leave any day you like. An example: 13 flights a week to Rome. Six to London. Until March 31st, the 17-day round trip Jet Economy fare from New York to London is only $350; to Rome, $484.30.

Take an Italian Airline?
Certainly!

Even your travel agent recommends it. Flights to Europe from New York, Boston, Chicago or Montreal.

Correction: It is Mrs. Dorothy Hills, not Mrs. Dorothy Ellis, who will be chairman of the Winchester Scholarship Fund Benefit Bridge to be held later in the spring.

The pre-emptive bid is a strong weapon to destroy the enemy's line of communication, especially when your side is not vulnerable and your opponents are vulnerable. Board No. 2 in Section A is a fairly good illustration of this type of defense.

East is the dealer, North-South vulnerable, and East-West not vulnerable.

At our table after East and South had passed, West opened with a pre-emptive bid of three hearts, with the hope that North-South had a vulnerable game but that it would be too difficult to discover where the game might be when they had to start their own bidding at a high level. It so happened that we were playing against very strong opponents, and they were not deterred from entering the bidding even at this level.

It is interesting to see how they arrived at their game in spite of the pre-emptive bid. Out of eleven pairs there were only two pairs who arrived at the proper game, and this pair was one of them. The bidding was as follows:

North	East	South	West
	Pass	Pass	3 Hearts
Double	Pass	4 D	Pass
4 S	Double	5 C	Pass
5 D	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened with the King of hearts, and South easily made five diamonds, losing only the King of hearts and the King of spades.

We wonder what would have happened if West had opened four hearts against this particular pair.

Editor's Note: This pre-emptive bid was a noble attempt, for the traveling score shows that when West was allowed to steal the bid, three hearts can be made. There is also a lesson here for die-hard duplicate players who love no-trump or a major suit. The North-Souths who play in spades are in trouble, while those who hunt for the fit in a minor suit fare well indeed.

The Hevey's Challenge Bowl will go into competition for the first time on Wednesday, March 6th, when the Club's Mixed Pairs Championship will be held at the Knights of Columbus Hall. A large field is expected to go after the title now held by defending champions Kay McConnell and William Duryea. Other previous winners include Mr. and Mrs. Carl Sittinger (1961) and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mainberger (1960). This event is open in the sense that visitors and guests may enter and compete for master points, but only club members are eligible to compete for the Hevey's Challenge Bowl and individual trophies.

Winchester Elks Have Fine Time At GER Reception

A large contingent of Winchester Elks were on hand to greet Grand Exalted Ruler Donaldson at a reception given in his honor by the Mass. Elks Association Saturday night.

Every lodge in Massachusetts was represented, with two entire floors of the Sheraton Plaza given over to the Massachusetts lodges, as well as the main ballroom of the hotel.

After a fine banquet and a minimum of speechmaking, the rest of the evening was given over to dancing and visiting of the various suites occupied by the Massachusetts lodges. Some of the members made it a point to visit every one of the brother lodges to get acquainted.

G.E.R. Donaldson honored Winchester Lodge by visiting its quarter not once, but twice. He captivated all the members in attendance with his charm and geniality.

Credit must be given to Jack Murphy and his able assistants for the fine job in handling the refreshments for the local lodge.

During the course of the evening one saw among others, Nick Zamanakos, Bill O'Connell, Frank Hadley, Bud Twombly, George O'Leary, Harry McGrath, Creighton Horn, Henry Allen, Eddie Roberts. Many wives were there, enjoying the festivities every bit as much as their husbands, especially the dancing in the main ballroom to a fine orchestra.

40TH ANNIVERSARY
DINNER-DANCE
SATURDAY, MARCH 9TH

Winchester Elks are reminded that the 40th anniversary celebration, a dinner dance, will take place at the Woburn Country Club Saturday night, March 9. The dinner menu has already been selected; for those addicted to excellent food it will be a real treat. Bob Fiore's Trio will furnish the music. Those who attended the Joe Peel testimonial dinner know what a fine musical combo he has.

Tickets are still available, but don't put it off to the last minute. If you haven't your tickets yet, contact Jack Murphy or Creighton Horn, or the steward at the Elks quarters.

Smith College Group Meets

The mid-winter meeting of the Smith College Club was held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Davis.

Mrs. Frederick Rozelle, Jr. conducted the brief business meeting. Then she and Mrs. Warren L. Price told members how interesting and stimulating they found a return to studying and teaching to be after a number of non-academic years.

Plans were announced by Mrs. Philip Parsons, Jr., to raise the money for the Smith scholarship the club makes available every year to a qualified Winchester girl by presenting a Film Festival at the Winchester Theatre. Dickens' "Great Expectations," a French comedy "La Belle Americaine" and Shakespeare's "Henry V" will be presented on the alternate Tuesdays, March 19, April 2, and April 16, as previously announced.

Mrs. Leslie DeGroot is in charge of publicity and Mrs. Morganthaler is ticket chairman. Tea and conversation, delicious and delightful respectively, concluded the meeting.

Birds and Animals Together March 11

Mrs. Dunbar Shanklin of 12 Everett Avenue will open her spacious home to the Winchester Auxiliary of the M.S.P.C.A. ("The Animals" we often call ourselves!) for the next monthly meeting on Monday, March 11th.

Most bird lovers like animals and vice versa, so Mrs. William Glowacki of the Audubon Society is due for a warm welcome when she talks to the Auxiliary on birds, including, or especially, hawks.

A life-time interest in birds, membership in the Pennsylvania and Connecticut as well as the Massachusetts branches of the Audubon Society, long week-ends at Audubon "Camp-outs" on Cape Cod and in Connecticut, all amply qualify Winchester's own Mrs. Glowacki to "tell us more."

Tea and a social hour will close what promises to be a particularly interesting and feathered afternoon. Members and friends are invited.

Do You Want To Do Business With Your Uncle Sam?

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall recently announced the availability of an informational kit published by the General Services Administration containing useful suggestions for persons interested in doing business with the Federal Government.

"Many businessmen, especially small businessmen, are handicapped by being unfamiliar with the mechanics of doing business with the many and varied agencies of the Federal Government," the Senator said. "Anyone who wishes to learn about Government procurement or who is interested in acquiring surplus property being sold by the Government will find the pamphlets contained in this kit of great assistance."

Copies of the kit may be obtained by writing to Senator Saltonstall, Room 1123 New Senate Office Building, Washington 25, D. C.

Art Rentals To Commence at The Public Library

Under the new rental plan, paintings are available for three-month periods at moderate rentals depending on the value of the work. Rental fees are deducted from the sale price if the renter decides to purchase the painting.

The paintings in the library, by well-known artists in the Boston area, range in price from $35 for a print to $450 for a large oil. Watercolors and drawings are also included. Mrs. Leo Casagrande of Winchester is the president of the Cambridge Art Association. Her painting "After the Storm" is included in the library show. Further details on the rental plan are available at the library, and at the Cambridge Art Association Gallery, 18 Eliot Street, Cambridge, near Harvard Square.

"Christ Jesus" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon this Sunday at First Church of Christ, Scientist, Winchester.

"I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me." These words of the Master taken from John's Gospel (14:6) will be used as the Golden Text.

"Therefore, my beloved brethren, be ye stedfast, unmoveable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, forasmuch as ye know that your labour is not in vain in the Lord" (I Cor. 15:58) is one of many passages that will make up the Scriptural readings.

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mark Baker Eddy this citation will be read: "It is possible,—yea, it is the duty and privilege of every child, man, and woman,—to follow in some degree the example of the Master by the demonstration of Truth and Life, of health and holiness" (p. 37).

Butler to Serve 1963 Easter Seal

Charles W. Butler, treasurer of the Winchester Trust Company will serve as treasurer in the Winchester area for the 1963 Easter Seal campaign of the Bay State Society for the Crippled and Handicapped. The local goal is $3,700.

Curt Gowdy of Wellesley Hills, nationally known sportscaster and "Voice of the Boston Red Sox," who is general chairman of the $300,000 statewide appeal, made the announcement. The drive opens March 7.

Mr. Butler said the Easter Seal Society last year helped 1,371 crippled children and adults toward happy, independent lives through its various rehabilitation services.

The Easter Seal campaign is the chief source of support of such programs as a traveling rehabilitation team, individual case services, vocational counseling for handicapped teenagers, the Rehabilitation Center of Worcester, a J. O. B. (Just One Break) placement program, and a project to eliminate architectural barriers to the handicapped and aging in public buildings.

Heart Sunday Campaign Close "Heartwarming"

Dr. Joseph Hayman, Massachusetts Heart Association president, and Jerome Rosenfeld, 1963 Heart Fund state chairman, today expressed the gratitude and appreciation of the MHA for the public's support of its annual fund campaign.

The month-long drive was highlighted last Sunday - Heart Sunday - with a statewide, house-to-house solicitation by Heart Neighbors.

Although final returns will not be learned for some time, Dr. Hayman, Tufts Medical School dean and Rosenfeld, Boston publisher-producer, said all available evidence pointed to a successful campaign.

In a joint statement, they declared:

"It is heartwarming indeed to have witnessed during February the hard work and selfless dedication shown by thousands of volunteers who gave unstintingly of their efforts so that the Massachusetts and American Heart Associations may continue their vital programs.

If you weren't at home on Heart Sunday, however, you still have the opportunity to do your share for the 1963 Heart Fund, they said.

Jerome Rosenfeld, Boston publisher-producer, reminded the public that when Heart Fund volunteers found nobody at home on Sunday, they left envelopes in which donations may be mailed.

He urged that every person at whose home an envelope had been left to mail a contribution as promptly as possible.

Church Meeting Will Hear Of Urban Problems

With many communities near Boston facing today the pressures of change, changing economics and families moving, new families moving in - urban problems are of personal and timely interest to most citizens.

DR. ALLEN HACKETT

This topic will be discussed frankly at the mid-winter meeting of the Women's Association, First Congregational Church, on Tuesday, March 5. The speaker will be Dr. Allen Hackett who came to Boston this fall to head a new project of coordinating the program of some 120 Congregational churches in the Greater Boston area, and to deal specifically with the urban problems here.

Dr. Hackett served for 11 years as pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational Church in St. Louis, and was awarded a citation from Temple Israel for his church's "complete integration." He was named by the Urban League as Man of the Year," and given a citation as "Ecumenical Man of the Year" in 1961 by the Metropolitan Church Federation of St. Louis. He is an author of note, has travelled widely to missionary posts throughout the world, and during the war years was stationed in Honolulu and became a warm friend of thousands of servicemen.

Within a radius of 20 miles of Boston, many communities today are facing urban problems undreamed of a decade ago, and are meeting pressures of upsetting change and growth. Dr. Hackett will build his talk on Tuesday around this problem.

Dessert will be served at 1:15 by the Friendship Guild, Mrs. Malcolm Boggs, director, and Mrs. Theodore Shasta, social chairman, with Mrs. Alfred J. Higgins, association president, presiding. There will be baby sitting service at a small nominal charge that day.

K of C Communion Breakfast

A catered breakfast will follow in the K. of C. Hall after the 8:00 a.m. Mass at St. Mary's Church. A former Navy chaplain, Rev. B. J. Finnegan, S.J., will be the guest speaker. Father Finnegan is now on the staff of the Campion Hall Retreat House in North Andover, and is an excellent speaker.

The committee for this affair is made up of the following: chairman, Jim Henry; Grand Knight, Frank Farley; Len Sortino, Al Lawton, Joe Simas, John Dolan, James Costello, Louis Castriatto, John Flaherty, Ed Dalton, Gene Rotondi, Greg Sacca, Vin Erhard, Dick Fiore, Vito Scaturro, Bob Costello, Norman Doucette, Phil Savage, John Mulrenan, Tom Mullaney, Chet Thebeault, Henry Murray, Jim Wharf, Charles Doucette, Everett Kimball, William Dailey, George Foley, Daniel Callahan, John McGee, Charles Riordan, William McGaragle, Thomas Gouthro, Joseph Kane, Bart Conlon, and Robert Stevenson.

Mass will be celebrated at 7:00 p.m. by Rev. Martin J. Dolphin, spiritual director; at St. Mary's church, after which a catered roast beef dinner will be served at St. Mary's Hall. The affair is open to the entire family as well as guests of members who would like to attend this enlightening event. Tickets have been issued to members and others are available by contacting any member of the Holy Name Society.

Others included on the committee are: Richard M. Hines, president; John M. MacDonald, vice president; John T. Looney treasurer; Robert J. Costello, corresponding secretary and Gregory F. Sacca, program chairman.

With the enthusiasm shown throughout the society and the amount of returns already made this will probably be the best attended dinner ever held in the history of the Society. The dynamic qualities of the speaker, Rt. Rev. Msgr. Francis J. Lally, as well as the enticing roast beef dinner, have made the success of this social and spiritual affair assured.

Film Program At Library

March 1 will come in like a lion with "The Hurricane Sisters Sweep New England," a twenty-minute film in black and white. Made by the New England Tel. & Tel. Co., the film pictures the mobilization of the Bell system to restore communication after "Carol" and "Edna" had leveled almost everything in their path.

The "Hare and the Tortoise" has an all-star cast of real animals including a wise old owl who acts as a judge, a fox who lays out the woodland race course, a gossipy goose, a rooster, and a raccoon who wakes up Mr. Hare too late.

From Norway comes the film, "Vikings: Life and Conquest," surveying the period of history known as the Viking Age. It recreates the spirit of the era and captures the mood of Viking life. It follows the Vikings to "the farthest corners of the known world as they raided, conquered, traded, and discovered, and then stayed on to settle, colonize and rule." This film illustrates the impact of the new and vigorous culture which the Northmen carried to Christian Europe and shows how the Vikings, in turn, were influenced by Christian ideas and customs. In color.

"MEMOS" FROM YOUR Stylist

By: "Woody"

Although the average woman devotes a great amount of time to her hair, she very likely knows surprisingly little about it.

She may be surprised to learn, for example, that hair is a thread-like outgrowth of the skin and scalp of the human body, designed by nature for conservation of heat, protection and adornment.

The number of hairs on the head varies considerably with hair color. Light blondes number about 140,000 hairs, those with brown hair about 110,000 and black and titian about 100,000.

Whether the hairs on the feminine head number 100,000 or a million, they will receive careful, tender attention at WOODY'S HAIR STYLES. From a simple shampoo to an attractive permanent, our operators take pride in exceptional work at WOODY'S HAIR STYLES, 573 Main St. Phone PA 9-3065.

Sachems Win Semi-Final From Malden Catholic In Bay State Tourney, 67-59

The Sachems of Winchester fought and hustled their way into the Class A final of the Bay State Tournament last Friday evening by turning back Malden Catholic High School, 67-59, in the semi-finals.

Winchester had to hustle to win and actually came from behind in the second half of the game. Malden had a five-point bulge at the half, 33-28, but some superlative all around play by Capt. Jim Devaney and Mike O'Dair pulled Winchester to a 47-40 lead at the third quarter, the Sachems outscoring Malden, 19-7, in the third chukkah.

Catholic made a bid to get back the lead with the score 63-59 and two minutes remaining to play. Forward Vic Papadinis, who had a good tournament all the way, took over at this point, however, scoring a basket and two foul shots to sew up the victory, 67-59.

Malden was on the small side for a championship contender, but made up for lack of height by their aggressiveness and hustle. The losers offered stubborn opposition all the way, but once the Sachems got out in front in the third quarter Catholic was out of it.

Marks Stars For Hamilton College

Statistics-minded hockey fans have found a new source for record-smashing figures, a 190-lb. Hamilton College art major who draws more pucks than pictures.

In fact, as of this week, the Hamilton goalie was credited with 566 saves. He's allowed a mere 82 goals in 13 games, giving him a shots saved percentage of 87.3.

The Continental goalie is Ted Marks, a junior from Winchester. In addition to tending his magnetic net - it's been shot at 648 times this season - Marks is captain of an inexperienced squad which picked up its first win only last Saturday against Amherst. Its record now stands at 1-11-1 with four games remaining on the card.

A blue-eyed six-footer, Marks hit his high water mark of the season against Middlebury when he was credited with 60 saves. Two other high save games were Army (57) and Norwich (53). So far he's played a total of 750 minutes, two periods short of every minute of 13 games.

Marks began his hockey career at the Choate School in Wallingford, Connecticut, where, as a goalie, he led the team to a 104 record in his senior year. As a freshman at Hamilton, he was elected second-team goalie at the Cornell Christmas tournament. As a sophomore, he averaged over 40 saves per game, including a high of 58 against Bowdoin College.

Marks is modest about his puck-saving talents and prefers to credit coach Greg Batt and the defensemen. Batt, however, believes Marks is a rarity among goalies. "The greater the pressure, the cooler he gets," says Batt.

Seven Here Will Skate In 51st "Ice Chips" Show

REPRESENTING WINCHESTER IN THE 51st "ICE CHIPS" SHOW, to be presented by the Boston Skating Club on March 8, 9, and 10 at the Boston College McHugh Forum, will be Caroline, Alison and Craig Holt (front row), and their parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Sheppard Holt, and James N. Jones (back row). Mrs. Jones is also in the large star-filled cast.

These are busy days for local members of The Boston Skating Club as they get ready to present "Ice Chips of 1963" at Boston College McHugh Forum on March 8, 9 and 10.

Rehearsing members have been on a spritely whirl of carefree high jinks from Rome to Scotland, the ski slopes of the Alps to the dude ranches of the West preparing "Vacation Ice" for the public.

Appearing in Ice Chips this year are Mr. and Mrs. F. Sheppard Holt and children Caroline, Alison and Craig of Emerson Road, and Mr. and Mrs. James N. Jones, 44 Ledyard Road.

Champions from the world of skating will perform in The Skating Club's musical revue in celebration of Boston College's Centennial Year, but the real stars will be the youngsters.

Bonnie lassies, ballerinas and Swiss yodelers have been precisely drilled in their colorful Ice Chips numbers, but when the curtain rises, the expected unexpected happens - a toddler wanders and a new star is born.

Supporting the youthful stars in the holiday "vacation on ice" are today's champions tiny Tina Noyes a student at Marycliff Academy here, National Junior Champion; brother and sister, Elizabeth and Paul George, National Junior Pair Champions; Margaret "Fitzie" Grogan, New England Novice Champoin; and Ann Ferguson, New England Junior Champion.

This will be the Skating Club's 51st presentation of Ice Chips, their annual production. Many of the best known skaters such as Sonja Henie, Tenley Albright, Carol Heiss, Dick Button, Don Jackson and Winchester's own Vinson and Owen family members have skated for Ice Chips, the oldest ice show.

League's First Most Valuable Player

HARRISON CHADWICK, COACH, DAVE ROWE, TROPHY WINNER, AND CHUCK SWIM, HONORABLE MENTION, all pleased that Dave brought to Winchester the first trophy to be awarded to the outstanding player in play in the Junior High Suburban Hockey League. Dave and Chuck are McCall School 9th graders. Mr. Chadwick coaches the combined junior high school players. He has been a hockey coach here for about 25 years.

M. V. Player Award to Rowe

Although Winchester didn't quite make the Suburban Junior Hockey League playoffs at the Boston Arena last Saturday, David Rowe, captain of the Junior High School hockey team, was awarded a handsome trophy for having been adjudged the most valuable player in the league.

Saturday marked the first time the trophy had been awarded and to Rowe goes the distinction of being the first player to receive this coveted award. It was presented by Mr. Joseph Tomasello, manager of the Boston Arena.

In addition to the trophy David received a hockey scholarship to the Eastern Hockey Clinic to be held in Worcester in August. Those selected for such recognition go to the clinic for the week and receive valuable coaching from members of the Boston Bruins and other professional stars.

As another honor David was also selected as center on the first line of the League All Star team. "Chuck" Swim, another Winchester boy playing left wing on the junior high first line, received honorable mention in the all star balloting.

Harrison Chadwick, coach of the Suburban Juniors, felt that the honors won by Rowe and Swim overshadowed Winchester's failure to get its team in the playoffs.

Following is the citation which accompanied the award:

In recognition of his good sportsmanship and value to his team as a player, DAVID ROWE of Winchester, Mass. is hereby awarded the Eastern Hockey Clinic Award for the Junior High League conducted at the Boston Arena.

This award is the first award given by the Eastern Hockey Clinic and will be given each year to the boy chosen as the "Most Valuable" in the league.

The winner will be given a two week instruction program at the Eastern Hockey Clinic which is conducted at Worcester, Mass. each summer. The Clinic will pay for the room, board and instruction session for either the August 5 to 17 or the August 19 to 31 session.

Yours for better sports
Richard "Doc" Conners
Founder and Director
Eastern Hockey Clinic.

Sachems Come From Behind To Defeat Lexington

The Winchester High School basketball team defeated Lexington 77-72 in a come from behind victory to remain in contention for Bay State Tournament. Guard, Mike O'Dair sparked a Sachem comeback with 12 points in the third period as the Sachems outscored their opponents 23-12 in the third period.

Lexington jumped out on an early lead as guard Charlie Egan hit for two quick baskets, 14-8. The Sachems fought back, but Lexington took a 4 point lead at the end of the first quarter 20-16.

As the second quarter started, Lexington pulled ahead by eight points as Jack Glennon hit for a pair of baskets. The Sachems made a comeback, as Capt. Jim Devaney was hitting for the Sachems. Lexington was, however, shooting very well as Jack Glennon and Charlie Egan were hitting from all over the court. The Sachems were down 45-42 as the half ended.

The Sachems made a comeback as the second half started, with Mike O'Dair and Jim Devaney both hitting for baskets to put the Sachems ahead 46-45. The Sachems tightened their defense as Bob Fahey was blocking shots and grabbing the rebounds, in his firmest game. Mike O'Dair and Jim Devaney hit a total 19 of the Sachems 23 points as the Sachems pulled out to a 65-57 lead at the end of the third period.

As the fourth quarter began Lexington cut the Sachems lead to 65-61. The Sachems played steady ball but Lexington was right on their heels as the Sachem's lead was cut to 73-70. Vic Papadinis scored two quick baskets for the Sachems to pull them ahead 77-72 as Lexington scored only one basket, and the Sachems were victorious.

Capt. Devaney led the Sachems with 23 points, closely followed by Vic Papadinis and Mike O'Dair with 21 and 16 points respectively. Charlie Egan and Jack Glennon led Lexington with 20 and 19 points respectively.

Sachems' Bob Foley was the unsung hero of the game as he played a great defensive game for the Sachems.

S. O. I. Bowling League

With only three more meetings remaining in the S. O. I. Bowling League Yale still holds first place but next in line and very close is Alabama. Both teams have 29 wins and 7 losses but Yale rates top position because it has a lead of 241 in total pin falls.

The last time out Capt. Richie Bucci led Yale in its 3-1 victory over twelfth place Maryland. Richie hit for 97-107-124 with Joe Capone offering good support with scores of 98-110-97 and Mike Collucci hitting for 87-103-104. Dan Gattineri topped all of Maryland with excellent strings of 127-105-112.

Second place Alabama edged Harvard by a 3-1 score to keep the defeated in seventh spot. Going strong for the winners were Capt. Correction Fiore with 104-102-94 and Dom Provinzano who finished up with encouraging scores of 106-91-99. Harvard's Capt. Babe Tofuri was the only one to hit the 300 mark with strings of 104-115-90.

Holy Cross trimmed B. C. by a 3-1 score to stay in third spot, while B. C. dropped one notch to fifth. Phil Ardagno had a big night for H. C. with 123-119-91 and Capt. Moose Bellino rated next with 115-98-97 followed by Arka Amico's 84-101-110. Losing B. C. had three men in the 300 mark with Slim Lentine scoring 103-103-122, Pete Gilberto 97-109-97 and Big Ted Peluso 98-106-97. Johnny Mangano was up there too with 104-99-95.

Bates moved up one place to fourth after taking eleventh place California 3-1. Going great guns for the victors were Jake Ciarcia 102-95-128, Skitchy Fiore 100-93-121 and Mario Mascioli 101-98-107. Leading bowlers for losing California were Tony Bavuso 98-108-101, Carl Bertolucci 97-99-103 and Charlie Gangi 107-87-97.

Army moved from ninth to eighth place as a result of winning over Georgetown by a 3-1 score but despite the loss Georgetown was not moved from sixth slot. Blasting for Army were Capt. Tony Saraco who did tremendously well rolling scores of 119-122-121, Woozy Giacalone 119-106-101 and Dom Gallello 93-101-101. Trying to stall off Army were Joe Marrone with 92-110-113 and Capt. Dick Trabucco who led his unit with fine tallies of 117-120-92.

Penn dropped down to last place again after its 1-3 defeat at the hands of Notre Dame who climbed up two places to ninth. Finding the range for N. D. were Capt. Dick Tofuri with 120-128-92 and Johnny Frongillo 105-103-101. Those to zero in for losing Penn were Geri Cerrulli with 112-123-107 and Mike J. Saraco 94-111-106.

St. Mary's took three points from Navy to climb out of the cellar while Navy's loss moved it down two places to tenth position. Going strong for St. Mary's were Mingy Frongillo with 114-89-108, Joe Ciarcia 109-104-90 and Tony Melaragni 96-105-96. Capt. Max LaCarubba was still out because of an ailing back and Frank Dattilo hit for 74-103-76. Top men for Navy were Tony Chefalo who really bowled them over with strings of 107-136-129, Roundy Fiore 111-115-103 and Paul Amico 105-103-90. Mario Lentine hammered his thumb and had difficulty rolling 86-87-84.

Eyes will be focused upon games between first place Yale vs fifth place B. C., second place Alabama against tenth place Navy and third place Holy Cross vs last place Penn.

Brothers-in-Law	10	30	6687
Giant Killers	10	30	6592
Hoboes	8	32	6504

Grandma's Teeth defeated the Giant Killers with enough pinfalls to hold an edge over the Atlantic Gelatin for first place. E. Robertson with a good night of 116-113-103 for 332 led the Grandma's Teeth, as the Giant Killers faded out of sight. George MacMillan and Phil Dresser were high for the losers.

The Atlantic Gelatin rolled a little bit better than the Brothers-in-Law, but it was enough to sweep the series. Oscar Lovgren 310, and Ozzie McClay 302 were high men for the Gelatin as J. Russo fought hard and was high for the Brothers-in-Law. The Gelatin stayed right on the heels of the Grandma's Teeth, shooting for first place.

The Post Office still holding on, with a new lease on life, bombed the Hoboes, as they took eight and held on to third place. Kennie Griswold was high with a 301 to lead his charges to victory.

The match of the week proved too much for the 49ers, as they could not get started, and were drowned by pinfall of the Mill Hillers, who had their best effort to date. Joe Cassidy 336, J. Callahan 327, E. Fuller 308, B. Kelley 302 and F. Kimball 292 for 1565 in pinfalls caused all the trouble for the 49ers. B. Pinky Wilson and B. Letteire were high for the 49ers.

Strike Lanes continued their climb into playoff position as they rolled over the stubborn St. Mary's by a score of 6 to 2. Ricky Smith curved his way to high man of 307 in a close match as Jim Caulfield tried to get his St. Mary's club up, and finally won the last string.

J. H. Winn won two strings and lost the last as they made the Converse believers.

Ralph Jury with 101-110-85 for 296 was the high man in this series, as the Converse could not muster enough pins until the last string, and it was too late.

P. A. L. Basketball Games

The eighth week of P.A.L. basketball ended as Providence, Ohio State and Navy were victorious. Big Willis Floyd racked up 22 points to lead Providence to a 38-26 victory over Cincinnati. The first round winners, Cincinnati, were without the services of their star center John Doherty, and thus took it on the chin. Big Willie Floyd had no trouble controlling the boards, and scoring.

Floyd's all around play made up for the slack of Johnny Martin who suffered a bad night and could score only 4 points. Brian LaPointe had only 4 points, but he teamed up with little Johnny Lanzillo to assist on most of Providence's baskets.

Tom Harris paced the losers with 8 points, while Mike Ciarcia and Frankie Giacalone had 7 points apiece. If Floyd can continue to play good basketball, which he is capable of, Providence will be hard to beat.

In the second game Billy "Atlas" Shields hooped 24 points to lead Ohio State to a 36-20 victory over Holy Cross. Paul Rigney was held to 10 points, and without Brian Collins Holy Cross was unable to click. Kenny Garvey and Jimmy Appleton had 6 points and 4 points respectively, also in a winning cause for Ohio State.

A small but hustling Navy five edged a 46-42 victory over an up and coming Duke team. Navy paced the gunning of Rick Rogers and Pete Mawn with 23 points, and 19 points respectively, offset the 19 points by Ricky Kidder and the 14 points by Bob Blanche, for a well-earned Navy victory.

Rogers and Mawn bombed shots in from all over the court and the two boys make up one of the best backcourt teams in P.A.L. basketball. Lack of a real big man is the only thing holding Navy back from one of the top positions.

Varsity Club's Annual Sports Jamboree March 1

The Winchester High School Varsity Club's Annual Sports Jamboree will take place Friday night, March 1, in the High School gymnasium, commencing at 7:30.

At that time the women's faculty basketball team will play the high school girls' team, and the men's faculty team that recently met the Harlem Diplomats will play the Boys' varsity that won the Bay State League basketball championship last week.

The Harlem Diplomats were loud in their praise of the men's faculty team and the professors are out to show up the championship high school group. Coach "Jimsy" Phillips, Bob Kessler, Lou Knight and the entire group with Lou Goddu as trainer will be present Friday night and expect to win one way or another.

In addition to the basketball games, the gymnastics team will give an exhibition and there will be exhibition wrestling, without blood.

Winchester Scored 5-2 League Win Over Stoneham

Winchester High closed out its 1963 hockey season last Saturday afternoon at the Lynn Sports Center, beating Stoneham, 5-2, to finish in fourth place in the Middlesex League standing. Had it not been for those match penalties to Barry Johnson and Rick Connor, resulting from the Lexington imbroglio, Winchester might have been invited to the schoolboy tournament. The penalties were not deserved in Winchester's book.

The Sachems played without Tommy Johns, still nursing a broken wrist, and Gerry Hills, who has not gotten over a tonsilectomy. To make things worse Ronnie Scherban left the ice for medical attention at the end of the second period, six stitches being necessary to close the gash made by a high stick.

Winchester went right to work on Stoneham and broke the ice with a goal at 1:49 of the first period. Eddie Cutting skated the puck behind the Stoneham net and passed out to Murphy on the right side. Murphy fed the puck in turn to Barry Johnson who scored on a foot-high sizzler.

At 3:51 of the first period Dave Eaton fought for the puck at the blue line and passed to Bevin O'Callaghan. Scherban skated up from his defense position and took Murphy's pass, skimming it into the Stoneham net.

The Sachems scored at 53s of the final period. Cutting picked up the puck at center ice and pulling the defense to the left, set up Murphy about 20 feet in front and a little to one side of the cage. Cutting passed in to Murphy who quickly slapped the puck past the Stoneham goaler.

Stoneham picked up its second goal at 8:13 of the final stanza when Sumner took a pass from Pitcher and sneaked the puck past Connor.

Barry Johnson scored Winchester's final goal of the season when he took a pass from Ed Cutting and let go a beautiful back-hander to beat the Stoneham goaler. This goal tied him for league scoring honors with Hurley of Melrose.

Winchester Bay State Class A Winners, 59-42

Winchester High made it eight in a row last Saturday night at Northeastern gymnasium, beating Taunton High School, 59-42 to win the Class A Championship of the Bay State Basketball League playoffs. Teams that did not win 65 per cent of their games during the season were eligible for play in the Bay State.

Winchester led Taunton all the way last Saturday and was never in any danger. The Sachems led 16-8 at the quarter and 32-14 at the half.

Taunton made a game effort to catch Winchester with the resumption of play but the Sachems' height and fast break offense were too much to overcome.

Vic Papadinis led all scorers with 15 points. Mike O'Dair and Captain Jim Devaney followed with 15 and 11 points. Both Papadinis and O'Dair were picked for the tourney all star team on the basis of their showing in the semi-final and final games.

Devaney and O'Dair were selected for the Middlesex League all star team, but were unable to compete with the group because of their championship game Saturday night.

Captain Devaney led the tournament scorers with 80 points in four games for a 20 point average. Jim was also the Sachems' all important leading rebounder. He finished fourth in scoring in the Middlesex League with 224 points for a 16 point average.

S. O. I. Women's Bowling League

What hams! ! ! I never saw so many strikes and spares. Just because there was a camera around. I hope Frank Provinzano caught all the action. The girls won't bowl again unless there is a camera around.

We will give Eleanor the prize for jumping the highest and Bobbie the prize for being the calmest. Emma really showed off for hubby by bowling 107.

We will pay the blackmail money Frank, don't show the pictures to the men. We don't want you to show them Sports Night for entertainment.

Last, but certainly not forgotten, we have the Springs. Thank you for waiting so long. This team is without a doubt the craziest team there is. They don't win all the time but they have a ball. It's a pleasure to bowl against them.

First of all we have Captain Kay Lentine. There is so many nice things to say about Kay. I don't know where to start. Bowl a little harder Kay, we would like to see you a Captain again next year.

Jerry D'Onofrio, remember, is the girl who couldn't stay away. Glad you came back to bowl and not to sit and talk to Eleanor all night.

Phil Marone who quietly gets up and bowls real good. She doesn't brag about all the strikes and spares she is going to get, she first gets them. Hear your doing much better.

Eleanor Russo works so hard. I heard Frank is going to move the rubber down a foot or so. Gee whiz, girl, you shouldn't talk to Jerry all the time. Virginia Gorassi, poor little thing, she never gets a word in edge wise with all the professional talkers on that team.

Well now, I've been through all the teams and everybody has seen their name in print. If you want to see it again you will have to do something real crazy. If anybody has a little piece of gossip, please tell Cusi and she in turn will tell it to your sneaky reporter.

Discussed the bowling banquet last Wednesday night and things sound just great. Wear a loose "you know what" the food is going to be wonderful.

We would like to see some new names on the 100 club list.

St. Mary's Ousts Arlington 5-3

A five point performance by Frank Manzie (two goals three assists) sparked Saint Mary's thrilling 5-3 upset over previously unbeaten Saint Agnes of Arlington in the semi-final round of the C. Y. O. Hockey Tourney.

Pepper Cunningham took the opening face-off and slid a pass over to John Stabile who quickly fired over to Manzie and the hustling left winger slammed a thirty footer into the Arlington cage to give Saint Mary's a 1-0 lead at only the seven second mark of the first period.

While Saint Agnes was still reeling from the shock of this early goal, defenseman Dennis Griffin took a Manzie pass and slapped home a 50 footer which deflected in off the skate of an Arlington defender.

Facing a two goal deficit, Saint Agnes began an all out attack which ultimately succeeded in knotting the count at 2-2. The first of these goals was the result of a perfect set up in front of the cage on which the sprawling Kevin Connor had no chance at all.

The second counter came early in the second frame when a whistling thirty footer found the lower corner of the Winchester cage. For a few anxious moments it appeared that Saint Agnes was on its way to a remarkable come from behind victory, but Saint Mary's harbored no thoughts of relinquishing their championship without a struggle and at 5:07 of the middle stanza Skip Fucillo took Frank Manzie's lead pass, lured Corbett out of his net and shot the disc into the drapes to dissolve the tie. Sixty five seconds later Frank Manzie scored what proved to be the winning goal when he beat Corbett with a rising shot to the left.

Saint Mary's added an insurance tally to start the third period when crease cruising John Stabile tipped in Cunningham's long shot. Frank Manzie was also credited with an assist on the play.

Although Saint Agnes was able to press the attack throughout the final minutes they were able to tally only one more goal. The final marker occurred with two minutes remaining in the game when a low shot beat McCarthy to the left to make the score 5-3.

The defense tandem of Griffin and Fucillo came up with their best effort of the season. Both point men scored once in addition to breaking up innumerable Arlington rushes.

Next Sunday at 1:00 p.m. Saint Mary's takes the final step in defense of the Cardinal Cushing Trophy, emblematic of C.Y.O. hockey supremacy, when they face off against the bruising East Boston club in what should prove to be the game of the year.

High School Publishes New Magazine "Prism"

It is the first purely literary magazine in the school's history. It is beautifully printed on glossy paper and contains sixteen pages of short stories, poems, and illustrations. For the next issue, the editors hope to be able to increase the size to twenty-four pages and the scope to include humor and satire as well.

The magazine was first conceived almost three years ago and preparations were then made for a first issue, but were dropped because of lack of time and funds. The project was resumed last year but was abandoned again for the same reasons. This year, the students of Winchester High School have finally succeeded in publishing.

"It looks really great and ought to become a permanent fixture at Winchester High" and "It ought to rank with the very best" were typical student and faculty reactions.

A limited number of copies will be available to interested townspeople at the Winchester Star, Hevey's Pharmacy, and Spaulding's Bookshop.

Local Women Give Boost To YWCA Building

Several Winchester women were planning to attend the YWCA tea this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Horace W. Frost on Longfellow Road in Cambridge, at which public announcement of the proposed new residence building will be made. Housing facilities in the present building, after more than fifty years, are no longer adequate, about half of the promising young applicants now have to be turned away.

Erection of the new residence building is due primarily to the recent, generous offer by a local foundation of $150,000, provided an equal amount is raised by May, 1964. The final goal has been set by the board of directors at $350,000. With the permission of the Cambridge Community Services and the United Community Services, private fund-raising efforts have already produced $59,000 from other generous foundations and individuals.

High point of the tea launching the public part of the fund-raising campaign will be the unveiling of the architect's drawings of the new residence. This is the first time that the Cambridge YWCA has appealed to the public for help in increasing its housing since 1910, when the present 45 rooms, which house girls from Armenia, France, India and South America as well as Americans, were built. The entire campaign is being conducted by volunteers.

Among the active participants invited to the start of this campaign are many from the surrounding areas served by the Cambridge YW, including Winchester, Belmont, Lexington, Arlington, Lincoln and Boston.

Mrs. Chester L. Dawes will be in charge of residence solicitation in Winchester, and assisting her will be Mrs. Frank X. White and Mrs. John M. Harrington, Jr.

Prof. Whatmough To Be Vermont Academy Speaker

Joshua Whatmough of 17 Central Street, professor of Comparative Philology and chairman of the Department of Linguistics at Harvard University, will be the guest speaker at Vermont Academy, Saxons River, Vermont, tomorrow evening March 1.

Last year the Academy introduced a new series of lectures entitled Man and His World, 24 lectures in all, each given by an authority in the field covered by the lecture.

The series is in the nature of a pioneer experiment to bridge the gap between the Independent School and University for its senior students, young men seventeen to nineteen years of age.

In addition to opening new vistas to the students for consideration before entering College, saving them considerable uncertainty on entry, they serve the useful purpose of introducing the students to outstanding personalities in University circles, of acclimatizing them to the University class room and of teaching them how to take a mature part in the discussion following the lecture.

The series covers many facets of life and Professor Whatmough will lecture on Language, a field in which he is an international authority.

VFW Post 3719 Auxiliary Bowling

Four of our bowlers were in the 100's this week. Phyllis bowled a 107. Three over 100 strings in four weeks is really excellent bowling, Phyl. Welcome to the 100 Club Marguerite T. your 106 string was well earned. Marsha also bowled a 106 string and Blanche so it's good to have you back again.

High single goes to Phyllis with 107. Blanche takes high triple with 281, Marsha's 278 is second, and Marguerite T.'s 275 is third. Biggest smile of the week goes to Lib. How many strikes and spares did you get Lib? I lost count. Don't worry so much about your bowling, Nellie, your average is climbing bit by bit each week. Not every beginner can do as well as you have.

The Clubs finally did it. They won 3 points from the Hearts. That will be good news for Eva. The Spades took 3 to the Diamonds one to better their lead in the standings. Hurry back, Rose.

Howard Niblock, Jane McClennan, Henry Fitts, Grace Soucek, and Martha Genicot. Missing the bus the night of the show are Eleanor Stabile, playing an attractive visitor from Hollywood, Dot Macdonald, a ski victim returning from vacation, and Janet Knight and Don Dalrymple. Lenten Study At First Baptist

Two six week Lenten study groups will be sponsored by the First Baptist Church from Sunday March 3 through the week of April 7.

The first which will be taught by the pastor, Mr. O'Donnell, will be conducted at the church on Sunday evenings from 7:45-9:00. We will meet in the social hall from 7:45-8:00 for an old-fashioned hymn sing. At 8:00 the group will gather in the church library for an hour-long study of Dr. Leander E. Keck's book "Taking The Bible Seriously."

This course is an outgrowth of adult requests for help in reading the Bible intelligently. Dr. Keck's thesis is: "We take the Bible seriously when we allow both the reader and the Bible to meet each other honestly. Such a meeting brings both opportunity and danger. The Bible risks being set aside by a person who cannot believe it, and the reader risks being convinced by what the Bible has to say. That is, if the reader takes the Bible seriously enough to meet its message, God Himself may apprehend him. This essay explores the basis for reading the Bible thus and sketches its consequences."

The author received his B. A. from Linfield College, his B. D. from Andover Newton Theological School, and his Ph. D. from Yale. Prior to his present position as associate professor of New Testament at Vanderbilt University Divinity School, Dr. Keck was an instructor of Biblical history, Literature and Interpretation at Wellesley College.

The second study group led by Miss Mary Skruta, director of Christian Education, will meet Tuesday evenings at 7:45 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Allison, 42 Water Street. This group will study the book, "Life Together," by Dietrich Bonhoeffer. This book is considered by some to be as real and as relevant as the letters of St. Paul. It is primarily a consideration of the meaning of Christian community, the place of private devotions, and also discusses the life of the Christian at his job.

The author, Dietrich Bonhoeffer, a prisoner of the Nazis, wrote this book out of his own experience of the deep meaning of the Christian community found in life together in an "underground" seminary. Killed by the Nazis late in the war, he is considered by many alongside the saints and martyrs of the church who saw the way of discipleship and walked it to the end.

We invite you to participate in either or both of these Lenten Study groups. If transportation is needed please call the church office 729-2864 between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Democratic Town Committee Notes

The meeting at Mrs. Peggy Harsch's home which was to have been held last Tuesday evening has been postponed. It will now take place on Friday night of this week March 1, at 8:30 with Mrs. Harsch the hostess.

The reason for changing the date was the announcement that there is to be a lecture on Tuesday evening following the meeting of Our Lady's Sodality at the Immaculate Conception Church.

Mrs. Bee Wilson, chairman of the Irish Night Committee, announces that plans are almost completed for that social event. Democratic chairman Elizabeth McDonald was a head-table speaker at the testimonial given city editor Michael J. Curran last Sunday evening in the Woburn Armory, attended by 800.

Forum Service At 9:15 Sunday

The Senior Forum of First Congregational Church will meet for its regular weekly chapel service this Sunday at 9:15 a.m. with a service of Holy Communion to be conducted by the Rev. Wesley A. Mallery, Forum director.

These services were planned by the Student Council for the Forum season and Sunday's service will mark the opening of the Lenten season in a fitting manner. Richard Lindsey and Stuart Bowers will serve as chaplains. Scott Cunningham and Rick Halverson will be deacons.

At 6:00 p.m. Sunday there will be Class Night meetings at the homes of the class advisers as follows: Seniors with Dr. and Mrs. Robert Millican, 316 Highland Avenue; Juniors with Mr. and Mrs. Richard Keppler, 12 Fells Road; Sophomores with Mr. and Mrs. Jenness Eugley, 43 Wildwood Street. Discussion will be led by the class representatives: for the Seniors, Margie Purvis and Dean Ericson; for the Juniors, Elizabeth Jackson and Dan Brink; for the Sophomores, Sally Worthen and Russ Osgood. Members of Forum are invited to attend the meeting of their class.

Forum members will be at the Church School Office each afternoon during the next few weeks to promote the sale of Keepsake Plates which the group is sponsoring in connection with the Forum 25th Anniversary year.

Forum members will attend the second of the series of Interchurch Youth Lenten Services on Wednesday at 7:15 a.m. at Meyer Chapel in the Unitarian Church.

Second Special Town Meeting Is Called For New Comptroller Act

In what would normally be a very uneventful meeting on election night, the Board of Selectmen signed a second warrant for an additional Town Meeting to be called in the same month as the regularly scheduled annual Town Meeting. The new Special Town Meeting will be held on Thursday, March 21st, at 7:45 p.m., in the Memorial Auditorium of the Senior High School.

It is unusual to call a Special Town Meeting during the period of a regularly scheduled annual Town Meeting (Thursday, March 14th) due to the fact that the session of the Town Meeting is frequently adjourned to several additional such meetings for further deliberation on the large number of articles put into the Warrant

However, in the event of an adjourning to March 21st, the Special Town Meeting will take precedence over the adjourned session until the order of business for the Special Town Meeting is completed. Then the adjourned session of the regular Town Meeting will reconvene.

The board's action came as a result of Governor Endicott Peabody's signing into being the Comptroller Act on February 20th. The "Act Establishing the Office of Comptroller in the Town of Winchester" was before the 1962 Town Meeting and the representative members voted to petition the Legislature for permission to make the local change.

The petition was submitted by Representative Harrison Chadwick for the Town as House Bill 1130. It was given a public hearing in the State House by the Joint Legislative Committee on Cities and Towns on January 29. The Bill received favorable recommendation by the committee and was passed in both the House and Senate. It was formally enacted by the House on February 13th, and by the Senate on February 14th.

The Comptroller Act will now come before the Town Meeting Members on March 21st for formal acceptance or disapproval. The Act was passed essentially as it was presented to the Legislature by the Town committee. The Town must take action on the establishment of the new act within two years after its passage by the Legislature.

The Special Town Meeting Warrant has two articles. Article One. To see if the Town will accept Chapter 57 of the Acts of the General Court in the year 1963 entitled "An Act Establishing the Office of Comptroller in the Town of Winchester." And Article Two. To see if the Town will accept the provisions of General Laws Chapter 54, Section 16A entitled "Vacancies; Appointments by City or Town Clerks to fill." and take any action in relation thereto.

The early call for a Special Town Meeting and acceptance of the Comptroller Act by a majority of the Town Meeting Members could bring about the establishment of the new office at the Town Hall this year or next year.

The act entails the appointment of the new Comptroller for a three year term by the Board of Selectmen as soon as possible after the Town accepts the act. Such a term would begin on the first day of April following an acceptance of the act. Appointment of the Comptroller would then be made in March of every third year following the original term of office.

The establishment of a Town Comptroller would automatically abolish the post of Town Accountant. The Comptroller would serve as a chief accounting officer for the Town, and his principal duty would be to assure the most efficient possible use of personnel and material in the administration of Town Government and to maximize efficiency in Town accounting procedures. Such a Town Comptroller would have absolutely no independent policy making power, and would be responsible to the selectmen, who could remove the incumbent from office upon evidence of cause.

Winchester Police are investigating several reports over the past few weeks of a stranger who is walking the streets and accosting young females.

The last reported incident was on Saturday. At 3:32 p.m. the police received a call from a distraught Winchester mother who said her 10-year-old daughter had been accosted by a strange man while she was walking on Cambridge Street. The man followed the young girl onto Church Street.

On Saturday, February 23, a local housewife telephoned the police to report that her 11-year-old daughter had been approached by a thin and balding man wearing a khaki jacket on Mystic Valley Parkway near Washington Street. The man, reportedly talking with a slight foreign accent, told the girl "You would make a good model."

Police said that several other incidents of a similar nature had been mentioned to them by other residents, but were not reported by the families involved.

According to the reports received by police, the method of approach used by the potential molester has in every case been on foot. While the police are keeping alert on the situation, the Police Department has asked that parents remind their children not to talk to or accept favors from any strangers.

Irwin Preliminary Subdivision Plan Gets PB Approval

The Planning Board tentatively approved a preliminary subdivision plan of land owned by Richard J. Irwin on the westerly side of Ridge Street at its Monday night meeting.

The preliminary plan calls for 19 house lots on the westerly side of Ridge Street. Another preliminary subdivision plan for the easterly side of Ridge Street, also owned by Mr. Irwin and containing 25 house lots, was given tentative approval by the Planning Board on February 18.

The board made no significant recommendations for changes in either of the preliminary plans as submitted. If the definitive plans submitted by the developer are also approved by the board, a total of 44 new houses will be built on the Irwin property on Ridge Street.

In other business, the board reviewed its position on the special articles in the Town Warrant.

Health Board Sets Polio Clinic Dates

The Winchester Board of Health has announced that the Type II Oral Polio Clinics for adults and pre-school children will be held from 1 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. on Monday, March 25, Tuesday, March 26, and Friday, March 29, in the board's clinic room in the west wing basement of the Town Hall.

Michael Saraco, agent of the Board of Health, explained that last year the Sabin Oral Polio Clinics for pre-school children were held in school auditoriums in each precinct, for types I and III. This year all pre-school children, as well as adults, will receive type II at the Board of Health's Clinic quarters. There will be no clinics held in the various school auditoriums. The records of those children that received type I and III last year will be at the Board of Health office.

The three clinic dates will be combined adult and pre-school children clinics. There will be a fifty cents charge for adults only.

EXERCISING THE DEMOCRATIC RIGHT AND PRIVILEGE TO VOTE. Several voters from Precinct Four line up to give their name and address before receiving their ballots to vote. Only 3,494, or 31.4% of the town's registered voters showed up at the polls during the 12 hours from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. that the Town Hall was open for the election on Monday. The voting figure represents a 10% decline from the previous year's record.

Get the Rummage Out For Annual Rotary Auction

The date for one of the folksiest and most worthy events of the year has been set for April 27, according to Larry Chase, president of Winchester's wide-awake Rotary group.

Annual Rotary Auction day, of course, once attended is never to be missed.

From now until then no trip to the basement or attic, or no critical look around the front parlor should be made without keeping Rotary in mind. They like it small, they like it big, they like it new, they like it old. Mostly they like it well worth someone else paying for it. The thing they do not want is clothes.

Right now their collections are running a little under previous years, so give them a call if you have what it takes, 'cause they'll take it — by truck or car at the giver's convenience.

What do they do with the money returns? Ask, among other recipients, the Boy and Girl Scouts, the Winning Farm for children, the Winchester Hospital, the Scholarship Foundation, the Little League, the P.A.L., the Babe Ruth League. And take a look around the re-beautified Winchester Common.

In the last three years over $7,000 has been handed out to these and other civic groups to help Winchester to be a better place indeed to live.

Rotary has about 75 members. They all help out in this effort. Plan to join them all at the bean supper that night, too. Tickets to be available to the public late this month.

$2 ¼ Million Budget For Schools In 1963

The School Committee has submitted budgets for 1963 school operation totaling $2,260,944, an increase of $219,174 over the 1962 budget.

Of this total amount budgeted, an estimated $340,000 will be returned to the town or to the school department from a variety of sources.

Reimbursements from the state to the town treasurer for such items as general educational expenses, school adjustment counsellors, state wards, special education class and vocational education came to $166,802 in 1962. And returns to the town from school department operations included $116,895 for cafeteria operation, $7,572 for athletic program and $3,447 for school rentals as well as other miscellaneous returns such as $3,498 collected from students and returned for laundering of towels. In addition, returns to the school department from the federal government for participation in the federally impacted areas program (Public Law 874) and the national defense educational acts came to $39,416 in 1962.

The largest item in the school budget is salaries, which make up aproximately 85% of the total. Increases in teachers' salary appropriations are due mainly to salary increases voted in 1962 and requested for 1963. The state legislature itself mandated a $500 increase in teachers' salary minimums effective in 1963. The proposed salary range for Winchester to become effective in September, 1963, is expected to go from a $5,000 minimum for those holding a bachelor's degree to a $9,000 maximum to those with a master's degree with 19 years of service, five of which must have been at the maximum salary level in Winchester.

Ten additional teachers must also be added to the faculty in 1963. Second largest item in the 1963 budget is $320,012 for general maintenance and operations in the ten schools. Capital outlay is marked for $15,932.

The school budget this year is estimated to be 46.8% of the total town budget, compared to last year's 45%.

Comparisons with some other towns on the 1962 budget percentage are as follows: Belmont was 40%, Concord 59%, Lexington 57%, Weymouth 47%, Natick 54%, Needham 52%, and Wellesley 56%.

Town Budgets Is Topic Of Hearing By FC At McCall

The Finance Committee will hold its special public hearing on the town's budgets under Article 8 of the Town Meeting Warrant at the McCall Junior High School auditorium on Monday, March 11, at 7:30 p.m.

The Finance Committee is holding the public meeting to acquaint and enlighten old and newly elected Town Meeting Members, as well as any other interested citizens, with background information and facts on the town's departmental and board budgets for 1963.

The committee will go over the budgets in detail, explaining and discussing them, and also elaborating on the reasons why the committee has made the recommendations it has regarding them. The committee will then open the meeting to questions on any other articles in the Warrant.

The committee said it hoped the special hearing would help to speed up the Town Meeting procedures and avoid delays that have tended to slow down the Town Meetings in the past few years.

2 Referendums On Ballots Are Denied

The two referendums on the Town Election ballot relative to retired Town employees being eligible for benefits of the Chapter 32B Plan for group hospitalization, medical care, and life insurance were both defeated at the polls Monday, with less than a third of the Town's voting population deciding the issue.

The first referendum was defeated by a total of 2,164 votes against it. There were 1,073 votes cast in favor of the referendum, and 257 blank votes. Five of the precincts were against the measure by a substantial majority, but Precinct Six appeared mostly in favor of the referendum.

The first referendum read: "Shall the town extend contributory group hospital, surgical, medical insurance to elderly persons retired from the service of the town and to their dependents with fifty per cent of the premium cost and a portion of the administrative expense to be paid by the town?"

The second referendum was defeated by a total of 2,170 votes against it. There were 1,056 votes cast in favor of the referendum, and 268 blank votes. Five of the precincts again voted unfavorably on the measure by a substantial majority, but Precinct Six appeared mostly in favor of this referendum too.

The second referendum read: "Shall the town pay one-half the premium costs payable by a retired employee for group life insurance and for group general or blanket hospital, surgical, and medical insurance?"

The present setup of the hospitalization and insurance plan does not allow for a continuation of some of the benefits for those who retired after October 1, 1962, when the plan went into effect. Also, those who were previously employed by the Town and had retired before the October 1 date did not qualify for the benefits.

In the older retired group about 75 former Town employees would have been eligible for the Blue Cross-Blue Shield provisions of Chapter 32B if the voters had accepted the first referendum on the ballot.

The recent retirees group would have been able to continue with the current status held by Town employees now with the Town and the recipient paying equal cost of the plan if the voters had approved the second referendum. The negative vote forces the retired employee to pay the full cost for the benefits provided in the plan if he decides to continue on.

Contributing to the negative votes cast by those who voted on Monday was the recommendations made by the Town Finance Committee. After studying the issues, the committee announced that it was uniformly against both of the referendums on the ballot.

In announcing its position on the first referendum, the Finance Committee said: "This is special benefit legislation of continuing Group Insurance coverage applying to Town employees who have retired prior to October 1, 1962. It is estimated that 66 to 78 employees might participate, and on this basis it is estimated that the first

Public Transport Pilot Experiment Continues Growth

Dr. Joseph F. Maloney, executive director of the Mass Transportation Commission announced this week that the Demonstration Program with the Boston & Maine during its seventh week of operation, carried some 20,000 more passengers than during any other week of the experiment. The total head count was 154,221 passengers carried in 1963 from Friday, February 15 through Thursday, February 21. This is against some 121,513 passengers carried in 1962.

"It is interesting to note," Dr. Maloney said, "that the figures for both years are approximately 20,000 passengers higher than other previous weeks. This is caused undoubtedly by the school holidays and the activities at the Boston Garden. Because there was an increase in each year, the increase over last year is 27 per cent, about the same as last week.

"We continue to be pleased with the progress of this experiment and apparently we are still maintaining growth."

31.4% Of Voters Vote In 6 Year Record Low; Hicks Is New Selectman

At 3:50 a.m. on Tuesday morning it was all over. The votes were counted and tallied, and the smallest Winchester election in six years was over. Of the 11,134 eligible and registered voters in Winchester (as of February 12th), a total of 3,494, or 31.4%, turned out at the polls on Monday between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. to vote for local government officials and representatives.

Compared with the state election four months ago, when 9,590, or 86.5% of the eligible voters voted, 6,096, or 55.1% less votes were cast this week for local town officials and representatives. And compared with last year's annual town election when 5,428, or 41.4% out of a registration of 10,919 voted, this year's election saw, with an increase of 215 more registered voters, a drop of 1,934 votes cast, or a decline of 10% over the previous year's low.

One town official commented that with only four contests on the ballot for town offices a "light voting day was to be expected." The small trickle of voters throughout the day bore out the official's statement; at no time during the polling hours were there more than 50 persons going over the ballots.

SELECTMAN
EDWARD E. HICKS

The four contests on the ballot were for the Board of Selectmen, one vacancy, Planning Board, one vacancy, Commissioner of Trust Funds, one vacancy, and Trustees of Public Library, two vacancies.

Major interest in the election was in the three way fight for the one vacancy on the Board of Selectmen. Elected to a three year term on the five-man Board of Selectmen was Edward E. Hicks of 4 Churchill Road. Mr. Hicks received 1,463 votes in the six precincts, defeating his two rivals, David S. Wardwell (1,204 votes) and James M. Looney (702 votes). There was a one vote writein for Richard B. Lawrance.

Precincts	1	2	3	4	5	6
Edward E. Hicks	239	266	194	249	282	233
David S. Wardwell	161	222	221	222	249	129
James M. Looney	190	131	47	56	64	214
Blank Votes	18	20	19	27	14	26
	608	640	481	554	609	602

Edward Hicks, a 34-year-old lawyer, replaces Paul C. Dunn on the Board of Selectmen. In past years the successful candidate for selectman would take office immediately after being declared the victor. However, this year, Selectman Hicks will not take office until after the annual Town Meeting. This change in procedure of taking office was changed last year at the Town Meeting when the Town accepted Chapter 525, Acts of 1962, entitled "An act relative to the date of commencement of the term of office of Selectmen of the Town of Winchester."

At the conclusion of its regular meeting on Monday night, the Board of Selectmen went to the poll counting and waited for the election results to see who their new member would be. Then according to tradition, the five trooped up to Mr. Hicks' house on Churchill Road at about midnight for a late congratulatory party.

Reelected to a five year term on the five-man Planning Board was Earle F. Littleton of 14 Cranston Road. Mr. Littleton received 2,169 votes in the six precincts, defeating Eugene B. Rotondi with 1,159 votes. There was a one vote writein for Robert H. Murphy.

The precinct-by-precinct tabulation for Planning Board shows:

Precincts	1	2	3	4	5	6
Earle F. Littleton	300	401	365	389	485	229
Eugene B. Rotondi	282	208	97	145	100	327

Earle Littleton, a 55-year old Tufts University professor and chairman of the civil engineering department there, was previously elected to fill a one-year vacancy.

Elected to a three-year term as one of three Commissioners of Trust Funds was Francis E. Smith of 1 Wolcott Terrace. Mr. Smith received 2,029 votes in all the precincts, defeating his two rivals, Leo F. Roche, Jr. (762 votes) and Joseph P. Abdella (347 votes).

Precincts	1	2	3	4	5	6
Francis E. Smith	269	400	309	376	451	224
Leo F. Roche, Jr.	142	127	126	86	82	199
Joseph P. Abadella	128	47	16	43	24	89
Blank Votes	69	66	30	49	52	90
	608	640	481	554	609	602

In the fourth ballot contest, for two vacancies on the six-man Board of Trustees of the Public Library, Philip P. Wadsworth of 66 Oxford Street was reelected by 2,573 votes, and Arthur W. Pratt of 1 Salisbury Street won the other vacancy by a vote of 1,679. The unsuccessful candidate, John J. Barry, received 1,398 votes.

Precincts	1	2	3	4	5	6
Philip P. Wadsworth	337	481	393	454	504	364
Arthur W. Pratt	214	300	251	331	403	180
John J. Barry	338	254	170	163	150	323

There was no contest for School Committee as there were only two candidates running to fill two vacancies. Richard M. Alt of 7 Pine Street was reelected to another three year term with a 2,633 vote, and Lawrence E. Beckley of 5 Marshall Road was elected to the six-man committee with 2,518 votes.

Unopposed candidates for town offices were all elected on complimentary votes. Harrison Chadwick received 2,757 votes for a one-year term as Town Moderator. Elsie M. Nelson received 3,014 votes for a three-year term as Town Clerk. Town Treasurer Marguerite H. Troop polled 2,956 votes for a three-year term. Alfred D. Elliott got 2,969 votes for a three-year term as Assessor. Dr. Warren J. Taylor received 2,827 votes for a three-year term on the Board of Health. Ralph W. Hooper polled 2,793 votes for a three-year term on the Water and Sewer Board. William T. Ryerson received 2,970 votes for a three-year term as Constable. And Howard W. Bates received 2,795 votes, along with Esther P. Borden, who got 2,794 votes, for three-year terms on the Board of Public Welfare.

The polls closed for voting at 7 p.m. The counting in the six precincts was finished at 1:35 a.m. Tuesday morning, when Precinct 1 completed its count. The final tabulations by the Registrars of Voters was completed at 3:50 a.m., and the action of the annual election officially became a matter of record.

Saltonstall Asks Senate List All Student Govt. Jobs

Senator Leverett Saltonstall (R. Mass.) introduced in the Senate Monday a resolution providing for the printing as a Senate document of information, gathered by the Library of Congress, regarding the summer employment of college students in the Federal Government, excluding clerical jobs.

Inquiries to my office," Saltonstall said, "indicate that students desiring to benefit from a summer's work with the Federal Government - in many instances they contribute their services without charge to the Government - do not know how to go about it. Their college advisors frequently also lack sufficient information to guide them properly."

Members of Congress, as well as other Government agencies, have shown an increasing interest in the internship programs. Under these programs a student comes to Washington for 6 to 12 weeks during his summer vacation. The intern gains practical experience and knowledge about the day-to-day functioning of the Government from his tasks as a responsible member of an office staff. The intern is also given an opportunity to mee wtith a large number of top level Government personnel. These summer experiences often motivate the student to enter Government service or reinforce his previous intent to do so.

The Senator stated that the "further dissemination of information regarding these programs would...be helpful in guiding students and in stimulating them to seek employment with the Federal Government." The proposed document shows, by departments, the number of positions, excluding clerical jobs, likely to be available to summer students, by location and job description.

"I know we all feel that the continued success of our way of life." the Bay State Republican concluded, "requires that we recruit the best available people for government service. I am hopeful that the printing of this report as a Senate document to begin making their inquiries regarding placement, I hope that expeditious attention will be given to this matter.

Bill to Limit Motor Registrar Powers Endorsed

Legislation in 1963 to restrict the power of the registrar in revoking or suspending the license of a person found by a court to be not guilty of a motor vehicle offense is very much alive, despite an earlier vote by the Massachusetts House to defeat it.

A duplicate bill has been given a whopping vote of approval by the State Senate.

The three House votes on the issue were very inconsistent, and a landslide Senate endorsement could easily sway more votes in the House.

By vote of 25 to 7, the Senate Monday overturned an adverse committee report and gave its initial support to the bill.

Similarly, however, the House followed the same pattern several days ago when the twin bill came up for action. The House overturned the committee report by vote of 114 to 98. Later, it reversed itself and voted to kill the bill by a 113 to 107 margin.

When a "final" House vote was taken moments later, the House refused to reconsider its action by vote of 93 to 119.

If the Senate bill clears that branch, there is an even chance the House will again reverse itself and vote to send the bill to the Governor for his signature.

On the question of overturning the committee report and keeping the Senate bill alive, voting "yes" was Senator Phillibert Pellegrini of Arlington, who represents Winchester.

House Kills Bill To Set Education Requisite on CS

By a slim margin of only two votes, the House of Representatives finally defeated a bill that would allow the establishment of educational qualifications as a requisite for civil service posts.

Under the present law, educational qualifications can be required only when expressly provided by statute.

The bill defeated by vote of 102 to 104 yesterday would repeal the empowering statute.

Rep. John T. Tynan (D) of Boston told the House yesterday, the civil service system will not employ any better personnel because they have an education.

He said that while education is a wonderful thing, it does not necessarily make a worker more competent.

He urged lawmakers not to "deprive the less fortunate of an opportunity" to secure employment through civil service.

Rep. Lawrence P. Smith (D) of Lawrence declared the bill would give the State Director of Civil Service "enormous powers," and he urged defeat of the measure.

On the question of reconsidering a vote by which the House had killed the bill, voting "yes" was Rep. Harrison Chadwick of Winchester.

Congress Asked To Give More Public Transport Money

Governor Endicott Peabody told the House Banking and Currency Committee of Congress today that many communities outside the core area of Boston are losing or have lost their limited public transportation facilities.

The chief executive reported, "The private bus industry (in Massachusetts) is clearly in grave financial difficulty."

He took the stand on a measure in Congress to authorize the Housing and Home Finance Agency to provide additional assistance for planning mass transportation systems in metropolitan and urban areas.

The state is now conducting experiments involving railroads and transit facilities under a $5.4 mil- Federal government.

"We cannot make the proper capital investment in public transportation facilities without Federal aid, "the Governor said.

The Governor also asserted, "A balanced urban transportation system—one that makes maximum use of public transportation facilities—is considerably less costly in capital expenditures than total dependence upon highway transportation alone."

The bill before Congress is a recommendation of President John F. Kennedy.

The Governor said Massachusetts could be eligible to receive $62 million.

Chadwick Asks To Reduce the Time For Campaigning

Rep. Harrison Chadwick (R) of Winchester told the Election Laws Committee that people become tired of campaigns and less interested in proper issues because of the duration of campaigning. He spoke on his bill to limit campaigns to three weeks preceding an election, except in bids for the presidency or vice presidency. He would have a $1000 maximum fine or six months imprisonment set as a penalty, or both.

Bill for Woburn's New Courthouse Delayed 2nd Time

The Legislative Counties Committee granted a second delay on a bill to authorize the Middlesex County Commissioners to appropriate up to $750,000 to construct a new courthouse in Woburn. Filed by Reps. Thomas F. Donahue of Woburn and Frank D. Tanner of Reading, with Senator James J. Long of Woburn, the proponents are awaiting a cost estimate report from the architect.

Referendums

year's cost to the Town would be $8,500. Future costs are not determinable as rates would be based on experience with a limited group. Also the proposed plan has an increased cost of 61 per cent over the plan presently available. We do not think that this is in the best interests of the Town."

In announcing its position on the second referendum, the Finance Committee said: "This applies to Town employees retiring after October 1, 1962. It is estimated that 8 employees will retire each year, and assuming they all continue in the Group Insurance program, then the estimated cost to the Town at the end of ten years will be $10,500. Here again the beneficiaries represent a very small group. In the light of the substantial benefits granted Town employees last year under the Group Insurance program, we do not feel this additional burden to the taxpayer is justified."

The Board of Selectmen, although not an official Town advisory body on financial matters or referendum questions on ballots, consulted with the Town Accountant on the two referendums and decided to make a public statment that the board was against both of them. Their position was recorded in the Letters to the Editor column in the Star two weeks ago.

Girl Scouts To Celebrate A Week Long Birthday

The 51st Birthday of Girl Scouting in the United States is coming March 12.

It is being celebrated by the observance of Girl Scout Week, March 10 to 16.

Although the Mistick Side Girl Scout Council of which Winchester is a member, is but a few months old, its eight thousand members will join with more than two and one half million girls and their three hundred thousand leaders from coast to coast in a gigantic week long "birthday party."

Girl Scouting is based "on a belief that the motivating force is a spiritual one." Appropriately enough, the observance of Girl Scout Sunday in our Churches will mark the opening of this special celebration.

At many services Girl Scouts will sit together and at some churches they will take part in the service. Girl Scouts attending St. Mary's Church will meet before the 7:45 Mass and attend in a body. At the First Congregational Church it is hoped that Girl Scouts in uniform will attend the eleven o'clock service. Throughout the week various phases of the Girl Scout Program will receive special attention.

Monday is Homemaking Day. From the youngest Brownie, whose attention is turned toward helpfulness to those at home, to the seventeen year old senior scout who may be serving as a child care aid, part of the emphasis is on progressively greater skill in the homemaking arts such as cooking, sewing, home nursing, interior decoration, child care.

Tuesday is Citizenship Day. Through her Troop activities a girl improves her skills in working with others in a cooperative, democratic organization. Through the years she increases her awareness of the Community, its services, and her responsibility toward it. The Brownie learns something of her own town and as she grows older broadens her knowledge to the State, the Nation and the World Community. Older girls give practical service as election aids at the polls and by providing baby-sitting service for voting parents.

Wednesday is Health and Safety Day. Awareness of the importance of preserving good health and of knowing and applying safety procedures is stressed throughout the Girl Scout program in every phase of activity, at home, at sports, and in the outdoors. First Aid training is a must for every girl and a troop planning a camping trip or other outing considers in advance and plans for the safe conduct of the activity including proper use of tools, hygienic dish washing and food preparation, removal of hazards, careful control of fire, extra precautions after dark, water safety, sanitation, etc.

Personal health and the safeguarding of family health play a prominent part in the girls' badge work and techniques learned with the troop are transferred to the home situation. Preparations for emergencies are part of the training of older Girl Scouts.

Thursday is International Friendship Day. Girl Scouts or Girl Guides are found in 43 countries, members of the World Association. International friendships are formed through pen-pals, attendance of girls from this country at international events and visits by girls from other countries at our encampments and the Girl Scout Roundup. Scouts and Guides from all over the world meet and work together at such International Centers as "Our Chalet" at Adelboden in Switzerland and "Our Cabana" in Mexico. Contributions from Girl Scouts to the Juliet Low World Friendship Fund help to make these events possible.

Friday is Arts and Crafts Day. Throughout her days in Scouting a girl finds continuing emphasis on opportunities to develop her latent skills, to realize the joy of creativity, and the satisfactions to be gained from working with her hands or interpreting a musical composition or a dramatic role. From the Brownie with her crayons, scissors and paste pot through the range of the various homemaking arts and crafts to the Senior skilled at wood carving, weaving, pottery making, painting, or playing a musical instrument, there is opportunity for each girl to discover what talents she has, or doesn't have, and to learn where her creative interests are.

Saturday is for Camping and the Out of Doors. Emphasis on outdoor activities extends beyond the toasted marshmallow and the "hot dog" on the back yard charcoal grill to learning the techniques of fire building and practice in the various forms of outdoor cooking such as broiling on a stick, roasting or stewing in aluminum foil, one pot campfire meals, bakcampsite, pitching tents and shelter, sanitary arrangements, good conservation practices, dealing with emergencies, and improvisation.

The Mistick Side Girl Scout Council maintains six sites in addition to the Winchester cabin for day and troop camping and a primitive camp for older girls. Here is the opportunity for girls to practice and to test their skills in the out of doors.

Throughout all the activities highlighted during Girl Scout Week is the basic tenet that Girl Scouting is dedicated "to the purpose of inspiring girls with the highest ideals of character, conduct, patriotism, and service that they may become happy and resourceful citizens." Community support of the girls and encouragement for the volunteer leadership is a strong factor in making this program possible.

During the week there will be exhibits in town showing some of the troop activities. The Sachem Neighborhood will present the "Living Window" in Hevey's Drugstore every afternoon of this week in an effort to show what their troops are doing. Participating will be Troop 517 Mrs. John McClellan, Leader; Troop 510 Mrs. Ralph Swanson, Leader; Troop 522 Mrs. G. Dietze, Leader; Troop 515 Mrs. Josiah Bacon, Leader; Troop 516 Mrs. Edward Murphy, Leader; Troop 492 Mrs. Victor Soucek, Leader; Troop 523 Mrs. Wendell Irving, Leader; Troop 490 Mrs. Rosemary Layzer, Leader; Troop 487 Mrs. Thomas Wilber, Leader; Troop 509 Mrs. Thomas Dowd, Leader; Troop 513 Mrs. A. Malthaner, Leader. The stationery exhibit in Hevey's Drugstore will be done by Troop 486 Mrs. Reihard Dutting, Leader.

There are 50 Girl Scout troops in the town of Winchester thanks to the hundreds of loyal and conscientious women and men who realize that the Girl Scout program is important to the growth of a fine community. All Leaders are invited to attend the third session of training on our brand new program on March 18 at the cabin 9:30 a.m.

Woman's Role In The Armed Forces

How can the military services meet the ever-increasing demands for skilled technicians? One answer presently being considered, according to Sergeant Jack Bateson Winchester Army recruiter, is to increase the size of the Women's Army Corps and the other women's forces.

Sgt. Bateson said that one reason for a possible increase in the size of the WAC, WAVE, etc., is the constantly growing number of highly qualified women in the labor force.

He points out, for example, that the Army's personnel chief, Lt. General R. L. Vittrup, writing in the current issue of the official publication, Army Information Digest, says: "The Army must recognize that, with women comprising one-third of the workers in the United States by 1970, greater reliance must be placed on this significant source of skills. In some instances women may provide not only the best but the only solution to the critical skill requirements of the future."

Although the WAC now numbers more than 9,500, Sgt Bateson says that a 25 per cent increase - in keeping with the figures cited by General Vittrup—would enlarge the Corps to almost 12,000. This in turn would greatly increase the career fields now open to qualified WAC applicants-fields which presently include finance, medical, administration, communications, and Army intelligence.

Any young women interested in obtaining more information about the Women's Army Corps may arrange an appointment with the Massachusetts WAC representative by calling Sgt Bateson at EX-6-5777, or by visiting his Medford office.

Was Election Day A Holiday . . . ?

A Political Analysis

One of the founding fathers of democracy as it is found in the United States, Thomas Jefferson, once said: "I know no safe depository of the ultimate powers of society but the people themselves; and if we think them not enlightened enough to exercise their control with a wholesome discretion, the remedy is not to take it from them, but to inform their discretion by education."

Permit this political analysis to discreetly inform the education, or lack of it, as found in and expressed by both the voters and non-voters in Monday's local Town election.

First of all, what form or kind of government is best? We in America believe that government is best which is of the people, by the people, and for the people. That is to say, that government is best which teaches us to govern ourselves.

How do we govern ourselves? The United States is a democracy, and our democratic heritage and principles are governed by representatives of, by, and for the people. These representatives are chosen through the election process; the mighty voice of the people's power.

Basically what the American system of democratic government boils down to is that those who are to be governed select the most responsible, trustworthy, and capable persons possible to represent them and their interests in all governmental activities. But responsibility, trust, and capability is definitely not a one way street in a representative democracy. The same characteristics must be reflected in the society which puts forth these individuals as the holders of the public trust. And every voter, as surely as any elected representative—be it for national, state, or local office—exercises a very definite public trust at election time. He is a responsible voter if he takes voting seriously, as a right, as a duty, and as a privilege. He is a capable voter if he has educated himself on the qualifications and abilities of the candidates running for office, and if he has educated himself on the issues involved in an election.

That man loves his country best who strives to make it best; and when he exercises his freedom to make it best in even the smallest way, as in a small town local election, he is contributing in a very large way to the basic principles safeguarding the form of government he lives under.

And for those who would think lightly of the good fortune Americans enjoy under the American flag, and who think that their individual responsibilities in a representative democracy are so unimportant that they can wilfully shirk their privileged voting right, a simple trip to the city of Berlin would awaken sleeping minds. The contrast is startling between West Berlin, a modern city similar to many here in the United States, and East Berlin, a Communist puppet place where a dictated too hollow people walk around with vague looks in their eyes.

If the people of East Berlin had the unusual opportunity to vote in a free election such as we had in Winchester this week, the turnout of voters would unquestionably be in the neighborhood of around 99 per cent. Rest assured that it would not have been as ridiculously a low percentage of the voting population as 31.4 per cent!

As of February 12, 1963, Winchester had 11,134 registered voters. Of that number, which included 215 more eligible voters than last year at this time, only 3,494 showed up at the polls to vote on Monday. This was a shameful small number of voters. It was even a significantly smaller figure, by 10 per cent, than last year's previous five year low of 41.4 per cent, with 5,428 out of 10,919 voters going to the polls. In 1961 only 48.5 per cent of the Town voted when 5,164 out of 11,240 registered voters attended on election day. And, further back, in 1960 there was a mild 44 per cent vote cast, in 1959, 44.9 per cent, and in 1958, a mere 35 per cent voted.

Breaking down the total figures into the six precincts, we find that out of a registered 1,806 voters in Precinct One, only 608 voted in the local election this year. In Precinct Two, of 1,717 registered voters, only 640 visited the polls. In the Third Precinct, out of 1,708 possible voters, 481 actually voted. In Precinct Four, with 1,274 eligible voters, only 554 voted. In the Fifth Precinct, out of 1,839 registered voters, 609 voted. And in Precinct Six, with 1,735 possible voters, only 602 actually did go and vote.

In reviewing the precinct statistics, perceptive readers may observe that less than one third of the eligible registered voters in each of the six precincts got out the vote in the election, and in two of the six precincts (Precincts Four and Five) the number was less than one fourth!

Sounds deplorable doesn't it?

Did you vote?

And for those who did vote there is one puzzling question that arises in the mind of an objective observer. Why were there so many blank votes cast?

Ogden Nash wrote an interesting piece on both the non-voters and the voters who leave blanks on ballots. It goes like this: "They have such refined and delicate palates, That they can discover no one worthy of their ballots; And then when some one terrible (to their minds) gets elected, they say, There, that's just what I expected!"

With LESS than one-third of the Town's voting population actually voting in the election, it should be fairly obvious that if an additional third had appeared at the polls (and that would still only be two thirds of the registered voters voting), the balance could have swung in the election results and we might now have an entirely different slate of Town officers. Even a writein candidate, polling the majority of an additional third of the voters, could have displaced any candidate running for town office or representative Town Meeting Member.

And, of course, we must not forget the blank votes. In several cases on the election ballot, if all the blank votes that were cast for Town Meeting Members had been accumulated for losing candidates, there would have been different victors. Another example was the three way fight for two vacancies on the Board of Trustees of the Public Library. Messrs Wadsworth and Pratt won the two openings, but if the 1,338 blank votes that were cast in that contest had been put beside Mr. Barry's name, he would have easily won, instead of losing to either of the other two.

There appear to be two basic problems involved in voter apathy in Winchester. First, for some reason, there are not very many residents who are interested in volunteering their time or abilities to run for town office or Town Meeting representative. And some of those who do, do it half-heartedly, purely for the prestige value to be derived from just having the office. Most of these persons can be discovered by looking over attendance records of the Town Meeting or of Town committee and board meetings.

Secondly, many residents are of the mistaken opinion that their votes in the Town Election are unimportant. These people "forget," are "too busy," "don't think there are interesting enough election contests to bother with voting (and of course, these people don't run for office), or other such hogwash.

As far as community standards are concerned, the voting record of Town Elections in Winchester make the Town and its citizens look pretty poor.

Aside from the other Town attributes that make Winchester look like a nice American town, such as quality schools, beautiful residential homes, cleanly kept parks, playgrounds and streets, efficient Town protective and governmental agencies, etc., this matter of local voting being like a holiday away from Town responsibilities is paradoxical and disgraceful.

Any objective political reporter would be obliged to tell Winchesterites that even a town such as East Stinkshoe, with none of Winchester's charming qualities, would be more of an AMERICAN town than Winchester is if it were more responsive to its voting responsibilities than Winchester; and that shouldn't take much doing.

To the 3,494 persons who voted on Monday, the Star congratulates you as well as the able candidates you elected to office. And the Star commiserates with any embarrassment or ire you might have felt in being alone at the polls in the Town Hall. Most of your neighbors didn't turn out.

Boston Briefs From Beacon Hill; State News Affecting Winchester

Prepared for the Star by the New England Newspaper Service

House Passes Town Meeting Open Roll Call Vote Bill

The Massachusetts House has passed a measure making mandatory an open roll call vote in a representative town meeting unless a secret ballot is ordered by a two-thirds vote of the meeting.

An attempt by the Republican Leadership to amend the bill to make it optional rather than mandatory failed by vote of 77 to 123.

On the question of adopting the amendment, voting "yes" was Rep. Harrison Chadwick of Winchester.

House GOP Leader Sidney Q. Curtiss charged the Governor had bent to the "pressures" of one group to sign a bill affecting locales without a home rule provision. The responsibility for providing home rule clauses rests with the Legislature, said Curtiss.

Also opposing the bill itself was Rep. George W. Porter (R) of Agawam. He said the bill was introduced because of an arbitrary action of a town moderator and he warned the bill, if made law, would "put into a straight-jacket every representative town meeting in this state. The management of a town meeting is strictly a local matter, he stated.

Also opposing the measure was Rep. Frank D. Tanner (R) of Reading who stated the bill was a direct interference in local conditions that might warrant a secret ballot in town meeting.

Opposing the amendment, Rep. Cornelius Kiernan (D) of Lowell called it an attempt to negate the open meeting law enacted two years ago.

Senate Advances Public Vote Bill At Town Meetings

A measure to require a vote of two-thirds to hold a secret ballot at a town meeting was moved along another notch Monday by the Massachusetts Senate.

The House already has approved the bill after dispute in that branch.

The Senate Monday endorsed the controversial issue by vote of 20 to 10.

On the question of advancing the bill, voting "yes" was Senator Pellegrini of Arlington, who represents Winchester.

Senate GOP Floor Leader Philip A. Graham of Hamilton appealed for defeat of the bill, protesting that such provisions are included in town by-laws and that towns "have been doing pretty well" for over 200 years without the help of the state Senate.

But Democratic Leader Maurice A. Donahue of Holyoke advocated the bill declaring, "We've had this double standard of government long enough." The people, he said, are entitled to know how their officials vote.

Lawmakers Told Leg. Business To Be Streamlined

With the House of Representatives meeting informally yesterday because of town meetings across the state, the Senate Democratic Leader, Maurice A. Donahue of Holyoke warned lawmakers that the leadership in the Legislature intends to streamline the 1963 session as much as possible.

He said that after March 27, all matters still in committee will be labeled adverse reports and brought to the floor for action.

At present, he disclosed, the business of the Legislature is running 12 per cent behind that of a year ago. He said there are 1449 matters already heard by committees that have not been marked for action and he urged committee chairmen to quicken their pace.

After calling for a marked increase in production, the Senate suspended rules to admit another 36 late-filed petitions for action in 1963.

Guest Editorial:

On Socially Unacceptable Behavior

Non-conformity as a protest against too much "togetherness" has become a standard of behaviour among younger people, particularly when the non-conformity also becomes a means of avoiding responsible social and moral rules of conduct. Even young people of high ethical standards do not want to be identified by their peers as a "square."

On the other hand, many adults (far too many) conform too much to the wrong social standards currently held before us as a community and a nation. As a result, communities are plagued with problems of teen-age drinking (a subject on which I have spoken before), open houses which turn into brawls (on which I am now writing), and a rapidly-deteriorating sexual morality (on which I plan to preach on March 17).

Our Puritan forebears had very clear standards of behaviour, with severe social pressure to assure conformity. Christian charity has rightfully ameliorated many harsh recriminations, on the grounds that the down-fallen needs help to regain a decent place in society.

Over the last generation a new element has penetrated our social relationships, turning many things upside-down: Tolerance. Tolerance in most things is a virtue. In a democracy the majority must have tolerance for the views of the minority. But we have made an idol out of tolerance. One of the greatest social sins a person can commit today is to be intolerant of someone's behaviour. We are in the ridiculous position, both adults and young people, of accepting wrong behaviour from other people because we are afraid other people would be critical of us if we did not tolerate it.

We have turned virtues into vices, and although we may not have gone so far as to exalt the old vices into virtues, we blandly look at them without a frown lest someone disapprove of our disapproval.

Wild parties occur in Winchester far too often, and by and large the community tolerates them. Vigorous police action is helping but it cannot solve the problem. However, the community-wide efforts could quickly bring things into line, provided enough people are willing to be intolerant—intolerant of wrong behaviour. But alas, it is now considered a vice to be intolerant of vice.

First, the teen-agers know to an amazing degree exactly which boys and girls crash parties, behave unmanneredly, drink, and are destructive of other people's property. The large majority of our young people do not do these things and they have no intention of doing them. But they are afraid—yes, afraid—to express their disapproval. They are afraid someone might call them a square. The most effective single thing that could be done in Winchester would be for the decent kids to ostracize the minority which is giving the town its problem. They would not need to mention the names of the offenders to any adult. Simply stop associating with them.

Second, adults could find out who the riffraff are who cause these problems, using their own channels of information, without asking the teen-agers to squeal on each other. Then they could frankly state that those young people are unwelcome in their homes under any conditions. This might be embarrassing, true enough, if one of the members of the offending group is the child of a member of your bridge club or bowling team. True, the parents of the other child would state that you are a rather narrow-minded, merciless, intolerant bigot; calling a cow's tail a leg does not make it one.

Just how much social pressure is exerted these days with the intention of producing right behaviour and to prevent wrong behaviour? Very little, because most adults are afraid of being accused of intolerance.

Some will say, "Doesn't the parson believe that the sinner should be forgiven? Didn't Jesus associate with publicans and harlots?" The answer to both questions, of course, is yes. The sinner does need and should be given forgiveness—but only after he has repented, that is, only after he has turned from his wrong behaviour and is setting forth on the right kind of behaviour with full intention of being done with his former ways. Jesus did associate with sinners of all sorts, but the Bible record does not contain even a whisper that they continued in their wrongful ways in His presence. Rather, they voluntarily gave up their wrong behaviour. To twist the Christian virtue of forgiveness and the example of Jesus into a tolerant cloak for wrong behaviour is blasphemy.

Warped personalities indulging in wild behaviour do need understanding and certain kinds of acceptance. But even when you accept his person you do not accept his wrong behaviour. Some former bookies and gangsters are now spending full time in New York City working with delinquents on the streets. When a kid gets in trouble, they go to bat for him, all the way—the first time. But the second time, they do not lift a finger to help him. The method is most effective.

It must be made manifest that socially unacceptable behaviour is exactly that: SOCIALLY UNACCEPTABLE!

Too many young people in Winchester count on the adults covering up for them or excusing them again and again and again and again.

Perhaps it is time for adults to be a bit harder-hearted in dealing with matters which involve law-breaking. Perhaps we should sign formal complaints with the police. (We avoid this because we do not want to be Mr. Merciless who gave the kid a police record! What sentimental rot! The young people who break the law give themselves the police record!)

Two weeks ago a guest editorial touched on a specific situation in which the names of some of the participants, if not all of them, are known. Have the home-owners involved signed any complaints at the police station against these young people? Is anyone charged with breaking and entering at night? With trespassing? With assault? With burglary? With wilfull damage to property?

Back to the decent young people. Do they refuse to ride with the reckless driver who has had several accidents but somehow still possesses a driver's license? What about the boys who brag about hitting deliberately cats and other animals? (Very funny business to everyone except the owners of the animals!) Do the young people make it clear to them that they will not even stay in the same room with such beastly persons? Or do they laugh and admire their driving skill which can hit animals on the run? What do they say and do to let the young people who drink know that such behaviour is not merely against adult rules, but is actually wrong?

We have all been tolerant of social misbehaviour too long! But we only want to draw the line in extreme cases, not in the bud but in the full flower.

Most of the teen-age misbehaviour can be brought into line if both adults and young people having decency in their bones unite to make socially unacceptable behaviour socially unacceptable!

Winchester Started As A Part Of Charlestown In 1633

The record reads as follows: "This first wee agree upon: That the line of division bettweene the two towns shall runne from Cambridge Line by ye Northwest and of Mr. Nowell's Lott and so all along bettweene Mr. Sim's Ffarme and Edward Converse's Ffarme until it come to the East side of them adjoyneing to Charlestown Common."

Thus it may be seen that much of the present territory of Winchester, excluding all south of Rangeley and Black Horse Hill was a part of Woburn from this date until 1850 and the union was most happy and prosperous.

In the years, 1635-40, this territory was considered by people of the sea coast towns as a "remote land" with which they were little acquainted, and peopled in their imagination with wild beasts and possibly still wilder men.

In reality it was a scraggy wilderness difficult of penetration. Edward Converse found it was a "watery swamp" difficult to travel through, the country being covered with an "unknown woods."

Sometimes the explorers in their work "passed through thickets where their hands were forced to make way for the passage of their bodies, at times their feet clambering over the crossed trees that had fallen, on which if they missed their foothold, down their feet sank into an uncertain bottom of water, where they would wade up to their knees, tumbling, sometimes higher and sometimes lower, till wearied with this toil they sought a place to rest."

However, as the end of this trial came near, they would meet with "a scorching plain where their difficulties were increased, the ragged bushes there scratching the legs of the adventurers foully, even wearing the stockings on the limbs of the men through to the bare skin in a short time, and if not other wise defended with boots or buskins, their flesh would be torn. Some not amply well provided with such guards have had the blood trickle down with every step."

"On the plain the sun cast at that time such a reflecting heat from such plants as the sweet fern, whose scent was very strong, that some of the party from that cause were near fainting, being unable to bear the odor which severely oppressed them, though in other respects they had very able bodies to endure much travel."

Indians Not Formidable

Forcing their way through thickets, they were often ignorant of their path, and were at times out of sight of the sun, and were bewildered, too, by their compass miscarrying them in crowding through the bushes.

The Indians fortunately were not so formidable in this section as their imagination pictured. At this early period the white settlers were sometimes obliged to burrow themselves in the earth under some hillside for their first shelter. To improve this habitation they would cast the earth aloft upon timber and the short showers were warded off from the summit of their lodgings, but the long rains penetrated through.

Johnson says the people were cheerful in those humble habitations. "Everyone who could lift a hoe to strike it into the earth aided in raising the first crop; but they had to stand stoutly to their labors and tear up the roots and bushes which abounded the first year bearing them in useful vegetables a very thin crop."—so thin indeed, "that they were forced to cut their bread very thin for a long season."

As a help they lived upon fish that abounded in the streams and they were helped much by raising Indian corn, which they prepared after the manner of the Indians. As for meat they "looked not for any in those times" unless they could barter with the Indians for venison or raccoons whose flesh was considered not much inferior to lamb. One thing they had learned, in the words of Johnson, that the toil of a new plantation was "like the labor of Hercules, never at an end."

The first record we have relating especially to the unexplored country was in 1635 when "Edward Converse, William Brackenbury and Mr. Abraham Palmer were desired to go into the country upon discovery three or four days, for which they were to be satisfied at the charge of the town."

Edward Converse, the staunch Puritan, was the leader of this and subsequent explorations. He was one of Winthrop's company and an inhabitant of Charlestown as early as 1630, and one of the selectmen from 1635 to 1640.

He established the first ferry from Charlestown and Boston on the site of the present Charles River Bridge, paying forty pounds per year rental to the Colony for the franchise. He might be called the "father of Winchester," as, in 1640 he built and occupied the first house on the site of the old Thompson estate next to the then post office. This house was located on the easterly side of Main Street at Converse Place beside the Mill Pond.

Morgan Memorial Letter Thanks A Local Supporter

Editor of the Star:

This is a copy of a letter sent by the Goodwill Industries to Christopher J. Morris, manager of the First National Super Market on Main Street. Because of the public service involved, we think it may be of interest to those who contributed to the Morgan Memorial through Mr. Morris' store.

"Dear Mr. Morris:

"You have heard the saying - "the ultimate aim of life is happiness" - but have you thought about just what makes a person happy?

"For instance, here at Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries, handicaped men and women are happy because they have a job and the pride of being useful self-sustaining citizens. But that's not all, for existing in the heart of each disabled worker is a warm deep feeling of gratitude and appreciation — an indescribable happiness because every job, at Goodwill Industries is due to the support of folks like you and your customers who 'Care.'

"The only aim of the Goodwill Collection Box public service project, of which you, as manager, and your wonderful customers are so very much a part, is to give happiness to the handicapped Goodwill Industries workers of all races and religious creeds. Deposits of no-longer needed articles in the Goodwill boxes, provide—jobs for disabled people previously considered unemployable.

"At Morgan Memorial, we feel you and your customers will be proud and happy to know that the support given to your Goodwill Collection Box project during 1962 provided three handicapped persons with 6,843 hours of gainful employment."

Sincerely,
Howard A. Patterson

Police Salaries, Qualifications Topic of Letter

Editor of the Star:

Quality of police personnel is not obtained solely by offering good pay. Men do not enter the police profession to make money. But inadequate salaries can be a barrier to men qualified to become good officers.

What are the qualities people expect in police officers?

Physical fitness;
Mental alertness;
Effectiveness under pressure;
Dependability;
Soundness of judgment;

Would you expect less in men responsible for the protection of lives and property?

It is doubtful if men so qualified would be attracted by low salaries.

Why are so few young men seeking employment on the Winchester Police Department? We suggest that police salaries are not adequate.

On a list of 16 comparable towns customarily used for salary surveys, the position of Winchester patrolmen has slipped from 4th to 8th since 1960. No official recommendation issued to date will improve that position in 1963.

We are prepared to submit a request for reasonable and moderate salary increases for police officers which is in line with sound personnel policies.

The support of the citizens of Winchester will be appreciated.

Letter to the Editor:

As a representative of the Red Cross at the Sons of Italy bloodmobile on February 25, I should like to publicly commend the members of this lodge for their contribution of blood, their energy and enthusiasm for this first time effort at their Club and the wonderful spirit of their many volunteer workers who staffed the bloodmobile.

It was a joy to be present to witness the results of the recruitment committees' many weeks of hard work in making this a most successful blood day.

Editor of the Star:

Through your pages I would like to express my sincere appreciation to the many persons who gave their time and energy to work in my behalf in the campaign for selectman.

Thank you.

Local Rep. Talks On Highland View Dead End Status

Editor of the Star:

On behalf of my neighbors on Highland View Avenue, I would like to explain two articles concerning us which are included in this year's Town Warrant.

Highland View Avenue has always been a dead end street. Many of us bought homes here because of this. It seemed a safe street for our children. However, it was an unfinished street, muddy or dusty with the seasons. Consequently we petitioned the town to accept our safe, dead end street, but with the stipulation that the street be finished only if it were to remain dead end.

We trusted that the Planning Board would honor what we considered a reasonable request. The street was accepted by the town meeting and shortly thereafter the Whitten Brothers began digging up our street to lay sewage, water and gas lines for their new duplex development in the "Pit." We talked with the Whittens about our dead end status and they showed us plans for the development. These plans showed an exit and entrance from East Street with no connection at Highland View Avenue. But as building progressed it became evident that our dead end street was indeed to become the main thoroughfare for the development and further, a connecting link between Cross Street and East Street.

Upon discussing this change in plans with Bradford Whitten, he stated that the change of plans were entirely the idea of the Planning Board; that it was more costly for him to use Highland View Avenue rather than East Street as originally planned. This was the Planning Board we trusted to keep our dead end status! We went to the Planning Board to discuss this and were told quite bluntly by Mr. Redding that if one buys land next to undeveloped land he has to expect that the land will be developed and perhaps some people will be hurt in the process. Well, we trusted that the Planning Board would see to it that we would not be hurt.

We discussed our problem with Selectmen and they suggested that we ask the Whittens to erect a barrier at the junction of Highland View Avenue and George Road. The Whittens declined. We discussed our problem with an attorney and his opinion is that as long as there was no guarantee in writing by the Planning Board that the street would not go through, we have no recourse but to plead our case before the town meeting.

We are asking that the town erect a barrier at the end of our street so that our original dead end status will be reestablished. Certainly the entrance from East Street into the development is wide enough for exit and entrance.

If it is not possible to erect this barrier, then as a safety measure for the twenty-three children on our street and also those children in the development who use our street on the way to school, we are asking that the town construct sidewalks along both sides of the street.

Firefighters Ask For 48-Hour Week At Town Meeting

The following information has been prepared by the Forty Eight Hour Week Committee of the Fire Department to acquaint fellow townspeople with the reasons why we believe our 56 hour week should be shortened to a 48 hour week.

The present 56 hour week is an outstanding deterrent to high departmental morale, and to acceptable standards of working conditions in any fire fighting organization. You may question this statement, but place yourself in our position. Wouldn't you be disturbed if you were the only department in the Town working more than 40 hours? The Police, Highway, Park, Water and Sewer, and Cemetery employees and custodians all work a 40 hour week. All clerical and administrative workers have a 35 hour week. Wouldn't you be disturbed if you knew all our neighboring communities with which we have mutual aid agreements (Woburn, Stoneham, Medford and Arlington) work shorter hours. Wouldn't your morale be affected?

Our Personnel Board uses a list of 15 comparable communities for comparisons and strives to maintain at least a middle position for employee salaries and working conditions. On their list we find ourselves in the bottom third, and dropping further with every Town election and Town Meeting. The following communities in their comparable communities group work shorter hours. Stoneham, Melrose, Arlington, Watertown, Needham, Natick, Milton and Weymouth. The 48 hour week was voted this week by the townspeople in Andover. Wellesley and Belmont officials are incorporating provision for a 50 hour week in their 1963 Fire Department budgets.

Other nearby communities working shorter hours are: Saugus, Lynn, Chelsea, Everett, Somerville, Cambridge, Waltham and Newton to name a few.

Most of our neighboring Fire Departments have been working the 48 hour week for over ten (10) years. We feel it is now time for the members of your Fire Department to be given equal consideration. Most members of the Fire Department are home owners and family men. They are as much concerned over the tax rate as any taxpayer. The fact that shorter hours for the Fire Department are inevitable has been recognized by the Personnel Board according to their 1963 report.

We are proposing to start the 48 hour week on October 1st in order to allow time for recruitment and to make an orderly transition from our present work schedule. This reduction in hours will require the addition of six (6) firemen to maintain our present work force. The cost of their salaries for the period from October 1 through December 31 is $7878., approximately seven (7) cents on your 1963 tax rate. On a yearly basis the salaries of these 6 men will be $31,512.

We feel the Town should not delay any longer the adoption of the 48 hour week for its firemen and that the Town Meeting members should react favorably to our motion under Article 6 at the Annual Town Meeting.

Forty Eight Hour Week Committee.

Obituaries

Mrs. Clara H. Palmer

Mrs. Clara H. Palmer, of 16 Myopia Hill Road, widely known and greatly esteemed resident of Winchester for sixty-one years, died on February 28 after a short illness.

Mrs. Palmer was born June 19, 1874, in St. Louis, Missouri. She married William I. Palmer in Newport, Kentucky, in 1902. They lived at 17 Glengarry from 1902 to 1914 when they built their lovely home on Myopia Hill where Mrs. Palmer has lived ever since. Her husband died in 1929 and Mrs. Palmer has had her niece, Miss Helen Niedringhaus, living with her permanently since that time.

Mrs. Palmer's interests were many and she filled important positions in town organizations. She was elected the first chairman of the women's division of the Winchester Republican Town Committee in 1922 and served for several years in that office. She was on the finance board of the Winchester Hospital during the building of the original hospital. She was a member of the Board of Directors of the Florence Crittenton League for many years during Dr. Chidley's presidency of the league, and at her death she was an honorary member of the Fortnightly, a distinction given only to those of fifty years of membership.

Her most outstanding service however, was to her church, the First Congregational Church of Winchester. Mr. and Mrs. Palmer were among the largest contributors to the Parish House Building Fund in 1923, and they gave the chancel stalls in Ripley Chapel, as well as two memorial windows in the church. It has been said of Mrs. Palmer that never once did she fail to respond to an appeal made by the pastor, and may we add that this was true in regard to her response to all other appeals for good causes. For forty-two years Mrs. Palmer served as treasurer of the Mission Union and later the Mission Union Guild. This forty-two year term of office is the longest consecutive period of service of any one individual in the church's history. She was also a member of the Church Committee for two years.

In recognition of her loyal service and infinite devotion to the Church, on September 30, 1956, the Ladies' Parlor in the Parish House was named the "Clara H. Palmer Room." It is interesting to note that a fine portrait of her hangs in this room, given by her loyal and devoted niece, Miss Helen Niedringhaus.

She was a friend deeply cherished by many people. Her gay spirit, her warm interest and thoughtfulness and her generosity to all will never be forgotten.

Surviving are her nieces, Miss Helen Niedringhaus of Winchester, Mrs. John Barrie of Dallas, Texas, Mrs. Richard E. Gruner of St. Louis, Missouri, two great nephews, three great great nephews and one great great niece, and to complete a remarkable family of five generations, two great great great nieces.

Services were held in Ripley Chapel March 2 with Dr. Dwight L. Cart officiating. Burial was in Wildwood Cemetery.

Bridget Deavitt Allen

Bridgett Deavitt Allen of 63 Loring Avenue, widow of Patrick Allen and a widely known resident of the North End of Winchester for many years, died Saturday night, March 2, at her home after a lingering illness.

Mrs. Allen was a native of Ireland. As a girl she came to Woburn, and she had been a resident of Winchester since 1925, being well and favorably known. She leaves two daughters, Mrs. May Lombardi and Mrs. Abbie Loughlin, both of Malden; five sons Charles J., James, Robert F., proprietor of a dry cleaning business; P. Henry, a taxi operator; and Francis D. Allen, all of Winchester; six grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

The funeral was held Wednesday morning from the Costello-Moffett Funeral Home. Solemn Requiem High Mass was celebrated at the Immaculate Conception Church. Interment was in Calvary Cemetery.

Robinson S. Whitten

A private memorial service was conducted March 1, at the First Congregational Church for Robinson S. Whitten of 15 Everett Avenue, long a prominent resident, here. The Reverend Dwight Cart officiated. Interment was in Mt. Albans Cemetery in Cambridge.

Mr. Whitten was born in Cambridge on September 13, 1889. He died February 27 in Williamsburg, Virginia, unexpectedly on his way home from Florida where he and Mrs. Whitten had been spending the winter. At the time of his death he was 73.

He was a member of the second class of the Fessenden School, then proceeded to the Museum School of Fine Arts. In 1914, he moved to Winchester to work in the J. O. Whitten Company, which had been founded by his grandfather. The next year he married Miss Marion Dix of Newton. They lived in Winchester together until 1919.

It was during this period that he began his life-long interest in the Boy Scouts of America. In 1917, he founded Troop Three at the First Congregational Church. A few years ago he was awarded the Silver Beaver in recognition of his long service with the Troop and to the national Boy Scout movement.

In 1919, Mr. Whitten moved to Foxboro, where he lived with his family until 1940. There he was a member of the St. Albans Lodge of the Masons. He reached its highest order and became a member of the William Parkman Lodge of Winchester upon returning here to live in 1940.

Ever since his marriage he and his family have spent summers in Boothbay Harbor, Maine.

All his life Mr. Whitten enjoyed archeology, architecture, and art, and in recent years he and Mrs. Whitten traveled extensively in pursuit of these hobbies. As a result of his long association with the Boy Scout movement, he was also an ardent naturalist, having done much camping and mountain climbing in his younger years.

Besides his widow, he is survived by his five children: Mrs. John McGillivray of Weston, Mrs. Robert Barton of Bronxville, N. Y., Mr. George Whitten of Dartmouth Street, Mr. Charles Whitten of Swan Road, and Mr. Bradford Whitten of Sheffield Road; also by his sister, Mrs. Thomas Pomeroy of Pittsburgh, and by nineteen grandchildren.

Mrs. Margaret MacDonnell

Mrs. Margaret MacDonnell of 21 Forest Street, widow of Hugh MacDonnell, and mother of Park Commissioner Albert MacDonnell, died at her home Tuesday morning, March 5 after a short illness.

Mrs. MacDonnell was the daughter of John, and Mary (MacDonnell) Fraser. She was born February 2, 1876, in Antigonish, N.-S., but had been a resident of Winchester for 62 years, and had many friends among older residents of the town.

She was a member of the Catholic Daughters of America, St. Mary's Ladies' Sodality and the Segher Club of Boston.

Mrs. MacDonnell's husband died many years ago. She leaves five sons, James F., of Woburn, Hugh of Fresno, California, Cameron, Roderick and Albert MacDonnell of Winchester; three daughters, Mrs. Mary Kendrick of Fryeburg, Me.; Mrs. Monica Babcock of Malden and Mrs. Margaret King of Rochester, Vermont; also five grandchildren, and a sister, Mrs. Sarah MacMillan of Antigonish N. S.

Children's Clinic Need Is Subject Of Tuesday Talk

"I am inclined to believe it is the complexity of the human being rather than the complexity and extra pressures of our modern society" that has brought large part of the increase in emotional disorders over the years, was the belief experienced by Dr. Alice Palubinskas as she addressed an open meeting sponsored Tuesday evening at the Mystic School auditorium by the Winchester Mental Health Association.

DR. ALICE PALUBINSKAS

These disorders, she said, are coming to the fore in our generation more so than the previous because of the concern for therapy and diagnosis stemming from the things that are being learned in this area of health.

In addition to this, she said, our standards of happiness have become higher over the years.

Dr. Palubinskas' talk followed a presentation by Mrs. James Wingate, president of the Winchester Association, which explained to the audience the need for the continuance of the Mystic Valley Children's Clinic, situated in Lexington and serving, in addition to Winchester, Arlington, Bedford, Lexington and Woburn as a children's psychiatric diagnosis and treatment center.

The town is being asked to subsidize this clinic to the amount of $1,750 as per an article in the Warrant to come up in town meeting next week.

Mrs. Palubinskas, an assistant professor of psychology at Tufts University, was introduced by Mrs. Selina Fitzpatrick, program chairman for the group.

In continuing to develop her point about the difference in standards of happiness between the last generation and ours, Dr. Palubinskas pointed out that in prior days an elderly person might be left in her room to brood and pine before, and it would be taken for granted, whereas today we would seek psychiatric or some other help for her.

The same, she said, applies to the emotional disorders of children, be they school learning problems or acting out problems. The chances are that before they would not have been recognized as emotional in character and would have just been "lived with" rather than treated.

Her talk was vital and inspiring.

Officer Nash, the Juvenile Officer of the Police Department, called upon to speak on their use of the clinic, said that in his opinion "one child's emotional health was worth more than the money being asked" from Winchester to keep its use available to the town.

Miss Constance Trickett, guidance officer in the High School, spoke about the benefits the guidance department had derived from the consultant service available to school personnel at the Clinic. She also spoke about the course for teachers which was sponsored by the Winchester Association in this field, saying that it was one of the most exciting she had ever taken.

Mrs. Wingate concluded the evening by reminding the audience that she hoped they would express their support of this Warrant article to their town meeting members if they felt better informed of the need.

Crittenton Hits The Jackpot With "Rite of Spring"

The Florence Crittenton League's "Rite of Spring" Fashion Show to be held at the Sheraton Plaza on March 20, has already been completely sold out, it was announced at the executive committee meeting on March 4.

Recently shipped and imported originals will be modelled at the show for the first time, representing Yves St. Laurent, Givenchy, Balenciaga, Nina Rinci, among others, and Mr. Cameron Thompson, president of the Jordan Marsh Company, whose wife and daughter have been active in the Florence Crittenton League for years, will introduce Edna Somers as coordinator and commentator.

It promises to be a fashion highlight for those Winchester members who were able to get a ticket. Because of the many requests for tickets still coming in, we ask that anyone who is not able to use her ticket, please return it to her Circle chairman, Mrs. Allan Kingston or Mrs. Ober E. Pride.

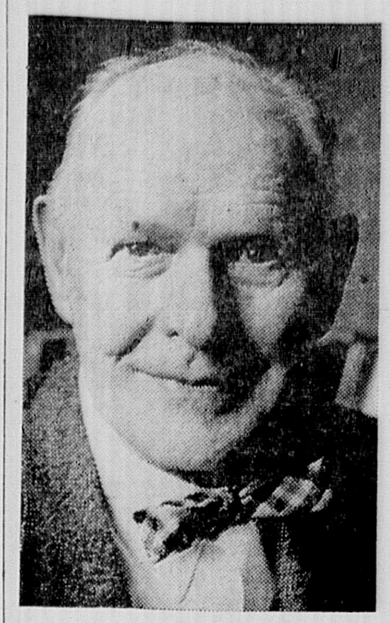
Spain Invites Prof. Borden To Speak There

Neil H. Borden, professor emeritus of Marketing and Advertising at the Harvard Business School, will leave this country soon for Madrid, Spain, where he will deliver a series of seminars at the Industrial Management School. These seminars will meet between March 18 and April 13 and will be in the field of advertising and marketing.



PROF. NEIL H. BORDEN

Professor Borden received an invitation from the Spanish government to come to Spain; participation in this program is part of a continuing program between our state department and Spain, and is under our AID Program.

Pro. Borden has taught in Japan, Australia, and Canada in past years. He first came to the Harvard Business School in 1922, and became Emeritus in June 1962. He is author of many books and articles, and has become known to the advertising world as "Mr. Advertising." He and Mrs. Borden reside at 58 Winford Way.

Special Vespers March 24 at The Unitarian Church

A special pre-Easter Vespers Service is being planned and rehearsed for the afternoon of March 24 at the Unitarian Church.

It will be an Historical Musical service beginning with a Palestrina number and running through composers including Mozart, Brahms, Dubois, V. Williams and Rheinberger, all to be presented by the Church Choir, and soloists under the direction of Mary Ranton Witham.

It will also feature a special exhibition of works of art by Imelda Gentile, a member of the choir, in the Symmes room of the Church. Pastels and water colors will predominate in this exhibit, and works of a religious nature are to be included.

Scout Trip To New Mexico Is On Again This Year

Twelve adventurous days in the Rocky Mountains hiking, camping, mountain climbing, horseback riding and arguing with pack burros along trails followed by Kit Carson and the 49'ers is the prospect for thirty Boy Scouts and Explorers who join the 1963 Philmont Scout Troop now being formed in Minuteman Council, Boy Scouts of America, with headquarters in Stoneham.

Winchester scouts are eligible for this trip if they are registered members of a troop and will be 14 years of age by July 3rd. The trip will take them to the Philmont Scout Ranch, 127,000 acre property of the Boy Scouts of America at Cimarron, New Mexico in July.

For new experiences they will have opportunities for archeology at ancient Indian cliff dwellings, panning for gold, hunting for treasure reputed to have been buried by train robbers, fishing in mountain streams, hunting (with a camera) buffalo, black bear, deer, antelope, beaver, badgers, bobcat and other animals in their natural environment and participating in conservation projects and other activities which the area makes possible.

They will meet Scouts and Explorers from all over the country on the trails and in camp, swapping stories, songs, and souvenirs at campfires.

As additional items of interest the troop will visit Annapolis Naval Academy, have a day of sightseeing in Washington, D. C., visit Denver and Pike's Peak, tour the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, and go sightseeing at Niagara Falls.

The trip starting July 3 and returning July 27 will be made by chartered bus. Robert Breviglieri, explorer advisor in Medford and an assistant scoutmaster of the 1962 Philmont Troop, will this year be scoutmaster. Assistant scoutmasters will be Richard Steenbruggen, explorer advisor of Melrose and Michael Gormley, assistant district Commissioner, Concord.

Winchester boys reporting on this trip, run frequently by the council, have much enthusiasm to convey to those considering the trek this year. Reservations are now being received and already Thomas Butterfield of Troop 503 and William S. Elliot of Troop 524 have signed up. Headquarters has also received applications from scouts in Lexington, Melrose, Watertown, and Malden.

Further information regarding the Philmont Expedition may be secured by Scouts or parents from the Scoutmasters of their Troops or direct from headquarters of the Minuteman Council in Stoneham. Because of the National Jamboree being held in 1964 at Valley Forge Pa., there will be no Philmont trip next year.

Flower Show

The re-designed, modernized Spring Flower Show, coming to Wonderland Park in Revere, March 16 through 24 promises to be more dazzling than ever before.

According to Arno H. Nehrling, show manager, the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, its sponsor, is investing extra time, effort and money to make this the most outstanding floral exhibition ever held at Wonderland Park.

Eleven small, neatly executed gardens by the Women's Exhibitions Committee, with Mrs. John Hall of Brookline as chairman, and flower arrangements in the traditional and contemporary manner by the Garden Club Federation of Massachusetts, with Mrs. Allan R. Finlay of Wayland as chairman, will be two magnificent exhibits.

Holly Acres of West Falmouth will present hollies in a naturalistic setting, with emphasis on their special beauty in late winter. Another naturalistic garden, with a waterfall and pool surrounded with rhododendrons and native wild flowers, will be shown by the Weston Nurseries of Hopkington.

Carter's Cactus and House Plant Center of Tewksbury is planning a display of contrasting cacti and succulents native to various parts of the world. A striking display of Spring bulbs under a canopy of pines, with a mid-18th censhown by the Garden Shed of Pembroke.

Other attractions to look for are an educational exhibit of species and hybrid begonias by the Bessie Buxton Branch of the American Begonia Society, and a display of the seeds of woody plants by the Arnold Arboretum, under the direction of Dr. Donald Wyman, Horticulturalist.

Wonderland Park is only a 20-minute M. T. A. ride from midtown Boston and is easily reached via the new network of highways passing over and around Boston.

Of Writers And Writing

By Frank Procopio

Mao Tse Tung Guerrilla Extraordinary

They were little men, especially chosen for their size, and they wore cotton quilted uniforms that ranged in color from light yellow to mustard brown to faded gray. In place of the steel helmet their enemy wore with such aplomb and valued with such affection, they wore cotton caps with earflaps turned up and tied on top. They wore sneakers on their feet, some made of rubber, some of canvas, all susceptible to the bitter Korean elements. In the winter their feet would turn purple from frostbite, in the summer they would wither in sweat, in the spring they would shrivel-up in the constant rain and mud.

Their weapons were an international potpourri of every make, calibre, and condition. Some carried antiquated American Springfields, some the capable British Enfield carbine; many carried Japanese weapons the Russians had captured in Manchuria.

They carried their rations in a long, thin sack draped around their necks. One end was filled with a mixture of rice, soya bean, whole-kernel corn, millet, and kaoliang (unsweet sorghum used in America to feed cattle). When eaten, it would be moistened and rolled into cakes. The other end of the sack was weighted down with ration cans of beef or pork. Each soldier carried enough food to sustain him for three days, after that he had to rely on the good earth and the generosity of civilians.

These were the guerrillas that were sent against American and R. O. K. forces during the Korean conflict. The same type of soldier is fighting now along the Indian border. In method, they are the same who fought the Japanese twenty years ago. They are strong, adroit, imaginative, courageous, willing to endure hardships, and anxious to convert the world to Communism. They are led, and have been taught the essentials of their war-like trade, by one of the most influential minds in the world today. His name is Mao Tse-tung.

In an effort to better understand this mind, and to more fully comprehend the Marxist philosophy it teaches, the great mass of Mao's writings has been translated and condensed into four selected volumes. They contain everything from the profound to the profane; everything from the rational to the irrational. Here is a sampling:

ON WAR

"War, this monster of mutual slaughter among mankind, will be finally eliminated through the progress of human society, and in no distant future too. But there is only one way of eliminating it, namely, to oppose war by means of war."

ON STRATEGY

"Any army that loses its initiative will be forced into a passive position and deprived of its freedom of action, and will run the risk of being exterminated or defeated."

ON COMMUNISM

"We advocate an active ideological struggle, because it is the weapon for achieving solidarity... Every Communist and revolutionary should take up this weapon."

ON THE BOMB

"The atom bomb is a paper tiger which the U. S. reactionaries use to scare people. It looks terrible, but in fact it isn't."

Perhaps the most fascinating of all Mao's teachings are his expositions on guerrilla warfare. They are presented sometimes in technical military language, but more commonly they come in the form of simple parallels the Chinese peasant can easily understand and appreciate and put to workable use.

He tells them that they are likened to fish, and that they swim in a great ocean of people, and cannot survive without the favor of those people. He orders them to act accordingly.

He tells them that in battle their most dependable weapon is confusion. That is, to make a great noise in the north and attack from the south; to show themselves now in the west, now in the east. Hit, run, entice, mislead.

He tells them that they should "run away" when the situation so warrants. "Running away," he writes, "is the chief means of getting out of passivity and regaining the initiative." Like the wounded tiger that runs until he is caught, and then promptly kills the hunter.

Finally, he tells them to take heed of the sage words uttered long ago by the military expert, Sun Wu Tzu: "Know yourself, know your enemies; a hundred battles, a hundred victories."

The lessons Mao Tse-tung teaches to one-quarter of the world today weren't learned in a brick schoolhouse. They are products of the environmental conditions that have existed as long as poverty has existed in China. They are also products of a mind that has sought after a kind of godliness on earth. As youths, Mao and his friends often went out on expeditions to climb mountains and hike for long distances. What they enjoyed most was the pure physical pain of running naked against a slapping rain, or a cold, cutting wind. Such an experience once prompted Mao to write:

To struggle against Heaven,
To struggle against Earth, what joy!

Rotary Asks Help For Popular Auction

Come spring, and the good Winchester housewives will be overhauling their manifest in the cellar and attic to see what they can do without. Some of them have even started already, and it is to them and those of you who will soon be taking a "look see" in those spots were skultch collects that this appeal is addressed.

There is always a lot of stuff "down cellar" or "up attic" that you could jolly well do without, even be better off if it weren't taking up room around the house. There is that big picture of Uncle Homer, you know, the one with the huge gilded frame. You don't want it, but someone at the Rotary Auction will go home all smiles if you give it to the Rotarians.

Or there is that funny little table with the three legs. You never liked it and you know you have kept it long enough so those that gave it to you for a wedding present have forgotten all about it. Send that along, and if the whole thing is a bit on the wobbly side, due to one of the legs being on the ostrofagus, as Bob Sullivan used to say, don't let that bother you.

There are all sorts of woodworking experts in the Rotary ranks, led by Syd and Al Elliott, stout fellers, who stand ready to put your contribution in top-hole shape before a single "what-am-I-offered" is heard in the hall.

Well, you begin to get the idea! There is stuff in your house, you and yours no longer cherish. Matter of fact, you'd be real glad to be rid of it! That's just the point! The Rotary is just hurting all over for that sort of merchandise for its big auction in April.

Look your stuff over and pick out what you don't want any more. Then call Syd Elliott, PA 9-2965; Al Elliott, PA 9-0874; Charlie Murphy, PA 9-2696; or Johnny Wilson, PA 9-1566. Someone will respond in a hurry, and you'll have that pleasant feeling that comes from giving a good cause a big boost.

There are few charities in Winchester the Rotary isn't mixed up in, and the only way they have to raise funds to give to these worthy projects is at the Rotary Auction. But if Rotary kept every penny of the funds raised at the auction, it would still be well worth helping, as a community venture. Everybody goes to the auction, enjoys meeting their friends, tarries over the luncheon and downright enjoys the big baked bean dinner in the evening.

There is more fun and cheap talk at a Rotary Auction than anywhere else you can figure, and when you stop to think that every nickel the Rotary takes in at the town hall goes out again in civic enterprises for charities that desperately need a helping hand, then why wait any longer?

That stuff in the attic and cellar has been there long enough, hasn't it! Why not pick up the phone and get it a good home. You'll be twice as happy. Once on your own account by getting yourself a lot of room that is a darned sight better than the stuff that was filling it, and twice, because you will be helping one of the most worth-while charities in Winchester.

Crawford Memorial Church Elects Leaders For Year

The annual meeting of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church was held on Tuesday evening last week with the Rev. William J. Ogle presiding. The pastor, the Rev. H. Newton Clay, gave his annual report, which showed the church membership at the end of 1962 to be 649, the largest in the history of the church. During 1962 fifty-two persons were received into membership which represented a net gain for the year of twenty-seven.

Reports of finance officers showed the church to be in good financial condition with all obligations met and a small balance in the treasury. The extensive major repairs on the property last year included work on the steeple, gutters, roof, driveways, sidewalks, etc. The exterior woodwork was painted and floodlighting of the front of the building was installed. There was also an overhaul job done on the organ. The trustees plan additional work on the parsonage in 1963.

The pastor was given an enthusiastic vote of confidence, and Mr. Frank Herrick, chairman of the Pastoral Relations Committee introduced a motion requesting that Bishop Mathews be asked by the superintendent to re-appoint the Rev. Mr. Clay to the Winchester church for a sixth year. The motion was adopted unanimously and with much applause.

Two memorial funds were accepted by the church and the trustees were authorized to handle the funds as designated by the donors. The Louise Simonds Memorial Fund is to be used for providing flowers for certain services in the church. The Paul White Memorial Fund income will be used for the care and upkeep of the church and/or the parsonage property.

The trustees, stewards, officers, commissions and committees of the church were elected. Added to the board of trustees for a three-year term were Lewis J. Warsky, Robert W. Armstrong, Jr., and Adolph Herrmann. Trustees emeriti are: Frank E. Crawford, G. Raymond Bancroft and Norman V. Osborne.

Vincent P. Clarke, Ralph W. Hatch and Allister B. MacKay were elected to fill unexpired terms on the board of stewards, and the following were elected to three-year terms on the board: Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Craft, Walter E. Fish, Jr., Dr. Harry V. Gilson, Harry B. Scott, III, E. A. Chase, Miss Dorothy Osborne, Samuel M. Miller, Walter Beard, Mrs. Robert Durfee, Raymond Stillman, Galen Kelley, Richard Stiles, Frank Herrick, C. Thorpe Thompson and Robert Hewes.

Church officers elected: recording steward, Mrs. Samuel Miller; treasurer, Joseph Graustuck; financial secretary, Adolph Herrmann; district steward, Lawrence W. Kinney; reserve district steward, Mrs. Rose Kinney; trier of appeals, Vincent P. Clarke; church school superintendent, Gordon MacKay; church lay leader, Ralph Pingree; associate lay leader, Harry Emmons; church membership secretary, Mrs. Adolph Herrmann; and communion stewards, Mrs. H. Newton Clay, Mrs. Alfred Poole and Mrs. William Platzoeder.

By vote of the meeting the house committee and the property committee were combined under the chairmanship of Mr. Ralph Hatch.

Mr. Harold Bergquist and Mrs. Lewis Warsky were elected to the nominating committee for a three-year term.

Youth Director To Speak At Methodist Church

"Youth - A Community Responsibility" will be the subject of a talk on Thursday evening, March 14, at the Methodist Church, by Mrs. Richard Howell, director of the Department of Youth services of Arlington. She will talk to the total community's responsibility toward all its young people, citing as examples what has been done in Arlington, Waltham and Brookline. Mrs. Howell is well qualified to speak on this subject, as a trained and experienced social worker who holds a Masters Degree in Social Work from New York University. For fifteen years she was employed at the Domestic Relations Court of New York City, in both the family and children parts of that court—first as a probation officer and later as a case supervisor of Probation. Since 1960 she has been Community Organization consultant with the Special Delinquency Project of United Community Services of Boston.

The meeting is sponsored by the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Crawford Memorial Church. Husbands and other friends are welcome at this special guest night program. Following a short business meeting, the lecture program will begin at eight o'clock. Mrs. Harry B. Scott will lead devotions. The Weslyan Group will furnish refreshments, under the leadership of Mrs. Kenneth A. Donaghey. This meeting is open to the public. Anyone interested in youth problems is cordially invited to attend.

Troop 503 Shows Summer Boy Scout Camping Film

The members of Boy Scout troop 503 are having a parents night next Monday March 11. The program will begin at 7:30 p.m. However, the troop invites everyone to come early to see their call to order which will be at 7:00 p.m. sharp. This will be in the usual meeting place in Chidley Hall at the Congregational Church.

The main purpose of the parent night program is two fold. A court of honor will be held when a number of boys will receive their awards for achievement.

More important, a presentation on camping will be given by members of the staff of the Minute Man Council. This is most interesting since it contains a film of last summer's activities at the various scout camps. The committee requests everyone to attend and learn what is available to your boy and how it is used to better help him in future life.

Town Garbage Truck, Car In Sat. Accident

A 1950 Ford sedan, operated by John W. Goodreau of Medford, and a Winchester garbage truck, driven by Edward R. Forgione of 29 Irving Street, collided at the intersection of Highland Avenue and Main Street on Saturday afternoon.

Police took the two drivers and Harold L. Rainey of 47 Harvard Street, a passenger in the truck, to the Winchester Hospital. Mr. Goodreau received a cut on the nose and said his left leg hurt, police said. The two local men said they would have their doctors examine them.

According to police, the car was traveling north on Main Street at about 30-35 miles an hour when the driver saw the garbage truck parked. The driver put his brakes on, police said, but the car skidded on the icy pavement and continued on into the garbage truck.

The car was a total wreck, with about $500 damage; and there was about $200 damage to the left front door, running board, fender and hood of the town truck.

* * *

Two Winchester residents were injured last Thursday night when their vehicle went out of control while attempting to avoid hitting a dog that had run out onto Palmer Street and the car struck a public utility pole.

Louis P. Guiffre of 33 Loring Avenue, the owner and operator of the Pontiac station wagon, and passenger Andrew Connolly of 814 Main Street, were taken by police to the Winchester Hospital.

Mr. Guiffre suffered head and face injuries and after treatment was released. Later he returned to the hospital and was admitted. Mr. Connolly was treated for head, face and leg injuries and was released after treatment.

According to police, the car was travelling west on Palmer Street when the accident occurred. The car was a total wreck, and had to be towed away.

Republicans Look To '64 Campaign

A well attended meeting of the Republican Town Committee was held February 28. The evening was highlighted by a proposal made by Earl Spencer and the showing of a movie.

Mr. Spencer's motion was to establish a Pre-election Campaign Committee "in the interests of developing a program of action for the 1964 election campaign." After much interesting discussion, it was voted to establish this committee. The newly established committee was appointed immediately following the meeting so it might begin its work immediately. This committee will report on its plan of action at the March meeting.

Next, the members viewed the film, "The Wisconsin Story." This film was produced by the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Action. The theme of the film was how to get out the vote on election day.

Following the film, Don Folkers explained the Precinct Education Program (PEP) he is conducting in Precinct 5.

Easter Seals To Aid Crippled Starts Today

The $300,000 statewide Easter Seal campaign of the Bay State Society for the Crippled and Handicapped opened today when Governor Peabody issued a proclamation designating the period from now until April 14 as "Easter Seal Time" in Massachusetts.

He urged "all residents of the state to give full support to this campaign to aid the handicapped."

With the campaign opening, approximately 700,000 sheets of twin Easter Seals which are a radical departure in design from Easter Seals of the past, went into the mail.

"The 1963 Easter Seals," the organization art director said, "carry a potent message into American homes which heretofore received only a decorative Seal ignoring the great human effort involved in the rehabilitation process."

Finger Printing Is Described To Scout Troop 524

On Thursday, February 28 Scoutmaster William Krupsky's Troop 524 heard Officer Alfred Poole, Winchester Police Department, talk about and demonstrate the whole interesting procedure of finger printing, from the dusting of latent prints with a powder to develop wholrs distinctly enough to be photographed, to the process of identifying criminals by their finger prints. The scouts themselves were finger printed in turn, by Officer Poole, who signed each of their identification cards in preparation for the merit badge in finger printing. Officer Poole kept the boys fascinated for an hour and a half with his interesting lecture and a display of his camera equipment and finger printing apparatus.

Scoutmaster Krupsky has many such informative programs lined up for the future to carry out his theory that interested, well-informed, active scouts are healthy in body and mind, and a real asset to the entire community.

Scriptural selections will include these verses from Psalms (90: 1, 16): "Lord, thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations . . . Let thy work appear unto thy servants, and thy glory unto their children."

Correlative readings will emphasize the Christian Science teaching that man's real identity is not material, but found in God as His spiritual image and likeness - what St. Paul referred to as "the new man" (Eph. 4:24). Included will be this passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (p. 90): "The admission to one's self that man is God's own likeness sets man free to master the infinite idea."

Tax Deductions For Auto Owners

Car owners can deduct a number of their expenses for income tax purposes, the American Automobile Association pointed out today.

Taxpayers who itemize deductions may deduct the following even if the car is used solely for personal non-business purposes:

1. Automobile registration fees-state registration fee of $6.00 - license fees (at $2.50 a year), etc.

2. State and local taxes on gasoline. In Massachusetts, the state gasoline tax is 5 and one half cents per gallon. The 4 cent federal tax may not be deducted.

3. State excise tax (rate is $66 per $1,000 valuation).

4. Interest on money borrowed on the security of an automobile.

5. Losses not covered by insurance resulting from fire, storm, theft or accident provided the accident was not the result of the taxpayer's willful act or negligence, such as drunken driving.

If the car is used for business purposes other deductions are available such as depreciation, parking fees, garage rental, bridge and pike tolls, AAA membership and many others. The taxpayer must make an honest and fair valuation of the extent to which his car is used for the two purposes. If the car is used for both pleasure and business the above items may be deducted only in proportion to business use.

The use of an automobile for commuting to and from a fixed place of employment is considered a personal and not a business use, even if a car-pooling arrangement is used.

Former Governor To Visit Saint Mary's Holy Name

St. Mary's Holy Name Society will hold the regular monthly meeting on Sunday March 10, 1963, and all the men of the parish are invited to attend the 7:45 a.m. Mass and receive Holy Communion in a group.

JOHN A. VOLPE

Bob Scholl as usual will direct the serving of a light collation at the "K of C" hall immediately after the Mass.

Our town's most distinguished citizen has graciously accepted our invitation to speak at this affair. We are of course referring to John A. Volpe our former governor. His talk at this meeting should be of exceptional interest to everybody, and we believe all the men should be present to show their respect to one who while attaining to the highest office in the State, as well as many honors both national and local, has at all times been a model and most exemplary fellow parishioner in all respects.

Bill McGaragle wishes to announce that all the men are also urged to join with the Nocturnal Adoration Group on Friday evening March 15, at 8:00 p.m. at the parking lot opposite the Town Hall and then proceed to St. Clement's shrine in the Fenway for one hour of prayer before the Blessed Sacrament.

Fair Housing Association Sees Discrimination Film

How can decent, home-loving American citizens overcome natural fears and prejudices when there is a threat to the racial homogeneity of their neighborhood? Some of the answers are found in the film, "All The Way Home," viewed by members and friends of the Winchester Fair Housing Association, meeting in the Symmes Room of the Unitarian Church on Thursday, February 28.

"All the Way Home," distributed by the Anti-Defamation League, is an account of what may happen when a Negro family attempts to move into a white neighborhood. The normally open-minded citizens in the film become obsessed with the fear of possible loss of property values — a fear that proves to be unfounded. "All the Way Home" shows that a fair-minded confrontation of the problems unites the citizens in a determination to see justice done and American ideals upheld.

Also at the meeting, association president Emmons Ellis announced the election of Mrs. Marie Banks as corresponding secretary and Mr. Francis Hurley as the association's representative in the Fair Housing Federation of Boston.

Mr. Hurley reported on the formation of Fair Housing, Inc., a non-profit organization set up to receive tax-deductible gifts from foundations and individuals and to operate the central clearing house formerly managed by the Federation.

Speaking for the housing committee of the Winchester Association, Mr. George Beal described the currently indecisive negotiations taking place with local realtors. The two parties are still seeking a solution acceptable to both.

Professor Robert E. Keeton then delivered an account of the hearings on the fair housing bills now before the legislature, held that day at the State House. According to his report the substance of Senate Bill 350 will probably eventually be enacted.

The business meeting closed with an extended discussion of various pledge forms presented by Mr. Scott Cunningham, chairman of the pledge committee. The exact form of the pledge to be used in Winchester was referred back to the pledge committee and the steering committee of the association. President Ellis announced that there would be an open meeting in April or May.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Lawrence H. Shepard, Mrs. Francis L. Judge, and Mrs. Erwin Hutchings.

Beghorra If It Ain't the Jig At Legion Hall

Due to the fact St. Patricks Day falls on Sunday this year, the annual American Legion dance will be held on Saturday, March 16, at 8:30 p.m.

Co-chairman Vin McCabe has announced that Bob Fiore and his all Irish band have been secured for the big event. The hall will be gaily decorated with a greenish hue and there will be a contest to see which couple can dance the best jig.

Tickets will be available through Commander John Kinton and co-chairman Bob Plunkett; and if past indications mean anything, better make plans now to attend. The Post dugout will also have a supply of tickets on hand so don't be left out.

A. C. Allyn & Co. Expands Quarters; Plans Open House

A. C. Allyn & Co., nation-wide investment firm, is expanding its Winchester office at 47 Church Street. The large quarters are made necessary by an ever-growing clientele, according to Maurice C. Bird, manager of the office which was opened in November, 1957. The office is "an outstanding example of the trend towards suburban brokerage business," he said.

The re-opening will be noted officially by an open house on Saturday, March 16th, from 2:00 to 6:00 p.m. A feature of the open house will be a display of art, created by many local residents. Refreshments will also be served.

A. C. Allyn & Co., a member firm of the New York Stock Exchange, offers a complete diversified line of investment services. In addition to Mr. Bird, a long-time resident of Winchester, the company is represented here in town by Maxwell McCreery of 4 Curtis Street, Thomas C. Murray of Arlington, and Walter H. Palmer of Weston.

Besides the actual enlargement, plans call for the addition of one representative and the installation of a Trans Lux Ticker Tape, which will show all the New York Stock Exchange transactions, in order to provide the fastest market information.

Mr. Bird, an amateur artist himself, said that he hoped that residents would take this opportunity to view some of the creative work of their neighbors while it is on display in the new office, March 16th, and during the following week.

Film Program At Library

On Friday, March 8, we will again visit an iron curtain land in the film "Russia." It begins with a priceless motion picture record, taken between 1905 and 1910, of the last Tzar and his family in court ceremonies and military reviews and also of Russian peasants and workmen of that period. Fifty years later, in color, we see Soviet Russia today in all its aspects, including religion.

"Looking Through Glass" examines the manufacture of glass in one of Britain's largest factories. Here the glass-blowers, the handcraftsmen, still apply their difficult and dangerous art alongside modern mass-production methods.

Our young scientists will appreciate "Geological Work Of Ice" which considers gradational work of ice in fracturing rock in freezing weather. By means of animation, the vast continental glaciers of the ice ages advance and retreat carving out a new face of the earth.

At 10:15 on Saturday the program will be repeated for school-age children.

Bloodmobile Day At First Baptist On March 13th

Have you invested in the future by donating a pint of blood through the Red Cross?

Most people have a hospital insurance plan and that costs money. If you need blood that also costs money but if you donate a pint of blood once a year through Red Cross, it will cost you nothing except 45 minutes of your time. Isn't this worth your consideration to take care of your family?

The Red Cross bloodmobile comes to our town five times a year for your convenience.

Why not make a date for March 13 by calling 729-2300. You will be glad you did.

How's About Some Books!

Winchester Rotary wants books for its big auction coming up in April, and there must be a lot of books kicking around houses in Winchester that someone would be glad to buy if they were just displayed where they could be seen.

You never know about books! That little black-letter volume you didn't think so much of may mean a lot to a collector, and the old college trigonometry book may be of real help to some guy trying to get an education on his own.

Now there is no law against giving new books to the auction, but the point is the Rotary boys will take anything between covers, new, second hand, good or bad shape.

The Rortary has lots of calls for books at the auction and would like to be able to do something about all these calls. If you have any books kicking around the premises, put them in a pile and call PA 9-4108. You'll get action; will get rid of them in a hurry.

Why not help the Rotary with their book shelf. It is really a worth-while thing to do since every penny the club takes in at the Town Hall auction in April goes back to the town in charitable grants to this or that worthy object. Your favorite charity is probably one the club helps regularly so why not give the auction a boost.

Look around for books. Any kind of books. Stack them together. It would help if they were tied, and call PA 9-4108. It's as easy as that!

Collector's postage stamps and albums now on sale at the Winchester Star on all price levels. An excellent way to give youngsters a sense of geography and history and a constructive hobby.

Professional Nurse Group

The Professional Nurse Group will meet at the Choate Nurses' Home tonight Thursday March 7, at 8 p.m.

The speaker for the meeting will be Mr. Frank Ryan, director of Woburn Board of Health and Welfare Depts. Mr. Ryan will enlighten us on the many responsibilities these Departments have to their individual communities.

Refreshments will be served.

Last month at the business meeting several topics were discussed and two committees were formed. The chairman of the committee for making plans for our annual banquet will be Mrs. Lois Meserve of Burlington. The chairman for the Nominating Committee will be Mrs. Glenice Kelley of Woburn, who will present a slate of officers at the April meeting. Any suggestions or ideas will be welcomed by these committees.

Book Reviews Open Spring For Crittenton Group

March truly came "in like a lamb" last Friday morning when a group of about 150 women gathered in the hall of the Crawford Memorial Methodist church to enjoy a coffee hour and to hear Mrs. Jacqueline Cann review some of the season's new and interesting books.

After a short poem expressing the anticipation of Spring that we all feel in March we were transplanted to the coast of Maine, the setting for "Georgia Winthrop" by Sloan Wilson.

The colorful and salty characters of this typical Maine coast town together with a glimpse of the fantastic plot of the story kept everyone eager to learn what happens as the reviewer carefully left us dangling at just the crucial moment.

"Second Growth" by Ruth Moore and "Only Fifty Years Ago" by Gladys Hasty Carroll carried the listener to the quiet countryside of Vermont and New Hampshire to share in the nostalgic memories of a life many of us knew not too many years ago. The small happenings that colored the authors lives were portrayed with sensitive feeling by the reader.

The audience enjoyed the references and humorous quips in "You Can Always tell a Harvard Man" by Richard Bissell. The well known characters from the present day back to John himself make the book appetizing to all us neighboring suburbans.

Mrs. Cann also commented on the candid but gentle style of Bette Davis in her recently published autobiography. The last book written by well loved Cornelia Otis Skinner was "Elegant Wits and Grand Horizontals." This work paints a gay colorful picture of Paris in the 1890's, but would be of most interest to those who really know France and Paris.

The morning ended all too soon when Mrs. Cann gave us a poem about "Readers" of every kind and taste, and blessed us all. She delighted her audience with her humor and sensitive feeling for the characters and moods of the books she had chosen. Florence Crittenton Senior circle was truly proud of this talented member of the group and only wish everyone in with the flu or off absorbing sunshine could have enjoyed this worthwhile morning.

Lots of Lynch Talent on Stage Tomorrow Night

"La Morte de Jesse James," an original skit by a Lynch School French class is only one of the varied features to go before the public tomorrow night when the Lynch Junior High School presents its second annual Talent Night.

The show is planned for 8 p.m., to follow a special exposition, which commences at the school at 7 p.m. and will include the products of the art, home economics and industrial art classes, in the gymnasium.

An organ prelude including works of Handel, Bach and Franck performed by a Lynch student and taped in her home will open the performance, which boosts a string ensemble under the direction of John R. Woodward, solo dances, songs, ballet and many other kinds of entertainment.

There is to be a special matinee performance today at 3:30 of this show which involves more than 100 of the 7th, 8th and 9th grade pupils at the school.

The evening is under the direction of George F. Snyder, assistant principal, and has been designed to demonstrate the many talents of the student body in areas not strictly prescribed by school work.

VFW Post 3719 Auxiliary Bowling

At last, a new member in the 300 Club. Rose has been the lone member of the club since November 15, but now Marsha has joined her. Marsha bowled strings of 82, 120, 98 for an even 300 total. Marsha, your 120 string is high single so far.

Magda ran a close second with 89, 104, and 103 strings to total 296. Phyllis is still bowling near the top, a 274 total this week. Marguerite T. did very well again with her 101 string.

With only six weeks to go, everyone is working hard to get her average up; and any time one is absent it can really hurt her average as well as the team's.

The first-place Spades added four more points to their win column. The Diamonds added three wins and the Clubs added one. There seems little doubt that playoffs will be necessary to decide our top teams for the year.

Triple Sweep For Badminton Club

Sixteen members of the Winchester Badminton Club turned in crackling performances in their "D" League match against their rivals from Needham last Thursday night at the high school gym. In so doing, they proved that lightning can strike the same spot not only twice, but as many as three times.

For the third consecutive time, the Winchester team swept all ten individual doubles competitions against their League opponents. With back to back shut-out victories at home over clubs representing Needham, Maugus, and Framingham, the league-leading Winchester squad has compiled a perfect home court record of 30 victories and no defeats, an unparalleled achievement in League play.

The winning pairings in the clean sweep against Needham on February 28, and the scores by which they won, were as follows:

Men's doubles: Bill Macneill and Russ Meade (15-5, 15-13); Al Kajander and Ed Williams (15-7, 15-4); Jay Gottesfeld and Paul Surette (8-15, 15-5, 15-10); Bob Gallant and Brad Hersey (15-2, 15-2).

Ladies' doubles: Paula Di Iorio and Alison Hersey (15-1, 15-0); Lois Hersey and Maxine Kajander (15-2, 15-2).

Mixed doubles: Ed Williams and Maxine Kajander (15-8, 15-5); Tom Smith and Alison Hersey (15-12, 15-7); Jay Gottesfeld and Gloria Gottesfeld (15-5, 15-8; Whit Gray and Stella Gallant (15-4, 5-15, 15-6).

Brothers-in-law	10	38	8018
Giant Killers	10	38	7898
Hoboes	8	40	7795

J. H. Winn after losing the first string took hold and survived the on-rushing St. Mary's by a score of 6 to 2. Ralph Jury was the lead-off man and big gun with 297, as George Snelling was high for the losers with 292.

The 49ers came right back and disposed of the Hoboes 8 to 0. B. Wilson was the star of the match as 100, 112, 109 for 321 provided the difference. R. Trulson was high for the Hoboes.

In the battle for second place Grandma's Teeth turned in one of their unusual nights, as the Post Office propelled themselves into second with a single of 558 and a triple of 1537. Lennie Landry threw a smooth ball for 97, 105, 127, for 329, as did Arthur Griswold's 318, and Coley Foley's 314. Joe Consalves was high for the losers with 312. The Post Office are off and running their second half, and they look to be one of the leading contenders for playoff positions.

The Mill Hillers, still trying to keep pace with the leaders bombed the Giant Killers with the help of the flu, as the Giant Killers were shorthanded. Bruce Kelley 342 and Fred Kimball 303 were the two men that made the difference despite Jackie Rachel's single string of 119 at the start.

Strike Lanes rolled over the Brothers-in-law in a close series and pulled out the total with the return of Dick Swartz and the bowling prowess of Frank Scully, Sr., who led the attack. Andy Buzzotta rolled his usual good game, but could not get his force up for this match.

Atlantic Gelatin climbed back into first place after vacating it for a month, through the efforts of Ozzie McClay 101, 96, 139 for 336 and Joe Nash 101, 122, 106 for 329. Harold Faulhefer was high for Converse but 1547 pins for the match were too much for the "Grocerymen."

S. O. I. Bowling League

As this article goes to press there are but three meetings remaining before the conclusion of the current season and the teams are really going at it to reach playoff positions.

After last week's games Alabama replaced Yale for top position when it defeated Navy by a 4-0 shutout. Top man for the winners was Emile Doucette who rolled for 120-93-100 with Capt. Correction Fiore next in line when he hit for 100-98-107. No Navy man reached the 300 mark but coming close were Roundy Fiore 108-87-102, Tony Chefalo 102-85-105 and Paul Amico 87-96-107.

Yale's split with B. C. was responsible for knocking itself down one notch to second, while B. C. holds onto sixth spot. Yale's big guns were Hokie Procopio 117-99-116, Capt. Richie Bucci 98-125-98, Joe Capone 99-105-95 and Mike Collucci 88-115-87. Randy Kazazian was low man but still bowled an encouraging 92-89-88. Topping B. C.'s bowlers were Slim Lentine 107-127-132, Capt. John Mangano 106-117-113, Jim Faietta 115-83-92 and Ted Peluso 81-98-110.

Holy Cross still holds third place despite the fact it lost to last place Penn by a 1-3 tally. Geri Cerulli was best scorer for the victors with 92-89-123 while Mike J. Saraco hit for 98-98-99. Arka Amico carried the load for H. C. in a losing cause by bowling 92-116-107 and Capt. Moose Bellino came next with 103-101-91.

Still in fourth place is Bates even after splitting with Maryland who holds twelfth place. Skitchy Fiore had a big night for Bates when rolling 115-127-115 and Nick Molea did very well with 87-127-122. Sonny Mistretta's high triple score of 376 was not enough to put Maryland over. He hit for 149-109-118 and teammate Dan Gattineri was right up there with excellent scores of 104-125-98. Maxie DiMambro fell five pins short of the 300 mark when he rolled 92-104-99.

Georgetown climbed up one place to fifth after defeating eleventh place California by a 4-0 score. Georgetown had three bowlers hit the three century mark and they were Pucky Perritano 101-110-124, Joe Marrone 97-108-104 and Frank Frongillo 80-107-113. The lone 300 bowler for California was Carl Bertolucci who hit for 98-97-114.

Harvard defeated St. Mary's 4-0 to stay in seventh place while the losers once again moved down to the bottom. Harvard's Capt. Babe Tofuri had a good night with 107-136-97. For a while it looked like his second string was going to break the high record for a single string but the pressure got the best of him. His lead-off man, Pete Lonigro, left the play area a happy man with many pats on the back because he hit the 300 mark for the first time in four years and a proud man he was. He rolled a 96-107-115 and he certainly enjoyed it all. Nice going Pete and be sure your cab passengers hear about it! St. Mary's was hurt badly by the absence of Capt. Max LaCarubba who is still out because of an ailing back and anchor man Mingy Frongillo was hard at work extinguishing a call fire at the Town's disposal area. Dan Mistretta of Maryland was there also as a call fireman which could have meant something for Maryland's splitting with Bates.

Army and Notre Dame still hold down eighth and ninth place respectively despite the fact that Army bombed Notre Dame 4-0. Capt. Tony Saraco had the big missile for Army by hitting the target for 106-108-115. Next in line was John Dattilo with 96-119-95 followed by Woozy Giacalone 100-103-89 and Dom Gallello 108-76-106. Trying hard for Notre Dame were John Frongillo 89-120-112, Al Repucci 101-94-102 and Capt. Dick Tofuri 102-83-98.

Important games this week are first place Alabama against twelfth place Maryland; second place Yale vs tenth place Navy; third place Holy Cross vs eighth place Army and fourth place Bates vs next to last place Penn.

S. O. I. Women's Bowling

Gee whiz, Louise, just because you send your press clippings to California is no reason to squeal. Did you have to tell Cusi I missed your team? I just wanted to see if all the girls were awake. All kidding aside, I made a boo-boo. So sorry. You have such a lovely team, too. O. K., Viceroys, are you ready?

First of all, we have Louise Vigorita, captain. Such a lovely girl, she bowls terrific, pleasant to talk to, a joy to have on a team but she wants your reporter to know it. Joanne Mistretta, a newcomer, is doing very well. A sweet little girl who giggles at the drop of a hat.

Pauline Giacalone, where did you get that average? Hear you have been doing beautifully, hitting those pins dead center.

Lillian Ciarcia is the girl who gets mixed up with everybody else. Waiting for your 90 average so I can put you on the top ten lest. Joan Di Amato is such a quiet one we hardly know she is there. Never saw a ball travel so slow. Joan bowls like the ball is tired.

This really takes care of all the teams. Hope your sister enjoys the article with your name in it, Louise. Tell her to send it around to all the studios. I might get a writing job.

Has Ann Cullen been walking around all week with her head in the clouds? You bet your life, and she has good reason. Ann bowled 93. Good girl, do it some more.

Laura and Margie did marvelous with their 116. Of course Cusi held up the rear with her 110.

Did Peggy and Bob ever enjoy their escapade to New York last week end. Was it a second honeymoon?

Haven't heard anybody come up with a real good guess as to who this reporter is. Shall I give you a clue? My measurements are 13¼-6-8¼. That's neck, wrist and ankle. Any help? Watch for the clue next week.

Powers Continues On Northeastern's Hockey Defense

When Northeastern University hockey defenseman, Steve Powers, of 37 Pond Street, wanted to learn to skate, all he had to do was walk through his back yard.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher A. Powers has had a natural advantage in developing as a hockey player. There is a pond in back of his house.

"I've been skating ever since I can remember," said Powers. "All I have to do is put on my skates and walk outside."

"Powers' pond has paid dividends for Northeastern," said N. U. coach, Jim Bell.

Last year we switched Steve from forward to defenseman. Now this move is beginning to pay off. He always was a good skater and it was just a matter of adjusting to a new position.

Powers is a 1959 graduate of Winchester High School where he was a three sports star. His junior year in Winchester won the Northeast Conference of the North Shore League.

Elected captain and named All-Scholastic his senior year, Powers also played baseball and ran cross-country.

"My biggest thrill in sports came in my junior year at Winchester," he said.

"We were playing hockey against Swampscott and they were undefeated. It was a close game but then we were awarded a penalty shot."

Winchester coach, Frank Finigan, asked Powers to attempt it. He scored and Winchester went on to a 5-3 victory and the Conference title. Swampscott finished second.

A junior management major, Powers is enrolled in Northeastern's College of Business Administration, one of the University's nine schools and colleges.

Under N. U.'s "co-op" plan, upperclass students alternate classroom instruction with practical experience on regular paying jobs in business, industry, and the professions.

Powers hasn't given up his baseball. However, now he does more than just play. He helps manage the Winchester Town Team in the Carling Inter-City League.

He helped Joel Peckham, also a Winchester resident, organize and manager the semi-pro outfit.

Peckham, a teaching fellow in Northeastern's English Department, was formerly captain and catcher of the Tufts nine.

Powers also plays third base for the team.

Varsity Club Jamboree Successful

Despite the snow and several counter attractions the Jamboree held last Friday evening in the high school gymnasium under the auspices of the Varsity Club was very successful, attracting some 600 persons who were given a good time.

Two basketball games were on the program, with the high school varsity, fresh off their win of the Bay State League championship, edging a surprisingly good faculty team, 64 to 60.

Roger Rawden played center for the teachers and was the high scorer of the evening. With him at the forward berths were Rollie Miller, Bob Kessler and Lou Knight. "Jimsy" Phillips, George Watson and Neil Odam were in the back court. Frank Provinzano and Izzy Battino umpired and didn't give the faculty any the worse of it on the close ones.

The girls' varsity team took on the girls' faculty team, reinforced by "Philomena" Phillips and "Marie" Kessler, appropriately garbed with wigs composed of mops which were attached by Trainer Lou Goddu.

"Philomena" and "Marie" did their best but were unable to pull the game out of the fire for the faculty who were badly klobbered by the school girls. Jan Collins and Noami Fleishman played in the fore court for the teachers with "Philomena" and "Marie" playing backs, reinforced by Marie Rawden.

Exhibition wrestling paired A. J. Duffy, the masked marvel, and Bob Menucci, the hatchet man; also John Stavros and Al Kimball.

Jim Menucci, who had been heckling the grapplers all evening from the stands, went after Kimball following his defeat by Stavros, claiming he had lost $30 on the match, breaking a piece of balsa wood on his head and soaking him with shaving cream.

Neil Odam, the referee, tried to break up the brawl and was set upon and knocked cold by the entire cast of grapplers, who dragged him from the floor to the tender mercies of Trainer Goddu.

Champs Bow To East Boston 4-2

Sacred Heart High School of East Boston exploded for three goals in the first period to defeat Saint Mary's of Winchester by a score of 4-2 in the final game of the C. Y. O. Hockey League playoffs held last Sunday at McHugh Forum. It was a well played contest which featured solid checking by both clubs.

Dennis Griffin made an early contribution to the Saint Mary's cause when he took a pass out from John Stabile and let go a sixty foot bomb which went over the right shoulder of the Sacred Heart goalie and into the twine. East Boston stormed right back however and slammed in three goals before the end of the period. Center Harry McDonald lit the lamp on a breakaway at 3:01. Defenseman Joe Lanzilli and left winger Jim VonHandorf provided the other two markers.

Saint Mary's struck again early in the middle stanza on a fluke goal by defenseman Skip Fucillo. Skip lofted a 90 footer high into the air which the East Boston goalie lost in the lights only to rediscover it a split second later in the net. Through the remainder of the period both clubs resorted to a more wide open style of play which resulted in several good scoring opportunities at both ends of the rink, but East Boston defensemen Lanzilli and Alfama deflected many of the Winchester shots while goalie Paul McCarthy warded off the East Boston attempts.

McCarthy, who took over the nets in the second period did a superb job of holding off the Sacred Heart first line of Gary Malloy, Harry McDonald, and Richard Pepe.

In the third period McDonald took a pass from Malloy and potted his second goal of the day to give his club a 4-2 lead. For the remainder of the contest East Boston elected to play a close to the vest defensive game and the strategy payed off as time and again the backchecking forwards would break up Saint Mary's plays. Although the Winchester first line (Cunningham, Manzie, and Stabile) had a few good scoring bids in the waning moments of play their efforts proved to be in vain as the clock ran out with St. Mary's on the short end of a 4-2 score.

Congratulations were exchanged after the game by both coaches and players. It was here that St. Mary's showed that as they won with pride so could they lose with dignity. Credit for this fine display of sportsmanship belongs to coach John Falla and co-captains Dennis Griffin and Pepper Cunningham.

Immediately after the game a luncheon was held at the Parish Hall to which members of the team and the pep club were invited. Coach Falla announced after the luncheon that Frank Manzie is to be the recipient of the teams most valuable player award. Following this announcement, co-captains Griffin and Cunningham presented gifts to Father O'Donnell and Mr. Falla as tokens of appreciation for their work throughout the season.

THE LAST MUSTER FOR COMPANY C, 319th Engineer Battalion, before the break-up of this Winchester-based reserve group. They will be missed.

De-Activation Hits Company C After Six Years

The well known Company C unit, 319th Engineers Battalion, was officially de-activated recently in a Defense Department re-organization plan which broke up the 94th Division and which will establish a new Brigade for this area.

One of the major reasons for the re-grouping is to give the country more striking capability in the event of another Berlin situation or Cuban crisis, according to the report from Battalion headquarters.

Company C made its home at the S.O.I. Hall, 119 Swanton Street, where it met every Wednesday night from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. It was a combat engineering unit and had attained a superior rating in the Division.

Organized here in 1956, the group first met at the Legion Home with a total of eight men. By 1960 it had reached to the capacity of 93 men, and at this time moved to the larger quarters on Swanton Street. In addition to Winchester, men came from Arlington, Stoneham, Medford, Woburn, Melrose, Belmont and Wakefield.

Its members, who are familiar to many through their participation in local parades, have participated in, among other things, the construction of various civilian Defense projects throughout the state. They regret the unit's deactivities, but for the most part, also favor the new re-organization.

Bloodmobile March 13th

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will be here on March 13 at the First Baptist Church from 12:45 to 6:45 p.m.

Unitarian Women Will Hear About Space Frontiers

The Women's Alliance of the Winchester Unitarian Society invites the members of the parish to a Fellowship Supper on Tuesday, March 12, at 6:30 p.m. This will be a covered dish supper, served by Mrs. George Kimball and her committee.

STREETER STUART

The speaker of the evening will be Mr. Streeter Stuart, well-known radio and TV commentator for WBZ-WBZ TV. He is a graduate of the University of Oklahoma, and has done graduate work at Tufts, Boston University and Harvard. His subject for the talk will be "New Frontiers in Space." The subject is large, but Mr. Stuart will present it in simple and understandable terms.

Mrs. Darrell Root, at PA 9-5952 is in charge of arrangements. Please call her by Sunday, March 10, if you are planning to attend the supper.

ACROSS THE COUNTER

After buying an apartment house property and "assuming" the fire insurance, Bill Jones looked over the policy. He was disturbed. The way the coverage was distributed between the building and the contents didn't seem right. So he visited our office.

"I suppose," Mr. Jones said, "that this policy has to remain this size."

"No," I replied, "it can easily be changed. Right now."

A surprised look crept across Mr. Jones' face. "Honest," he said. "I thought an insurance policy was like a pair of shoes—a certain fixed size."

"On the contrary," I said, "a fire policy is more like a piece of string. We can tie on lots of additional coverage, snip off any desired amount, or twist it to provide protection against other hazards. It is extremely flexible."

"Well," Mr. Jones said, "I'm pleased to know that. Let's review this policy then. I'll show you what I had in mind, and I'll be glad to have your suggestions."

A question you won't find answered on any quiz show is what exactly is a virus? In some respects it is a living organism, in others it is a pure chemical. Perhaps we might then argue with some logic that a virus is a living chemical.

At any rate, they are infinitely small: the head of a pin easily holds 25 million polio viruses, and they have the faculty of self-duplication.

Some schools of thought maintain that the first living things to appear on earth many millions of years ago were very similar to the viruses we know today. From these living chemicals sprang other and more complicated forms of life.

Town Budgets Topic Of Finance Hearing Before Town Meeting

Approximately 60 Town Meeting Members and several interested citizens attended the Finance Committee's public hearing at the McCall Junior High School auditorium Monday night to review, investigate, and discuss the Town's departmental budgets in the Warrant in preparation for the Town Meeting session tonight.

Fred Stockwell, chairman of the Finance Committee, presided over the special meeting designed to acquaint and familiarize the Town Meeting Members with both the budgets and the reasons why the Finance Committee made the recommendations it did in regard to them.

Mr. Stockwell first explained the background of each budget, read the total budget request in each department, and then reviewed the committee's recommendations. Finally, in each instance, the committee asked if there were any questions from the floor regarding any part or the whole of a department's budget request.

On about half of the budgets gone over the local representatives to the Limited Town Meeting concurred with the committee's recommendation without comment.

In about one fourth of the budgets there were some questions that appeared as to relationships between comparative figures or as to why some policies were being practiced by the departments. The committee was able to answer the financial and statistical questions, but without members of the various Town departments and boards there to speak on policy matters, the committee was unable to answer these questions. One example of this type of question was an insistance by one Town Meeting Member for an explanation as to why the Highway Department uses salt in covering icy roads and sidewalks instead of sand or a mixture of the two.

And, in several budget recommendations, a few of the Town Meeting Members present adamantly disagreed with the position taken by the committee. The members claimed in these instances that the committee was taking a purely financial point of view and were not considering other factors involved in appropriation requests. One example of such a difference of opinion centered around the West Side Fire Station special article in the Warrant, which the committee is against "at this time." Another example was the unfavorable recommendation given by the committee on the School Committee's request for funds to continue offering soccer, wrestling and indoor track at the High School, which the School Department felt was a highly successful program as it offered athletic opportunities to many students not able or eligible to get in the standard seasonal sport teams.

Under the Town Clerk's budget, Arthur Hewis, a Town Meeting Member, asked the committee why it had omitted $500 from the personal services item for a salary raise. A short discussion followed until another Town Meeting Member asked Mr. Hewis if he planned to debate the issue on the Town Meeting floor, at which time Mr. Hewis commented that he "was not loathe to talk at the Town Meeting," and dropped the point.

The operator of the vehicle, Robert Donaghey, 23, of 14 Glenwood Avenue, who was standing shaken beside the vehicle when police arrived, was taken to the Winchester Hospital for treatment of a cut on the left elbow, injuries to the right knee, and complaints of a sore back, according to police.

Police notified the Fire Department of the dangerous condition that existed at the scene with gasoline from the turned over truck spilling onto Washington Street. Lt. Joseph Shea and Firefighters Robert C. Sullivan and Wayne Robinson went to the scene of the accident, washed down the truck, and hosed the gasoline off the street.

The mail contents of the truck were not damaged in the accident, and the Post Office sent another truck out to retrieve the filled pouches. The truck was then towed to Haggerty's Garage.

McCall Science Fair Shows 182 Projects

The McCall School gymnasium has seen many exciting events, both in its many years as a high school gym and the last three as a junior high school; but it has seldom been filled with more vibrance than last Wednesday when 182 young students displayed their projects in the first McCall School Science Fair.

Like a great supermarket, the floor was laid out in well ordered aisles of table after table of projects researched by the students. And the crowd of about five hundred who went up and down asking questions and listening to dissertations between 7 and 9 p.m. that evening, added to the gala Friday night at the market effect.

Attendants ranged from three-year-old brothers and sisters to 83-year-old grandparents and included cousins and aunts and neighbors. All came to see the results of preparations that had been going on in science labs and homes for some weeks. The older the observer the more astonished many were at the breadth and depth of accomplishment at this age level.

On display was work by 7th, 8th and 9th graders in the fields of the physical and natural sciences and in mathematics.

A story of the preparation of Co2 was next to a project showing curves of constant width, defining how to drill a square hole with a rotating shaft. There were dissected and defined animal parts in multiple array. There were layers of the human retina, with their functions detailed next to stages of human embryonic development. A young lady in charge of the latter knew for sure she wanted to go into the field of biology. A little further down another exhibitor demonstrating the use and design of an artificial kidney was just as sure she did not.

There were many firsts for the evening, but one thing which elicited much comment from those educated some time ago was the extent of the 7th grade work in the leld of physics.

Judging of the event took place in the afternoon before the public show by Dr. John Read, dean of secondary education, B. U. School of Education; Harris Goldberg, director of science for the Needham public schools; Miss Margherite Houlihan, vice principal, Lincoln Junior High School in Medford, and Mrs. Lenna Travis, head of the science department, Winchester High School.

Prior to the date of the event, the McCall science teachers, John A. Limongiello, chairman of the event, Paul J. Andrews, Mrs. Marie V. Rawden and Mrs. Judits L. Sadowski, had the job of prejudging projects from many more student applications on the basis of overall quality, depth and research.

Police Will Take Alleged Molester To Juvenile Court

Last Thursday a thirteen-year-old girl spotted a boy whom she said she recognized as being the one who had approached and bothered her eight days before. She telephoned the police, who immediately responded to the call and began questioning the sixteen-year old youth.

Police later said the youth had accosted a number of other young girls in Winchester, and that they would press for court action. The case is scheduled to appear in Woburn District Court, Juvenile Sessions, on March 21.

Meanwhile, police are continuing their search for two or more other believed molesters. One is an older man who has been reported to the police as having stopped several children on the streets. Another, described as a younger man is reported as having been driving around in a car and talking to and chasing after a few girls.

The Police Department has asked that parents remind their children not to talk to strangers, and if one approaches their child to telephone the police as soon as possible so patrolmen will be able to get to the area quickly and investigate. Children should be instructed to go to the nearest telephone to call the police. Children should be reminded, police said, to get the description of strangers who approach them, and, if the stranger is in a car, to try and get the description of the car and the license number.

Pihl Chairman Of Assessors Board

The other two members of the board are Alfred D. Elliott, former chairman and reelected last week to another term, and Charles E. Howe.

New Comptroller Act Decision Due On 21st

The Comptroller Act, which will come before a special two article Town Meeting on Thursday, March 21st, at 7:45 p.m., in the Memorial Auditorium of the Senior High School, was passed by the state Legislature and signed by Gov. Endicott Peabody essentially as it was presented by the Town committee delegated by last year's Town Meeting.

The Town must now either approve or disapprove of the measure within two years. The Board of Selectmen ordered the Special Town Meeting to decide the issue as soon as possible. The two articles on the special warrant ask the Town to accept the Act as passed by the Legislature, and to fill the vacant office.

The text of the original bill as presented to the Legislature is printed below; it is the same as the Act as passed and to be decided upon by the Town Meeting Members.

Suggested Legislative Act to create position on Town Comptroller in Winchester.

An Act Establishing the Office of Comptroller in the Town of Winchester Be it enacted, etc; as follows:

Section 1. There shall be in Town of Winchester a Comptroller who shall be appointed by the Selectmen and who shall have, in addition to the powers and duties conferred and imposed upon town accountants by General Laws, the powers and duties prescribed in Section 2 hereof. The Comptroller shall be subject to the supervision and control of the Selectmen and shall devote his entire time to the performance of his duties and the supervision of the employees of his department. He shall be appointed as soon as possible after the acceptance of this act by the Town of Winchester for a term running from the first day of April following such acceptance, or until the qualification of his successor; thereafter, appointment of the Comptroller shall be made in March of every third year for three-year terms running from the first day of April following such appointment. He may be removed by the Selectmen for cause and the vacancy filled by appointment for the remainder of the unexpired term.

Police Just Miss Getting Yale St. Home Intruder

Police came close to apprehending a housebreaker on Yale Street Sunday night when a homeowner heard someone knock at the front door, then force it open and walk around on the first floor, and then escape out the back way when he heard the resident calling the police.

When the nearby patrol car pulled up in front of the house the policemen saw the front door open. Sgt. Daniel Reardon covered the front entrance while Patrolman Roland Roy ran around to the rear of the house. Ptl. Roy saw the form of a man running toward Oxford Street and gave chase, but was unable to find the subject.

Mr. and Mrs. Hazen Ayer of 19 Yale Street had retired for the evening at around 9 p.m. when they heard someone knock at the front

New Space Center Interests Local Industrial Comm.

William C. Cusack of 2 Lakeview Road, chairman of the local Development and Industrial Commission, represented Winchester at a meeting of the "NASA for Central Merrimack Valley Committee" at Rolling Green Motel in Andover last night.

The purpose of the meeting was to form a united front of communities in this area to attract NASA's proposed $50 million space electronics research center to this section of Massachusetts.

Mr. Cusack, in commenting on the possible local benefits on having such a space center located near Winchester, said: "Our interests, as a residential town, will mainly be in attracting some of the good families that this space center would employ as scientists, engineers, and administrators, to come and live in Winchester."

Additional ways in which the community would benefit, Mr. Cusack added, include more local business for our merchants with more shoppers and money coming into the area, more intelligent children entering our school system, and, a possibility that the old Beggs and Cobbs area—the last remaining large piece of land zoned for industry in Winchester—might prove more enticing for a space agency or allied supplier building site, and this would mean more tax revenue coming into the town treasury.

One area being contemplated by NASA for its new space center is a 1,600 acre site off Interstate Rt. 93 in the Andover, Tewksbury and Wilmington area, according to Representative F. Bradford Morse. There are other sites that have been mentioned, including one in Woburn.

Williams Elected With MacDonnell To Park Board

Albert A. MacDonnell of 34 Grove Street, a candidate for re-election, and Edmund A. Williams of 12 Myrtle Street were both elected to three year terms on the five-man Board of Park Commissioners in last week's Town Election.

Mr. MacDonnell received a total of 2,843 votes in the six precincts, and Mr. Williams received 2,539 votes. There were 1,606 blank votes cast.

Town Meeting Tonight To Scan 1963 Budgets; A Long Session Is Seen

Winchester annual Town Meeting of 1963 gets under way tonight at 7:45 in the Memorial Auditorium of the Senior High School, to begin work on a Warrant containing 64 articles.

Tonight's session, which will be presided over by the Town Moderator, Harrison Chadwick, will be principally concerned with the Town's finances for 1963. Town Meeting Members will be asked to study and vote on departmental budgets, one by one. The Finance Committee's official recommendations on these budgets were published and distributed to the citizens of the Town two weeks ago, permitting thorough study of the budget proposals prior to the Town Meeting. In addition, the Finance Committee has a special public meeting Monday night to review the figures in the budgets.

The Finance Committee's overall departmental budget recommendations total $4,933,487 for 1963. This is an increase of $141,372 over the 1962 recommendation of $4,792,115.

By far the largest budgetary increase is in the area of personal services. The 1962 recommendation for personal services was $3,068,538. This year $3,250,655 is recommended, a rise of $18,117.

In other expenses, the increase from 1962's recommended $1,613,549 to this year's recommended $1,624,970 is only $11,421.

The Finance Committee noted in its report that in the past 10 years there has been an increase of over 100 per cent in Town expenditures under budgets and special articles in the Warrant. Similarly, the tax rate rose from a $41.60 in 1952 to $70.80 in 1962.

The Finance Committee reported to the Town that once the Comptroller takes office (provided the Town accepts the Act in the Special Town Meeting), economies in the operations of the Town should be realized. In the meantime, the committee said its policies have been to discourage certain requests for surveys and equipment within departments until the Comptroller has taken office.

In generally appraising the Town's operating expenses, the Finance Committee, the Personnel Board and the Selectmen jointly concur that the Town's overtime salary expense record has been high, and that future boards should look more deeply into the situation with a view of realigning the overtime in such a way as to save the Town money and still get the work done. According to several Town Meeting Members, this problem will prove to be a very hot issue at the Town Meeting.

The largest budget submitted in the Warrant was for the School Department. The Finance Committee recommended an expenditure in 1963 of $2,260,944, which is an increase of $217,000, or a 10.58% rise, over the 1962 expenditure. The education budget will account for 46.8% of the total Town budget. Last year the total education budget represented 45% of the Town budget.

In the other recommended budgets, protection forces are down .9% from last year, health and sanitation are up .3%, highways is down .6%, charities is down .4% veterans' affairs are the same, public library is the same, parks and recreation are down .2%, employment, retirement and compensations are up 1.2%, public service enterprises are up 2%, debt service is down .6%, and unclassified is up 1.4%.

Itemized Deductions Average $3,350 Here

How do income tax deductions claimed by Winchester residents compare with the amounts claimed by taxpayers in other areas?

How closely will returns be scanned this year for excessive deductions? More closely than before, according to information trickling out of the Treasury Department. Up-to-date electronic computers and a larger staff of examiners will make it possible.

With approximately 25 million taxpayers itemizing their deductions, the Government has compiled tables to show the average amounts that are claimed in each income bracket.

When a normal amount is listed in a return, the chances are that it will go through without being questioned. However, when it is higher than usual for a particular income, it is likely to be caught by the gimlet eye of an examiner.

In that case, the entire report may be set aside for a thorough review and the taxpayer called upon to support his claims with proper records.

What are these critical amounts that may not be exceeded with impunity? The totals, as they concern Winchester and other communities, are detailed by the Commerce Clearing House, which reports on matters of tax and business law. Its figures are based on Treasury Department findings.

For the average Winchester family, whose gross income is approximately $19,488 a year, according to the most recent data, the deductions should not be more than $3,350 to conform to the national.

Making up this amount are contributions, $576, interest charges $1,065, tax payments, $1,012, and medical costs, $687.

For those with family incomes of $7,000, the normal deduction drops to $1,380. It consists of $239 in contributions, $439 in interest, $418 in taxes and $284 in medical expenses.

The Treasury Department warns however, against using these standards as absolute guides. It points out that a taxpayer might be assessed an additional amount in taxes even if his deductions are average, if he couldn't produce proof.

On the other hand, deductions of larger size may be safely claimed if properly substantiated.

Polio Protection Getting Started Across The State

Michael D. Saraco, agent of the Board of Health, today announced that this week-end marks the beginning of the statewide Type II polio protection campaign.

He described the program as "the nation's largest polio protection campaign with about half the State participating.

Mr. Saraco said local health boards expect to protect 2,500,000 citizens with type II drinks of Sabin oral polio vaccine. The campaign will last for about four weeks and will be followed by the concluding drink—Type III—in May. The Type I drink was distributed in January.

The Town of Winchester campaign begins March 25th with clinics being held in the Board of Health quarters for adults and preschool children from 1 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. on Monday, March 25, Tuesday, March 26, and Friday, March 29th.

Town Budgets

Under the Election and Registration budget, Mr. Hewis said he did not feel election wardens should receive a differential of $5 for every $1 earned by the regular workers.

Under the Protection budget Mr. Hewis asked why two new radios were needed for the police patrol cars, and why the old ones could not be either upgraded or turned in for their tradein value instead of turning them over to Civil Defense as planned when the type of sets needed by CD is of different specifications. The civil defense director explained that CD needed the radios for communications between their office and the hospital, and that this was the cheapest way to get them since the radios would get very little in tradein returns.

Under Parking Maintenance, one Town Meeting Member complained that a lot of the meters in the center were on the bum and should be repaired so that the Town could collect from them.

Under Civil Defense, the committee informed the audience that it was adding $440 to the budget for winter coats for the Auxiliary Fire Department.

Under the Building budget one member complained to the committee that in each of the last four years the committee has had to transfer from Reserve Funds about $500 for overexpenditures, and that the explanations were not adequate.

Under the Sanitation budget request, Mr. Hewis noted that the overtime has doubled in the past two years, and that some of the six employees have been earning in excess of $200 a week, and even $350 in one instance. He said the big maintenance and overtime problem should not exist here.

Under Snow and Ice, Town Meeting Member Otto Schaefer said the accounting should be set up so that the straight time put in by employees of the Town departments would be reported by the respective departments, and the overtime would be put in the Snow and Ice account. At present, both straight time and overtime are put under Snow and Ice, which is a fluctuating account each year, and this makes estimating budget appropriations more difficult. Mr. Hewis said on this problem that the Comptroller would only be able to help on the paper work of this situation, whereas a Town Department of Public Works would be the ideal corrective measure.

Mr. Schaefer said the committee made a mistake in not recommending a budget allocation to continue soccer, wrestling and indoor track at the High School. "The cost per pupil participating is well worth the added $2,000," Mr. Schaefer said.

Under Parks and Recreation, one Town Meeting Member said the committee was purely thinking in cold financial terms and not in terms of the intangible benefits derived by the townspeople and participants in the summer softball program.

Town Meeting Member Paul Garrity of Precinct Four accused the committee of shortsightedness in not recommending the construction of a West Side Fire Station this year. He listed statistics showing the tremendous growth in the number of homes planned in the west section of town in the next few years, including the number of school children that would be added to the area. He said that when he had a fire at his home several years ago it took over 20 minutes for the engines to get there from the center due to snow and traffic conditions. It is a matter of fire and safety protection that cannot be evaluated in terms of money alone, he said.

A short debate then followed on the possible costs of constructing and operating another fire station. The Fire Chief's estimate was for $125,000. The Finance Committee said the figure could be reduced to around $90,000, but that the continued high operating cost would still be a problem that it as a financial advisory body could not recommend to the Town for this year.

At the end of the special public hearing, one member asked the committee if the views expressed during the night would have any effect on the committee's established findings and recommendations.

Mr. Stockwell said that the meeting, he hoped, had worked both ways; that it was a matter of factual and opinion on education for both the Town Meeting Members and the Finance Committee. "It's all a matter of judgment," he said.

Local Girl Scout In National Camping Program

Rita Gramzow of Winchester Girl Scout Troop 482 is one of two teenage Girl Scouts from the Mistick Side Girl Scout Council who have been selected to participate in a national camping project to be conducted this summer by Girl Scouts of the U. S. A. The other girl chosen is Kristin Anderson of Troop 164, Medford.

This special project, known as All-States Encampment, consists of five camps at which a total of 628 girls from every state will spend 17 days this summer. The camps are located in California, Maryland, Michigan, Tennessee, and the State of Washington.

Miss Gramzow who lives at 108 Highland Avenue will go to camp Conowingo, in Maryland.

The girls were selected for their excellent camping skills. In the course of their 17 days at camp they will participate in a variety of different projects on an experimental basis in order to test the practicability of carrying out similar projects in local communities throughout the country.

It is also expected that the participants will gain experience in leader training techniques which they can bring back to their own Girl Scout councils. Upon her return home, each girl will help at least one troop to go camping.

This year's All-States Encampment is the second stage of a three-year plan through which the Girl Scout national organization hopes eventually to bring camping to 75,000 girls who would not have the opportunity. The concept of the encampments is in keeping with findings of a study conducted by the University of Michigan Survey Center for Girl Scouts of the U. S. A. in 1955 which revealed that all Girl Scouts from Brownies to Seniors wanted more opportunities for experience in outdoor living through Girl Scouting.

In commenting on the selection of the two local girls, Mrs. James R. Stewart, Jr., president of the Mistick Side Girl Scout Council said "We congratulate you on your ability and record of achievement which made your selection possible, and send to you our very best wishes for a most pleasant and rewarding experience."

Rita Gramzow is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Gramzow. She has been in Girl Scouting since 1954 when she became a Brownie at the Washington School. She is a sophomore at Winchester High School and is a member of senior Troop 482. She earned her Curved Bar, the highest award made to Intermediate Scouts, and has earned her Five Point Pin as a Senior. Rita was an alternate for the Girl Scout Roundup in 1962 and served as patrol leader for the patrol of alternates which made a trip to New Brunswick last summer. She is also serving as an outdoor Aide at Cedar Hill, the camping facility of the Massachusetts Girl Scouts in Waltham.

Dickens, Current Broadway Hit, In Winchester

"Oliver," the sprightly musical currently "Sold Out" in New York, has sparked new interest in Charles Dickens' works. Next week will bring "Great Expectations" to Winchester. This film is a gripping dramatization of the nineteenth century novel. The story centers around two young people whose lives are largely dictated by the false "expectations" they are allowed to entertain. Although the circumstances are pure nineteenth century, the theme is eternal. The story might even provide the bizarre material needed for yet another gay musical. Members of Winton Club will undoubtedly be seen in the audience—taking notes.

"Great Expectations" is the first of the three films being presented at a Benefit festival by the Winchester Smith College Club. It will be shown at the Winchester Theatre on Tuesday night, March 19 at 8:15. Tickets for the series are still available from your Smith College Club friends, especially Mrs. Philip Parsons and Mrs. Fred Morgenthaler.

REPAIRING

For our safety, tons and tons of salt and sand have been spread on the streets and sidewalks of our town this winter. Certainly, this is a very necessary service.

But, when some of these harmful minerals are brought in onto our rugs, they can do much damage.

"Ordinary" cleaning will not rid your rugs of imbedded sand and grime. This year, more than ever, they need special treatment and quality cleaning such as we are accustomed to give.

If you are not already familiar with our services, we would appreciate a call and the privilege of helping you in your spring cleaning.

Art Study Group Trip to Andover

The College Club Art Study Group will visit the Addison Gallery in Andover on Friday, March 29, at 10:30 a.m.

On display this month is an exhibition of over seventy-five works of sixteen living German artists. Modern art in Germany under the Nazi regime was suppressed and there have been no large exhibitions brought to America in many years. Thus, the Corcoran Gallery of Washington, D. C., is fulfilling a need long overdue with this exhibition.

There will be no lecture this time. A splendid catalogue is available with one hanging in each room. The article by John Anthony Thwaites, art critic of the Deutsche Zeitung, Cologne, on German art and the artists is very interesting and helpful.

Addison Gallery is on the Phillips Andover Academy Campus just beyond the clock tower. One can take Route 93 to Exit 125, and then Route 28 to the campus. Turn right in front of the chapel and park in the lot beside it. The Art Gallery is opposite the Andover Inn.

It is suggested that the various groups make luncheon reservations at the Andover Inn or Fieldstones, if desired. Anyone wishing to join the group is welcome. Mrs. Robert Eddy is treasurer, and Mrs. Waldo Lyon, PA 9-2246 will arrange transportation.

Reviews W. H. S.

Some twenty-three members of a special evaluation committee of the New England Association of Schools and Colleges will come into town early Monday morning to start an intensive three-day review of the curriculum and teaching at the High School.

This is in line with an established practice of this official New England accrediting agency as a method of rating the schools and colleges in its area. For Winchester it will be re-accreditation, the school having been accredited some ten years ago. But it will also be the first time the job has been done by such a committee, members of which are picked from other High Schools around the area and assigned one to each department, including administration.

Fashion Show Jackson Alumnae Scholarship Fund

Spring flowers and previews will be the theme of the annual dessert bridge and fashion show benefiting the scholarship fund of the Jackson College Association of Tufts Alumnae.

This colorful affair is to be held on March 23, at 1:00 p.m. in Alumnae Hall at Tufts University and will feature ensembles by Peck and Peck in spring flower colors.

Mrs. Warren E. Jackson of 39 Wildwood Street is one of Jackson Alumnae Association members who will be modeling at this gala affair.

An Afghan Hound Ties Winchester To "Cleopatra"

There is one Winchester family who has more than the usual interest in the forthcoming movie, "Cleopatra," with Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton.

The Edgell family, of eight Sheffield West, are especially anxious to see the film, because "Alki," the Afghan Hound in the movie, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Clark Anderson, of Rome, Italy, is the uncle of the Edgell's Afghan, Khanda Baron-Ghan, being a full brother of her father, Ah Begai Babu Joh-Cyn, who lives at Pease Air Force Base, Portsmouth, New Hampshire.

"Alki" also is the father of Elizabeth Taylor's Afghan, who is thus Khanda's cousin.

Various members of this family of "Ben Ghazi" Afghans meet at the dog shows and are always happy to see each other. Being remarkable hunters and watchdogs, Afghans not only have unusual eyesight and hearing, but phenomenal memories, as well, and Khanda, now a year and eight months old, has never forgotten her family, though only four months old when bought by the Edgells. Thus she enjoyed tremendously a recent trip to the Portsmouth base for a meeting, at the officer's club of the newly formed Afghan Hound club of New England. This group is open to Afghan Hound owners in the New England area.

Comptroller

Section. 2. The Comptroller shall have, in addition to the powers and duties conferred and imposed upon town accountants, the following powers and duties:

(a) He shall prescribe the methods of installation and exercise supervision of all accounting records of the several officers, boards, departments, committees, and commissions of the Town; provided, however, that any change in the system of accounts shall first be discussed with the Selectmen and the officers, boards, departments, committees, and commissions affected and shall meet the requirements of the State Director of Accounts.

(b) He shall establish standard practices relating to all accounting matters and procedures and the coordination of systems throughout of Town, including clerical and office methods, records, reports and procedures as they relate to accounting matters and shall prepare and issue rules, regulations and instructions relating thereto, which, when approved by the Selectmen, shall be binding upon all officers, employees and departments of the Town.

(c) He shall draw all warrants upon the treasurer for the payment of bills, drafts and orders chargeable to the several appropriations and other accounts.

(d) Prior to submitting any warrant to the Selectmen, he shall examine and approve as not being fraudulent, unlawful or excessive, all bills, drafts and orders covered thereby; and, in connection with any such examination, he may make inspection as to the quality, quantity and condition of any materials, supplies or equipment delivered to or received by any officer, board or commission of the Town, and may investigate the services or labor performed for or furnished to any such officer, board or commission. If upon examination it appears to the Comptroller that any such bill, draft, or order, is fraudulent, unlawful or excessive, he shall immediately file with the Selectmen and Town Treasurer a written report of the reasons for his findings.

(e) He shall be in charge of all of the accounting and business machines owned by the town, other than machines used for educational or classroom purposes, and shall allocate the use thereof among the several departments.

(f) He shall be responsible for a continuous audit of all accounts and records of the town wherever located.

Section 3. If the Comptroller is unable to perform his duties because of disability or absence, or if the office is vacant because of resignation or death, the Selectmen may appoint a temporary Comptroller to hold such office and exercise the powers and perform the duties thereof until the Comptroller who was disabled or absent resumes his duties or until another Comptroller is duly appointed. Said appointment shall be in writing signed by a majority of the Selectmen and shall be filed in the office of the Town Clerk.

Section 4. The Comptroller, with the approval of a majority of the Selectmen, may appoint in writing an assistant. Unless a temporary Comptroller is appointed, the assistant may, in the absence of the Comptroller perform the duties of the Comptroller and when performing such duties shall have the same powers and be subject to the same requirements and penalties as the Comptroller.

Section 5. Upon the qualification of the Comptroller first appointed hereunder, the town accountant shall cease to serve as such and the office of town accountant shall thereupon be abolished.

Section 6. Nothing in this act or any action taken hereunder shall contravene the provisions of any statute or any rules or regulations issued thereunder.

Section 7. This act shall take effect upon its acceptance by the Town of Winchester by a majority of the Town Meeting members present and voting thereon at an annual or special town meeting called for the purpose within two years of the passage of this act.

Getting The Show Ready

THE K. of C. "HOBO MINSTREL" PLANNED FOR APRIL 27 and 28 is in rehearsal under the guiding hands of the above citizens: Charles Doucette, interlocutor; Bart Conlon, general chairman; and Dick Burke, pianist.

"Hobo Minstrel" Shapes up For K of C April Show

Winchester Council's second annual musical show is rapidly taking shape under the capable direction of Frank Flahive and promises to provide entertainment the like of which hasn't been seen in Winchester for many a year.

The committee, under the chairmanship of Bart Conlon, has decided to name this year's production "Hobo Minstrels." Musical arrangements and costumes will lend greatly to this "Hobo" motif.

Rehearsals are being held twice a week with the chorus and the end men warbling their melodic selections to the delight of all present.

It is surprising indeed to note the dormant talent that rears its head when a show is being formed. Bill Nash, one of Winchester's finest, sings in a fine tenor voice and will star in one of the production numbers. P. G. K. John Mulrenan, a normally dry and reticent individual, throws caution to the wind and sings and dances like a trooper. John and Robert Sullivan, Joe Cullen, P. G. K. Richard Fiore, Bob Coakley and Joe Lynch round out the list of end men.

The show choreographer, Fran Lynch, is rehearsing diligently with the ladies and promises us a chorus line to surpass the June Taylor dancers. This is quite an accomplishment, but if anyone can do it, Fran can. More about these ladies at a later date!

Dr. David J. Ashton, of 22 Myrtle Street, professor of international business at the Boston University College of Business Administration, was moderator yesterday afternoon for a special World Business Symposium discussion held at Hayden Hall as a part of B. U.'s Founder's Day celebration.

DR. DAVID ASHTON

Fernando Ibarra, consul of Argentina; Jorge Perez Jimeno, consul of Colombia; and John M. Fox of United Fruit joined Mr. Paul Hoffman, director of the U. N. Special Fund for Economic Development, in a discussion of "Economic Modernization in Latin America" during the 2 p.m. symposium.

The symposium centered around discussion of Mr. Hoffman's Founders' Day speech, "The Modernizing Countries: the New Economic Frontier," which was given earlier in the day at the Founders' Day Convocation at 11 a.m. Dr. Ashton also presided over the question period which followed the panel discussion.

Fr. Kinchla At Cana Conference At St. Mary's

The Mr. and Mrs. Club of St. Mary's Parish is sponsoring a Cana Conference for the benefit of all married couples in the parish. It will start on Sunday, March 17 in the Parish Hall and continue on the following two Sunday nights.

Mr. and Mrs. John Waite, chairmen of Catholic Action for the club, announces that the Rev. John E. Kinchla, director of Cana Conferences and of the Family Life Bureau in the Archdiocese, will conduct Cana I, Husband and Wife Relationship, and Cana II, The Family. Cana III, Parent-Teenager Relationship, will be conducted by the Rev. Francis Duggan, asst. headmaster of St. Sebastian's Country Day School in Newton. The meetings will start at 7:30 p.m. and end at 10:00 p.m. with a break for coffee and refreshments.

It is the hope of the presidents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sandford, that all couples in the parish will avail themselves of this opportunity during Lent to re-evaluate their marriage and perhaps find a solution for a problem. Any interested couples who are not parishioners of St. Mary's will also be most welcome.

Scholarship Fund Hits Quarter Mark

Five thousand dollars just about one quarter of the 1963 goal of the Winchester Scholarship Foundation - has been contributed to date according to Charles W. Butler, treasurer.

Meanwhile solicitors under finance chairman Leo Boodakian are continuing to approach local business and civic leaders for their support of this 18 year old scholarship fund. A reminder to previous donors will also soon be in the mail. This appeal to the general public through the pages of the Star is the other primary means of acquainting the community with the needs of our local scholars.

Twelve weeks remain from now until June and graduation time. Seniors are beginning to receive notices of acceptance to the colleges of their choice. Many will also receive scholarships from these colleges. No Winchester high school graduate, financially deserving, should have to make a decision not to go on to college for want of funds if the Winchester Scholarship Foundation continues to raise the sums it has in the past. The Foundation often finds it necessary to supplement scholarships received from colleges and in other instances Foundation Funds are the only ones available to a student.

Buy your share in the Foundation this week and guarantee the future education of a Winchester scholar. Shares are available at all Winchester Banks.

Army Offers Pilot Training To H. S. Grads

In an effort to meet the growing demand for qualified pilots in Army Aviation the Department of the Army has authorized high school graduates to enlist directly for pilot training, according to Sergeant Jack Bateson, Army recruiter at 49 High Street, Medford.

Under the provisions of an Arny Directive released last week, Sgt Bateson said that qualified high school graduates can enlist for guaranteed flight training and subsequent appointment as Warrant Officers.

The "Warrant Officer Flight Training Program," its official title, allows 18 year old high school graduates who qualify to be selected for either rotary wing (helicopter) or fixed wing flight training.

Rotary wing training consists of 4 weeks pre-flight, 16 weeks primary flight and 16 weeks of advanced flight training. The preflight and primary training is conducted at Camp Wolters, Texas, while the advanced training is at Fort Rucker, Alabama.

The fixed wing course is conducted entirely at Ft Rucker, and combines four weeks of pre-flight with 38 weeks of primary flight training.

Successful completion of either course results in the awarding of the coveted wings of an Army pilot and the gold and brown bars of a Warrant Officer.

According to Sgt Bateson, a young man enlisting for the program must meet certain basic requirements: He must be a high school graduate between 18-30 years of age, 64-74 inches in height and weigh less than 200 pounds. (Special arrangements are being made for the high school senior who will become eligible upon graduation in June.)

Processing of applicants has already begun, and additional details of qualification requirements may be obtained by calling Sgt Bateson at EX 6-5777, or by visiting his Medford office any week day.

Barbizon School Of Painting At Boston Museum

Paintings of the French landscape artists known as the "School of Barbizon" have just opened in a show which opened to the public today and goes through April 28.

Over 100 paintings, pastels and drawings have been assembled from the leading public and private collections of two continents for this event.

Barbizon was a tiny village in the Forest of Fontainebleau, only 35 miles from Paris where the greatest landscape painters of the age (1830-1870) - Corot, Rousseau, Millet, Daubigny - lived and worked. Their subjects were the rural landscape, animals and the peasants at their labors; their art, a rebuttal of cities, indsutrialization and modern life.

WVNA Board Hears Report On Polio

The regular monthly board meeting of the Winchester Visiting Nursing Association was held on Friday, March 8.

Mrs. Bradford Bentley announced a combined board and orientation meeting to be held on Friday April 5, at the home of Mrs. Arthur Hills, 34 Cabot Street. The coffee hour will be at 9:30, with the meeting at 10:15 to acquaint new members with the functions of the education, finance and personnel committees. Miss Rita Plummer will also present the three-pronged service of the Association, working in the home, the schools, and in conjunction with the Board of Health.

Miss Plummer stated that 6,705 doses of Type I Oral Sabin vaccine were given: 188 to pre-schoolers, 3583 to school age children, and 2934 to adults. In May and June of last year 2500 plus pre-school and first grade children received Types I and III and, of course, will be receiving Type II with the rest of Winchester's immunees at the end of this month.

Mrs. Howard Bates announced the Type II Oral Polio Clinic for adults and pre-school children will be held from 1 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. on Monday, March 25, Tuesday, March 26, and Friday, March 29. Members of the board will assist the Visiting Nurses at the Clinic, as they did with Type I of the vaccine.

Mrs. Kern Folkers, chairman of the Education Committee, presented two speakers to conclude the meeting. Mrs. James Willing of the Mystic Valley Mental Health Association gave a most informative and thoughtful discussion of the need for Winchester to take over its share of the support of the Clinic with four neighboring towns; this will come before Town Meeting in Article 47 on the Warrant. She stressed that the W. V. N. A. was one organization which helped promulgate the Mental Health Association originally, and referrals were made from the police, schools and nurses. Mrs. Willing felt that nurses do a great deal for the mental health of patients, as well as physical health, and much could be gained from the continuance and added use of the Clinic in Future years.

Mrs. Mary Lyng, a social worker and member of the Board of Public Welfare, also gave a most descriptive and interesting talk on the work of her board. She explained the laws and administration of the Board and the needs and types of cases she had worked with for twenty-four years in Winchester. Mrs. Lyng particularly stressed the close connection between the Visiting Nursing Association and the Board of Public Welfare with the friendly cooperation between these agencies.

MFTA Warns Towns to Delay Voting Machines

The Massachusetts Federation Taxpayers' Association has warned communities throughout the state against "hasty action" in voting to purchase or lease mechanical voting machines.

In a notice to every city and town in the state, Lyman H. Ziegler, the federation's municipal consultant, wrote that "far more efficient and less costly equipment is now in prospect."

He said that experiments with modern electronic voting equipment are being conducted "to make the cumbersome and expensive mechanical voting machine obsolete."

Mr. Ziegler said an electronic unit has demonstrated reading and recording up to 70,000 paper ballots an hour with a 99.9999 per cent accuracy.

Seven pieces of legislation, he reported, are pending before the Rules Committee of the Legislature, to have the state finance the cost of installing voting machines in the state.

Mr. Ziegler estimated the cost of providing the machines at $10 million.

Tomorrow Is It For Benefit Show "1963 Varieties"

Many familiar faces will follow: the inimitable Joe Derby in a delightful routine; Mary Jane Anderson with her harp as only she can play it; Jay Sibley, who for years has been a real trouper in theatre, in a choice bit of New England humor; the ever popular Two by Fours; Mary Blaisdell at the piano playing a lush bit of Henry Fancini; the prize play entirely cast by our faculty; Al Pywell, Henry Knowlton and Ned MacCloskey in a hilarious pantomime; Aram Mouradian and his group in a humorous number from Rigoletto, and several entertaining musical numbers.

Much time and effort on the part of many people has gone into producing this show and all that is asked by them is your attendance in support of a wonderful cause.

Ed Williams is known to Winchester as Mr. Colonial Perfumers, the man with fragrance for everyone, said today that he plans in the future to meet with the local Sport Shop keeper to formulate plans for the state-wide committee to strengthen relations between sport shops and stores like Colonial. But right now the matter which Colonial has taken a definite position on is St. Patrick's Day.

In this particular case aspirin and racks full of a wide and colorful selection of St. Pat's Day cards by Hallmark are the answer. On aspirin, theory has it that walking or running for long periods of time could give you a headache. Now I'm not saying that if you wear low-cut white sneakers such as the Sport Shop is selling, this would happen. But it would be nice to know where to go for them.

Rotary Asks Help For Popular Auction

Come spring, and the good Winchester housewives will be overhauling their manifest in the cellar and attic to see what they can do without. Some of them have even started already, and it is to them and those of you who will soon be taking a "look see" in those spots were skultch collects that this appeal is addressed.

There is always a lot of stuff "down cellar" or "up attic" that you could jolly well do without, even be better off if it weren't taking up room around the house. There is that big picture of Uncle Homer, you know, the one with the huge gilded frame. You don't want it, but someone at the Rotary Auction will go home all smiles if you give it to the Rotarians.

Or there is that funny little table with the three legs. You never liked it and you know you have kept it long enough so those that gave it to you for a wedding present have forgotten all about it. Send that along, and if the whole thing is a bit on the wobbly side, due to one of the legs being on the ostrofagus, as Bob Sullivan used to say, don't let that bother you.

There are all sorts of woodworking experts in the Rotary ranks, led by Syd and Al Elliott, stout fellers, who stand ready to put your contribution in top-hole shape before a single "what-am-I-offered" is heard in the hall.

Well, you begin to get the idea! There is stuff in your house, you and yours no longer cherish. Matter of fact, you'd be real glad to be rid of it! That's just the point! The Rotary is just hurting all over for that sort of merchandise for its big auction in April.

Look your stuff over and pick out what you don't want any more. Then call Syd Elliott, PA 9-2965; Al Elliott, PA 9-0874; Charlie Murphy, PA 9-2696; or Johnny Wilson, PA 9-1566. Someone will respond in a hurry, and you'll have that pleasant feeling that comes from giving a good cause a big boost.

There are few charities in Winchester the Rotary isn't mixed up in, and the only way they have to raise funds to give to these worthy projects is at the Rotary Auction. But if Rotary kept every penny of the funds raised at the auction, it would still be well worth helping, as a community venture. Everybody goes to the auction, enjoys meeting their friends, tarries over the luncheon and downright enjoys the big baked bean dinner in the evening.

There is more fun and cheap talk at a Rotary Auction than anywhere else you can figure, and when you stop to think that every nickel the Rotary takes in at the town hall goes out again in civic enterprises for charities that desperately need a helping hand, then why wait any longer?

That stuff in the attic and cellar has been there long enough, hasn't it! Why not pick up the phone and get it a good home. You'll be twice as happy. Once on your own account by getting yourself a lot of room that is a darned sight better than the stuff that was filling it, and twice, because you will be helping one of the most worth-while charities in Winchester.

Congress Cool On Federal Programs For Mass Transit

There is evidence from Washington that Congressmen are cool to the Kennedy Administration bills to advance Federal aid to mass transportation networks.

The transit demonstration project in Massachusetts, almost in full swing, is regarded as highly successful, but President Kennedy is encountering difficulty in his bid to advance Federal aid to transit systems under a three-year, $500 million project.

At a hearing before the House and Senate subcommittees of banking and currency in Washington, Congressmen took issues with several aspects of the proposal.

Some object that the program could cut back private capital investment in mass transit operations because the government would work through public agencies only.

Some argue the plan establishes direct Federal-local relations, bypassing the kind of state participation outlined in the Federal highway program.

The President is seeking an outlay of $100 million on enactment to launch his program, $200 million in 1964 and $200 million in 1965.

As proposed, the transit aid program is closely aligned with the Urban and Redevelopment program.

The Federal Housing Act of 1961, bold liberalization of the urban renewal act, attempted to alleviate some public transportation problems by giving communities incentives for improvements as part of a catch-all renewal program.

The President's proposal this year attempts to correct and broaden the 1961 act by removing area restrictions and removing the effort in part from the earlier plan.

The pending proposals would require a system plan quite similar to the workable program of a community in qualifying for urban redevelopment.

But the transit bills also demand that the transportation improvements be an "integral" part of a comprehensive development plan for the urban area.

Federal funds, on approval, would finance two-thirds of a transit program. Local funds would finance the remainder.

Less restrictive planning requirements could be presented for an emergency project, but the Federal government would only pay one-half the cost.

The bills also require a relocation program for families displaced by urban planning projects, one of the seven major qualifications for an urban redevelopment grant.

Rex Whitton, Federal Highway administrator told the committees that "without minimizing the importance of rail rapid transit in particular cases, we believe that the flexibility offered by the rubber-tired bus operating over the broad and inclusive network of streets and highways offers untapped opportunity for attractive public transportation."

Brownies Have Girl Scout Birthday Party

Among the many celebrations of the birthday of Girl Scouting this week was a party prepared by Brownie troop 487, which meets at the Noonan School, and shared with the Lincoln School intermediate Troop 502.

As can be seen above, there were many cooks involved in the effort and much good fun was had by all. The Lincoln 6th grade Scouts presented a film on ice skating safety and a skit they had worked on for badges before the refreshments were served.

Troop 487 is under the direction of Mrs. Robert McGonagle, Mrs. Richard Bunzel and Mrs. Thomas Wilber. Troop 502 is under Mrs. William Bradley and Mrs. Herbert Uhlig.

Troop 487, has been busy this winter. They tried ice skating and though several girls were on ice for the first time most managed to stay on their feet. They made Valentines in February using large lollipops and bubblegum as part of the valentines, which they then took into Boston to give to the frienls they met and sang with at Nickerson House (M. S. P. C. C.) on a memorable afternoon.

Local Artists

Each art piece submitted will have the name of the artist, the title of the picture, and a price tag beside it. The sales charge will be the regular 25 per cent of the selling price, and this money will be donated to the Winchester Scholarship Fund, as unrestricted money for an art student, according to Mr. Bird.

Mr. Bird said that the special open house was being held in connection with the reopening of the enlarged Allyn office. He said that to the best of his knowledge it will be the first brokerage branch office to sponsor such an art exhibit, featuring works by local artists.

Mr. Bird added that the Winchester brokerage house branch office is one of a very few to be expanding at this time when many of the large firms are experiencing difficulties.

Over 200 guests are expected to view the local pieces of art work on Saturday, Mr. Bird said, and there will be refreshments served at the open house.

GOP Fails In Bid To Repeal Law On Shut Ballot Box

The Republican Leadership of the House succeded last week in pushing a final vote in a last-effort attempt to repeal the law governing closed ballot boxes in towns.

The move failed by vote of 83 to 123.

The House last Tuesday had turned the bill down by vote of 80 to 130.

Rep. Sidney Q. Curtiss of Sheffield, House Republican Leader, repeated that time lost in counting ballots in towns is unnecessary, and said officials should be allowed to block ballots during voting hours.

He contended the law restricting opening of ballot boxes in Massachusetts towns "has proven quite unsatisfactory."

Defending the House action and urging that the Tuesday vote be sustained was Rep. William T. Finnegan (D) of Everett.

On the question of reconsidering the vote killing the repeal bill, voting "yes" was Rep. Harrison Chadwick of Winchester.

door. They said they did not answer the knock because they thought it was probably just a friend stopping by for a minute and would go away. A few minutes later, however, they heard strange noises. The intruder broke the front door open and began wandering around inside the house. Mrs. Ayer telephoned the police station and the intruder, apparently hearing the call being made, stumbled around and made his way out through the back door.

In a housebreak reported on Monday, a vacant house at 25 Indian Hill Road, owned by the late Charles A. Burnham, was broken into, entered and ransacked.

The intruder gained entrance by splitting the front door frame, and apparently stayed there awhile, according to police. Every room was gone over, and there were several cigarettes lying around.

All that was reported missing was a mandolin musical instrument and case. A small safe was moved around a bit, but was not opened.

Senate OK's High Interest Bill On Unpaid RE Taxes

A measure to increase the interest rate on unpaid real estate and personal property taxes has been passed by the State Senate.

The legislation is an incentive to delinquent taxpayers to clean the slate with communities on their liability on real estate taxes.

Senator Oliver Ames (R) of Boston, sponsor of the bill, was successful in halting an amendment to the bill by raising a point of order that the admendment was beyond the scope of the bill.

The approved bill calls for boosting the interest rate from four to six per cent.

Sen. Ames said the interest rate is so low that taxpayers can bank the money without paying the taxes and realize a return on the investment before the municipal demand.

The system now causes cities and towns to get into the banking business, said Sen. Ames.

The bill now goes to the House for action.

Tryouts For Parish Players' "Spring" Play

Newcomers and oldtimers alike will be welcomed at the Parish Players try-outs Monday, March 28 at Chidley Hall, First Congregational Church.

"Breath of Spring" by the British playwright, Peter Coke has been selected for the spring play to be presented May 2 and 3. Fresh from a long run in England, this amusing comedy was made into the movie "Make Mine Mink." The play has recently been released for dramatic groups and the Player's production will be the first presentation locally.

Harlan F. Grant, who directed "Breath of Spring" at the Community playhouse in Weston, Vt., last summer will also direct the local presentation. There are five female and three male parts to be cast.

John MacLellan is chairman of the production committee and will welcome any volunteers who wish to work backstage. The try-outs will be held at 8 p.m.

The Finance Committee . . . Doing The People's Work

That time of the year is now upon us. The Town Meeting starts tonight and will inevitably continue for many more nights.

It is the time when local politics smashes out into the open; and governmental departments and boards, civic groups and organizations, and personal interests and ambitions, all vie with one another and each other for gaining the common taxpayers dollar or representatively voted policy guide. We will witness the simplest, and yet best example, of pressure politics in action here at the local level in the next few weeks.

Without question the single most influential political pressure force in the community at this time is the fifteen-man Finance Committee. These men, appointed by the Town Moderator, outgoing chairman of the Board of Selectmen, and the retiring chairman of the Finance Committee, serve the Town in strictly an advisory capacity. The committee's duty is to advise on the financial considerations involved in each proposed budget and special artcile in the Town Warrant, and to make recommendations, based on their careful study, analysis, and opinion, on the proposals.

As an advisory Town body, the Finance Committee is devoid of any executive powers to enforce their recommendations. The final authority for voting appropriations rests with the Town Meeting Members. They may vote to follow the recommendation of the Finance Committee or may change it in the form of an amendment or a substitute motion on the floor of the Town Meeting.

The power residing in the Finance Committee's recommendations lie in their influencing the political attitudes and votes of the Town Meeting Members. The Finance Committee is the only political pressure force at the Town Meeting officially recognized as the spokesman agent in advising for the Town in terms of its actual and potential pocketbook; and this means that the committee's opinion affects almost every item on the Town Meeting agenda.

The committee is composed of respected and talented men in the community, most of whom have had executive experience in businesses and finance accounting vocationally. Within the committee they divide into sub-committees of from two to four members. The sub-committees are responsible for investigating and advising on all aspects of the Town finances, from departmental operating budgets to the policies of the Personnel Board. In spending a full year on going over and over all the major and minor financial affairs within the Town, the Finance Committee is well backgrounded and versed in handing down its "decisions," or recommendations.

There are several attitudes that always float around the Town in regard to the Finance Committee and its recommendations. One is that of the department, group or person who feels that it is a drudgery, chore and mean job to have to submit their request to such a hard-hearted group of financially-minded judges, who, if they don't accept the proposal as offered, just don't really understand the problem as they should.

Another, more casual and light-hearted approach, is the one borne by the department, group or person who just knows the proposal as presented to the Finance Committee "has it made," and therefore appears before the kind-hearted group of benevolent opinion-givers as a child going to the cookie jar in front of a tolerating parent.

Still another attitude is that of the department, group or person who thinks that the original Sherlock Holmes had nothing over his modern counterpart, and therefore ferrets out any and every single fact, statistic, or authoritative quote or opinion on the subject to impress the committee-court with their superior knowledge and dexterity in the subject proposed, or else tries to beat down any opposition with emotional tangents interspersed with discursively reasoned appeals to the public interest, as a prophet before the storm.

But quietly . . . without fanfare, and diligently . . . throughout the year, this committee labors over every aspect of the Town's present and proposed finances, comparing facts, figures and statistics, to arrive at a comprehensive but understandable picture of the Town's financial health. The Finance Committee's decisions are then made, printed up in the form of recommendations and mailed to every home in the Town.

The Town Meeting is then the legislative rendez-vous. The elected Town Meeting Member representatives gather to decide on the Town's budget and the special proposed articles, aided by the recommendations of this hard-working and dedicated group of men who freely contributed their time and efforts to help them make the wisest possible decisions. As an advisory committee, with no political advantage to be gained in any way from the outcome of the proceedings of the Town Meeting, the Finance Committee works and aims toward the best interests of the Town of Winchester.

A Town Is Like A Demanding Child We Want; But Can We Afford . . .

A Town is like a child in many ways. We want many things, and this is all right when the things wanted are for the improvement and benefit of the growing community. But regardless of how much we may want, if we jeopardize our stable, secure, and safe health by trying to grow too fast by wanting and getting too much too soon, our cravings can lead to ill health.

The fact that Winchester is one of the wealthiest and best-run communities in the Commonwealth attests to the common sense and wisdom displayed by the Town Meetings in the past.

May we continue this good tradition in Winchester this year.

The Uses Of Money

There are four common uses of money: save it, spend it, invest it, waste it. Undoubtedly we shall see men and women voting at the Town Meeting who honor all four of these money philosophies.

Here are some examples of what we might see as a result of the voting points of view represented by our elected Town Meeting Members.

First, we will save money if the Town accepts the Comptroller Act articles in the Special Town Meeting. The establishment of such a Town Office would cut duplication and reduce operating expenses in many of the Town's departments. A Comptroller could keep an eye on the overtime in the various departments, and prevent a recurrence of the excesses of this past year. He could also help to coordinate the maintenance and manpower of the departmental horses which are running every which way at once.

Second, we will really be spending money if the Town votes to accept all the personal services increases in the Town departmental budgets. Across-the-board budget salary increases, plus school and police requests for pay raises, and a fire department request for a reduction from a 56 to a 48-hour week (tantamount to a raise), all spell more heavy spending for the Town.

Third, we will invest money if we seriously consider building a West Side Fire Station at this time if we want one before 1967. The Finance Committee noted that with upcoming school and other capital expenditures in the next few years the building of a new fire station will be out of the question until at least 1967. There are approximately 700 new houses being planned for this section of town in the next several years, not to mention the tremendous growth in this area in the last ten years. (Witness the two new schools and the consideration of a third one in the near future.)

And Fourth, we will waste money if we buy a new war memorial in honor of our veterans only to hide it away in the foyer of the High School Auditorium. The American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars organizations have both asked that the memorial be given a place of honor in the community, in back of the flagpole at the Town Hall, where the annual Memorial Day services are held.

Open Letter To Those Teenagers Always Seen Hanging Around:

Always we hear the plaintive cry of the teenager: "What can we do? Where can we go?"

The answer is . . . Go home.

Hang the storm windows, paint the woodwork. Rake the leaves. Mow the lawn. Shovel the walk. Wash the car. Learn to cook. Scrub some floors. Repair the sink. Build a boat. Get a job.

Help the minister, priest or rabbi, the Red Cross, the Salvation Army. Visit the sick. Assist the poor. Study your lessons. And then when you are through—and not tired—read a book.

Your parents do not owe you entertainment. Your Town does not owe you recreation facilities. The world does not owe you a living. You owe the world something. You owe it your time and energy and your talents so that no one will be at war or in poverty, or sick, or lonely again.

In plain, simple words: Grow up; quit being a crybaby; get out of your dream world . . . start acting like a man or a lady.

Mass. Joins Move For Interstate Auto Eq. Compact

The high rate of motor vehicle accidents in Massachusetts is giving added impetus to a drive for legislation to allow the Commonwealth to join other states across the nation in adopting "uniform" motor vehicle equipment codes for taking advantage of industry's new safety features.

Senator Stanley J. Zarod (D) of Springfield has introduced legislation to pave the way for Bay State participation in a national "compact" for universal acceptance of standardized equipment on motor vehicles.

The bill will be aired March 19 before the Highways and Motor vehicles Committee. Senator Zarod is committee chairman.

Approval would be the first interstate compact to be adopted in Massachusetts in the field of highway regulations.

In the light of growing problems of traffic safety, Congress has taken steps to allow states to work together to be sure that modern safety devices are made available in all areas quickly and to allow flexibility in the states to alter equipment requirements as new safety items are perfected and geared to official standards.

Although Congress has left a solution to the states, there is an overtone in Washington that strongly suggests that unless the states act, the Federal government will pre-empt the field in which states' rights have been paramount.

The interstate compacts to speed acceptance of the latest developments in safety are formal and binding agreements by participating states, requiring Congressional sanction and approval of each of the interested states.

While some of the improvements in equipment safety satisfy most state equipment standards, others have been found to conflict with various state laws or regulations and could not be sold, used or installed until specific approval was given. Sometimes a state law is involved, causing delays of a year or more.

Under the compact, each state entering the agreement would be represented on the interstate commission which recommend laws and administrative rules regarding vehicle equipment.

The Massachusetts Commission on all interstate cooperation has studied the equipment problem and has voted to advance with speed the Commonwealth's role in this new venture.

The subject of automobile lighting offers a vivid, three-pronged example of the need for interstate agreement.

More than 20 years after sealed beams were introduced, the nation's driving habits changed substantially. In heavily populated areas, the use of the upper beam became increasingly restricted, and it was apparent that improvements on the lower beam were needed. To meet this need, an improved sealed beam was developed in 1953.

But it was found that the laws of 30 states had to be changed before the improved headlamps could be installed and legally used. In all, four years—from 1953 through 1956—were required to secure the necessary amendments so that a better, safer headlamp could be used.

Just as this new feature gained uniformity, dual headlamps became the craze and the whole process began again.

Even before 1956, lighting research established the fact of dual headlights—two on each side of the vehicle. They found the new features produced a beam pattern with superior distribution of light intensity.

At the same time, statutes of 28 states barred the use of dual headlamps. So, two years were needed to obtain the necessary statutory changes and another two years of "lead time" was needed for the auto manufacturers to make the necessary design changes—a total delay of four years.

The third example concerns turn signals and parking lights. Extensive research and testing revealed that amber colored directionals are more visible than white or colorless signals in both sunlight and darkness.

All manufacturers combine the front turn signal with the parking light, and again, a problem was posed: the laws of 25 states required white parking lights. Three years were needed to change the laws and automotive designs.

Automobiles have most safety equipment built in during manufacture, and an owner expects to be able to operate his vehicle in any state.

In effect, the states slowest to act set the pace at which new and improved safety equipment can be put into actual use. And with traffic density growing constantly, the importance of achieving uniformity of standards and reducing the time lag has become increasingly critical.

The Massachusetts Commission is also working on a compact for treatment of non-resident trucks and buses. Agreements are most common among states in the West, Mid-West and South.

Not too many years ago, the non-resident private passenger car had to be licensed by some or all of the states through which it traveled, even though it had been taxed and licensed by its home state.

Trucks and buses are still subject to the same or similar treatment in many areas. However, with the growing public realization of the contribution that highway transportation makes to a strong national economy, more and more states are attempting to base the highway user tax on a reasonable and fair foundation.

Suggested uniform codes would allow representatives from cooperating states to negotiate and supervise the granting of reciprocal highway-use privileges to non-resident owners and operators.

State Treasurer Asks Enforcement Of Present Taxes

The man on Beacon Hill in charge of administering the finances of the Commonwealth has voiced skepticism at the prospect of imposing $105 million in new taxes at a time when the state is not realizing "untold millions" in revenue because of antiquated collection methods.

State Treasurer John T. Driscoll who has long advocated revising the tax enforcement system, feels that the state should collect its rightful due from existing taxes before imposing additional burdens.

Virtually every state tax, he declared, is not yielding its proper return. The income tax, he added, is probably the only state tax being enforced properly.

The State Treasurer neither condoned nor condemned the program submitted to the Legislature last week by Gov. Endicott Peabody.

Mr. Driscoll agreed there is an urgent need for taxpayer relief at the local level, but he thinks that until an effort is made to realize taxes now in effect, further impositions should be held in abeyance.

Illustrating his point, Mr. Driscoll stated that from 1953 to 1961 the return from the income tax in Massachusetts more than doubled without imposing new levies.

In that period, he said, revenue from the income tax jumped from $74.6 to $155.8 million simply by enforcing collections and instituting the withholding system.

The Treasurer said he was pleased with the Governor's proposal to abolish the inheritance tax and impose instead an estate tax.

He explained that the yield under the present inheritance tax system is antiquated, costly and unduly complex.

He said the Governor's proposed revision of this tax would add millions in revenue.

Enforcing the returns from the cigarette tax, which yielded about $42 million last year, could boost the state's take by $5 million, Driscoll said.

He said a similar return could be realized by stationing state accountants in New York, as other states do, to make certain the state is getting its fair share of corporate taxes from firms doing business in the Commonwealth.

The state treasurer pointed out that leading tax experts, including commissioners of taxation, have hailed the enforcement of present taxes as the most sound approach to increasing state revenues.

Boston Bank Sees Excessive State Spending Level

The tax load at the local level is far too excessive to stimulate an advancing economy, the monthly newsletter of the First National Bank of Boston states.

In a catch-all glimpse of economic trends and taxation, the "New England Letter" maintains that spending demands at the legislative level are "pressed regardless of tax potentials and without recognition that there really is a limit to how much we can afford and that some schedule of priorities is needed."

The economic experts also have given an opinion on the Kennedy Tax Cut proposal now before Congress.

"No doubt there will be remodeling of the tax package," they contend, "and perhaps we shall see a shfit of emphasis from tax changes as a device to spur long-term growth, which the President's messages have stressed, to modification as a short-term anti-recession weapon."

The root of the problem, the newsletter finds, is "new and evermore costly public programs."

The bank's letter attributes the "challenging questions for public finance" to "seemingly insatiable demands upon the governmental units closer to home.".

The business pace thus far in 1963, says the report, "has shown very little vigor and has continued on the insecure plateau of several months' duration."

Responsible indicators seem to be indicating a downtown in business activity, the letter said.

Book Reviews

By Katrine Laban, Winchester Public Library

A Truly Emancipated Woman

It has been said that no man could write an objective biography of Mary Stuart, Queen of Scots, because he always fell in love with her. (I am very anxious to read Edith Sitwell's "The Queen of the Hines" to see what happens to Mary in the hands of a woman.) Quite obviously Dr. H. F. Peters, author of "My Sister, my Spouse" has fallen under the spell of his subject.

I had never heard of Lou Andreas-Salome before this book was published, and I can't find anyone, in any of the older generations extant, who had. Possibly, Victorian sensibilities tried to ignore her on moral grounds and yet she was adamant in defense of her own standards of morality. For all her unconventional behavior (and it would be as unconventional now as in the late '80s) Lou Andreas-Salome was a prig. She defied convention, but on her own highly intellectual terms which made her own conduct the only possible moral course.

The title of this book is very well chosen - from the Song of Solomon, "How fair is thy love, my sister, my spouse! How much better is thy love than wine!" Lou was certainly a sister - an intellectual companion - to every man who became enthralled by her, and that seems to be every man who met her.

Louise Salome was born in Russia in 1861, the only girl in a family of five brothers. Her father was a high ranking Russian general of German descent. She was brought up in a highly educated and non-demonstrative climate and began to make her own rules for social conduct in her teens. These rules were based exclusively on her own sense of right and wrong. Her very real handicap was that every man who met her fell in love with her, first intellectually and then, inevitably, carnally. She never succumbed to the flesh until she was well in her 30's and married and lived, as a sister, with more than one man.

This all sounds very odd - and is certainly unusual. She left St. Petersburg at the age of 17 because the minister of her church fell in love with her. She met Nietzche in Switzerland and he fell in love with her. She wished to live with him as an intellectual partner, and when he insisted she be his wife, she left him. As a consequence he wrote "Thus spake Zarathustra" in bitter revenge (according to Dr. Peters). She did live with other intellectuals, on a purely platonic basis, and married a man she never lived with as a wife but always returned to after emotional excursions with other men.

The poet, Rainer Maria Rilke, fell under her spell, and she travelled Europe with him for many months. She met Freud and became a practising and very successful analyst.

Lou Andreas-Salome is a challenge to any woman because every man she met succumbed - intellectually and emotionally at the same fell swoop - and her charm never waned with age. She is the triumph of the individual and so practically unique. Men, possibly even more than women, will find in this book matters over which to ponder.

Winchester Started As A Part Of Charlestown In 1633

He also established the first "cornne mill" on the site of the old Whitney Mill previous to 1649, probably in 1641. This was the first bunsiness establishment in Winchester and was located substantially at the present corner of Mystic Valley Parkway and Main Street.

At Woburn Edward Converse was a selectman for 19 years from 1641, when the first town officers were chosen. He was a deacon in the church from 1642 until his death in 1663 and represented the town at the General Court. For many years he was one of three commissioners "for ending small causes (trial justices)." All the facts show that Converse was from his arrival on the shores of Massachusetts an influential man in all enterprises which favored the extension and good government of the first settlement.

Edward Converse Independent

An interesting episode in the life of Edward Converse, displaying his independence and patriotic character was his arrest for refusing to promulgate the King's letter in 1662. This missive asserted the King's supreme authority over the colonies, curtailing the liberties which the early settlers had hitherto enjoyed unmolested. Edward Converse was one of the most outspoken of the patriots and denounced the letter as an embodiment of Popery. He was summoned before the General Court in 1663 but was acquitted, as that body was composed of delegates fully sympathizing with the same views but not so outspoken.

Indians Name Peninsula Mishawum

We have seen that the peninsula which was called by the Indians "Mishawum"—an eminently descriptive cognomen in their dialect—and which is known to us today as Charlestown was the site of the original settlement of that municipality.

To this nucleus tracts of territory in the interior were added till the area of many present towns were covered, the name and jurisdiction of Charlestown overshadowing all.

But the process of disintegration soon began. The old town of Woburn was the first to be set off in 1642. Charlestown at length shorn of this and other external territory, has shrunken again to less than her original limits and in the course of time has even lost her name, sinking her ancient dignity and identity in that of her still younger sister city and neighbor, Boston.

Posterity owes a great debt to the perseverance of the first seceders from Charlestown, especially to Edward Converse, the first settler in Waterfield. The silence and solitude of this forest home must have afforded a great contrast to him from the surroundings he had enjoyed in England and those he had just left behind in the compact and comparatively active village of Charlestown. Gradually, however, the wilderness became a fertile land. The wild beasts were scattered and plenty and comfort abounded.

Names Still in Use Today

Localities well known to the early settlers were Mistick Pond, Spot Pond, Horn Pond, Horn Pond River, Horn Pond Mountain, and Aberjona River, Rag Rock and Cheese Rock are all known by the ancient names and appear on very early maps, even before the settlement of Woburn.

An so appear Winter Pond and Wedge Pond, but not to distinctly defined. Mistick Pond in early times was considered to be sixth fathoms (360 feet) deep and its neighbor in Cambridge, Fresh Pond, to be forty fathoms deep. How much this depth may be overstated those who manage the municipal waterworks at those places best know. The fathers evidently believed them to be ponds of very deep water and at that time they were stocked with myriads of fish, and people came long distances from Charlestown, Boston and Cambridge to catch them for food and for manure for their land.

Derivation of "Mystic" is also uncertain, but Trumbull in his history of Indian names suggests it may be from "Missi-tuk," meaning "Great Tidal River." Another explanation is that as this river, according to tide flows sometimes in one direction and sometimes in another, early settlers may have regarded it as mysterious.

The land now occupied by the Winchester Country Club is a part of what was in former times the Squa Sachem Reservation, a tract which early settlers found upon arrival to be in possession of Indians.

The sachem, Nanepashemet, was killed in a battle with other Indians at Rock Hill in West Medford in 1619, leaving a widow, the Squa Sachem, and three sons, Sagamore John, of Charlestown, and James of Lynn, both of whom died at the time of the smallpox epidemic in 1633, and Sagamore George of Salem, who succeeded his mother.

There is in West Medford on Sagamore Avenue a monument erected to the memory of Sagamore John and other Indians whose bones lie there.

Letters To The Editor

Dislikes School's Competitive Pay Merry-Go-Round

Editor of the Star:

I have been interested in the press releases concerning school problems, their curricula, administrative and teachers' salaries and the like. These releases are often marvels of indirection or inaccuracy in print. For instance, the Star reported in the fall that our superintendent's salary was near the bottom of some sixty representative sample school districts of a similar suburban-type area. But since there are 20,000 school districts in the section, the logical way to state this is that this position is among the highest paid. The Boston Globe had an article on Winchester, in which it stated that we had to raise salaries substantially because we lost 37 teachers last year. The obvious but incorrect inference is that they were lost for this reason, and I am sure our superintendent didn't say it.

The Star reported that we formerly were in the top 3 per cent of the state in competitiveness of teacher's pay, but slipped this year. Are we to believe that the only thing that enables us to have an excellent school system is the highest pay bracket? Does it insure that we will get good teachers?

The Star article states that the increases proposed will bring us up to the pace-setters, Brookline, Newton, and Lincoln-Sudbury. Let us take a look. In September, 1962, Newton reported a Bachelor schedule of 4800-8200 and ours was 4750-7550. But a closer look at Newton indicates a merit limit of 9700. Brookline has four pay brackets depending on the grade taught. The lowest in Brookline is 4600 against our 4750 and their highest is 5100 to start.

The other leader referred to by our School Committee was the Lincoln-Sudbury regional school. It has no salary schedule at all except the statutory minimum. It is completely on the merit system. It pays what a teacher is worth. Two of the pace-setters, so called, use the merit system and I believe it is also in the systems of Lexington, Andover, Stoughton and North Attleboro.

We are told that the School Committee attempted to follow the recommendations of the Citizens' Advisory Committee that it get back into the top 3 per cent bracket. The report of this Committee incidentally seemed quite professional. I found little in it that would not already have been known to our professional - the superintendent - who might have written just as adequate a report to the School Committee. I would not have considered it part of this Committee's job to do other than study the facts and recommend changes. Yet the only part of the report that was stressed was the idea of a greater than usual salary increase as the most important step to implement the program. I recommend careful reading of the Finance Committee report on the School budget. This is the first indication of a well-known fact that many in Winchester feel the School Committee has not adequately considered the attitude of an important segment of our citizens. no candidate for school committee ever indicates his stand on particular issues and therefore the voters cannot reflect their feelings in their votes, especially when there is no contest.

I gather that the pace-setters are on a sort of merry-go-round. We are making a bigger than usual pay jump this year; perhaps Newton and Brookline will then try to catch up to us next year. And, of course, that boosts everyone along the line as well as the new crop of teachers for whom all are bidding. For my part, I have deep sympathy for all of the other school systems in the state that are forced to keep up with the towns like ours which lead this movement—hopeful of some advantage—temporary though it may be.

Supposing we stopped trying to outbid our neighbors for new untried teachers. Maybe next year they will get off the merry-go-round too! Will the candidate choose Brookline or Newton over Winchester? Does she consider oned white parking lights. Three other factors? If we lose too many pre-tenure teachers to other systems before they get tenure here, perhaps we should take a look at our method of selecting them. This group of teachers is important to a school system, but the backbone is the good career teacher group on tenure.

If offering the highest starting salaries is so important, obviously we are at a permanent disadvantage as to Newton and Brookline and we should feel discouraged. Surely they will get the cream of the crop and build a much more loyal system with the pay check being all important. Obviously our average salaries should not compare. But I find a curious situation. While average salaries have not been compiled since 1960, at that time and even now, Winchester has had the highest average of any town in the state. Consistently we prove that the turnover of teachers is less in Winchester even if our pay brackets are lower than the leaders. We do have intangibles that count!

On this basis, I, at least, conclude that getting into that magic 3 per cent is not the answer. I feel that we should stop this senseless competition for the untried candidate. We get no guarantee of an excellent career person, but we seem to get our share despite this supposed horrible handicap of not being the leader in the competition. Of course, we will occasionally lose a career teacher but usually it is for reasons that no practical rigid pay bracket can overcome.

Finally, bearing in mind the pay scales in the commercial world, I no longer champion ever higher blanket salary increases in tax supported secondary school systems. Teaching has come into its own as an attractive profession. In business we reward exceptional merit. Teaching is a business and we should handle it in the same way.

I would urge that the Finance Committee continue to explore this area of thinking with the School Committee to see if we can't work out a new approach to our problems. Sometimes we get into a rut in our thinking and this suggestion might prove fruitful to our long range planning.

Warrant Article On Home Rule Is Not a New Idea!

Editor of the Star:

Six years ago, in 1957, having the interest of our town in mind, I inserted in the town warrant, article number 73, which reads as follows:

"To see what action the Town will take with reference to several bills in the General Court relative to the Metropolitan District Commission Police, Water and Sewerage District and such other proposed legislation pertaining to the Metropolitan area. Appropriate the necessary sums of money, the appointment of a committee to carry out the views of the town meeting or any other action which will be deemed necessary in the town's interest."

(Vincent G. Carroll)

"Moved and seconded, that a committee be established consisting of five citizens of the town appointed by the Moderator, its duty shall be to study the various bills in the General Court relative to the Metropolitan District Commission Police, Water and Sewerage District, and such other proposed legislation that pertains to the Metropolitan area. The committee shall also carry out the views of the town meeting and take any other action that they deem necessary in the town's interest."

The motion was declared lost.

An article now appears in this year's town warrant (article 48). The phraseology is different but the objective is the same. Our representative needs such a committee to help him because the legislature has had a field day in the spending of our town's money.

When I introduced my article in 1957, the motion was lost in a few seconds! The only reason the article appears this year in Winchester is because the town of Needham adopted the "Home Rule" idea last year and other towns are considering it this year.

The lack of foresight, illustrated by the rejection of my article in 1957, is much more current in recent years. I feel the reason is this: the citizens of this town no longer care how their money is squandered. Consequently they ignore anyone presenting worthwhile civic-minded ideas. The rejection of my article in 1957 has cost this town many thousands of dollars!

Sincerely,
Vincent G. Carroll

Aux. Fire Dept. Asks Support Of Warrant Article

Editor of the Star:

I would like to bring to the attention of the townspeople and the town-meeting members the following facts:

Article 26 in the town warrant has been given an adverse report by the Finance Committee, and I do not think that they were aware of all the facts about this article.

Many of the townspeople do not realize that the Auxiliary Fire Department is a non-paid group that gives its time to the town at most of the Winchester fires and more than two-thirds of all box alarms. During hurricanes, thunderstorms and bad snowstorms, the Auxiliary members usually show up at the Fire Station to help out where needed. During the recent bad rain storm many of the townspeople benefited by the Auxiliary Fire Department pumping out flooded cellars. This was done in conjunction with the regular Fire Department personnel. Even our Auxiliary Engine 6 was constructed by the Auxiliary Fire Department members with the help of the regular Fire Department personnel. At recent 2 alarm fires we have had as many as 12 Auxiliary firemen report to help out at no cost to the town.

I do not think that the Finance Committee realizes that by turning this article down, it may cost the town in loss of free labor. Like any organization, we have to have a meeting place and a program of training and purpose. Under present conditions this is difficult. If we are not able to do this we will lose the interest of many of our members, and it will be the town that will suffer the loss of the free labor.

The Finance Committee gives their approval of the town paying rent in order that the Auxiliary Police have their own quarters, but when we ask for money to fix up quarters in a rent-free town-owned building they say no!

When the Water and Sewer Board let us have the use of the pumping station, we found that in order to get our Engine 6 in the building, we would have to extend the front of the building 6 feet. We were going to do the work ourselves and get the materials contributed. The Water and Sewer Board felt that this would not be practical because the front of the building would be open and exposed to the elements over too long a period of time. We agreed that it would be better to have a contractor do the outside shell and we would do all the inside work.

The area of the building we would use is serving no useful purpose now, but with the $4500.00 spent it would give the town a 2 bay fire station in the East side of town completely manned with free help. There would be 2 pieces of apparatus there: Auxiliary Engine 6 and old Engine 4 that was turned over to the Water Department to be used to fight brush fires around the reservoir. The Auxiliary Department would also help the Water Department in fighting brush fires with a group of 12 trained Auxiliary Firemen. This Auxiliary station would be manned during the brush fire season, hurricanes, thunderstorms and bad snowstorms. It would be close to the Washington School and the Winchester Hospital. It would also be manned at the sounding of any first alarm and the apparatus would be ready to roll within minutes. During the weekdays there are at least three members of the Auxiliary Department in town that would be able to respond.

This station and its personnel would be under the direct supervision of Chief James Callahan, and any activities would have to meet with his approval.

If the Finance Committee did have all the facts before them when they made this decision then I hope the townspeople and the town meeting members will judge that our work is worth encouraging.

Homeowners View Highland View Av. Dead End Status

Editor of the Star:

Regarding Article 61 of the Warrant concerning the erection of a barrier at the former conclusion of the older narrower part of Highland View Avenue, we feel that the statement of the Finance Committee is misleading in several particulars. We quote, "It would not be practical to erect a barrier which would prevent through traffic to George Road and cut off the outlet to East Street. Some abutters are not in favor."

First. There are nine homeowners who are abutters on the older end of Highland View Avenue. Only two are opposed to the barrier and these people have no young children.

Second. It is both practical and sensible to erect a chain and post or similar barrier to direct the heavy flow of traffic from a narrow street without sidewalks to one more capable of bearing the load, East Street. e.g., the Town has seen fit to erect just such a barrier for after school hours in the roadway passing the Lynch Jr. High School for just such a purpose.

Third. There is now, in fact, only one entrance and exit to the forty or more houses in the "Pit" and that is where George Road joins Highland View Avenue. We ask only that, by the erection of the barrier, this entrance be moved literally a stone's throw, a mere one hundred feet, to the wider East Street. Through traffic would then flow unimpeded to and from George Road from and into East Street. This one hundred feet, now called Highland View Avenue could be called George Road thereby avoiding identification difficulties.

Fourth. The none homeowners on Highland View Avenue until recently had no outlet to East Street and, with only two exceptions, never felt the need for such an outlet, and do not now!

Fifth. We feel that this problem presents a situation similar to the Tufts Road controversy, since unwanted traffic has been arbitrarily directed into a narrow inadequate street.

Sixth. We invite anyone concerned to drive to our street, observe the situation first hand, and realize that this barrier would occasion no measurable hardship to the residents of Winchester Gardens.

Seventh. We, the undersigned, having already paid a considerable sum to have the street paved, pledge ourselves willingly to share the minor expense of a barrier, which will therefore cost the town nothing whatsoever. This barrier could even be removed quickly for snow plowing or a similar emergency.

Very truly yours,

One Voter Sees Possible Election Problem Solution

Editor of the Star:

I was one of the few voters and as I looked around the empty hall, I thought there should be some changes made.

First. Why not have one Election Day a year in the fall? Have every office voted on on that day, Governor and everything.

Second. Why not put a $2.00 tax on all who can vote but do not?

It is a privilege to live in this country. Everyone has a duty to do and if they do not do it they should be taxed.

Sincerely
L. P. Birch

Science Teachers, Students In Fair At McCall Lauded

Editor of the Star:

Congratulations to the teachers and students of McCall Junior High for an outstanding Science Fair. The amount of time, effort and ingenuity spent in preparing these interesting and varied exhibits must have been truly great.

Would it be possible another year to have this Fair open to the public for a longer period of time, say Friday night and part of Saturday?

Veterans Against Finance Comm. On Memorial Area

Editor of the Star:

The Finance Committee in its report has suggested under Article 16, dealing with the petition to appropriate funds for the construction of a new memorial town honor roll, that the memorial could be placed in a location other than that asked by the Winchester posts of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars and in agreement with the Board of Selectmen.

The veterans of this Town did not ask or want the new memorial to be placed inside the foyer of the High School. We asked to have it put near the flag pole at the Town Hall, where we go to commemorate Memorial Day and where the public can see the honor roll every day. It is appropriate that the memorial be erected near the flag flown by the Town, and not inside a building used by only a portion of the Town at any one time; i. e., school time.

We realize that the Finance Committee is only doing its job in trying to find cost-cutting corners in the Warrant. However, this is a memorial to the men of this Town who left their homes to fight in the nation's wars, and if a war memorial is to be built in their honor, the least it can do is reflect the desires of the men who earned the commemoration construction, and that means building it where the Selectmen voted to have it located — near the flag pole at the Town Hall.

Sincerely,
John T. Horn

Full-Scale Probe Of All State Agencies Asked

An order has been referred to the Rules Committee of the State Senate calling for a full-scale investigation of the operations of state government agencies.

Senator Michael J. Galvin (D) of Newton called for establishment of a five-member "Senate Committee on Government Operations," patterned after the Federal McLellan Committee and besţed with subpoena powers.

Senator Galvin declared, "Vested in the governmental agencies of this state are great powers involving the fortunes and liberties of our people. Last year, the General Court gave these agencies $546 million to administer these powers. From the Federal government they received another $250 million.

"To date the General Court has exercised little or no legislative oversight over the powers of these agencies.

"This is an open invitation to corruption and inefficiency, and worse still to the use of these powers and this money to pervert the liberties and rights of our people, and turn government to their own private gain.

"Is it any wonder that our people look upon the General Court collectively with distrust even as they elect us individually term after term? For we have done only half the job when we legislate programs and money. The other half is legislative oversight."

Senator Galvin continued, "With a few notable exceptions legislative oversight in Massachusetts at present is conducted on a crash basis in an atmosphere of hysteria. These investigations have smeared our good name and left us with a national reputation unmatched by any other state."

Senator Galvin said, "In Massachusetts long terms of appointees, often spanning the administrations of two or more governors, and the inability of a Governor to remove from office appointees who have abandoned public confidence, have left the state with practically no Executive oversight over state agencies.

"This has led to the growth in Massachusetts of a fourth branch of government, the government agency, whose heads reign unchecked in their own domain by either elected branch of government, the Governor or the General Court."

Senator Graham said he was glad to hear Senator Galvin favoring co-terminous terms of office for the governor and his department heads, and declared there are "several disgraceful situations existing in this Commonwealth today."

He then recalled past Senate investigations and advised that until the Senate has been acquainted with facts, "this sort of thing can lend itself to an awful lot of trouble."

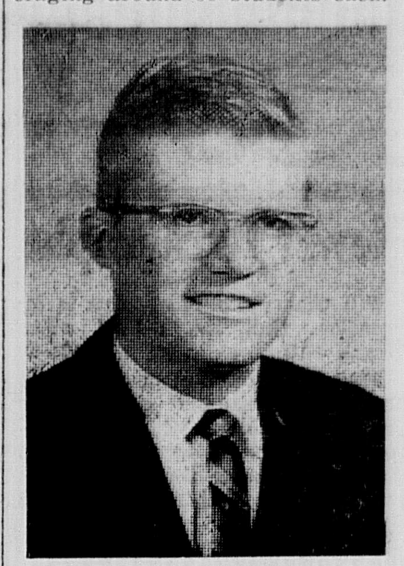
The order is pending before the Senate Rules Committee.

Peace Corps Volunteer Wants Books For Turkey

The difficulties encountered by Peace Corps volunteers have made headlines before - but Dave Hopkins, of Winchester, has a different problem. All he wants is books - lots of books - according to a letter received from him by the Star. Herewith the letter:

To the People of Winchester:

"I am at present a Peace Corps Volunteer in the city of Gaziantep, in Southeastern Turkey. My position is that of teacher of English, the language which is fast becoming the first-ranking foreign language in the country. In this capacity I teach some 450 students three times a week, in classes averaging around 60 students each.



DAVID N. HOPKINS

"It is clear that in classes of such size, meeting for a total of only two hours per week, only a minimum of attention can be given to any individual student, and many intelligent boys are not getting the opportunity they should have. The opportunities outside of class are even more limited, for both English speakers, and, especially, English books are in very scarce quantity.

"There is nothing that can be done at the moment about the size of classes or the amount of class time; such problems are in the hands of the national government in Ankara. However, in the realm of materials it seemed to me that you and I might be of help, by supplying at least a minimum library of English books for the Gaziantep High School and for the teachers and other people of the city who are learning English in their off-hours.

"I first suggested to my family that they make inquiries among their friends; the idea has since expanded, with an article in the High School Newspaper and an offer of help from the Forum at the First Congregational Church. This letter is to invite all who so wish to help in the project, and to explain the type of material needed.

"At present there is a very limited demand for normal adult reading; few in the city are capable of mastering such fare. The great demand lies among the high school students who have studied English for two or three years or more but who have nothing beyond their old outdated textbook with which to improve. Their level of English comprehension corresponds to the English used in elementary school books in America, and textbooks, fiction and non-fiction at this level would be most useful at the present time. In order to allow for an understanding far advanced over their English comprehension, I think it would be best to concentrate on non-fiction: biography, history, geography, science, current events, and especially books with pictures, and books which illustrate America and American life.

"If you are interested in helping, get in touch with some member of my family at 41 Lloyd Street, telephone PA 9-2865, or with the Forum."

Yours sincerely,
David N. Hopkins

Democratic Winter Social

The committee in charge of the Irish Night, which will be conducted next Sunday evening, March 17 met on Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Harsch, 10 Nassau Drive.

Roger and Peggy Harsch typify the ideal host and hostess and the evening passed all too quickly as reports were read and suggestions offered to make this winter social at the Elks' hall an outstanding social event. Bee Wilson, chair man of the event, praised the subcommittee chairmen for the fine work they have accomplished in arranging what promises to be a gala evening.

Following the business session a delicious buffet was enjoyed as Peggy Harsch again displayed her talent for serving a most attractive lunch.

The Irish Night will be just that everything green, decorations, music, films, singing and dancing, and even the colors that will be liberally sprinkled among the heaped dishes on the luncheon tables. Decorations on the tables will consist of dancing leprechauns and wee folk while Irish green streamers will form a background for the posters which depict the attractions of that little green country.

There's no doubt about it—it will be a great night for the Irish as the local Democrats celebrate the natal day of Ireland's patron Saint and, at the same time, add a tidy sum to the already thriving treasury.

Why Funerals?

• TODAY a question which once would have seemed shocking is sometimes asked. Why Funerals? And the answer is so deceptively simple that it is often difficult to put into words. Because we are human and our humanity dictates our course of conduct to those we have held near and dear. Think of the word "disposal" with all its abhorrent connotations. Surely, in America at least, this will answer the question—Why Funerals?

H.E.L.P. Gives Aid To Mass. Students

Bank loans totaling over $7.3 million have been guaranteed to more than 11,000 Massachusetts college students through the Massachusetts Higher Education Loan Plan (HELP), Gerhard D. Bleicken, president, Massachusetts Higher Education Assistance Corporation announced recently.

Mr. Bleicken, senior vice president and secretary of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company, made the announcement marking the sixth anniversary of the loan plan.

To be eligible for a HELP loan, a student must be a resident of Massachusetts, in attendance at an approved institution and must have completed satisfactorily the first year of a program of higher education. He-or-she may attend any approved institution of his choice, in the United States or abroad.

Mr. Bleicken noted that the total of HELP loans has increased substantially each year. "The volume of loans guaranteed so far this year is 25 per cent greater than those guaranteed during the same period last year. Loans granted last year totaled 20 per cent more than those in 1961," he said.

"The success of Massachusetts' pioneering HELP is evidenced by the fact that more than 4300 student borrowers have already repaid their loans in full, to a total in excess of $1.9 million. HELP's guaranty commitment to the banks requires the maintenance of a guaranty fund equal to five per cent of the loans outstanding. This commitment is met through tax-deductible contributions from business corporations, charitable trusts, banks, local labor unions and individuals interested in furthering higher education."

Since the inauguration of the program in March, 1957, ten other states have established similar loan plans, patterned on the Massachusetts HELP. The loans guaranteed by these organizations, including Massachusetts, total more than $60 million.

The National Conference of Executives of Higher Education Loan Plan was recently organized by representatives of seven of the eleven state-wide loan plan at a meeting in Boston. Dudley Harmon, executive director of the Massachusetts HELP, was elected chairman of the conference.

Of Writers And Writing

By Frank Procopio

D. H. Lawrence: A Tale of Tragedy

D. H. Lawrence died at ten o'clock on the night of March 2, 1930. His life had been essentially a tragic one. It had also been stuffed and padded and libeled with controversy. Out of his writings came critical abuse, the like of which no writer had been submitted to since Joyce penned Ulysses, and there also came unprecedented court cases to establish once and for all what those migratory boundaries were that separated the realistic from the pornographic.

If I were to count the number of people who condemned Lawrence simply because they knew he authored Lady Chatterly's Lover, I would fill a telephone directory. But that is the pressing and undeniable curse of our society: to judge and condemn at a reasonable distance, because we aren't fortunate enough to possess built-in instincts like the animals do.

Lawrence writes so unfailingly of tragedy and loneliness that it seems clear he must have known something about them. As a writer, he finds himself in the perplexing position of being a discerning god walking around in the ugly carcass of a vulnerable man. The war within him is therefore intensified to a thousands shades of gray, mirroring both his own humanity and the weight of a gifted perception in things human.

In James Joyce's Portrait Of The Artist As A Young Man, Stephen Daedalus asserts the purging elements of tragedy: "Aristotle has not defined pity and terror. I have, I say...Pity is the feeling which arrests the mind in the presence of whatsoever is grave and constant in human sufferings and unites it with the human sufferer. Terror is the feeling which arrests the mind in the presence of whatsoever is grave and constant in human sufferings and unites it with the secret cause." Lawrence, by his own admission, felt pity less than he felt the need to explain the terror. He was concerned more with the cause than with nursing the wounds of the victims.

Of his mother he says resentfully that "she was a working man's wife, and nothing else, in her shabby black bonnet and her shrewd, clear, 'different' face. And she was very much respected, just as my father was not respected. Her nature was quick and sensitive, and perhaps really superior. But she was down, right down in the working class, among the mass of poorer colliers' wives."

Lawrence's writing, without exception, is founded on the contention in that paragraph. While he writes a clear repudiation of his father, he, at the same time, reflects a scornful pity of his mother. To his mind she should never have lowered herself to the despotism his father wallowed in. It was shameful, unadulterated weakness of her to place her romantic sentiments above her sense of social obligation.

To Lawrence, it was like the fall of Adam, and nothing could ever erase the scars of original sin. This was his tragedy; over and over, this was incomprehensible tragedy that should not have happened. It affected him so deeply he could do nothing but write monotonously about it. Thus limiting himself, and shackling a talent that otherwise could have flourished, he destroyed himself.

Genius is the quality of originality, and it is only loaned to the artist. He is obligated to make the most of it while he has it. For Lawrence to concentrate entirely on the image of tragedy is comparable to a boxer who spends all his time getting physically into shape for a fight, and not bothering at all to learn the fundamentals of his art.

The artist, whether he uses canvas or a typewriter to express himself, is a constantly restless being. No true artist is ever satisfied; art is not to be mastered for art's sake alone.

The writer is not a judge. He is a spy, an observer who spends a good part of his time amongst society, and then, after he has seen and felt and done, goes off alone somewhere to paint an honest picture. But he must never forget that the greatest of all wisdoms is compassion, and compassion is the process of understanding...the penetration into the interior soul of a man where things are made clear. It is compassion for the human condition that is the true test of greatness in any individual, more so in the writer; for it is the writer's job to not only see and feel and do, but also teach and encourage and forgive.

Film Program At the Library

America still has a frontier in her 49th state, but it is a fast vanishing wilderness. Alaska: Story of a Frontier shows natural resources being developed, with all the attendant trappings of modern civilization.

On the other side of the world a much more ancient people cling to simple ways and seem to stand still rather than go forward in time. Greek Children shows the daily activities of a boy and girl of Galaxidi, a fishing village in Southern Greece, including a trip to Athens in a fishing boat.

How does Nature take care of her children? The many ingenious ways are explained in How Nature Protects Animals. You might make your own list and see how many ways you miss or add.

The Friday Family Night program begins at 7:30 p.m.; the Saturday morning program at 10:15.

The film "Russia" scheduled for March 8 and9 will be shown this Friday night.

Cambridge Center Open House Will See Local Talent

Winchester resident Mr. E. S. Read, Jr., of 25 Fletcher Street, will assist with the Spring open house and student exhibition of the Cambridge Center for Adult Education, to be held next Thursday 10 to 9, and Friday, 10 to 5. Student art work in oils, watercolor, silver and other media will include drawings by Iva Orton, 6 Wincrest Drive. The public is cordially invited to this annual event; coffee will be served from 3 to 5 and 7 to 9.

COD Discussion On Tax Program

Under the sponsorship of COD of Winchester, a Democratic political organization, a discussion of Governor Peabody's state tax proposals and of the general tax problem in Massachusetts will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Joslin, 10 Hillside Avenue, March 19, at 8:00 p.m. The meeting will be an opportunity for interested citizens and neighbors to evaluate Winchester's needs and responsibilities in relation to the aims of the new tax program.

All who are interested in being more informed on such a vital subject are cordially invited to attend COD's roundtable discussion. For further information, write or call Mrs. Alan Simmons, PA 9-5009.

St. Mary's Spring Paper Drive Sunday, March 24

St. Mary's Parish will hold their annual Spring Paper Drive on Sunday, March 24, beginning at 1 p.m. Trucks and adult helpers are needed. Anyone wishing to help can contact Father O'Donnell or leave their name at the rectory. Parishioners are urged to tie their papers securely and not to make the bundles too big. The drive will start at 1 p.m. and papers should be on the street by that time. In the past some have put their papers out after the trucks have passed their area and have made it necessary for extra trips to be made to certain areas. Your cooperation in this regard and also to the tieing of the paper will be greatly appreciated.

Bill Krupsky Speaks To Cub Pack 524

The scoutmaster of Scout Troop 524 was the featured speaker at the last Cub Pack 524 meeting. Many of the boys will be starting in the Boy Scouts in the fall and Scoutmaster Krupsky told the boys of all the interesting and challenging opportunities that they would find in the Boy Scouts. Overnight camping and hiking (not the 50-mile variety) were two of such activities.

Mr. Henry Gerould, the pack leader, and Mr. Edward Micozzi, the awards chairman, presented the boys with the following achievement badges:

To Bear: Danny Meyer, John MacLeod, and Gary Walsh.

To Gold Arrow: Leonard Manoogian, Stanley Godwin, Ty Gerould, and Danny Sullivan.

The Cubs advanced their individual achievement pins on the Pack advancement ladder and were encouraged to strive to get to the top of the ladder.

Den Number 3 won the monthly award for the third consecutive month after careful inspection by Mr. Lloyd Godwin and his assistants. The Den mother, Mrs. Rita Manoogian, and her assistant, Mrs. Fern Meyer, were congratulated for the outstanding appearance of their boys. The smartness of their uniforms and the grooming of the boys in Den 3 were again the best in the Pack.

Cub Pack 524 has planned swimming and skating parties, the latter has been re-scheduled, depending on suitable skating weather.

Epiphany Ladies Open Hat Season With "Hat-a-rama"

Tuesday, March 19, at 12:45 p.m. Hadley Hall will be filled with ladies wearing exotic purchased or handmade headgear.

Mrs. John A. Volpe, well-known for her hat creations, will judge and present prizes for the gayest, prettiest and most original chapeaux. Start now with lampshades, artificial flowers, tissues, beads and silks to create a "topper" to wear to this annual affair.

Luncheon will be served by Mrs. Edmund Wright and her committee. Following the luncheon, Mrs. Henry Freeman Allen, will show slides and explain the importance of our United Thank Offering to the Indian Missions in South Dakota. Mrs. Allen has just returned from South Dakota and will bring us first hand information of the work our diocese does there.

The Women of Epiphany extend a cordial invitation to the women of other churches to attend this luncheon and meeting. Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Hildred Prowse, PA 9-1637 or Mrs. Torr Harmer, PA 9-3561.

Mrs. Fred Cardin Speaks to MSPCA Group in Newton

Mrs. Fred Cardin, president of the Winchester Auxiliary of the Mass. Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, spoke last week before the Newton Service League meeting at the home of Mrs. William Bruce in Newton.

Mrs. Cardin told her audience that a pet in your life is a never ending enrichment. "Don't shortchange yourself or your family by 'not bothering,'" Mrs. Cardin urged. Many wonderful pets are waiting for a home and may be obtained for a minimal fee from the Adoption Ward of the Mass. S. P. C. A.

The speaker also touched on various phases of the work of the Mass. S. P. C. A., at 180 Longwood Avenue, Boston. She stressed the need for old sheets and blankets to be used as bandages, pads for cages and to cover shock cases en route to the Angell Memorial Animal Hospital—the largest animal hospital in the world. The Mass. S. P. C. A. welcomes visitors and has a number of entertaining and instructive films which may be viewed by interested groups. Also the Society has available highly helpful 10 cent pamphlets on the care of various pets.

Winchester Elks' 40th Anniversary Celebration Draws over Two-Hundred

The Winchester Lodge of Elks commemorated the 40th anniversary of its charter last Saturday night with a dinner-dance held at the Woburn Country Club. More than 200 members and guests appeared, to tax the facilities of the Country Club to capacity.

The affair started with a social hour, after which a fine roast beef dinner was served. Speeches were held to a minimum, with the rest of the evening devoted to dancing.

Many distinguished guests were in attendance. Toastmaster Francis Allen introduced Arthur Kochakian, grand lodge committeeman, who is also chairman of Mass. youth activities; Arthur Johnson, district deputy and grand exalted ruler, from Haverhill lodge, and Mrs. Johnson; Richard Hosford, district deputy esquire; Thomas Dowd, 1st vice president of the state association and a past district deputy; Ernie Steed, district deputy, who witnessed the installation of the local lodge's first slate of officers; Fred Clement, the only living charter member of Winchester lodge; Harry McGrath, Winchester's only past district deputy; and Creighton Horn, outgoing exalted ruler.

The invited guests made appropriate speeches, after which the present officers were introduced: Jack Murphy, esteemed leading knight; Roland Twombly, esteemed loyal knight; Frank Hadley, esteemed lecturing knight; Peter Murphy, chaplain; Jim Mills, esquire; George O'Leary, treasurer; Newell Purington, secretary; and Fred Wilson tiler.

Chaplain Peter Murphy gave the invocation.

Winchester civic and social organizations represented by delegates at the dinner-dances were Kiwanis, K. of C., Sons of Italy, Veterans of Foreign Wars. Paul Dunn, Woburn's past exalted ruler, represented Winchester's neighbor lodge.

Bill Dailey, chairman of the local lodge's National Elks Foundation committee, presented pledges amounting to over $1600 to D.D. Johnson for the foundation for its various charities. A donation to the Mass. Elks Scholarship Foundation was also turned over to D.D. Johnson by the local lodge.

Full credit must be given to Creighton Horn for his work in setting up the arrangements for the celebration, which was so smoothly handled despite the large number of last-minute guests, which forced an overflow into the anteroom.

The music was excellent. The Bob Fiore Trio was augmented by the addition of a hot cornetist, and the dance floor was always full. Like good wine, this combo improves with age.

The food and refreshments were superb, with McDonough's Caterers handling the food, and Tom McPartland and Larry Penta the refreshments.

Four Talks Are Planned By Ethical Society

The Ethical Society of Boston, announces a series of four lectures to be given by its leader, David L. Norton, designed to introduce newcomers to the Ethical Humanist Movement, to be held at the Boston Center for Adult Education, 5 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston, second floor, on Friday evenings at 8 p.m. Each lecture will be followed by a discussion period.

Topics to be covered are: March 15-The Heritage of Ethics; March 22-Ideals of the Good Life; March 29-Ethics and Social Action; April 5-Values for a World in Crisis. Anyone interested is welcome to attend.

The Ethical Society of Boston is a religious and educational fellowship based on the idea that the proper focus of religion is what men do for one another, on this earth, to bring out the highest in all men. Their faith is that by transforming themselves through creative human effort, men will ultimately transform their world. Further information may be obtained by calling Mr. Norton at CO 7-3138 or LA 7-1458. Regular Sunday meetings are held 11 a.m. at 5 Commonwealth Avenue.

Periodical Club At the Epiphany

On Tuesday afternoon, March 26 at 1:30 in Hadley Hall, the women of the parish and their friends are invited to attend a Tupperware Party. Our Church Periodical Club chairman, Mrs. Paul Coon, has arranged with the Tupperware Company to sell their products, the profits to go to the Church Periodical Club at the Diocesan House, 1 Joy Street.

These are unique items that no kitchen should be without. All storage bowls have covers which fit so tightly that if dropped will not come off. They may be stacked in the refrigerator to save space. No more broken glasses if you use Tupperware tumblers and the one and one half quart containers never wear out! Everything can be safely washed in a dishwasher.

Come to Hadley Hall, Tuesday, March 26 at 1:30 to see the other Tupperware products you just can't do without. Benefit yourself and the Church Periodical Club.

A new item. Perma stamp. The printing surface is made of new, miracle Porelon Plastic: carries its own ink in tiny pores - releases ink on contact. A perfect impression every time. Can't leak. Can't evaporate. Sample can be seen at the Winchester Star.

"MEMOS" FROM YOUR Stylist

By: "Woody"

The perfect combination for keeping the human body in shape is exercise and rational eating habits. However, few people seem to have either the time or the inclination to exercise consistently and eat with restraint.

Exercise, whether it be sports, calisthenics or machine-type, should be engaged in with consistency. A frantic day of wild exertion can't make up for several months of inactivity. The same steady dedication to proper dieting must be observed if the individual is to assume and retain the figure desired.

What you may desire in the matter of hair styling, however, is another story. The happy answer to that story will be found at WOODY'S HAIR STYLES, where our stylists know all facets of their trade. Make your appointment soon at WOODY'S HAIR STYLES, 573 Main St., Phone PA 9-3065.

THIS WEEK'S HELPFUL HINT: Smooth, velvety skin can be had by rubbing checks, chin and forehead with a skinned avocado.

Lynch School Talent Night Puts 32 Acts Across Stage

The second annual Talent Show at the Lynch School was presented last Wednesday afternoon to undergraduate students and on Friday evening to parents and friends.

More than 100 Lynch students took part in musical and dance numbers and skits which ran the gamut from serious instrumental accomplishments to fun and slapstick. The theme of talent was carried out also in the standing exhibits open that night in the art, industrial art and home economics rooms, which were visited by a large crowd of enthusiastic parents.

Work by 7th, 8th and 9th graders in every kind of art media was to be seen on display in the Lynch art room. The results of work in drafting, woodworking and metal work classes were open to the public in that area; and skirts, moomoos and other school-fashioned sewing articles were on exhibit to demonstrate accomplishment in sewing.

The program, under the direction of George Snyder, assistant principal, was opened by an organ prelude taped by Mr. Snyder at the home of Gayle Clark. Miss Clark played the Cesar Franck "Pastorale in F Major," Bach's "Toccata and Fugue in D. Minor" and Handel's "Where'er You Walk."

John R. Woodworth conducted a string ensemble in Foster's "Old Kentucky Home" and McDowell's "To A Wild Rose." Playing violins were Heidi Rendall, Jane Shanley, Rebecca Irwin, Kimberly Adams, Ruth Thompson and James Mouradian; violas, Elizabeth Manoogian and Lawrence Rutherford; cellos Suzanne Fontneau and Rebecca Leaf; bass, Bruce Cardin and piano, Kathy Sternberg, Judy Wells, Janice Beggs and Carol Bower.

The next three acts were Ruth Morse, Marilyn Haff and Ellen Bemis dancing, "Diamonds Are a Girl's Best Friend;" Lisa Johns, Sharon Butterworth, Nancy Dube and Sandra Fitch in pantomime to "Take Me Out To The Ball Game" and Thomas Martin, Edward Downing, Hunter Jackson, Mark Merenda, Jeff Boutwell, Sandra Gregory, Steven Pritchard and Karen Bryce in a French "tragedie comique," "La Morte de Jesse James."

"Markin' Time" with Elizabeth Manzie, and Anne and Peggy Pooler followed with Barbaralee Brooks then singing "Hey, Look Me Over,," accompanied by Mrs. Caryl Carle, music superivsor, Janet Stiles and Deborah McLean in a ballet, "Just The Two of Us;" Marsha White on the piano with Zeckwer's "Images In The Water" and James Mumma and Douglas Carlson in a "Ma-Son" duo with the guitar and voice came next. The act concluded with a dance interpretation to the "Honey Bun" song from South Pacific, danced by Nancy Cannon, Nancy Perkins, Deborah Hughes, Pamela MacCormack, Jean Henry, Helen Hess, Joy Sacca, Marth Davis, Michael Johns, Peter Lennon, Bill O'Malley, Greg Macdonald, Peter Campbell, Donald Goodwin, Robert Hudson and Robert Scott.

After intermission the Lynchlighters, an instrumental group under direction of Fred Murray of the music staff opened up with "Bye-Bye Blackbird." They were John Cheever, Bill Downes, Fred Thayer, Craig Heindel and Douglas DeRenne, Bruce Cardin and Douglas DeRenne followed with a Saxophone and Bass duet, "Desafinardo," also under Mr. Murray's direction. "Arithmetic and Geography" a song and dance act with Alexandra Clair, Janet Butterworth, Cynthia Magno and Becca Armstrong came next, followed by Leslie Wild, Jean Henry and Martha Stebbins in a singing trio, with "The Money Tree" and "Everybody Loves a Lover."

Judith Wells played the Mozart "Sonata No. 9" before a dancing group of eight, including Roberta Avery, Carol O'Connor, Karen Swanson, Janice Leighton, Candice Nelson, Sharon Keith, Betsy Hollinshead and Shelley Swanson interpreted the record, "Nothin' Like A Dame." Heidi Rendall then played a violin solo, Borowski's "Adoration," with Jane Sexton accompanying.

Lee Marks, Stephanie Martini, Lucia Kittredge, Anne Clarke and Marita Corcoran portrayed a silent movie skit to the tune of "Crazy Otto;" Joy Hakanson and Carol Bower danced to "Alley Cat;" Carol Johnson danced to "Everything's Coming Up Roses" and the curtain came down with a finale from "Gigi," a boy and girl interpretation done by Diane and Ann Capodilupo, Martha Stebbins, Janet Klippel, Betsy Callaham, Bonnie Johnson, John Shanahan, John Collins, Roland Boutwell, Paul Donohoe, Peter Cunningham and Drew Phillips.

The participants all gave with gusto and finesse and the audience returned the gift with enthusiasm, and with appreciation for the many hours of teacher supervision which preceeded the event.

Ushering were Deborah Gouzoule, Lyn Billman, Deborah Foster, Martha Luongo, Judith Robison and Linda Zammarchi. Curtain and properties were under the direction of Michael Cosgrove, Robert Castignetti and Brian Collins. Sound by J. Stephen Waters and general expediters were Lynne Scott and Wendy Sweet.

Hawk Sanctuary Story Told To MSPCA Members

While the dog-of-the-house relaxed on an apple-green divan, members of the Winchester Auxiliary of the Mass. Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals gathered at the home of Mrs. Dunbar Shanklin, 12 Everett Avenue.

"Babies or grand-babies, anyone?" The attention of the membership was called to the clever terry cloth bibs, appliqued with an animal figure, which Mrs. John Boland, formerly of 21 Sheffield Road, designs and makes. One hundred percent of the profit from the sale of these adorable bibs goes to benefit M.S.P.C.A.

Mrs. Herbert Preble was appointed from the floor to serve as chairman of the nominating committee for 1963-64.

The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. Richard Cannon, of the program committee, who introduced Mrs. William Glowacki, who described the Hawk Mountain Sanctuary in Pennsylvania. Mrs. Glowacki's obvious enthusiasm and sincerity won her audience immediately as she told of some of the difficulties in establishing this hawk sanctuary. Covering 1800 acres and including a spectacular mountain ridge "look-out" from where hunters used to shoot thousands of migrating hawks. Hawk Mountain Sanctuary was started by people who could not bear the frightful toll of birds being shot from this too advantageous spot.

Prizes were sometimes offered for the most hawks killed. Often the bodies were not even picked up! Why? Actually, just for the fun of killing (page the Strangler!) although the excuse was given that hawks kill chickens and carry away baby pigs (In many years of questioning farmers of the area, not a single instance could be uncovered.). Hawks do not usually kill while migrating, Mrs. Glowacki explained.

Almost insurmountable problems vexed the establishment of Hawk Mountain in 1932 - local opinion, no help from the state police, who shoot hawks themselves, not much money. Every day "no shooting" signs were erected; every night they were carried away by local sportsmen. Finally, however, through patience, perseverance and personal single-handed patrolling of the rocky road to the promentory, a successful sanctuary was established. Now interest is high and visitors are many and enthusiastic. Truly a triumph for kindness, Mrs. Glowacki called it.

Tea was served by Mrs. Clifton McNeill of the social committee, helped by Mrs. Alfred Pywell and Mrs. Robert Richmnod. Mrs. Byron Jackson and Mrs. Wellington Caldwell poured.

Fellowships For Teaching Won By Two Men Here

Christopher W. Beal, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Beal of 7 Copley Street, and Daniel C. Dennett, son of Mrs. Ruth Dennett of 45 Mystic Valley Parkway, both seniors at Harvard College, are two of the 1,475 nationwide winners in this year's awards of the Woodrow Wilson Fellowships donated to further a recruiting drive for future college teachers.

Mr. Beal's field of study has been East Asian Studies, Mr. Dennett has specialized in philosophy.

The winners came from some 30 colleges across the country and each award covers tuition and fees for the first year at the graduate school of the Fellow's choice, plus a stipend of $1500 and dependency allowances, Sir Hugh Taylor, president of the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation, said in making the announcement.

"Committees of eminent college professors and deans picked this year's winners from among 9,767 candidates named by faculty members at 907 colleges in the United States and Canada," Sir Hugh noted, and added, "It is our hope that these newly-elected Woodrow Wilson Fellows will continue as decisively as possible toward the attainment of the Ph. D. Toward that end we have chosen candidates who can meet the foreign language requirements of their graduate schools.

"All these winners—the largest number we have selected in any one year thus far—were chosen as 'good bets' for college teaching. We hope they will follow that career, yet we do not hold them to such a firm commitment. We ask only that they give college teaching serious consideration."

Awards by the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation are made possible through grants totalling $52 million from the Ford Foundation which since 1957 has supported the expanded Woodrow Wilson Fellowship program.

Most of this year's Fellowship winners are in the Humanities or Social Sciences, but there are also 309 scientists among them.

In order that those winning honorable mention may be chosen to receive alternate awards from universities or other sources, their names are now being circulated among the graduate schools of the United States and Canada.

In addition to awarding first year Fellowships for graduate study, the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation has two other programs: 1. Subventions to graduate, schools where Fellows are enrolled, to augment funds available to the schools for the support of graduate students beyond the first year, and 2. Dissertation Fellowships to former Woodrow Wilson Fellows in the Humanities and Social Sciences who give evidence they can complete requirements for the Ph. D. in four years or less.

The Winchester Antique Study Group

Members please note that the March 19 meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Rich Room of the Library as originally scheduled.

"Art Class" was chosen as the subject for discussion at this meeting. Miss Hilda Sanderson will be the speaker of the evening.

Organ Recital

Mr. Raymond Shannon, organist and choir director of the First Baptist Church, will give a graduate organ recital at St. Paul's Church in Cambridge on Friday, March 15th at 8:15 p.m. First Baptist Church, Winchester is most fortunate to have such a talented and dedicated music director.

Thirty-Four Pairs in Field Competed In Duplicate Mixed Pairs Tourney

A thirty-four pair field answered the starter's gun for the fourth annual Mixed Pairs Championship of the Winchester Duplicate Bridge Club on Wednesday evening, March 6th, at the Knights of Columbus Hall. With the movement arranged so that all pairs played the same 22 boards, a full 16 match points were at stake on each board.

This produced large swings on key hands and led to a gigantic average score of 176 match points. When the hard-working scoring committee completed the tabulations, it was apparent that Greta and Blair Hawley had won their first championship event together with just under a 70% game, with second place going to last year's winners, Kay McConnell and William Duryea. Just how much the ladies contributed to these results is indicated by the fact that Hawley and Duryea had played together just the week before, and had come in below average!

The order of finish of the top six teams, who shared the ACBL master point awards, was:

Mr. and Mrs. Blair Hawley	246
Kay McConnell and William Duryea	231
Mr. and Mrs. Richard Smith	229½
Ann Dean and Edward Sullivan	227½
Betty Yeomans and Perry Bunyar	217
Betty Slade and Robert Haskell	205

Rounding out the top ten teams were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Watson (200½), Fredna Perkins and Jock Olmsted (197½), Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jones (194), and Col. and Mrs. Robert Grove (187). For the first time in recent memory, a clean sweep of all the top ten spots was made by regular club members.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wheelock	186
Dr. and Mrs. Robert Blackler	185
Martha Walker and Arthur Bibby	184½
Geraldine Lawrence and James Curley	182
Ruth Long and Ralph Atkinson	181
Mr. and Mrs. George Sweet	181

For players not competing in the championship round, a ten pair Howell was run as Section B under the capable direction of Steve Haseltine. With results computed as percentages, the winners were:

Douglas Harrison and John Nikula	.659
Ruth Blackwood and Marjorie Hakanson	.636
Thomas Wilder and Roger Locke	.629
Martin Weiss and Stephen Haseltine	.542
Sylvia Campbell and Barbara Sawyer	.524

One of the boards in the Mixed Pairs event showed the power distributed evenly, with neither side vulnerable and the opposing pairs each holding a total of 20 high card points.

Sitting EW, McConnell and Duryea got a top on this board with 100 points for setting NS in an optimistic 2 NT contract by two tricks. Four other EW pairs were right behind with 90 points for 1 NT bid and made by West.

For NS, several tables scored 50 or 100 points for setting EW one or two tricks in diamonds, hearts, or no trump. The best score for NS, so far, has been 110 points for two spades bid and made by South.

At your table, you sit South and have opened with a bid of one (weak) no trump, which has been passed around. West has led the 4D, and dummy's 7D has been covered by East's JD. Looking only at NS, how do you proceed with the play of the hand as declarer?

As actually played at the table, South won with the AD and attacked hearts right away! Her idea was not only to set up an eventual sure heart winner, but to make the opponents break open the other suits.

West had to win with the AH and paused to consider. He could see all the outstanding high diamonds in dummy and suspected that South might have a good club suit — since weak no trumpers often hide a long minor suit. Therefore, he decided to lead the KS.

South was about to play the 4S and set the stage for the Bath Coup (see textbooks), but knew that an alert West would see his partner's discouraging play of the 3S and refuse to continue with the QS. So South came right up with the AS.

Then she led another round of hearts to East's QH. East came back with a spade (the only safe return at this point) which went to West's QS. With spades splitting 3-3, however, the jig was now up for the defense. Declarer knocked out the last heart stopper and ran out "game" by taking the well marked finesse in diamonds. Making THREE no trump was worth 150 points for NS.

Was this a top? Not quite, for at another table, Nancy Atkinson also opened with one (weak) no trump. Then, when West tried to muscle in with an overcall of two diamonds, Jack Collins (sitting North) wasted no time in making a penalty double knowing the precise limits of the South hand. The set was worth 300 points and a clear top.

ACROSS THE COUNTER

Many people put off buying the proper liability insurance, or try to get by on an amount far less than they really need, to save money.

Naturally saving money is an important objective. But it can be overdone. In the words of a current business adage:

"Buying too little insurance to save money is like trying to stop the clock to save time."

Time goes by even if the clock is halted—likewise your need for liability protection exists even though you channel your money into other purchases. It is just plain common sense to "face the facts!"

The "facts" are that in our modern world the possibility of injuring the body or property of another person exists every day. And the "fact" that such injury was unintentional is not a sufficient excuse. If you were in any way negligent, you may "in fact" face a major, damaging lawsuit.

Remember, a judge or jury will not try to save "money" for you. A decision has to be reached "on the facts." A judgment amounting to a lifetime of "savings" may be rendered against you.

The best solution is plenty of liability insurance. Call our office or stop by and let us explain how reasonably you may be protected.

The deep, spiritual nature of real "Substance" will be the subject at Christian Science services this Sunday.

Bible readings will include these verses from I Corinthians (2:9,10): "As it is written, Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him. But God hath revealed them unto us by his Spirit: for the Spirit searcheth all things, yea, the deep things of God."

Other Scriptural selections will bring out what Christ Jesus taught about substance, and will be accompanied by this passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (p. 313): "Jesus of Nazareth was the most scientific man that ever trod the globe. He plunged beneath the material surface of things, and found the spiritual cause."

Chadwick To Address Young Republicans

Representative Harrison Chadwick will be the featured speaker at the meeting of the Winchester Young Republican Club next Tuesday, March 19 in the East Room of the Town Hall. Mr. Chadwick has been quite close to recent developments on Beacon Hill, and will share some of his insights into politics.

Two short movies will be shown. One, "The Wisconsin Story," was produced by the AFL-CIO COPE (Committee on Political Education) to show how they won Wisconsin for the Democrats and Senator Proxmire. This film has been used by the Democrats as a worker recruiting film, and only recently has been procured by Republican groups. The second film, produced by the National Education Program, is entitled, "A Look at Socialism."

The two candidates for the chairmanship of the Massachusetts Council of Young Republican Clubs will be present. Our five delegates will have the chance to cast a vote for either of these candidates at the next Mass. Council meeting April 6. The winner is expected to be a delegate to the regular Republican National Convention in 1964. The candidates will be Mr. Paul J. Kelley of Norwood and Mr. Richard E. Mastrangelo of Watertown.

The meeting will begin sharply at 8:00 p.m. Tuesday, March 19, in the East Room, basement, of the Town Hall. Refreshments will be served.

Explorer Troop At Scoutarama

What Is Exploring?

Exploring, the higher branch of Scouting, is the program of activities, experiences and ideals for groups of high-school age fellows. Exploring is the spirit of youth who have growing abilities and ambitions, an inquiring frame of mind, and the will for adventure. It is the heritage from the discoverers, pioneers, inventors, and leaders who had the intelligence and courage to search for the new and better. Exploring is the outlook for you who will rocket into space, who will probe deeper into the uses of atomic energy, who will continue to seek a world of peace.

In Exploring, boys learn about the world around them and how to be successful in it. They take trips to far or near, strange or favorite places; they meet new people and discover new ways of doing things. Explorers plan activities which put them at ease with the crowd, which enable them to forget themselves and to have fun. They learn to be good leaders by serving as one of the elected officers of the post. Fellows look at questions about earning a living, further education, and choosing their most useful role in the world of work. By understanding our heritage of American government and way of life, boys become better citizens. Truly Exploring offers many advantages.

Boys of Winchester are lucky in having Exploring so well represented in this town. Post 503 is one of the most active units in this area. Its activities are year round. Why don't you join!

The Fortnightly

The Literature Committee of The Fortnightly met in the Edgar Rich room of the Winchester Library on Wednesday, March 6. Mrs. Everett Littlefield, chairman opened the program and introduced Mrs. William Goodhue who reviewed the book "A Shade of Difference" by Allen Drury. This, a novel based on the United Nations was presented in an interesting manner.

Following this Mrs. Leila Roberts of the Library staff suggested six books for our reading. She reviewed the book "Travels with Charley" by John Steinbeck and commented on the following: "Window on the Square" by Phyllis Whitney and "Seven Tears for Apollo" by the same author; "A Fragment of Augobiography" by John Gunther and "The Tall Woman" by Wilma Dykman, closing the talk with the reading of a poem by Robert Frost "The Objection of Being Stepped On."

The next meeting of this group will be April 3 at the home of Mrs. Ralph Meigs.

Kiwanis Urges Students to Check Scholarships

James H. Russo, president of the Kiwanis Club of Winchester, Inc., announced today that Senior year students of all public, private, and parochial schools in the Winchester area are urged to check with their school principals with regard to the annual New England Kiwanis Scholarship awards.

These scholarships provide toward four years tuition in a college of the recipient's own choice. Basis for the awards are need, character, scholarship, and leadership qualities and these awards are made to outstanding young people in New England without regard to sex, race, creed, color, or national origin. Four or more new Kiwanis Scholarships are awarded each year.

Kiwanis Scholars from New England States are now attending the University of Massachusetts, University of Connecticut, University of Maine, University of New Hampshire, University of Vermont, Bates College, Providence College, Bridgewater State College, Plymouth Teachers College, Simmons College, Amherst College, College of St. Rose, Brown University, Boston University, Georgetown University, Tufts College and Trinity College, and are represented in each of the four college years. 1963 will mark the graduation of the seventh group of Kwianis Scholars.

Funds for these scholarships are derived from a foundation originated and administered by New England Kiwanis and supported by voluntary contributions from individual Kiwanis members in the Kiwanis Club of Winchester and other clubs throughout New England.

T'Will Be a Big Night at Legion Hall on Saturday

Shure t'will be a great night for the Irish, but 'tis not a private affair.

Arra Wurra Worra give it never a thought. The heirs of Old Erin enjoy parties, oh yis, big parties, and for this shindig that fine borth of a lad, 'tis Vin O'McCabe of course, well he is making the arrangements.

Should be enough said, but Vinny says there is an open invitation for every one to come on down to the big Legion dance at the Post on Saturday, March 16, at 8:30 in the evening to dance to the strains of Ralph O'Delcore, brought over from county Medford to help with the festivities in determining who is the jig champion at the dance.

The committee plans to make sure every colleen has a little green corsage and during the intermission a little food will be served and their may be a prize or two. So have your fling with some Irish music and there'll be plenty of other kinds and truth be it devil alone can say no to a party as this will be.

We have a complete selection of artists' oil colors in tubes, also jars of linseed oil and turpentine. All at the Winchester Star.

Vincent Clarke Is Speaker For Morgan Memorial

At the 68th annual dinner meeting of the Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries held last week, Vincent P. Clarke of 93 Bacon Street, president of the group, highlighted to the overflow audience the service this organization gives to the whole area here.

Mr. Clarke who has been Winchester's town counsel for many years, told the gathering that Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries was the largest private, non-profit and non-sectarian agency serving the handicapped in New England.

He paid tribute to officials of more than fifty prviate, public and official governmental agencies for their cooperation in referring needy cases to his group, including U. S. referral of tragically handicapped cases to Morgan's newly opened New England Rehabilitation For Work Center.

"With expert evaluation and patient training," Mr. Clarke said, "It is amazing the results that have been accomplished."

Mr. Clarke pointed out that the Godwill Industries is only one of the nine social agencies serving all ages and creeds by Morgan Memorial. Work of the other agencies includes service to needy families, Goodwill Day Nursery, youth and children's center, fresh air camps, aid to homeless men, aid to elderly women and theological students, and the Hayden Goodwill Inn for Homeless Boys.

"We are in great need for another building for these homeless boys. The present one is going to fall under the wreckers' hammer. More than 8000 boys have graduated from Hayden Inn during the past thirty years to become useful citizens. It is the only home of its kind in this area for these boys and we must find something quickly," Mr. Clarke said.

Attendants at the dinner also heard delineated the very large task of this group, relocating ahead of the Massachusetts Turnpike excavators and wreckers, who are already only 2500 yards from their door.

In addition, the dinner saw Mayor Collins in a presentation of the "Goodwill Worker of the Year" award to Harry Dixon, a 25-year-old cerebral palsy victim from Wollaston.

Fortnightly Picks Winners In 1963 Art Contest

The exhibition of paintings by the Winchester High School seniors and juniors arranged by Mrs. Paul Howard assisted by Mrs. Ralph Hatch created excitement and enthusiasm among the members and guests attending The Fortnightly's annual Music and Art Day last Monday in the social hall of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church.

The refreshments were served by Mrs. John S. Ahern, the social chairman, and her committee. The gracious pourers at the attractive tea table were Mrs. Paul L. Eaton and Mrs. Charles M. Jenkins.

The Fortnightly's president, Mrs. Herbert D. Thompson, presided at the brief business session. During this time Mrs. Charles E. Walkup, Jr. chairman of the Art committee of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's clubs was introduced as the guest of honor. Mrs. Walkup's message revealed the interesting features of "Craft" as historical treasures and renewed popularity.

Mrs. Frederick L. Fish, chairman of The Fortnightly's Music committee presented the musical feature of the afternoon by introducing Mrs. Eleanor A. Thistlethwaite, director of music at the McCall Junior High School who then presented the uniformly dressed McCall Vocal Ensemble. The musical selections were: "America," "Gloria Patri" - Palestrina, "Liebestraum" (Love's Dream) - Liszt, "One, Two, Three" - Barbados Work Song, "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes" - Jerome Kern and "It's A Most Unusual Day" - McHugh.

These delightful and familiar numbers were beautifully rendered and the harmony of the mixed voices was very pleasing. Mrs. Thistlethwaite and these many talented singers deserve bountiful praise. The vocal ensemble members were the following: Soprano, Karen Church, Michele Dooley, Ebet Keresztes, Carol Peterson and Rachel Rooney.

Bass, Gerard Battista, Edwin Cushman, John Dolan, John Kimball, Jack McIntyre and Gordon Sewall.

The second portion of the program was presented by Mrs. Paul Howard in the absence of Mrs. William Cusack Fortnightly's Art committee chairman. Miss Pauline Goodrich, the supervisor of the art department in the Winchester High School, was introduced at which time Miss Goodrich presented and revealed the accomplishments, ability and the possible future of the students entered in the art contest. Mrs. Howard explained the art contest in The Fortnightly as a preliminary to the state contest.

The winners from all states competing finally for the national prize in Washington. Mrs. Howard with the assistance of Mrs. Wason Hyde, a member of the art Committee, appraised each individual painting for the prize winning student and Mrs. Herbert Thompson presented the prizes to the following: first prize to a senior Carol Butters, titled "Framework of the Future." Second prize to a senior, Dianne Burnham, titled "The Light of Hope." First prize to a junior, Ruth Anne Loftus, titled "Brotherhood of Man."

Honorable mention went to the following: Sandra Stockwell, "Black Supremacy," Steven Gray "Ever Onward," Kay Jackson "Give Us Your Tired, Your Poor," Karen Klippel, "Future," Ruth Anne Hutchinson, "The Helping Hand," and Ellen Richardson, "Where Character is Born."

Others submitting paintings were: Marcia Bird, Marcia Brenner, Carol Brink, Kay Jackson, Jane Littleton, Malcolm MacKay, May Mumma, Debbie Nichols, Leslie Shean, Jonathan Sibley, Sally Benshimol and Ingrida Mangulis. The work of these young and talented artists is highly commendable and The Fortnightly finds it in evidence that our Winchester art students derive pleasure working under the supervision of one so well qualified in the field of art as Miss Goodrich. It is her sincere understanding of her students that creates their interests and provides them with continued determination.

The Fortnightly anticipates the showing of paintings by more students from the Winchester High School next year as we find this sort of contest a challenge for our young people.

Harvard College Scholarships Go To Eight Here

This is in addition to the many undergraduates receiving financial aid in meeting the costs of the college through long-term loans and part-time employment. And also in addition to those receiving scholarships from outside agencies such as, for instance, Navy R. O. T. C.

Receiving honorary scholarships at Harvard are two seniors, Christopher W. Beal of 5 Copley Street, a graduate of the Belmont Hill School, and Christopher M. King, of 92 Hillcrest Parkway, a graduate of the High School.

BYF Paper Drive

March 16th from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. the young people of the First Baptist Church will work on another of their projects to aid them in their Washington Trip. Let's have a quick look at a misconception many people have concerning vitamins. Because most of our vitamins are obtained from food, some people are disposed to look upon vitamins as a type of food. Food, however, is a material providing heat energy, measured in terms of calories, for vital bodily processes. Inasmuch as vitamins do not contain calories, they are not food.

They are, however, chemicals of drugs that are present in foods and a vitamin is still a vitamin, whether you get it from a beefsteak or a bottle.

You might also say that a prescription is a prescription, no matter where it is filled. This is largely true, of course, but we suspect that you will take a small measure of added comfort in the knowledge that unsurpassed accuracy and quality are assured at McCORMACK'S APOTHECARY, 568 Main St. Phone PA 9-2700.

Games Played February 27

Jim Sullivan's Cincinnati bearcats routed Dan Winn's midgets by a lopsided score of 71-17. Big John Doherty racked up 30 points, while teamamte Mike Ciarcia scored 21 points, to pace the romp.

Navy experienced a bad night and everything they did seemed to be wrong. Richie Rogers and Pete Mawn who scored over 40 points between the two last week, were unable to find the range and thus could only net a mere 16 points. Rogers with 12 points and Mawn with four.

In a battle for second place Bob Thompson's Holy Cross crusaders crushed Kevin Mawn's Providence friars by a 36-18 score. Providence was without the services of two players, Willie Floyd and Brian LaPointe. Without the two boys Providence was unable to click.

Paul Rigney and Brian Collins had 12 points, and 10 points, respectively for the winners, while Scot Bennett returning to action after a long layoff had 6 points and Johnny Martin had 5 points. With Donald Letty getting 4 points and playing a fine defensive game.

Tony Shields' Ohio State team overpowered Frank McNamee's Duke five by a 33-17 score. Billy Shields once again started for Ohio State by scoring 18 points and rebounding most of the team's rebounds along with Jimmy Appleton. Ricky Kidder had 11 points in a losing cause for Duke.

Sachems Host to State Gym Team Championships Saturday

The Masssachusetts High School Gymnastic "Team" Championship will be held at Winchester Saturday, March 16, at 7:00 p.m. Five of the strongest gymnastic teams in the state have been selected by the Massachusetts Gymnastic Coaches' Association to compete in this championship, Andover, Winchester, Needham, and Wellesley High Schools, and Minnechaug Regional High School.

This meet without a doubt will be one of the outstanding schoolboy meets of the year. These teams represent the pick of schoolboy gymnasts in the state and the degree of difficulty attained by these contestants has been greatly increased over the past few years. The excellence in coaching and participation by these and other teams has greatly improved the sport.

It would be appreciated if the townspeople of Winchester would come to the state gymnastic meet at the high school gymnasium to support and encourage our home team. The Sachem gymnasts are rated as second contenders behind Andover High School. With added support frotm the home crowd the Sachems could possibly edge Andover.

PETITIONERS REQUEST TO COUNTY COMMISSIONERS TO ABANDON CERTAIN LAND

YOUR PETITIONERS ARE EUGENE B. ROTONDI, JR., ROGER HENRY ROTONDI AND MARY LOUISE ROTONDI FROM 224 FOREST STREET* WINCHESTER, MASS. OWNERS OF A CERTAIN PARCEL OF LAND CONTAINING 4½ ACRES MORE OR LESS AT STONEHAM* WINCHESTER LINE, BOUNDED BY ROUTE (93 ON THE EAST AND FOREST STREET ON THE NORTH.

YOUR Petitioners in 1958 lost other portions of Land adjoining present land by Eminent Domain to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts for purposes of Route 93 and relocation of Forest Street.

In said relocation of Forest Street the Old layout of Forest Street was moved northerly thus straightening said Forest Street to Forest Street Overpass. Land consisting of Old Forest Street Roadway now is separated from relocation with curbing, said old roadway now blended into property of the Petitioners. In theory and possibly legally your Petitioners were owners in fee to the middle of Old Forest Street insofar as that distance that ran along portion of Petitioners lands. The other Abutter on opposite side of Street formerly being McNulty and Creamer Estates now owned by Commonwealth of Massachusetts because of Taking is probably an interested party to this Petition.

Your Petitioners feel that Land now abandoned should become the property of the Petitioners, reasons being that no use of this Land could be had for building or any use to any party except the Petitioners.

Further that this Old Forest Street can not be used for any purpose except use as an entrance to Petitioners Lands, that becoming a part of Petitioners lands it will place all Land in a better situation for tax purposes.

Your Petitioners are in the process to build several Homes facing Forest Street, that such land as now abandoned will hinder the proper and suitable locations of homes to be placed there.

Your Petitioners pray that this Honorable Board take proper legal steps to abandon the Old Forest Street Layout now part of and extending along Petitioners Lands to Route 93.

Middlesex County Commissioners

PETITION TO ALTER, REVOKE, AMEND ORDER ADOPTED BY COUNTY COMMISSIONERS ON FEBRUARY 13, 1957

YOUR PETITIONER, EUGENE B. ROTONDI, JR., as also ROGER HENRY ROTONDI and MARY LOUISE SHATTUCK are owners of Land in Winchester, part of Subdivision of Lots Land Court Case No. 6546 other Lots of Land being a part of Plan of Subdivision of Lots called Anapolis Village Development, approved by the Planning Board and recorded in Middlesex - Cambridge Registry of Deeds being Plan 2142 of 1955. These Lots are bounded by a Way called Churchill Road and part of Sunset Road Extension.

Your Petitioners state that in 1941 - registered land portion Land Court Case No. 6546 - upper portion of Churchill Road was approved by the Board of Survey, therefore does not come under present Subdivision Control, of Planning Board.

Upon order of the County Commissioners adopted February 13, 1957, the Petitioners were ordered to build and construct all Roads, Sewer, Water, and drains, on this Old Board of Survey layout. Your Petitioners further state that in 1955 of December the owners of property on upper portion of Churchill Road received notices from Board of Selectmen in regard costs of said Churchill Road Acceptance.

Churchill Road a private road from Forest Street, has abutters who have owned these properties prior to 1955, six homes now built, 4 constructed in 1940 and one in 1954 - present home in 1962.

Your order of Feb. 15, 1957 as adopted compel the Petitioner to place in all facilities, to such as roads, water, sewer, drains, etc., especially when it was noted that never did the Petitioners or any member of its families own at any time homes previously constructed or have any rights of ownership in upper portion of Churchill Road, only rights Petitioner had was to travel over said private way.

The Petitioner further states that if this Order were allowed to stand said Petitioner would be under extreme hardship, would be placed in involuntary servitude, said order could not be possibly be followed by a court of law nor sanctioned by our Constitution. It is common practice and approved judicially, that Abutters alone are responsible for betterments and such betterments should not be placed on non-interest holders of property.

Your Petitioners therefore feel that this order should be changed, altered, amended, so no extreme Hardship will be placed on your Petitioners, changed so all abutters of Registered Land Layout of Land Court Case No. 6546 be assessed proportionate costs.

YOUR PETITIONERS further state that the Registered land portion of Churchill Road under Land Court jurisdiction approved under old Board of Survey Layout is not under Planning Board Sub-division Control, nor was it ever intended to be placed under their control.

Under Old Board of Survey Layout, all betterments, are placed in by the Town and then assessed to the Abutters of Property, in this way and in only this way will abutters of this property be paying for facilities justly their own.

Your Petitioners feel that they should not be compelled to place in all betterments for benefit of others, this action would violate their rights under the Due Process Clause of the Constitution.

Your Petitioners also inform this honorable Board, that since the order of 1957 of February 13, the Town of Winchester has built and constructed many additional Catch Basins, discharging excessive drain waters thru the Petitioners Land, thus requiring the tremendous expense of placing in larger drains.

Your Petitioners will assume all expenses of all facilities, for Subdivision Control of lower Churchill Road and Sunset Road, but only to lots abutting these ways, but feel that they should not be placed to added expense of installing larger drains than those specified on Plan of Subdivision of Lots.

Your Petitioners therefore pray that the order of 1957 be rescinded as to that portion of Land Court Case 6546, that is upper portion of Churchill Road, distance from Forest Street being approximately 600 feet more or less, that your Petitioners be exempted from building Road, Water, Sewer, Drains and any other requirement necessary to make Upper Churchill Road a Public Street; that your Petitioners will not be liable except to lots abutting that portion of Churchill Road, as far as costs or any liability to abutting home owner now living there.

Your Petitioners state that the only way that a Public Street will be had is by procedure adopted under Old Board of Survey, that is Under Street Acceptance. All abutters will be charged betterments, this method is the only democratic solution.

Respectfully submitted

The above were the high scores of the night, as the standing saw a little change. The Post Office was squeezed out of second place down to fourth, as Atlantic Gelatin held on to first place, with Grandma's Teeth and Mill Hillers pushing them to the limit:

The league standing:

Atlantic Gelatin	50	6	10146
Grandmas' Teeth	44	12	10495
Mill Hillers	42	14	10299

Giant Killers	10	46	9160
Hoboes	8	48	9140

High Team Single (5 man team) Atlantic Gelatin, 606

The Atlantic Gelatin gave one string away as they could not cope with Strike Lanes' 516, as R. Smith and Arthur Anderson rolled 118 and 121, respectively. The Atlantic Gelatin won going away the next two strings and held on to the total as Joe Nash with 351 and Tut Cassidy with 311 did the damage.

These are alley records.

The Mill Hillers won, lost, won and pulled the strings for the total, as Tom Kennedy rolled a string of 118 to decide the match. Fred Kimball high for the winners with 302 and Mickey Donovan bumped heads with Tom Kennedy with a 306 for the losers.

Grandma's Teeth rolled 503-516-506 for 1525 to subdue the Hoboes, despite B. Cligett with a single of 131 and a total of 318 for the losers. E. Robertson 125-123-105 for 353 was the star of the night, and with the help of Dan LaFreniere with 110-110-104 for 324 were the "gunners" for the Grandma's Teeth.

The 49'ers continue to hold on, and killed the Giant Killers hopes for play off position for second half. R. Buckley and B. Letteire were the high for the winners with 295 and 296.

St. Mary's took up the leadership in the second division, as they whitewashed the Converse with George Snelling making the difference with 104-107-93 for 304. Jim Caulfield got warmed up, and it was enough, with 110 the last string to pull out the match. Larry Bairstow tried to survive, as he was high for the losers, with a strong finish.

J. H. Winn could not compete with the Brothers-in-law as they fell short the first string by two pins. A very close match in which A. Fiorilli led the Brothers-in-law, as Ralph Jury and J. Moise tried to muster up the "Dial hands," but lost by a pin or two.

S. O. I. Bowling League

Next week's meeting brings the current schedule to a close and Alabama still posseses top ranking in the standings. The top team defeated twelfth place Maryland by a 3-1 score with Capt. Correction Fiore hitting best for scores of 114-98-135. Emile Doucette and Dom Provinzano had a big hand in the victory when they rolled 111-112-104 and 95-95-99 respectively. Doing well for losing Maryland were Dan Gattineri with 114-101-101 and Capt. Sonny Mistretta 102-101-90.

Yale still holds second position despite the fact that it dropped a 1-3 decision to tenth place Navy. Four of Navy's bowlers zeroed in over the 300 mark. Tony Chefalo did best for Navy with 129-105-115; then came Roundy Fiore 99-98-121; Capt. Choppers Gangi 101-95-111 and Paul Amico 93-90-120. Losing Yale had some good scorers led by Joe Capne's 114-95-101, Capt. Rickie Bucci's 96-102-102 and Mike Collucci's 88-112-98.

Third place Holy Cross was held to a 2-2 deadlock by seventh place Army, but neither changed positions in the standings. Top performers for H. C. were Moose Bellino who had a good night with strings of 120-112-116, Rudy Fiore 99-104-108 and Phil Ardagno 78-130-100. Woozy Giacalone ranked first for Army with 118-96-127 followed by Capt. Tony Saraco's 88-104-105.

Bates whitewashed next to last place Penn 4-0 to hold a firm grip on fourth place. As usual Capt. Bob Fiore of the winners came through with another great night knocking the pins over for tallies of 128-138-103 and close behind were Nick Molea with 96-109-107 and Jake Ciarcia with 113-88-100. Penn's top bowler was Mike J. Saraco who hit for 104-101-99.

Georgetown, still holding down fifth spot, kept eighth place Harvard scoreless. Joe Marrone led the Georgetown unit with strings of 117-103-110 with Dick Trabucco getting 94-101-114, Pucky Perritano 117-103-89 and Chick Vespucci 109-83-109. Capt. Babe Tofuri was the only Harvard man reaching the three-century mark with 103-103-94.

Sixth place B. C. bombed last place St. Mary's 4-0. Big Ted Peluso, with the help of the cheering section made up by his kid brother, topped all bowlers with neat strings of 100-116-106. Slim Lentine followed with 104-106-105 and then came Capt. John Mangano who reached 91-102-113. Joe Ciarcia did best for the defeated with strings of 107-107-97 and anchor man Mingy Frongillo tried hard with scores of 91-101-106. The losers were hurt considerably by the absence of Capt. Max LaCarubba who still has an ailing back and Tony Melaragni who was at work.

California moved from eleventh to ninth place while Notre Dame just did the reverse as a result of California taking a 4-0 victory. Musky Tofuri of California had missed the last few bowling nights and was undecided about getting into competition the last time out. Well, he thought he'd go easy and give it a try and believe it or not came very close to winning top honors for the night. He hit for 126-106-130 and was taken by Skitchy Fiore by only two pins for high triple! Giving Musky much help in the win was Carl Bertolucci who ended up with 123-88-104. Dick Tofuri, Capt. of N.D., topped his team with 89-97-105.

Important matches this week are first place Alabama vs sixth place B. C.; second place Yale against eighth place Harvard and third place H. C. meeting eleventh place N. D.

The "movie photographer" who was trying to make a film to add to the entertainment at the annual bowling banquet, extends his most humble apologies to the lone object or of the one hundred participants.

Others seemed to enjoy the idea and "posed" as such but rather than disturb the serious contender, the photographer packed up to oblige much to the disappointment of the other 99.

It is wonderful if he realizes how he "hurst" bowlers while trying to coach them during the season. There are no hard feelings on this side but remember the saying, "Do unto others, as others undo to you."

Legion to Honor Basketball Team, Coach March 22

Coach Jim Phillips and his Class A Bay State champion basketball team will be honored by Winchester Post 97, American Legion, at a special monthly meeting on Friday, March 22, beginning at 8:30 p.m. at the Post Home at 34 Vine Street.

Coach Phillips is a long-time Legion member, having succeeded Wade Grindle as Scholarship and Boys' State chairman. He replaced the late Ted Bartlett for whom Jim played right after World War II when the old "semi-pro" Sachems used to pack them in, in what is now the Junior High.

Following the abbreviated Post meeting, Commander Kinton has announced that the awarding of trophies will follow immediately thereafter. Tickets have been distributed at the High School and all students wishing to attend the presentation should pick up tickets at the high school principal's office.

Through the cooperation of principal Howard Niblock and assistant principal Tom Morse, a dance will follow the Legion meeting and award ceremonies until 11:00 p.m.

High scorer this week is Magda with 89, 95, 112, total 296. Youve come close to 300 a couple of times now, maybe you'll make it before the season is over, Magda. Barbara's 281 is second high. Stina's 262 is third with Eleanor a very close fourth with 261.

The Spades took four points from the Clubs in their match. There were so many strikes and spares by both teams that it is really surprising that the scores weren't even higher than they were. The Clubs are very glad to have Eva back, and so are the rest of us.

The Diamonds and Hearts split 2 and 2 in a very close match. The Hearts won the total by only one pin.

Best of luck to our new president, Mary Thorne. Only problem now is getting a secretary and treasurer for next year. Any volunteers?

Badminton Club Finally Stopped

All good things must come to an end, and the good thing that the Winchester Badminton Club had going for itself finally came to an end on Tuesday, March 5, at Framingham. Before playing their Massachusetts Badminton Association "D" League match against their Framingham opponents that night, the Winchester club had established an all-time Association record of three consecutive shutout victories. But, when the dust had finally settled, Framingham and Winchester had battled to a stand-off, with each team winning five of the ten individual doubles competitions.

Winchester pairings which topped their Framingham competitors and the scores by which they won were:

Mixed doubles: Al Kajander and Paula Di Iorio (15-9, 15-7); Jay Gottesfeld and Gloria Gottesfeld (15-3, 15-9); Brad Hersey and Lois Hersey (15-6, 15-1).

Ladies' doubles: Paula Di Iorio, and Maxine Kajander (15-10, 15-12); Stella Gallant and Gloria Gottesfeld (15-1, 15-2).

With one match yet to be played, the Winchester team has now compiled a record of 41 doubles wins against only 9 losses, and have clinched first place in the North Division of the League. They have also sewed up top honors in the ladies' doubles competitions with 10 wins and no losses, and in the mixed doubles with 18 wins and only two losses.

The final match of the year, excluding play-offs, will be against the Maugus Club on Monday, March 18.

Winchester Youth Hockey

The Winchester Youth Hockey program concluded Sunday with a most successful first year season.

Over seventy boys from ages 8 to 15 participated in this program of hockey fundamentals and instruction with final teams formed into a league.

Concluding with a Father and Son game and awarding of trophies to the winning team. Individual awards were given to the most valuable and most improved player on each team. The most valuable were: Maple Leafs, Chuck Swim; Red Wings, Pete Thorp; Bruins, Stan Cruwys; Canadians, Paul Soucek. The most improved: Maple Leafs, Chris McCarthy; Red Wings, Bobby Nutile; Bruins, Biff Clark; Canadians, John Kimball.

There were only three goalies this year, Paul Tierney and Laurie Kelly two freshman hockey stars and newcomer, Brad Joyce who did a tremendous job of learning the duties of a goal tender. These boys were awarded trophies because they played on a rotating basis on each team.

Credit for this organization goes to Bill Cruwys and George Rowe, director and secretary-treasurer respectfully. With Jim McElholm, Dave Rowe and Herb Wood, instructors. Coaching the individual teams were George Rowe and Pete Villari, Bruins; Bill Sipp, Maple Leafs; Neil Doherty and Hal Mullen, Red Wings; Herb Wood and Tom Joslin, Canadians. A great deal of credit must go to Coach Henry Knowlton, athletic director of the Winchester high school for his approval and assistance in this organization.

The Winchester Youth Hockey is looking forward and already making plans for next year. It would also like to thank the Winchester Star for the fine publicity it received and to everyone who helped make this a successful organization for Winchester boys.

Community School Plans April Play For All Children

On Saturday, April 6 the Community School Association is sponsoring a treat for young theatergoers.

The Emerson College Strolling Players are presenting an exciting and beautiful play called "Greensleeves' Magic." There will be two performances at the High School Auditorium: one is at 10:30 in the morning; the other is at 2:00 in the afternoon. Tickets are to be sold at the elementary schools on March 26 and 27.

"Greensleeves' Magic" is an original folk tale by Marion Jonson. It is about three unhappy princesses who live in a land ruled by a wicked duchess. The duchess will not allow any singing or laughing or dancing in all the land. One day a travelling troubadour named Greensleeves appears. And that's all we'll tell you about it - come and see what happens.

S. O. I. Women's Bowling League

Here it is only three more weeks to go. I really don't like to see it end so soon. Miss all you girls already. As long as we are still bowling let us comtemplate the future of the teams. We won't know until the very end the way the tide will turn. The girls are bowling so well.

There are four teams that could easily end up in first place. The next to the last week should tell a lot. Newports, Alpines, Kents and Kools all bowl each other. Should prove to be very exciting.

Cusi, please don't upset the men. Cusi got a strike and her team shouted so much the man in the next alley got very nervous.

Hope by the tmie Louise Vigorita reads this that everything will be all right. Our good wishes are with you. See you at the banquet.

Did you know that well over half of the new officers in the Lodge are bowlers. Going from "Sporty" to "Snooty." All kidding aside I would like to extend congratulations to Ginger Maggio, our new venerable in behalf of the girls. Our warm wishes for a wonderful term, Ginger.

Over half of the girls belong to the 100 Club. The rest of the girls are going to have to work very hard. Know you can do it. So many have bowled from 90-99. It only takes a couple of more pins to do it. Florence Ciarcia worked very hard and made it. Hear Cusi has been giving you lessons.

Are you ready for more clues? I wear size 7½ glove and have the most beautiful ears you have ever seen.

Senior Forum Chapel Speaker

Rev. Samuel N. Slie, Congregational staff member of the Student Christian Movement in New England, will be guest speaker this Sunday morning at the Senior Forum chapel service at First Congregational Church. Mr. Slie has visited Forum several times and has served as resource leader for past spring conferences held by Forum.

His wide acquaintance with young people and their problems, gained from his continually going about among college groups in New England, and also from his ten year experience as member and leader of international youth work camps in Europe, makes him a very helpful speaker to youth groups.

The Student Christian Movement has as its goal the deepening of the total campus Christian life and seeks to develop personal commitment and social witness among college students and their campus groups. Serving as chaplains this week will be David Bird and Eric Schaefer. Ushers will be Robert Cowles and Jeffrey Strout.

Forum members are registering for the anual Spring Conference to be held this year at Purity Spring Resort, East Madison, N. H., April 15-18. Plans for the conference are being completed by the co-chairmen, Gwen Eugley and Larry Archibald, with Mr. and Mrs. Miles Weaver as advisers.

The Inter-Church Youth Lenten service next Wednesday at 7:15 a.m. will be led by young people from the Baptist Church. The services are held each week in Lent at Meyer Chapel of the Unitarian Church.

Forum is holding a splash party on Saturday, March 23. Arrangements are being made by the social chairmen, Carol Brink and Ernie Sackett.

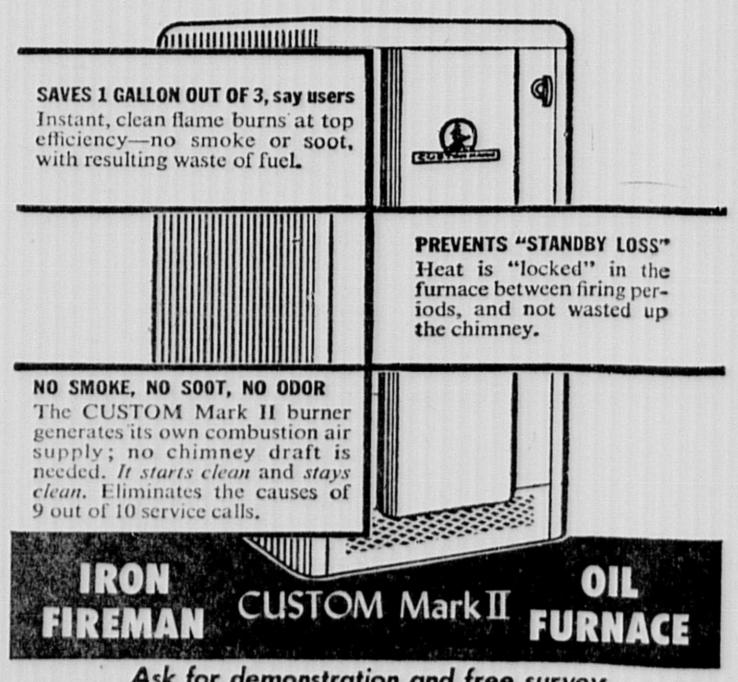
A new kind of
OIL HEATING



SAVES 1 GALLON OUT OF 3, say users
Instant, clean flame burns at top efficiency—no smoke or soot, with resulting waste of fuel.

PREVENTS "STANDBY LOSS"
Heat is "locked" in the furnace between firing periods, and not wasted up the chimney.

NO SMOKE, NO SOOT, NO ODOR
The CUSTOM Mark II burner generates its own combustion air supply; no chimney draft is needed. It starts clean and stays clean. Eliminates the causes of 9 out of 10 service calls.

State Cherry Sheet Disburses $506,819 In Returns To Town

The 1963 "Cherry Sheet" certifications were released last Wednesday by Leo F. Diehl, state tax commissioner, showing a total of $121,400,000 to be shared by the 351 cities and towns of the Commonwealth.

This amount, the commissioner explained, compares with a total of $105,500,000 from the same sources certified in 1962. "The increase in estimated distributions," he said, "is due to an increase in the estimated yield of corporation and income taxes."

The amount of tax receipts which Winchester is expected to receive is $506,819.75.

In the communities surrounding Winchester, the disbursements were: Arlington . . . $995,391.87; Lexington . . . $576,237.67; Medford . . . $1,339,730.21; Stoneham . . . $360,235.43; and Woburn . . . $621,649.51.

The Cherry Sheet variations in distribution to cities and towns is due to a number of different formulas operating at once. Distribution is based on population of a city or town, the uses by that city or town of county and state facilities, and assessed valuations.

The Cherry Sheet, so-called because of its reddish color, lists all of the state and county assessments against the Town for the current year, and includes any underestimates for 1962. Then, in other columns, it lists the state's distribution of estimated receipts for 1963, and includes any overestimates charged and collected for 1962.

The Winchester assessors include in the local tax rate a full tax to pay for all the state and county assessments against the Town, as if the Town were not going to get disbursements. The assessments are paid to the state in about three installments over the year.

The state gives its disbursements to the Town in about six installments over the year. The Town uses these disbursements as a credit against all the charges of the Town, so in effect Winchester only pays the difference between the assessments and the disbursements. Occasionally, the disbursements might exceed the assessments, and the state would end up giving the Town more than it costs in assessments.

The Town's total assessments for the current year and for underestimates of 1962 amounts to $542,778.49. The Town will receive an estimated disbursement of 1963 receipts and overestimates of 1962 charge returns amount of $526,475.02. Therefore, during the course of the next year, the Town will end up paying the state $16,303.47.

The Town is assessed for a county tax, county tuberculosis hospital, auditing of municipal accounts, state examination of the retirement system, Metropolitan District Commission parks area, MDC sewerage, MDC water and entrance fees, and air pollution control.

The Town receives disbursements from federal school aid, state school aid, a state tax apportionment, corporation excise taxes, and a meals tax.

Fad Buff Sits On His Duff For 66 Hours For Ole '66

While being known as someone who sits on his duff is not what many people would consider a desirable reputation, one Winchester boy has received acclaim and notoriety in college circles for doing just that.

Bob Stewart of 35 Foxcroft Road, a freshman at Dartmouth College, set a new record in the latest college student fad, chair sitting.

Bob braced himself into his chair at 12:01 a.m. on Tuesday, March 12, and unpretzeled himself from his perch at 6:01 p.m. on Thursday March 14, for a new squatting record of 66 hours. (The previous record of 50 hours was held by a Cornell student inspired by President Kennedy's 50-for-fitness idea.)

When asked why he chose sixty-six as the number of hours he would sit it out, Bob explained, "I just want to prove that my class, the Class of '66, is the best yet." It is reputed that some other loyal member of the Class of '66 may soon attempt a sixty-six mile walk, or cram a piano and have sixty-six of the keys still working.

As to why Bob was chosen to represent his class in the marathon sit, one of his dorm-mates explained, "He has by far the broadest qualifications. We all thought he could do the trick."

This record, like most others, will probably not last long. Bob, however, was being philosophical about it, saying that he felt he had had his share of the record-holding for awhile.

Just In Time For The Parade

David Patrick Connolly came into the world at 3:22 a.m. on St. Patrick's day in the Winchester Hospital, waved a shillelagh on high and asked the way to South Boston.

Dr. John O'Grady, officiating at the ceremony, felt a compassionate stir of heart, but was glad to be able to tell him that he could rest a day before the parade. He sent him off to the nursery to the tune of "Too-Ra Loo-Ra Loo-Ral."

DISCUSSING THE 64-ARTICLE TOWN MEETING AGENDA. Paul C. Dunn, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, and Harrison Chadwick, moderator of the Town Meeting and Winchester's representative to the General Court, discuss the Warrant agenda before opening the first session of the annual Town Meeting on Thursday night, March 14.

Local Option Laws: Inverse "Home Rule"

The State Legislature, now concerned with relieving the tax burden on the local property owner, is imposing additional property levies by violating the one issue they turn handsprings to defend — home rule.

Lawmakers already in 1963 have circumvented local machinery for controlling finances by extending "acceptance" laws, a kind of fiscal insanity they have been rollicking in for years — much to the cost of the taxpayer.

Governor Endicott Peabody has asked for an additional $105 million in revenue to aid the homeowner. Leading civic groups have demanded reform. Even the Legislature has championed the cause.

Everyone agrees, property taxes are excessive and relief is the crying need in 1963.

But in February, Gov. Peabody signed into law a bill to give communities a costly "option," the type of legislation that balds local mayors at an early age, and confuses official town governing boards.

One new law permits a community that accepts it to set a base pay scale for police officers of $5500 the first year, $6000 the second year, and $6300 thereafter.

The authority for recommending appropriations may be saddled with an additional $50,000 or $100,000 outlay or higher to figure into setting a tax rate.

In its concern for "home rule," the Legislature leaves to a more representative group, the local city council or town meeting, the authority to decide whether or not minimum pay scales for police, as suggested by the Legislature, will be the local standard.

While many communities now pay police a base salary of $5500, a lesser number pay $6000 for the second year, and only a few reach a $6300 limit.

When the local tax rate is increased by 25, 40, 50, 75 or 90 cents, whatever the case, the Legislature is not responsible because the decision was made by the local council.

The latter is not responsible because the Legislature's gift of an "option" is regarded as a mandate to act. And local pressure groups make certain they do.

In short, no one is responsible, yet everyone is irresponsible.

The House voted for this measure by almost four to one, 175 to 45, in the case of the police pay option.

The "conservative" Senate endorsed it 26 to 3, almost nine to one.

Adding insult to the taxpayers' injury, a few members of the House called the measure "basic home rule legislation."

But such groups as the Mass. Taxpayers Federation protest that it is improper legislation because it violates "home rule."

An increasing number of local councillors too, are wondering when or if the practice will slow down. The "option" laws, they recognize open the council doors to powerful and assorted pressure groups, and some city fathers resent their periodic, new-found authority over salaries.

MOVING OBJECT HITS IMMOVABLE OBJECT. A Buick convertible operated by Robert V. Guarente of 44 Church Street skidded on a patch of ice, went down an embankment, and struck the side porch of this home at 19 Hollywood Road. The car damaged the block foundation and wooden porch frame of Vincent Ambrose's home. Neither the driver nor the three passengers in the car reported any injuries in the accident at 11:25 p.m. Friday night.

Local Clinic For Anti-Polio Drink Type Two Begins

An estimated 50,000 health, school workers and volunteers will man clinics statewide during the next two weeks, which marks the beginning of the statewide Type II Polio protection campaign.

Richard F. Norris, chairman of the Board of Health, stated that all persons not previously drinking Type II are eligible. "It does not matter whether they have had drinks of Type I or Type III. Each drink is independent of the other, but all three are required for protection against all three forms of Polio," he explained.

"Poliomyelitis is caused by three viruses and medical science has developed a preventative called Sabin Oral Polio Vaccine. A drink of each vaccine is required for protection against all the specific types of polio," Mr. Norris added.

Monday March 25 from 1 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.
Tuesday March 26, from 1 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.
Friday March 29, from 1 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

Dr. Roger Burgoyne is Medical Director of the Oral Polio Clinics, and Miss Rita Plummer is director of Nursing.

Local Red Cross Director Goes To Aid In Flood Area

Red Cross surveys of the seven state area affected by the flood indicated that more than 30,000 persons were in need of emergency shelter, food and clothing.

Mrs. Moulding will be assigned to a disaster field station where she will interview flood victims and assist them with emergency needs.

The Red Cross has opened more than fifty shelters and field stations in south-eastern United States to care for the homeless.

Robert C. Edson, National Red Cross disaster director, said that flood losses may approach those of January, 1957, during which time the organization spent nearly $4,000,000 for assistance in the same area.

Ninety-Two Years Young

Ninety-two this week! That's the record for Stephen C. Burgoyne, of 12 Norwood Street, father of Butch and Dr. Roger. All are well-known stalwart citizens of the town.

Mr. Burgoyne senior has lived and is well known by many for his musicianship, having played the organ in many churches about the town. His many friends hope he will keep on racking up the years, all in good health.

Town Votes 3% Pay Increase, 48-Hour Week For Fire Dept.; Budgets Are Issues Tonight

In the first two sessions of the annual Winchester Town Meeting for 1963 the Town (1) Voted to increase the pay of all Town employees under the jurisdiction of the Personnel Board by 3% across-the-board; (2) Voted for an additional salary increase beyond the general 3% to 32 different positions in the Town Government; (3) Voted to reduce the length of the firefighters' week from 56 to 48 hours; (4) Voted to defeat an article which would raise the starting pay of police officers an additional 2% beyond the 3% general increment; (5) Voted to defeat a motion to raise the Town Clerk's salary by $500; (6) Voted to defeat a motion that would require departments to obtain authorization from the Finance Committee before deviating from personal services, capital outlay or new equipment budgetary items approved by the Town Meeting; and (7) Voted to pass all but 16 of the 64 separate Town budgets, which were deferred for close scrutiny.

The across-the-board 3% increase in employee salaries will cost the Town approximately $36,000 for the balance of 1963, beginning April 1, and figured on a full year basis will cost $48,000.

The salary increase for the 32 individual Town positions will cost the Town approximately $4,275 for the balance of 1963, as of April 1, and figured on an annual basis will cost $5,700.

The firefighters' 48-hour week will cost about $8,442 from October 6 to the end of December, and for a full year will cost $33,768.

The defeated article to raise patrolmens' pay would have cost the Town $5,437 for the balance of 1963, and would have cost $7,250 on a full year basis.

Out of 227 Town Meeting Members, 182 showed up for the first session on Thursday, March 14, in the Memorial Auditorium of the Senior High School. At the second session on Monday night, March 18, 189 out of 225 Town Meeting Members attended. The difference in the total number of Town Meeting Members stems from the resignation of three members since the Town election, one of which has been replaced by a precinct election.

March 14: First Session Town Personnel Policies, Salaries, Hours Of Work

Harrison Chadwick, Town Moderator, opened the Limited Town Meeting shortly before 8:00 p.m. with the comment that "In the last year there has been more general interest in state and local government than I have seen in all my years as Winchester's representative in the General Court." He said he was very glad to see the increased interest in government by Winchester residents, and hoped that it would continue.

The meeting began with a prayer offered by Rev. Herbert K. A. Driscoll of the Immaculate Conception Church.

The first order of business was the reports of the Town officers and the Finance Committee.

Fred F. Stockwell, chairman of the Finance Committee, read a number of facts and statistics pointing out that the spending demands at the local governmental level have been greatly increasing in the past decade, more than doubling in Winchester. He also noted that the tax rate has almost doubled in the past 10 years, and urged the Town Meeting to follow as closely as possible the recommendations set forth by the Town advisory committee on finances.

Paul C. Dunn, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, stressed economy in holding the line so the Town would not follow the state's national image of being "Taxachusetts."

Joseph C. Gray, chairman of the Planning Board, announced that the board's capital budget was not ready, but that it would be distributed when finished.

The Moderator interrupted the meeting briefly to comment upon the fact that the chairman of the Personnel Board is the only Town board member who is not a Town Meeting Member-at-Large, and that the Town should correct the erroneous situation, which does not allow this policy-making official to vote on the issues in the Town Meeting as other officials can do.

PRINCIPAL vs PRINCIPLE

The difference between the principal and principles involved in Article Four brought two of the Town's advisory boards to quick confrontation.

The Personnel Board, which advises on the wage and salary policies for all Town employees with the exception of the School Department, recommended that the Town grant "a 3% across-the-board increase for Town employees in order to place Winchester in a mid-position among a group of selected Massachusetts communities" which the board uses to judge the fairness of Winchester pay rates.

The Finance Committee, which advises on the Town's finances and on recommended Town action where finances are involved, recommended that the representatives amend the 3% motion to provide for a 2% cost of living adjustment.

PERSONNEL BOARD

John G. McElwee, chairman of the Personnel Board, prepared the board's defense of 3% by relating how the board handles the pay schedules for 360 Town employees, involving about $1,600,000 of the Town's annual budget appropriations.

The board receives about 45 requests each year for wage and salary reviews or reclassifications, he said, with approximately one third of the requests being agreed to by the board.

Town departments, employee groups, and individual persons all apply to the board for personal service increases, Mr. McElwee said. On the other side, Town committees and boards, Town Meeting Members, and individual taxpayers all yell that the board is too liberal in its approvals. "When the crescendo of Town boards, employee groups and townspeople reaches an even level then we think that we've about levelled everything and are right in our schedules," Mr. McElwee remarked.

A little later in the discussion of this article, Mr. McElwee was forced to answer the Finance Committee's objections to a 3% hike and vigorously defended the Personnel Board's recommendation.

"Every Town Meeting for 10 years has followed this Personnel Board policy-in-use of maintaining a middle position among the 15 other communities used for personal services comparison," Mr. McElwee said. "If the 3% increase in principal is not granted," he continued, "then we might as well throw the principle out the window and leave the Personnel Board without a guide rule for policy."

"I wonder if it is an equitable principle to be discussing the tax rate at the expense of all the faithful Town employees," Mr. McElwee countered one tax-conscious questioner. The 1% differential between the 2% or 3% increase being dickered over represented "only 30c on the tax rate," Mr. McElwee proclaimed. "It is a sound and consistent conservative policy recommendation," he said.

"To really even meet the mid-position we'd need between a 4% and a 6% increase in some of the categories," Mr. McElwee added to emphasize the need for a 3% rise.

OTHER SUPPORTERS

Mr. Dunn, speaking for the Board of Selectmen, said it supported the general 3% increase. Mr. Dunn said the cost of living increase in the Greater Boston area for 1962 was up 2.2%, and that the 3% Personnel Board recommendation was in order.

One Town Meeting Member rose and suggested a compromise of two and one half per cent increase.

Arthu Hewis related how up until 10 years ago the Town Meeting gave hodge-podge salary raises. A set policy is much better, he said, and "we should be advised by the policy guide of the Personnel Board and continue the policy of the past 10 years."

FINANCE COMMITTEE

Mr. Stockwell, speaking for the Finance Committee, said that the committee's investigation revealed that the actual cost of living increase during 1962 in the Greater Boston area was 1.7%. The committee's main objection to a 3% hike, said Mr. Stockwell, is that "in the past five years there has been an actual rise of 12.7% in living costs, while Winchester has granted a 24% increase in pay over the same period."

March 18: Second Session 48 Departmental Budget Items Passed; 16 Deferred

The second session of the annual Town Meeting was opened with a prayer offered by Rev. Dwight L. Cart of the First Congregational Church, and then immediately became embroiled in discussions on Article Seven, asking to grant four weeks vacation to Town employees of 20 years and more service to the Town instead of the present 30 year requirement.

Captain Michael Connolly, the employees representative on the Personnel Board, presented the case for the town's employees. He said the article would mostly affect employees who started working for the town before World War II. Their vacations, he said, would come during the light work season in their respective departments, and for this reason the cost to the town would be small, for little or no additional help would have to be hired.

"The article is allowing the older, faithful employees to have a four-week vacation at a cost of about $700 to the town," Capt. Connolly said. "In addition," he added, "Winchester is just about the only community among the 15 that the Personnel Board usually gauges the relativity of our policies to that has kept the requirement at 30 years service." Twelve others give four weeks after 20 years, one gives four weeks after 15 years, and of the two remaining who don't give four weeks after 20 years, one is considering granting it this week, Capt. Connolly pointed out.

FINANCE COMMITTEE

Fred F. Stockwell, chairman of the Finance Committee, said 22 employees are now given a four-week vacation after 30 years of service. "This article would open the door for an additional 28 employees to be included," he said. The exact cost to the town would be $725, but the town would lose about $3,205 in terms of labor not worked, he said.

SELECTMEN

Paul C. Dunn, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, said the loss of labor to the town would be about $5,800 in the board's calculations, because seven police and eight firemen would be included and their hours of labor would have to be put in by paid substitutes.

Mr. Dunn went on to say: "Your town and state have allowed greater fringe benefits to employees than industry gives its employees." Comparatively, he noted, while industry has given about 17 to 20% increases in fringe benefits, Winchester has given about 30 to 33%.

"The board does not advocate greater liberalization of the fringe benefits," Mr. Dunn said.

PERSONNEL BOARD

John McElwee, chairman of the Personnel Board, got up to defend the article. "To tell a story," he said, "I tell my wife if we can't eat it, don't buy it," and the same principle operates on the Personnel Board, he inferred.

"But let's look at the out-of-pocket cost," Mr. McElwee said. "The out-of-pocket cost would be about $725, no more than $800," he said. Therefore, the Personnel Board recommended that the article be passed.

AMENDMENT

Frank D. Hawkins made a motion that the article be amended to make those employees serving 25 years or more eligible for the four-week vacation, substituting the 25 for the 20 years written in the article.

The motion for amendment was carried by an 89 to 77 vote.

THE VOTE

A standing vote was taken on the amended article, and the article was passed with 93 voting for it and 69 against it.

In a follow-up interview with James Costello, town accountant, Mr. Costello said that with the amended 25-year provision in the accepted article, 12 town employees not now given four-week vacations would be eligible to receive the full month this year. The direct cost to the town will be $725, and the cost in terms of hours not worked for the town will be about $2,500.

ARTICLE 8 MOTION

Mr. Stockwell announced that the Finance Committee wished to make a motion to add an amendment onto Article 8, which deals with town departments and board budget appropriations. The motion immediately generated a great deal of heat and opposition from town department heads, board chairmen, and several Town Meeting Members, who said they considered the motion illegal, an infringement on the independent rights and powers of the departments and boards, and that it was an improper assumption of executive powers by an appointed town advisory committee.

THE MOTION

The Finance Committee's motion read: "Moved: That in connection with all appropriations made under this article a policy is hereby established:

"1. No expenditures shall be incurred by any officer, board, department or committee for personal services for any position that has not been previously set forth or listed in the budget filed with the Finance Committee without first obtaining authorization therefore from the Finance Committee.

"2. No expenditures shall be incurred by any officer, board, department or committee for capital outlay or new equipment out of funds appropriated for capital outlay or new equipment other than those set forth or listed in the budget filed with the Finance Committee without first obtaining authorization from the Finance Committee."

OPPOSITION

Mr. Dunn said the Board of Selectmen was against the motion. "It should not be necessary for these things to have to pass through an advisory body," he said.

If any problems arise in the expenditures of departmental or board budgets, Mr. Dunn said, "It is a matter of administration rather than of Town policy." "The Town should not impose these restrictions on elected officials and boards," he said.

Mrs. Blackham Reports on GOP Women's Meeting

Mrs. James W. Blackham, Jr. of the Winchester Women's Republican Club attended the annual spring meeting of the Massachusetts Federation of Republican Women in Falmouth last Wednesday, March 13, at the Coonamessett Inn. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bonnell were honor guests at the meeting.

Bruce K. Chapman, 23 year old publisher of Advance magazine highlighted the one-day session speaking on the "Confessions of a Progressive Republican."

"Republicans should honestly examine their differences," said Chapman, "to find out just what they are and to see if they can be resolved or ratified."

Chapman said he had a realistic hope that President Kennedy, "can be defeated in 1964, and that in the long run the GOP, by attending to its opportunities in the cities and the urban South, could again become the majority party in America."

He closed with his version of a new Frontier motto: "Ask not what you can do for your country, do as you're told."

The morning session was devoted to briefings on the Precinct Education Program (PEP), a program designed by the GOP Congressional committee, is primarily to organize party workers to personally contact voters in their neighborhoods.

Mrs. Blackham, Mass. Conference chairman, spoke on the upcoming convention of Republican Women in Washington, D. C. on April 25.

Mrs. Edward W. Brooke, wife of the Commonwealth's Attorney General was a guest of honor at the luncheon with Mr. and Mrs. Bonnell.

Edward Harney, Mrs. Mabel Harney Of Arlington

The sudden death of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Harney of Arlington which happened Saturday when their automobile went out of control and hit a tree near their home on Robbins Road, saddened their many friends in this town.

Mrs. (Mabel) Harney was the first cousin of George Campbell of Washington Street and John Campbell of Nathaniel Road here. Mr. Harney died instantly on impact and Mrs. Harney died three hours after in the Symmes Hospital. It is believed that the tragedy took place when the car brakes failed and Mrs. Harney drove into a tree to avoid going down into the Massachusetts Avenue traffic.

Mr. Harney was 64 years of age and had retired from work with the Boston Globe three weeks prior to the accident. Mrs. Harney was 57 and was still associated with the General Motors Company in Boston.

Manzie Honored As M. V. P.

Frank Manzie of Saint Mary's Winchester was named to the C.Y.O. League's Most Valuable Player Squad at an award assembly held last Wednesday at C. Y.O. Headquarters in Boston.

After starting out as a spare forward three years ago, Manzie's hustling two-way style of play earned him a spot on last years first line with former M. V. P. Jim Moran. This year the slap shooting left winger was skating the port side of the Cunningham, Stabile line where his late season scoring spree helped put his club in the playoffs.

Flag Raising Held Saturday By the V.F.W.

This flag had been flown over the United States Capital in Washington, D. C. and was presented to Commander George S. Wyman, Jr. by Congressman F. Bradford Morse, through the efforts of Sherman W. Saltmarsh, Jr., past chairman of the Winchester board of selectman.

A contingent from the Immaculate Conception Drum Corps Color Guard accompanied Francis Flahive, who played "To The Colors" as the flag was being raised. The Aberjona Post's recently outfitted color guard conducted the ceremony with past Commander Robert Swymer introducing Massachusetts department Commander William Turnbull and senior vice Commander Joseph Anderson to those in attendance.

Following the ceremony, Aberjona Post was honored by being the host post for a meeting of the department of Massachusetts council of administration presided over by department Commander William Turnbull.

After the meeting, a baked ham dinner was served to the 85 members in attendance and rave notices were given by all for the "John Di Bona" ham and the splendid job done by Mrs. Gertrude Horn, president, and the rest of the girls of the auxiliary.

Polymnia Presents "King David"

On Sunday April 7 at 4 p.m. in Memorial Hall Melrose, Polymnia Choral Society presents as its 11th annual Spring Concert the Symphonic Psalm "King David." Arthur Honegger. Chorus, orchestra and soloists will be under the direction of Keith L. Phinney of Winchester.

The soloists will be Elisabeth Phinney soprano; Nalora Steel, contralto, C. Ray Bryan, tenor, Philip D. Cabot, narrator. Among the members of the orchestra from this town are Robert Mingolelli, trumpet; Nancy Ryder, violin; Robert Jones and Wendell Withington, Timpani, Frances R. Cabot, organ.

This music was composed in 1921 as the setting for the Biblical drama "David the King" by French dramatist Rene Morax. Its five acts represented the five stages in the life of the hero; shepherd, leader, war chief, prophet and king. A work of both intense drama and lyrical beauty, seldom heard in this country, music lovers and friends of Polymnia can look forward to an outstanding experience on April 7.

Home Rule

Legislators merely argue that they are leaving the decision to the local government — usually another branch of it — and that by enacting the "option" they are expressing their feelings.

All of which circumvents the municipal finance law or local charter provisions that set up machinery for handling such expensive decisions without resorting to the help of the State Legislature.

Also, the General Court has its own machinery for voicing, without imposing, its will — the resolution.

This "acceptance" or "permissive" or "optional" legislation is no less than a very real tax imposition, diplomatically referred to as an "increased fixed cost" or an "increased uncontrollable assessment."

Since its inception, this sort of permissive legislation has snowballed to its present proportions, involving salaries for police and firemen, pensions, annuities and generous health and accident insurance plans.

They cost the taxpayers of Massachusetts millions of dollars each year.

And if past performances of the Legislature is a guide for future "options," hundreds of thousands of dollars more will be added in 1964 or before the close of the 1963 session.

Toastmistress Club Debates

The regular meeting of the Winchester Toastmistress Club was held at the common room of the Church of the Epiphany in Winchester on Monday, March 11. President of the club, Mrs. Peter J. Pierson presided. Charter member, Miss Hilda Hope of Winchester was present and also a guest for the evening, Mrs. Joseph Cervone of Medford.

The inspiration was given by Mrs. James Papadinis of Winchester.

During the business portion of the meeting the candidates names for national offices were read and voted upon. The election of the national officers will take place at the annual convention, to be held this year on June 7, 8, and 9, in Cincinnati, Ohio. Mrs. James Papadinis, vice-chairman of Council 5, will attend the convention.

Mrs. Alfred J. Quimby of Medford, program chairman, announced that a joint meeting is to be held on April 3 with the Cedar Acres Club of Reading.

Mrs. Pierson will appoint a committee to plan the installation banquet which will be held in June. The new officers of the Winchester club will then be installed for the coming year.

All members spoke briefly on the evenings topic, "What well known personality would you like to meet and what would you like to gain from your meeting?" Topic mistress was Mrs. Walter D. Thorenson of Medford.

An educational program was presented. Miss Frances T. Dineen of Medford was the toastmistress. Debate and discussion was the theme of the talk given by Mrs. Jay Harris of Medford. Many points of issue on the subject were clarified as well as their differences and proper use.

A most interesting and enlightening presentation by Mrs. Charles P. DelGaudio, also of Medford, was given on praise and its importance in speaking. How to attain the title of a good listener and its attributes was the subject of the talk given by Mrs. John D. Ingalls of Arlington. An exercise in listening was demonstrated by Mrs. Joseph M. Dagnese of Medford.

Guests are most sincerely welcomed and information will be given by contacting Mrs. John D. Ingalls, publicity chairman, at MI 3-0831.

Parents See Film On Camping At 503 Meeting

Last week Monday the scouts of Troop 503 held a parents night at the troop headquarters in Chidley Hall of the First Congregational Church.

At the first session of the program, a regular scout meeting, the parents were able to see some of the functions of a scout troop in action, as well as what is expected of their boys as a member of this group.

The climax was a court of honor held under the capable direction of Scoutmaster C. A. Allen, and his assistants, Messrs. Frank Bower and William Schmink, Jr. The following boys received their advancement awards. Tenderfoot went to Thomas Mumma, Peter Lane, Danny Oliver, Paul Enright and Ted Webb. Second Class went to Dennis Ross, Paul Forte, Bruce Buchanan and Bruce Leonard. Merit badges to Jim Sauber and Peter Horton.

The mothers or fathers were asked to present the badges to the boys, and Scoutmaster Allen congratulated the troop as a whole on the fine progress made this year.

Mr. Allen then explained the future plans for hiking and camping, which led into the second part of the meeting, a film presented by the camp promotion committee of the Minuteman Council.

It was a striking color film depicting the routine and activities at Camps Sachem and Parker Mountain in New Hampshire. To improve on the informative nature of the film, Eagle Scout Steve Butterfield interspersed enjoyable comments. A general open discussion was held after which everyone left having spent an enlightening two hours with their sons at a good Boy Scout meeting.

The Planning For Parenthood Is Subject of Talk

The Winchester Jr. Circle of the Florence Crittenton League held its spring meeting on Tuesday evening, March 19, at the home of Mrs. Richard T. Nelson of 22 Mayflower Road. Mrs. Donald J. Fritch president, presided over the business meeting. It was announced by the ways and means chairman, Mrs. Galen S. Vincent, that the annual spring dance, namely "Apple Blossom Time" will be held at the Winchester Town Hall on Friday evening, May 3 from 9:00 p.m. to 1:00 a.m. to the music of the "Six Pages of Dixie."

Following the business meeting, Mrs. Richard W. Griswold, executive director of the Planned Parenthood League for Connecticut, gave a most interesting talk on "Planned Parenthood in Social Action."

The Planned Parenthood League's main objective is to provide young people with the knowledge and insight necessary for good family living and responsible parenthood. Expanded programs of education and preparation are needed, the League believes. The League also renders invaluable service by making such programs available and by encouraging churches, schools and other organizations to sponsor marriage education courses. The League feels that this type of professional guidance assures a more stable and wholesome community for all, through lower divorce rates, fewer broken homes, fewer families on relief and fewer slums.

In 48 states (with the exception of Connecticut and Massachusetts) medical birth control care is provided through health clinics, Planned Parenthood Leagues, Public Health Departments and individual hospitals. These clinics make it possible for parents to space their children in such a way as to insure the health of the mother and child, and have their babies when they can best afford to feed and clothe them, according to the League.

Many experts around the world feel that planned parenthood is the best solution to the explosive population boom. In such areas such as Asia, South American and Africa, population planning is a necessity for survival. Starvation wipes out millions of human beings and drives others toward communism and war. The International Planned Parenthood Federation helps the governments of these areas plan population control measures.

The Planned Parenthood League of Connecticut has been in operation since 1923 and is entirely supported by voluntary contributions with medical assistance. It's primary function is to get the present birth control law changed by the legislature.

Mrs. Richard J. Levi, executive director of the Crittenton Hastings House, a guest of the Winchester Circle, gave her views on the subject, based on her earlier experiences with the Planned Parenthood League in New York. Questions and discussion followed the excellent and stimulating talk. At the close of the meeting Mrs. Emmons S. Ellis and her committee served delicious refreshments and Mrs. A. Lane McGovern and Mrs. Louis A. Zehner, Jr. poured.

Unitarian Church Hosts March 27 Lenten Service

On Wednesday evening March 27 the Lenten mid-week services of the Winchester Protestant churches will be held at the Unitarian Church with Dr. Robert A. Storer leading in worship.

The sermon will be given by Reverend Theodore Webb, executive director of the Bay Council of Unitarian and Universalist Churches. Reverend Webb and his family moved from Haverhill to Pond Street here this fall. He and his family are active in the town and the local church.

Preceding the service a special program of sacred music will be given by the senior choir of the church in the chancel with Mary Ranton Witham, directing. The musical program will commence at 7:25 p.m. and will feature the quartet and male chorus.

Offerings taken at these services are used by the Ministerial Association to further the joint work of our young people and church school teachers. The Massachusetts Council of Churches and the General Theological Library are also benefited.

Soloists for the pre-service music will be members of the Unitarian quartet, Estelle McNeeley, soprano; Margaret Worcester, contralto; William Jeffrey, tenor and Sidney C. Blanchard, Jr., baritone.

The program will be sung as follows. From the Messiah, "Behold the Lamb of God," choir; "He Was Despised," contralto, and "Surely He Hath Borne Our Griefs," choir.

Then "Come Everyone That Thirsteth," Elijah, Mendelssohn, by the quartet, followed by two Dubois numbers "God My Father,", baritone and "Today Thou Wilt Be in Paradise," tenor, baritone and choir. It will conclude with the Rheinberger "Evening Hymn," by the male choir. Mrs. Witham is organist as well as choirmaster at the church.

The History Of Learning in Book By Lynch Class

Thirty-one students in a Lynch School 8th grade English class have made a major contribution to their school's library.

They have researched, written and put together in book form a series of articles developing the "Progress of Education: Through the Ages and Around the World." They accomplished the project under the direction of teacher Judith Horowitz.

The book, which contains 238 type written pages, begins with an introduction to the process of learning, which draws a very scholarly framework for the ensuing articles. The motor-perceptual learning abilities of the amoeba begin the description which follows through to a definition of the nerve pathways in man's mind and the use he makes of these.

Historical articles follow telling of learning in Greece, Rome, the Middle Ages, Colonial America and modern times. And in addition there are presentations of educational theory such as the Montessori Method and education of the deaf and blind and descriptive articles of representative schools and colleges.

Town Meeting Commentary . . . Impressions And Opinions

Last week's editorial comment on the nature of the Town Meeting was so well borne out in just the first two sessions that it bears repeating:

The Town Meeting "is the time when local politics smashes out into the open; and governmental departments and boards, civic groups and organizations, and personal interests and ambitions, all vie with one another and each other for gaining the common taxpayers dollar or representatively voted policy guide. We will witness the simplest, and yet best example, of pressure politics in action here at the local level in the next few weeks."

The 48 Hour Work Week Question. The firefighters conducted an extremely well organized and smooth campaign to obtain their objective of reducing the length of the work week in the Fire Department from 56 to 48 hours. They had facts, statistics, and the human element......sympathy......on their side. They drove hard with the ammunition they had, and appealed for what they didn't have......the 48-hour week. Their campaign was well advertised in letters to the Star, posters and mailed circulars, talks to precinct and private meetings, and they even appeared on a radio show.

The "Making of the President" had nothing exceeding the political savvy, smoothness of operation, and the coup d'etat of this maneuver. For the firefighters were bucking a united "city hall," and they knew it. The Finance Committee the Board of Selectmen and the Personnel Board were all against the article.

The firefighters won their issue even despite the fact that they were appearing before the Town without their leader, or chief, vanguarding their support. The Fire Chief's absence was particularly noticeable during the heat of battle; it was even more noticeable in the cheers of victory.

The Winchester firefighters are pleased with themselves, and rightly so, for it was a justifiable victory in the light of the statistical and human facts involved in the issue. It may be added here that the morale of the Fire Department is very much higher now than it has been for a few years. This is good for the Town.

The Patrolmen's Salary Raise Question. In comparison with the well organized and smooth campaign by the firefighters for their cause, the fight for a $250 raise for 29 police officers appeared unorganized, disoriented, and even yielded impressions of lacking total departmental support.

Never a word was heard from the patrolmen at the Star, where they had equal opportunity to write letters to the editor or discuss the issue. Only the sergeants and lieutenants appeared to be pushing for their junior employees.

Again, a united "city hall" opposed this article in the Warrant, but where organization, drive and enthusiasm paid off for the firefighters, the lack of these same efforts in the Police Department resulted in defeat.

Another contrast: whereas the Fire Chief did not appear to support his men in their interests, the Police Chief was there to give at least partial support. It is difficult to say whether the Chief was just not used to speaking before a large audience (and it wasn't as large as it should have been by 45 persons!), or whether he had not prepared an enthusiastic, hard-selling pitch for his patrolmen. At any rate, while the Police Chief was obviously not staking his life on the article for a patrolman's raise, and he has been heard to speak extremely effectively on some issues, the Chief was at least there to say something on behalf of the patrolmen in his department.

The 3 per cent General Raise Question. While it must have been extremely disconcerting for the Town Meeting Members who had to vote on the issue, it was extremely interesting from an objective political observer's point of view to watch three Town power boards, the Finance Committee, the Board of Selectmen, and the Personnel Board, all get up and quote three entirely different statistical cost of living indices for the Greater Boston area during 1962 to "enlighten" the Town Meeting Members on why the Town should either grant a 2 per cent or a 3 per cent across-the-board raise to all Town employees.

The Finance Committee said the cost of living rise in the area was 1.7 per cent, and therefore a 2 per cent general increase was satisfactory.

The Board of Selectmen said the rise in 1962 was 2.2 per cent, and therefore supported the Personnel Board's advocacy of a 3 per cent pay hike to all Town employees.

The Personnel Board abandoned the percentages as a lost argument, and stood on the 15 town comparison gauge guide that the board uses in establishing its wages and salaries. In effect, the Personnel Board told the Town Meeting, "If you're not with us, you're agin us," and the Personnel Board might then just as well toss its principle of relating Winchester salary schedules to those of nearby similar (and in a minor way, competitor) towns out the window......with the Personnel Board leaving in the same fashion.

But when all was said and done, the Town in all fairness granted a 3 per cent pay hike to its employees.

The Finance Committee Motion For Authorization Power Question. In what the sharp-eyed and politically conscious Town Meeting Members and Members-at-Large decried as a Machiavellian fox-like maneuver, the Finance Committee tried to railroad what it felt was a good motion through the Town Meeting.

Actually, the Finance Committee was caught between the lion and the dragon of the issue. The Finance Committee was attempting to get the Town Meeting to correct a loophole in the Town's operating appropriations so that department heads could not go haywire with the budgets once they are approved by the Town, for technically they do not have to stick 100 per cent to the items budgeted for but can deviate the appropriations in any way they see fit. Unfortunately, the motion to correct this loophole meant the Finance Committee, an advisory body, would have to assume executive and administrative control powers over departments beyond the scope of its normal advisory functions, and this was distasteful to the majority of the Town's representatives.

Arthur Hewis' suggestion that a Town Manager form of government in Winchester would solve the problem the Finance Committee was trying to deal with was absolutely correct. However, the mood of the Town is definitely against having a Town Manager, so it is senseless to debate it at this time.

It is doubtful that the Finance Committee was purely attempting to grab raw power over the departments, although this is exactly what the motion might have resulted in if it had been passed. However, the Board of Selectmen, the School Committee, the Water and Sewer Board and the Board of Health all had representatives get up and damn the motion as a taking of power from the many departments and giving it to the one Finance Committee. The boards and departments were clearly afraid that the Finance Committee would either infringe too much on departmental and board policies, or else would delay so long in granting authorization for personal services, capital outlay or new equipment budget changes that they would hamstring their operations. Arthur Hewis' prediction that such a powerful grip by the Finance Committee over the town boards and departments would make it "a super-committee of 15 men" was a bit of superlative color over the plain political issue of power: who should be invested with the control of "authorization?"

The Town Clerk's Salary Raise Question. When, again that name crops up, Arthur Hewis moved that the Town Meeting grant the Town Clerk a $500 pay raise, a great discussion ensued.

What came out of the big discussion was about what went into it, nothing but confusion.

And the resulting vote was a beautiful example of uninformed sheep following the herd leaders.

To say that all the Town Meeting Members let this one slip by them when they had a chance to have done what they should have done would be like throwing stones at those who don't understand why the stones are being cast.

The simple fact of the matter was this.

Article Eight calls for the Town "To raise and appropriate money to fix the salary and compensation of all elective officers of the Town, as provided by Section 108 of Chapter 41 of the General Laws, as amended, namely Town Treasurer, Assessors and Town Clerk, and to take any other action in relation thereto."

What does that mean? It means very clearly that the Town Meeting has the right and duty to set the salary for the Town Clerk.

Lost in the shuffle were varying opinions that it was the Finance Committee's job to establish the Town Clerk's salary within the personal services recommendation for the Town Clerk's budget. The Finance Committee said it had not received an opinion from the Personnel Board and therefore left it out of the budget recommendation.

The Personnel Board said it had not had a formal request from the Town Clerk for a salary review, but had only seen the $500 budget increase request for personal services. On later questioning the Personnel Board said it would not hasten its "continuing review of wages and salaries of Town employees," in order to give a decision on this before the end of the Town Meeting sessions.

The Town Counsel should have clarified the issue then and there. According to the law, as it is written below, it was neither the duty of the Finance Committee nor the Personnel Board to set the Town Clerk's salary, but rather the task of the Town Meeting, which job the Town Meeting Members relinquished Monday night in deference to the Personnel Board's implied request that the board handle all Town personnel matters to the exclusion of the Town Meeting's interference.

Chapter 41, Section 108, which is referred to in Article Eight, says: "The salary and compensation of all elected officers of a town shall be fixed annually by vote of the town......"

To further prove that it was the job of Monday night's Town Meeting to grant the Town Clerk a raise if it felt it was justified, Chapter 41, Section 108A reads: "a town by-law (we have a Personnel Board) may establish, and from time to time amend, a plan classifying any or all positions, other than those filled by popular election......"

In other words, an elected Town official is in a special category in so far as either classification or salary is concerned. It is not under the jurisdiction of the Personnel Board or Finance Committee to control the elected official, the department as a whole maybe, but not the official's position and salary, that is the job of the Town Meeting.

State Disburses $121 Million To Cities and Towns

Massachusetts cities and towns will receive about $15,900,000 more from the Commonwealth this year than in 1962, the State Department of Corporations and Taxation estimates.

Although no additional sources of revenue have been added, the estimates of the 1963 "Cherry Sheet" are about $3.4 million more than the amount needed to take up an erroneous estimate last year.

The State Tax Commissioner promulgated a 1962 estimate that was $12.5 million shy of the actual distribution figures.

The cherry sheet is a major factor in computing local tax rates.

It lists assessments against the community and revenues to be received from the state that can be expected by cities and towns.

The estimated distribution of $121,400,000 as compared with the $105,500,000 estimated in 1962, is due to "an increase in the estimated yield of corporation and income taxes," said Leo E. Diehl, tax commissioner.

Local assessors now will begin the final phase of setting the tax rates.

Winchester is slated to receive $506,819.75 from the state in disbursements according to the Cherry sheet estimate released last week.

Legislature Votes Abolishment Of State Poll Tax

The Republican leader of the House was backed by only 22 votes in his attempt to stop passage of a bill to repeal the poll tax.

The House voted 185 to 23 to abolish the $2 male head tax. The Senate has already given its approval.

Rep. Sidney Q. Curtiss of Sheffield, GOP Leader, said that abolishing the tax that produces $2 million in revenue each year in the state is inadvisable.

In Southern states, he said, the tax is a prerequisite for voting. In Massachusetts, it produces revenue.

But Democratic Whip Robert H. Quinn of Boston said it costs more to collect the tax than the state receives from it for financing local government. He called the tax regressive.

On the question of passing the bill to abolish the poll tax, voting "yes" was Rep. Harrison Chadwick of Winchester.

License Validity Of Fortunes Told?

Following passage of a bill in the Senate to license fortune-telling, Senator William E. Hays (R) of Waltham wondered, "Mr. President, would this mean that by licensing fortune-telling the law would recognize the prediction as being valid?..."

Veterans Against Hiding Memorial War Honor Roll

Editor of the Star:

We of Aberjona Post No. 3719 Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, want to thank you for your editorial in the March 14 edition of the Winchester Star on the uses of money. We heartily agree that it would be a waste of money to buy a new war memorial honor roll and then hide it away in the foyer of the High School Auditorium as suggested by the Finance Committee under Article 16 of their report to the annual representative town meeting.

We have been in close communication with the Board of Selectmen on the proposed memorial and plans have been submitted to us by the chairman which show a suitable memorial at a nominal cost and one which we strongly endorse. We were asked where we thought this memorial should be located, and the Board of Selectmen agreed with us that it should be placed on the Town Hall grounds near the flag pole.

We admire the Finance Committee for their efforts to suggest possible and potential savings in cost, but we feel that the war memorial honor roll is not one of those places to start cutting costs.

Yours in comradeship,
George S. Wyman, Jr.
Commander.

The Red Cross Pays a Tribute To Miss Jewett

Editor of the Star:

In the death of A. Natalie Jewett the Winchester Chapter of the American Red Cross has lost a true friend and a loyal worker. Miss Jewett had many interests and contributed of her time and energy to many organizations, but we in Red Cross have always felt that this was her very special interest, that through the years, as other people came and went in the chapter, Miss Jewett was Red Cross.

One of the founders of the Winchester chapter in 1921, she completed forty years of service in 1961. At that time the chapter, as a measure of its deep appreciation of her work, presented her with a Paul Revere bowl, suitably inscribed to honor this unusual record of service.

Miss Jewett, in the capacity of Home Service chairman, was an active member of the board of directors of the Red Cross for many years. She became chairman of Home Service long before World War II, and in that position endeared herself to men in the armed forces and their families. To many a serviceman for whom illness in his family at home necessitated an emergency leave, Miss Jewett was the Red Cross representative who secured the appropriate orders from the armed forces. Large numbers of Winchester families remember Miss Jewett's wise counsel when problems arose in families whose husbands and sons were overseas in World War II or the Korean war.

Seldom does one person make so great a contribution to an organization as that made by Natalie Jewett to the Winchester Red Cross.

Newbery And Caldecott Awards

Top honors in the field of children's literature were conferred this week on the author Madeleine L'Engel and the artist Ezra Jack Keats as the announcement was made naming them the winners of the Newbery and Caldecott medals.

The Newbery Medal is awarded annually to the author of the most distinguished contribution to American literture for children. It was in 1921, at a meeting of the American Library Association at the New Ocean House in Swampscott, that Frederick G. Melcher of the R. R. Bowker Publishing Company first conceived the idea of this award, and offered to give the medal to encourage more creative work among writers for children. He named the medal for John Newbery the 18th century English printer and bookseller who was the first to publish books especially for children.

It was not until 1937 that the Caldecott Award became a reality. Again Mr. Melcher was the instigator and donor. This medal is awarded annually to the artist for the most distinguished American picture book for children, and it was appropriately named for Randolph Caldecott, the 19th century English illustrator.

Thus Mrs. L'Engle and Mr. Keats, this year's medal winners, join the long list of outstanding authors and artists. Mrs. L'Engle's book A Wrinkle In Time is a combination of family and pseudo-scientific novel with excitement and suspense to please a wide range of readers. The runners up for this Newbery Award were: Thistle And Thyme by Sorche Nic Leodhas, a collection of Scottish folk tales; and Men Of Athens by Olivia Coolidge, short stories depicting life during the Golden Age of Athens.

Ezra Keat's book The Snowy Day is a delightful winter picture book showing the fun that a little boy can have in the "deep deep snow." The runners up for this Caldecott Award were: The Sun Is A Golden Earring illustrated by Bernarda Bryson and Mr. Rabbit And The Lively Present illustrated by Maurice Sendak.

For all parents who are genuinely concerned with children's reading, I heartily recommend the book History Of The Newbery And Caldecott Medals by Irene Smith. This is a fascinating book giving the background of the medals, the people involved, and recollections and comments by many of the winners. After reading this I am sure that parents will join the children's Librarians across the country each March as they eagerly anticipate the announcement of the award winners.

Winchester Started As A Part Of Charlestown In 1633

The brook near the Country Club is commonly known as Indian Brook. Tradition says that the Squa drowned herself in its waters in about 1662, though others believed her death occurred some years previous.

Following the death of Nanepashemet his widow married the medicine man or the Pow Wow, Webcowets, the several deeds signed by the Squa Indian being also signed by her second husband. The first deed recorded, bearing the date 1636, testifies that:

"I the Sachem who have rights and possessions of the ground which I reserved from Charlestown and Cambridge which lies against the ponds of Mysticke, with the ponds, I do freely give to Jotham Gibbons," etc.

Jotham Gibbons, then three years old, was the son of Major Edward Gibbons and the consideration of the deed was "the many kindnesses of him and his."

Early in 1639 the Squa Sachem "sold unto the inhabitants of Charlestown all the lands within the line granted them by the court, excepting the farms and grounds on the west side of the two great ponds called the Mysticke Ponds which the Squa reserveth to their use for her life for the Indians to plant and hunt upon," etc.

Provision was made for the disposition of her lands after her death by the Governor and the Messrs. Nowell, Wilson and Gibbons. This probably is the deed upon which the town of Charlestown based its claim, but later in 1639, the Squa Sachem and Webcowets, her husband—

"Bearing in mind the many kindnesses and benefits they had received from Captain Edward Gibbons and for their tender love and good respect which they bore Jotham Gibbons, son and heir apparent of said Gibbons"—gave and granted unto Jotham Gibbons

"The reversion of all that parcel of land which lies against the ponds of Mysticke together with said ponds, all of which they had reserved from Charlestown and Cambridge."

The deed was acknowledged before Governor Winthrop, Deputy Governor Endicott and two other magistrates and distinctly states—and they did not sell it to Charlestown.

About 1650, the Squa Sachem, having died, Major Edward Gibbons took possession of the land for his son, who was then a minor. In 1655 Jotham Gibbons mortgaged the land to Joshua Scottow. Two years afterward Captain Scarlett paid off the mortgage "on behalf of his wife."

During the next year, 1658, Captain Scarlett leased the land to one Thomas Gleison, ancestor of the Gleison family of Winchester and West Medford.

Gleison was forced to fight four law suits in order to protect the title of Captain Scarlett to this land, which was claimed by Charlestown, but the last suit, in 1663, was decided in favor of Gleison. The next year Scarlett brought suit against Gleison for waste of property, claiming the latter had cut down too many trees. The court decided in favor of Scarlett and the lease was cancelled, Gleison being obliged to move away.

At his death Captain Scarlett bequeathed the land to Love Proutie, nee Gibbons, daughter of that Jotham Gibbons for whom the Squa Sachem had originally reserved the land. She afterward married Rev. John Fowle.

Following her death in Bermuda in 1701, she having left no will, the farm was by order of the court in 1706 divided into nine sections that each of her children (one son and seven daughters) might have his share, the ninth going for court expenses.

The subsequent history is to be found in the records of Middlesex County. It is of interest that one of the writs served in connection with the case, the Town of Charlestown vs. Thomas Gleison, was served by William Symmes, an ancestor of the Symmes family which for many years had lived at Symmes Corner and for which that particular part of the town is named.

Highway Through Town

The highway from Woburn to Mistick Bridge (Medford) passed through the center of the present Town of Winchester, and there is a report of the laying out of the way in 1660. It had however existed as a highway as early as 1646 and evidently as early as the building of the first house upon it in 1640.

It was described in part as the highway from "Woburn Meeting House" to "Edward Converse's Mill" and the "parting of the ways of the Converses and Richardsons to their dwelling houses" is mentioned.

Through Winchester it "ran along upon a brow" until it came to a bridge "made at a place called half-way swamp." The bounds were marked trees on one or both sides, or in the middle of the way.

The "Mill Pond" and "Corne Mill" of Edward Converse are mentioned in connection with this highway, also the "enclosure" belonging to him, and his "old orchard" and the "mill-dam," The whole way was practically a forest path.

Thursday Session

"The 2% across-the-board level will keep us under the median position," he asserted, "but our employees will still be well set, especially with the 32-B health benefit plan adopted last year."

INDIVIDUAL PAY HIKES

Also coming under Article Four were Personnel Board provisions for individual wage and salary adjustments for 32 Town positions.

The biggest adjustment was the reclassification involved in having a part-time Board of Health agent become a full-time agent. Michael Saraco's salary as agent was raised from $3,172 to $6,800.

Also reclassified due to additionally assigned responsibilities was James Costello, town accountant. The increase was from $8,041 to $8,600.

The third significant adjustment recommended was increases to sergeants, lieutenants and captains in the Police and Fire Departments. Police Sergeants rose from $6,074 to $6,276. Police Lieutenants rose from $6,790 to $6,924. Fire Lieutenants rose from $6,074 to $6,276. Fire Captains rose from $6,790 to $6,924.

Mr. McElwee told the Town Meeting that the sergeants, lieutenants and captains pay raises were necessary to adjust their relative positions within the table of organization of the Police and Fire Departments.

THE VOTE

When put to the vote by the Moderator, the "ayes" significantly carried the motion as originally worded in Article Four for a 3% general pay increase to all Town employees, and for the 32 individual pay hikes.

NO POLICE INCREASE

Under Article Five, asking for increases in the rates of annual compensation to be paid to the police officers of the Town, John A. Dolan said that the $250 increase to patrolmen would mainly benefit 26 out of 36 patrolmen who are already at the police maximum. "This increase is for a mature group," he said.

"The source of our patrolmen is Winchester young men," Mr. Dolan said. "But in the last Civil Service exam for police appointment, out of six men taking the exam, only three passed, two were not physically qualified and one went to New York to become a policeman there," he said.

"And in the last two years," Mr. Dolan continued, "four candidates for patrolmen chose to go with the State Police, where the starting salary is $6,300 as opposed to the $5,464 Winchester rate, two chose to go with the MDC police for the same reason, and one went with the Registry of Motor Vehicles."

Mr. Stockwell said that the Town had already voted a 3% general Town employee raise, and that although the Finance Committee was concerned with the competitive angle of a patrolman's salary for recruiting, this singling out of a department and giving the patrolmen an additional 2% pay hike would be a discriminatory raising of salaries.

Herbert Lord requested permission to speak to the Town Meeting.

After relating a few sentimental nostalgics, Mr. Lord said that the 3% across-the-board pay raise just given to all Town employees was "a 3% skin flint raise." And, he added, that in the 17 years he has lived in the Town, when anyone asked him where he lived, he would reply "I live in snooty-tooty-town."

"Winchester is overabundant with its school teachers pay," he said, "but when it comes to the protective departments Winchester is skin flints with its protective departments. How many of the teachers that teach in the schools actually live here or even care what happens in Winchester?" he questioned. "They aren't even dedicated," he challenged.

A long dissertation then followed, in which Mr. Lord prefaced an intention to read a letter, saying that he was taking the Star to court in claims of $10,000 damages for not printing an earlier letter he had written to the Star. "And I'll get it too," he said, "for I'm the best lawyer in the state; and I don't mind sounding my own horn, because if I don't no one else will," he said.

"I'd like to read you a letter that I wrote to the Star, which they wouldn't print because they said it was libelous . . ." Mr. Lord started. Then, amid sounds of laughter from the assembled Town Meeting Members, the five-minute alarm bell sounded, and the Town Moderator asked the speaker to be seated.

Mr. Lord paid no attention to the Town Moderator and attempted to continue reading his letter at the open meeting.

Mr. Chadwick banged the gavel several times.

Mr. Hewis rose to his feet, with a smile on his face, and moved that the Town Meeting grant the speaker five additional minutes to read his letter. Amid the chortling of several Town Meeting Members a vote was taken, but the "nays" had it, and Mr. Chadwick asked the speaker to leave the speaker's stand.

"Thank you for your confidence!" Mr. Lord hurled at the assembled group of Town representatives.

"Don't you want to hear the truth you snooty skin flints?" he challenged.

"Go ahead Moderator," he added, "get the police to throw me out!"

Mr. Chadwick pounded the gavel again and again and ordered the speaker to leave. When Sgt. Crawford came down the aisle, Mr. Lord left the stand and strode back to his seat in a huff.

CHIEF DERRO

Police Chief Joseph J. Derro got up and said he believed the article should be passed by the Town Meeting Members.

Later, when questioned about the qualifications of applicants to the police force, Chief Derro briefly told about the physical and mental examinations imposed by the state Civil Service Commission.

PERSONNEL BOARD

Mr. McElwee said the Personnel Board neither opposed nor favored this article and did not make recommendations on it because it was a distinctly separate Warrant article from Article Four. He said the board was a little concerned over the problem that a third party approval was necessary (the Selectmen) in getting a new patrolman appointed, and that the protective department is the only Town agency that has that problem.

"If you think there is a significant recruitment problem then make a valid exception on this issue (in pre-empting Personnel Board determination of establishing the salaries for patrolmen) and vote for it," he said.

THE SELECTMEN

Mr. Dunn said the Selectmen adamantly opposed making any increases in the patrolmen's salaries by going beyond the 3% already granted to a 5% raise.

"We are against ballooning one department over another," he said. "It took a long time to equalize the police and fire pay schedules, and this measure is discriminatory," he added.

"To answer the question of police recruitment," Mr. Dunn said, "there has never to my knowledge been any shortage of able candidates for police work."

"We do not feel there has been sufficient recruitment advertising done within the Town for officers to fill any past or upcoming vacancies," Mr. Dunn said. "And if there is a shortage, we can always go on a statewide exam list for candidates," he added.

ANNUAL REPRESENTATIVE TOWN MEETING. Thursday night's first session of the 1963 Winchester Town Meeting was held in the Memorial Auditorium of the senior high school. A total of 182 Town Meeting members and members-at-large out of 227 eligible representatives attended the meeting, which covered six of the 64 warrant articles in about three-and-one-half hours.

OTHER COMMENTATORS

James Cullen said he was worried about the immediate future for our police force in its recruiting problem.

Mr. Hewis noted that there are three or four upcoming retirements in police force personnel this year, and that new candidates will have to be found.

A short discussion on the status of veterans taking police exams followed. John Horn, speaking for the veterans, said that they receive an increment on exam scores for being veterans but that the Selectmen are not compelled to select a veteran over a non-veteran on Civil Service lists.

On the question of reducing the high physical qualifications for patrolmen to increase the number of applicants, Paul Garrity suggested that the Town Meeting lower the height requirements from five feet eight inches to five feet six inches.

THE VOTE

When the voice vote on Article Five was questioned, a standing vote was taken and the nays had it with 102 votes against 53 in the affirmative.

FIREFIGHTERS FOR 48

It was close to midnight when the final decision was made on the controversial request by the firefighters under Article Six to have the length of their week reduced from 56 to 48 hours.

Lt. Ernest Howard, chairman of the 48-hour committee for the firefighters, explained two charts that were set on the stage of the High School auditorium to the Town Meeting Members.

Of all the cities and towns in Greater Boston between that city and Route 128, and extending west to Wellesley and east to the sea coast, Winchester is one of only three towns that still maintains a 56-hour week for its firefighters, Lt. Howard said.

And of the two others, Reading and Wakefield, both pay higher salaries for the 56-hour week than does Winchester, Lt. Howard said. He added that one of the other two was considering a reduction in hours in this year's Town Meeting.

In pointing to the towns surrounding Winchester, with which we have mutual aid fire agreements, Woburn, Arlington, and Medford, have worked a 48-hour week since 1949. And last year Stoneham granted its firefighters a 50-hour week, he said.

Robert Swymer, a member of the 48-hour committee, told the Town Meeting that Winchester stands deep in 13th position in the 15 communities that the Personnel Board uses to gauge personnel policies.

"But think of us not as firefighters but as Winchester family men," Mr. Swymer said. "We get only one weekend in every six to be with our families," he said. "But under a 48-hour week schedule we could be with our families three out of every seven weekends, and it would be a tremendous boost to the morale of the department," he concluded.

FINANCE COMMITTEE

Mr. Stockwell said the Finance Committee recommended unfavorable action on this article. "Last year's Town Meeting voted against this same article," he reminded the representatives. In addition, considering the pay raises last year, the adoption of the 32-B health plan, and with the 3% increment recently granted to all Town employees, the Finance Committee was of the opinion that the firefighters were getting a disproportionate boost with the inclusion of a reduction from a 56 to a 48-hour week, which was equivalent to pay raise.

THE SELECTMEN

Mr. Dunn said that it is traditional for the firefighters to work longer hours than the police and other Town departments. He noted that according to the platoon schedule worked out for the 48-hour week a man would work two days and have five days off; work three nights and have four nights off. This would only increase the amount of moonlighting going on already, he said.

"And we're talking about adding eight more men to the department," Mr. Dunn emphasized, "for while the firefighters figure on adding six more men to fill out the platoon complement, the Town has to figure on adding the equivalent of eight men when you consider vacations, sick leave, compensations, and other factors."

PERSONNEL BOARD

Mr. McElwee said that the Personnel Board was against granting the 48-hour week to the firefighters, but, he added, he felt obliged to say that "there has been a definite trend toward this in all communities."

CAPTAIN CONNOLLY

Captain Michael Connolly, a firefighter and member of the Personnel Board representing the Town's employees, reiterated the firefighters' plea for a reduction in the length of the work week. "No other Town department is required to work 56 hours," he said, "and it isn't fair to keep the firefighters back on an outmoded work schedule."

MR. TANSEY

J. Joseph Tansey urged that "these 48-hour week schedules are not trends, but facts."

"We insist that the service of our Town departments be maintained," he said, "and believe in equity toward our Town employees so much we established the Personnel Board."

"The Personnel Board has called this reduction in firefighters week a trend; it is more like the handwriting on the wall, and why should Winchester wait to be the very last town in this area to accept it?" he questioned.

"This article will cost 58 cents on the tax rate," Mr. Tansey pointed out. He attacked Mr. Dunn's statement that this was just another fringe benefit, saying "Fringe benefits are a part of living now."

OTHER COMMENTATORS

Dr. Edward S. Rendall referred to the aspect of being on call at all times for emergencies as "not so much fun as you might envision." He referred to the recent death of Mrs. Conlon in a fire as pointing up the continual danger involved everytime a firefighter enters a burning building.

Sherman Saltmarsh paid tribute to the gentlemanly manner in which the firefighters conducted their campaign to obtain the 48-hour week.

Mr. Hewis got up and said "don't throw back at them today what you gave them last year (the 32-B plan)." "Look at the employees as our own employees, and treat them accordingly, looking out for their interests," he said.

THE VOTE

A voice vote on Article Six was declared by the Moderator to be favorable and the motion carried. A request for a standing vote was made and this resulted in a 90 to 78 vote in the affirmative to reduce the firefighters week from 56 to 48-hours.

Monday Session

And as for personal services, Mr. Dunn noted, "It is impossible for any department or board in the Town to employ anyone in a category other than those specifically listed under a Town Meeting approved budget."

ARTHUR HEWIS

Arthur Hewis said the Town "should not give away to the Finance Committee, an appointed advisory body of 15 men, the rights of all the voters to oversee the budgets." He added that he felt the Town should adopt a Town Manager form of government to solve this problem and others like it.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE

Art Johns, chairman of the School Committee, said that legally the motion would be uninforceable, and cited recent Massachusetts Supreme Court decision upholding the fact that Town department heads have absolute jurisdiction over the control of their budgets once voted on by a Town Meeting.

"This motion would freeze item by item everything in the budgets and hand power not intended to be given to the Finance Committee to the committee," Mr. Johns said.

"Town departments have to have the right to deviate from established budgets substantially if need be," he said.

"This is particularly true with the School Committee," Mr. Johns added, and gave an example. If a teacher on the seventh step with a masters degree leaves the motion would mean that only another seventh step masters teacher could be hired to replace the one that left, neither a more advanced teacher nor a less experienced one at less expense, he pointed out. "If it happens to be in the summer, when the School Department does most of its recruiting for vacancies," Mr. Johns said, "and if the Finance Committee is not around during the summer, then the School Department would have to go without a teacher."

Referring again to the decision handed down by the court, Mr. Johns concluded with the statement that "The School Committee cannot be restricted to the uses of its budgets for it is an independent body empowered with discretionary powers and duties."

MOTION CHANGED

Mr. Stockwell asked the Moderator to strike "authorization" and and replace it with "to inform and seek recommendation from the Finance Committee in the motion to Article 8. He said the committee could see the problems involved with using "authorization" instead of "recommend."

QUESTION OF WHY

Mr. Stockwell was asked why the motion was felt to be important to the Finance Committee, and to give an example. Mr. Stockwell said there are several incidents each year that show the need for such a motion to be enacted. One example he gave was of a department that wanted to have architect's plans drawn up for a contemplated building, and the department took the money from its regular budget approved by the previous Town Meeting.

PERSONNEL BOARD

Mr. McElwee said the Personnel Board very emphatically supported the motion as changed. "It is good sound business sense," he said.

SELECTMEN

Mr. Dunn said the Board of Selectmen did not feel the amendment materially changed the shackles it would put on department and board heads.

Then, almost humorously, Mr. Dunn said he would like to see someone amend the motion to put a one week time limit on the recommendation from the Finance Committee if they thought it should be passed.

OLCOTT HOOPER

Olcott Hooper said as chairman of the Water and Sewer Board he had not been informed by the Finance Committee of the intended motion before the Town Meeting, and said he did not like the manner in which it was trying to be passed without notifying department and board heads.

Mr. Hooper told a short story to show why he and everyone else should oppose the motion. Last year someone stole a typewriter, and the Finance Committee was notified of the need for another typewriter for the Water and Sewer Department. "The budget didn't include this unforeseeable item," Mr. Hooper said, and it took four months of letters between the board and the Finance Committee before an answer was given.

DR. HARRY WILDASIN

Dr. Harry Wildasin said as a former chairman of the Board of Health he was not informed of the intended motion before the Town Meeting either. He said all the Town departments and boards involved should be notified and given time to study it. He said he could see how the Board of Health might very well be hampered and restricted in the carrying out of its functions if the motion was passed by the Town Meeting.

Dr. Wildasin then moved that the motion be indefinitely postponed, which is tantamount to killing it until next year's annual Town Meeting. The move was seconded.

POSTPONEMENT DISCUSSION

Mr. Johns said the first time he saw the motion was when a surprised Selectman showed it to him at last Thursday's meeting. The School Committee has 500 items in its budget, he said, and it would be impossible to administrate the budget without deviating between items. He suggested that the motion be killed instead of being indefinitely postponed, and invited a motion from the floor on it.

James Cullen said "We should not let this original motion be passed by subterfuge . . . which it is."

"This is a major Town policy change," he said, "and it should be taken as a regularly advertised Town Meeting Warrant article for next year." He recommended that the motion for indefinite postponement be voted, for the amended Finance Committee motion "has no teeth and is therefore ridiculous anyway."

Mr. Hewis said elected Town boards and officials are answerable to the Town Meeting Members and the voters, and they should not have to be also responsible to an appointed committee. "The Finance Committee motion would, in effect, set up a super government of 15 men," he said. He also noted that the previous three speakers were all former Finance Committee members, and none of them wanted the Finance Committee's motion to be carried.

THE VOTE

On the vote to approve or disapprove of the Finance Committee's amendment to its original motion, the nays had it. Then a vote on the motion for indefinite postponement was ayed and passed.

TOWN BUDGETS

The Town Moderator called for two recesses during the evening to make changes in the personal services items of the department and board budgets. The 3% cost of living increase granted at Thursday night's session upped the amounts being requested originally in the budgets.

The 64 Town budgets were read over by the Moderator. Nineteen were deferred for later questioning and examination, and on a motion by the Moderator, the other 48 budgets were passed by the Town Meeting.

TOWN CLERK'S SALARY

The deferred Town Clerk's budget was under discussion when Arthus Hewis made a motion from the floor to increase the salary of the Town Clerk by $500.

The Town Clerk's salary from January 1 to April 1, 1963, is $5,377; and for the balance of the year with the 3% increase it will be $5,685. An additional $500 would increase the salary to $6,185 per annum.

Mr. Hewis told the Town Meeting that the Town Clerk had filed a 1963 budget with the Finance Committee with a request for a $500 raise. "But the Finance Committee said no, and did not include the $500 in its budget recommendation," he added.

The Personnel Board has neither approved nor disapproved of the request for a salary increase, "and they haven't even considered it yet," said Mr. Hewis.

"The Town Clerk's salary is only equivalent to that of a secretary in the School Department," Mr. Hewis argued "and the Town's clerk has more responsibility and is more competent than just another secretary," he added.

"The Town Clerk was reelected in the last election with the highest number of votes of any Town official," he pointed out to the assembly.

Mr. Hewis said the salary increase was justified further by the fact that in 11 of the 15 like cities and towns in Greater Boston that Winchester is often compared with, the town clerks are paid more than the Winchester Town Clerk. He cited several instances where salaries for town clerks ranged from $5,500 to $6,400. "And these are 1962 statistics," he said.

FINANCE COMMITTEE

Mr. Stockwell said the Finance Committee had referred the question to the Personnel Board when it received the request for a budget increase for personal services. "But not hearing from the Personnel Board by the time it was necessary for us to set the budget for the Town Meeting, we left this item out of the budget," Mr. Stockwell said.

PERSONNEL BOARD

Mr. McElwee said the Personnel Board recommended defeat of the amendment "Of the 38 positions which the Personnel Board reviewed for personal services, three requests for salary increases were not accompanied by any information," he said. The Town Clerk's request was merely an inclusion in the budget, which the Town Accountant notified the Personnel Board about: "but there was no formal request for a salary review made to the board," Mr. McElwee stated.

Mr. McElwee strongly pleaded with the Town Meeting Members not to attempt to determine personnel policies or, he said, he knew of two members of the board who would quit outright. He said the board has a continuing policy of review of all Town positions, "So let's not act on expediency, but rather on principle," Mr. McElwee said, "the principle of equity to all who are under this system of review set up as a guide policy by the Personnel Board."

ARTHUR HEWIS

"The Personnel Board says it has a continuing policy going on," Mr. Hewis said. "But its evaluation has been way off for years," he said, "and it should be corrected now."

STALEMATE MOTION

When it appeared that a point of impasse had been reached, Richard W. Freeman, Jr., made a motion to defer budget item 1600 until after Article 63 in the Warrant had been decided upon so that the Personnel Board would have time to survey the situation.

THE VOTE

After Mr. McElwee said the Personnel Board declined to make a hurried survey, the vote on the motion to postpone was defeated.

On the vote for the original motion to raise the Town Clerk's salary by $500, the Town again voted no. A request for a standing vote resulted in 43 voting for the raise; 125 voting against.

POLICE BUDGET

Under the police budget Robert P. Bigelow asked why all the police cruisers have to use hi-test gasoline. "Is it because the chief's new Pontiac requires hi-test," he wanted to know.

Mr. Stockwell said the Finance Committee had looked into the question and had asked the MDC what they use for gasoline. The MDC uses hi-test gas because it is best for patrol work, is best for emergency speed, and is best for reducing maintenance costs of the cars. The Finance Committee said is was satisfied that hi-test was the best gas to use in the police cars.

The budget was approved by a voice vote.

FIRE BUDGET

The fire budget was approved by a voice vote.

CIVIL DEFENSE

The civil defense budget was also approved by a voice vote.

ADJOURNMENT

The meeting was adjourned until 8:15 p.m. on Thursday night, March 21, following the conclusion of business with the two articles in the Special Town Meeting warrant dealing with the acceptance of the Comptroller Act. That special meeting will begin at 7:45 p.m. in the Memorial Auditorium of the senior high school.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dellicker of Leslie Road and both he and Mrs. Dellicker are graduates of Winchester High School. They are the parents of five children, all boys.

Ethel Drinkwater a former resident of this town for many years has spent the winter in Guaymas Mexico.

Given in honor of an outstanding citizen of this town, Harrison Franklin Lyman, a new Lyman Library was dedicated on Sunday at the Boston Museum of Science where it was previewed by some 1500 invited guests.

Mrs. Harrison F. Lyman of 15 Lawson Road played a part in the very simple opening ceremonies and the occasion brought back to Winchester from St. Louis a well known former son of the late Mr. Lyman, Harrison F. Jr., whose family along with that of his sister Mrs. Alice Lyman Moore (Mrs. Charles L.) of 24 Ledgewood Road also took part in the opening.

Mr. Lyman senior, a former Finance Committee member and chairman of the Board of Appeals lived here until his death in 1944 and was a patent attorney in Boston. Mr. Lyman, Jr., a former chairman of the Board of Selectmen and also a lawyer lived here with his family until about five years ago moving to Longmeadow before going on to St. Louis.

Situated on the third floor of the Museum's Countway Building, the new 4000-square foot library, which opened to the public this week, overlooks the scenic Charles River and commands an impressive view of the Boston and Cambridge skylines. (A smaller area on the terrace floor, used by the Museum as a library since 1951, had also been temporarily named in Mr. Lyman's memory.) On Monday, a preview of the library facilities and services was given for a large group of Museum friends and members of the Special Libraries Association.

The new Lyman Library which is expected to bring new dimensions into Library uses, succeeds one founded in 1831 by the Boston Society of Natural History and is the second oldest of its kind in America. During the last few years, though in cramped quarters it was visited annually by more than 35,000 persons and circulated well over 6000 books per year.

In its early history, it was visited by such famous New England personages as Thoreau, Whittier, Agassiz, Audubon, and Fuertes. Even today, says Librarian Genevieve M. Scully, prominent authors and scientists in the area often make use of its facilities.

Outwardly, according to Miss Scully the Lyman Library presents a harmonious blending of the practical and the aesthetic. Museum director Bradford Washburn worked closely with Miss Scully on decoration, and the technical layout is the result of close collaboration between the Museum staff, the architects of the new building and Philip J. McNiff, associate librarian of Harvard University.

In the well-lighted, air-conditioned stack room, four study-carrels are available for the serious researcher with easy access to the tiered blue-grey stacks. Here, there are 20,000 books and journals and equally as many pamphlets covering all the science fields. There is ample space for at least 10,000 more volumes.

Under the planning of a special committee new and concerted efforts are being made to reach both the casual visitor and occasional browser. Although many specialized membership libraries like this usually serve as adjuncts to a highly organized educational and exhibit program, the Committee's plans call for reversing this procedure. With better facilities to excite the sometime-visitor, it is hoped that the library will become the springboard into increased science study for many.

Firs,t the visitor is lured into the library by a display of new books. Also on exhibit in the corridor will be a changing collection of rare science books. A special browsing rack introduces the visitor to some of the more recent popular and fascinating science publications. On hand also is a dry-copy machine, which electrostatically reproduces at a minimal cost pages from bound volumes that previously had to be transcribed tediously by hand.

The library will also maintain a reference collection of selected science books found on the open shelves as well. This section should prove most helpful to teachers and parents in choosing readily available reading sources for their charges.

Finally, a science consultant will be on duty in the library during its busiest hours. A member of the Education Department, this consultant is actually a science specialist who can answer many on-the spot questions concerning both source and subject matter. Such assistance will be in addition to that normally given by a librarian in the performance of her duties.

League Speaker Is Political Editor Of the Monitor

Once each year, the outmoded public image of the League of Women Voters as a sensibly shod, intellectually terrifying, grim-lipped marching band of political educators is shattered. Once each year, the ladies of the Winchester League arrive at their Annual Legislative Luncheon giddily hatted, modishly gowned, gaily smiling to enjoy the one League activity of the year that is primarily a social event.

True to the tradition of the League of wasting not one whit of anything, be it pencils or paper or money or time or energy or glamor, an outstanding speaker in the field of legislation is invited to appear. This year, Edgar M. Mills, New England political editor of the Christian Science Monitor, will speak on a timely facet of legislation and politics. Seated at the head table with Mr. Mills will be Mrs. Mills; David McLean, editor of the Winchester Star; Elsie Nelson, Winchester Town Clerk; Mrs. Ernest Dieterich, president of the Winchester League; Mrs. Leonard Mead, legislative chairman; and Reverend H. Newton Clay.

For members of the League, this luncheon is a must. For non-members, the ticket committee suggests that anyone interested in attending begin an insidious campaign of subtle persuasion to encourage a League friend to invite her. If all else fails, call Mrs. Theodore von Rosenvinge III at PA 9-3799 or Mrs. Nelson Fontneau at PA 9-4026 and buy a ticket! But somehow arrive at the Methodist Church at 12:45 on Friday March 29 to see the spring hats, and incidentally to hear Edgar Mills speak!

Film Program At the Library

Very fortunately, the Winchester Public Library has its own collection of films. For two weeks in a row, the films ordered from the Cooperative in Boston have failed to arrive on time. Since our own films deal only with historical subjects, the substituted programs have not had the variety of the announced ones.

We are making a special effort to see that this week's films do get here ahead of time. The anticipated program is as follows -

Introduction To Gaspe - the high spots in a tour of "the Brittany of America" with French Canadian folk songs for a background.

Hello Pirro - the tale of a puppet and his manipulator.

Indians Of Early America was photographed by the Encyclopedia Brittanica films crews at locations throughout the entire United States and parts of Canada. Produced with the cooperation of many tribes, museums and authorities on Indian lore, it gives an ususually borad view of life on the American continent before the white man came. This is our own brand new film so we can positively guarantee that it will be shown!

A Sea
of Paper

• OUR ERA has been called the Age of the Atom, the Space Age, etc., but to the average citizen it more likely seems like the Age of Paper. At times it seems as though we might drown in the forms we must fill out in quadruplicate, the questionnaires we must answer, and the tons of instructions we must master in matters pertaining to birth, marriage, sickness and death. Apropos of all this may we point out that years of professional experience have given us a modest competence in many of these matters, which we would be more than happy to put at your disposal.

Saltmarsh to Head Cancer Crusade

Mr. Sherman W. Saltmarsh, Jr. of 154 Mt. Vernon Street will serve as 1963 Cancer Crusade chairman in Winchester, it was announced by Dr. Thomas W. Botsford, president of the American Cancer Society's Massachusetts Division.

Mr. Saltmarsh is a former selectman for Winchester and is a charter member of the Winchester Junior Chamber of Commerce. He is a member of the Middlesex and Massachusetts Republican Club. In 1956, Mr. Satlmarsh was a member of the United States Olympic Hockey squad.

The Cancer Crusade, conducted annually throughout the nation during April—officially designated by Congress as Cancer Control Month—seeks support of cancer research, public and professional education, and service to patients.

The campaign will be climaxed on April 30 when local volunteers canvass their neighborhoods, provide information about cancer's danger signals, and give householders an opportunity to contribute to the Cancer Society's goals.

"The Society has neither a national or state dollar goal," Dr. Botsford said in announcing the local chairman's appointment. "We seek unlimited funds with which to wage an unlimited fight aimed at saving all Americans who now die of cancer. With more money, more can be done. That's why we have adopted the theme, 'To cure more, give more, fight cancer with a checkup and a check.'"

The Crusade volunteers enlisted in this community are among more than two million American men and women who have joined to spread the Society's message of hope and to accept the contributions which will change hope to reality.

Apostolate of The Aging Starts 12th Year of Service

On Sunday, March 31, the Lay Apostolate of the Aging, Archdiocese of Boston, will commemorate its eleventh year of operation with a forum, "The Role of the Lay Apostle — Unique and Vital," to be conducted in the John Hancock Auditorium, 200 Berkeley Street, Boston, at 7:30 p.m.

Following the forum a social hour will be enjoyed in the adjoining Dorothy Quincy Suite, where light refreshments will be served.

Reservations for this event are available from the headquarters, Lay Apostolate of the Aging, 36 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston 16, COpley 7-3060 (preferably between 6 and 7 p.m.).

According to the experience of the Apostolate in this field, there is a depth of loneliness that only the ill and the old-age population can know. Confined to nursing homes, they are ready victims of the isolation that closes in upon them. Yet, these walls of loneliness have tumbled over for more than 1500 persons confined to nursing homes because lay men and women are giving them a human relationship that restores and maintains the dignity of being a person that someone in the community wants to see and talk with.

This is accomplished through the activity of the Lay Apostolate—friendly visiting volunteers—men and women. There are more than 1,200 in the membership of the lay apostolate of the aging and more than 300 are dedicated to visiting persons confined to nursing homes because of illness and disability. The visitor seeks to stimulate the mental outlook of his new friend, no matter how long it takes.

Month after month he will return, renewing confidence and hope in a discouraged heart. Sometimes the visitor's role is a silent one—a sympathetic listener and a reassuring presence known only be the touch of a hand. Other times, a game of cards, a little baseball talk, etc., stimulate an interest, even a spirit of competition—almost forgotten.

Of Writers And Writing

By Frank Procopio

Faulkner: A Gentle Sound and Fury

In the winter of 1924-25, at the age of 27, William Faulkner decided to become an individualist; not a non-comformist, because they are as plentiful and as irritatingly senseless as fleas on a dog. But a free-thinking, free-moving individual whose only grudge against society would be the invention of the clock. From now on, he decided, there would be no routine to live by, save that of life itself soaking in and warming him and chilling him and making him more totally aware of himself and of others.

So he went to New Orleans, where Sherwood Anderson, a bottle in one hand and a pen in the other, was beckoning disciples to come and taste the sweet and cultural life that was everywhere to be found in this city of strange colors and stranger people.

What impressed young Faulkner the most was that Anderson habitually showed himself in the afternoons, and then only to walk and talk and enjoy the weather. At night, they would talk some more, this time over a bottle or two. Faulkner decided that if this was the way a writer lived then writing was the thing for him. Three weeks after this monumental decision, Anderson, a little concerned about Faulkner's continued absence from the daily walks and the nightly sittings, dropped by his friend's room.

"What's wrong?" Anderson inquired. "Are you mad at me?"

"No," Faulkner replied easily, "I'm writing a book."

"My God," said Anderson, and he walked away without another word.

After the book, called Soldier's Pay, was finished, Faulkner happened to meet Mrs. Anderson while out for a stroll.

"Sherwood," she told him, "says that he will make a trade with you. If he doesn't have to read your manuscript he will tell his publisher to accept it."

Faulkner grinned, "Done."

* * *

The time spent at New Orleans was Faulkner's period of basic formulation, or progressive apprenticeship; the crucial time in which a writer is convinced he can write, or the time in which he learns he definitely cannot. It was a period of long nights and short days; of learning to love the work you're doing as surely as some men learn to love a woman. You sit alone in a lonely room, you struggle over grammar and syntax and rhymitcal cadences, but you nevertheless become involved in the whole of mankind. There arises an importance in all men, of all ages, that you dwell on, and never tire of learning more about.

Faulkner was deeply concerned with the people he wrote about. When they spoke, they had to be just as alive and vibrant as the actual characters of mythical Yoknapatawpha County. Negro and white, they had to look, sound, and smell the part. "I can move these people around like God," Faulkner said, "not only in space but in time too."

Time was important to Faulkner. Though he theorized it as a simple fluid condition, devoid of past and future, he nevertheless feared its rapidity. He felt that man's only chance of immortality was to have something behind that would always move, something to stir the minds and imaginations of generations yet unborn. And more than that: "I believe that man will not merely endure: he will prevail. He is immortal, not because he alone among creatures has an inexhaustible voice but because he has a soul, a spirit capable of compassion and sacrifice and endurance. The poet's, the writer's, duty is to write about these things. It is his privilege to help man endure by lifting his heart, by reminding him of the courage and honor and hope and pride and compassion and pity and sacrifice which have been the glory of his past. The poet's voice need not merely be the record of man, it can be one of the props, the pillars to help him endure and prevail."

Now there is a certain gentleness to this, and a certain fury: gentleness in so far as the writer is concerned, fury where destiny is involved. No human power can alter a destiny. In the case of the writer it is a feeling not unlike that of drunkeness: you're so infallibly certain of yourself that it makes you feel a little embarrassed. To think of yourself as someone superior, it isn't; to think of yourself as someone different, it is. Faulkner had a job to do, and it was decisively clear to him what it was. It was obligation founded on the premise that he had been chosen to help uplift the heart of man, "help him endure and prevail".

Faulkner stood at an unassuming five-foot six. He had deep, sad eyes that somehow betrayed a sense of knowing. Not many people got close to him, those that did never regretted it. He gave his friendship as he gave his work, meaningfully.

It took five separate writings to complete The Sound And The Fury, the book he admitted feeling tenderest towards. Even then, he was dissatisfied, and wanted to try again. It is undoubtedly that quality of being dissatisfied that made Faulkner the writer he became; dissatisfied not only with the way the words were written but with what they had to say. "The young man or woman writing today," he claimed, "has forgotten the problems of the human heart in conflict with itself which alone can make good writing because only that is worth writing about, worth the agony and the sweat."

Faulkner also believed, mightily, that a writer destined to write of these things must necessarily labor with the diligence of a contemplative monk, until that day when the hand is finally stilled, and you break the pencil and have to stop.

'Way back in 1789 the most outstanding physician of his day was Benjamin Rush, who was one of the last leaders of a medicine not yet graduated from the medieval tradition.

For example, Rush maintained that there was but one disease and all treatments were to be reduced to one as well. These treatments were rather harrowing by today's standards, consisting in the main of bloodletting and purging, intended to cure the unfortunate patient's physical ills through "depletion."

Many of today's ills are cured quickly and safely through use of prescriptions prescribed by the many capable physicians available. Proper and accurate filing of these prescriptions is assured at McCORMACK'S APOTHECARY, 568 Main St. Phone PA 9-2700.

Easter Party and Open House—Wednesday, April 10.

WDBC Women's Pairs Chamship—Wednesday, May 1.

Club Charity Game to benefit the Winchester Scholarship Foundation—Friday, May 3rd.

The writeup this week is supplied by Lolly Smith, who, paired with her favorite partner, manages to smell out and bring home more close slam contracts than any other couple in the club!

On Board 14, four of the eleven Notrh-South pairs played the hand at 6 NT. One went down one trick, while the other three made the slam, each with a different opening lead, including the 5 of spades which had been the lead when the hand was set. The first question might be: "Why did the others not plunge?" There are 15 high-card points in the opening hand and 17 in the other. This adds up to 32 points and with care, usually a slam can be made.

The play of this hand is interesting. With the opening lead of the S5, which is likely a fourth best, the declarer deduces from the rule of eleven that the East hand has one card higher than the 5. What can be troublesome? Only the K. However, many will not lead away from a K, and, therefore, E may have it. If so, the play of the Q will be covered by the K, and then by declarer's Ace. Then there can be only eleven tricks, regardless of play. However, by playing low, declarer can find out what E.'s card is and a lead toward the Q later will make it possible to set up the Q when E goes in wtih the K.

There is just one more point of difficulty in the play and that is in the diamond suit. It is necessary to finesse the D J and it wins. Now, as the play of the hand continues, poor E feels the squeeze and he must make three discards; one when the KS is knocked out, one other on cashing the QS; and the third on the play of the fourth Club. There are now only hearts and diamonds in that hand. Two hearts can be readily discarded, but a third will set up a heart trick. There is left just the hope that South has only three diamonds, so E discards a small one. However, in doing so, South's fourth diamond is set up and the slam made.

On the lead of a small heart, S must let it run around to set up his J as East's Q wins. With this extra trick made, S still has to decide, after he tries to count the hand, whether to take a second finesse in the diamonds after the ten falls on the second lead.

A club opening puts everthing up to the smart declarer—who must have done everything right—for he or she also made the contract.

Landlubbers Ahoy!

Community Boating on the Charles River, Boston, will be holding an Open House March 30-31.

For the past twenty-seven years, Community, a non-profit organization, has been dedicated to the goal of introducing the general public to sailing at a minimum cost to the individual. A fleet of 46 sailboats is available to the members, and free instruction and training are offered to members and non-members alike.

The Boathouse will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on both days, and Community members will be available to take anyone interested out for a sail as a guest of the Boathouse. Community's own training movies will be shown, and informal shore school classes will be held on both days. Refreshments will be served.

In the past few seasons, over one-third of the year's membership has been tyros to the sport of sailing and has learned to capably handle a sailboat themselves through Community's instruction. Anyone interested is cordially invited to visit our Boathouse off Storrow Drive (near the Hatch Memorial Shell) and go for a sail.

Have your ever flipped through the pages of an IDEALS book? You will enjoy it. These books are beautifully bound, hard or soft covers — for the young and adults. Give one for a birthday or as a delightful gift for a shut-in. At the Winchester Star.

Sons Of Italy Bloodmobile Is Huge Success For Town

Believed to be the first organization-sponsored Bloodmobile program to take place here, the recent S. O. I. donation day for Red Cross blood was a smashing success for the organization, the town and the Red Cross.

It was also, thanks to its hard-working committee, a lively good time for all.

On Monday, February 25, the Bloodmobile was stationed at the Sons of Italy Hall, with the doors open to all members and non-members, wishing to donate the precious life-giving fluid, with 101 nobly responding.

The entire professional staff and volunteers were treated to a ravioli, spaghetti and meatball dinner given by the Winchester men's and women's lodges. Chef Paul Marchesi received a standing round of applause for his splendid job of preparing the meal.

Heading the team of volunteer workers was Ven. Geri Buzotta of the ladies' lodge, assisted by Mary Antonuccio, Pauline Cerulli, Emma Provinzano, Mary Vespucci, Phil Marrone, Ida Colucci, Pauline La Farve, Sue Barbaro, Vi Bruno, Rena Kazazian, Gladys Bertolucci, Fran Vespucci, Marion Marrone, Angeline and Terry Dattilo.

Mrs. Bara Moulding, director of the local chapter of the Red Cross, expressed her complete satisfaction with the entire program.

Boston Office Of The Coast Guard Invites Recruits

The Coast Guard Recruiting Station, 703 Custom House, will be open Saturdays, 9-3, from now through June. This is in addition to regular hours, 8-4:30, Monday through Friday.

Chief Boatswain's Mate Frank W. Lyver, Officer-in-Charge of the station, said the extra hours were set to meet an increased quota of enlistments for the Greater Boston area. There is presently no waiting list for four-year regular Coast Guard enlistments, as there has been in the past.

After 13 weeks of recruit training at Cape May, N. J., qualified applicants will be trained to perform search and rescue work and other humanitarian duties which have made the Coast Guard famous throughout the maritime world.

Chief Lyver also pointed out that the service's "Buddy Plan" enables friends who enlist together to remain together through recruit training.

When it's time to think about getting your boat ready, why not buy your letters and official numbers at the Winchester Star. Reasonably priced 2 for 25c. Black or red. Self adhesive.

MSPCA

The Mass. S. P. C. A. takes the opportunity of National Wildlife Week to urge greater caution in the use of chemical pesticides, lawn and garden preparations.

The Society has become increasingly aware in the past few years of the increase in pet poisonings, many of them fatal, which occur in the spring and to a slightly lesser degree into the summer. These poisonings in most cases are directly related to outdoor applications of biocides. The findings correspond with reports from wildlife authorities and state and federal biologists of increasing destruction of wildlife as a direct result of chemical pesticide programs. The use of pesticides has become so common and so indiscriminate the public is losing its fear of poisons; careless use, is costing the lives of pets and wildlife.

The Mass. S. P. C. A. endorses the stand of the National Wildlife Federation on chemical poisons and its slogan, "Chemical Pesticides are Poison." The Society recommends that chemical preparations should not be used unless there is a definite need. Property owners using these chemical poisons should follow directions closely, avoid excessive application and control pets and children while using these materials and until these substances are no longer toxic. Poisons should be stored safely away from pets and children.

If your pet or child becomes ill and you suspect poisoning, get professional medical attention immediately. Also remember that your neighbor's chemical program may be the cause of your pet's or child's illness. Your knowledge of the type of chemical in use can save a life.

David O. Cooney Earns Masters At Wisconsin Univ.

David O. Cooney of 60 Lake Street was awarded the master of science degree by the University of Wisconsin as the first semester of the State University's 1962-63 school year came to a close recently. Mr. Cooney earned the degree in the field of chemical engineering.

ACROSS THE COUNTER

Suppose you owned an insurance agency, and I walked in and asked for a specific policy. You would say "fine, write it up," and I'd walk out. Before long, however, you'd think "I wish I knew more about that fellow. Where he works. What he does. What other insurance he has, if any."

"If I only knew," you'd say, "I could be of REAL SERVICE to him." And, frankly, you'd be 100% right.

Part of rendering good service in the complicated business of insurance lies in getting better acquainted with the people who do business with us. That's the reason we may want to ask you a few questions when you walk in. We sincerely want to know and understand your insurance needs.

By getting better acquainted, we can help you. You'll have a well-planned insurance program instead of a collection of "hit and miss" policies. Overlaps, duplications, gaps in coverages, will disappear.

So stop in. Let's get acquainted. We'll sincerely try to render the kind of service you'd give if our positions were reversed.

Q. What department is responsible for the evacuation and search of a building in the event of a bomb call?

A. Police and Fire Departments.

Q. Does this responsibility also apply to mercantile buildings, stores, theatres, etc.?

Paul Donlon Plays Part In "The Christus"

Paul Donlon of 509 Washington Street, has a leading role in "The Christus," The New England Passion Play, which opens this weekend at John Hancock Hall in Boston.

Called "The American Oberammergau," this famed Lenten drama is an annual presentation by the Saint Kevin Players of Dorchester, and is now in its 15th consecutive year of production. It has over 20 biblical scenes, depicting the whole panorama of human history from creation to the passion and death of Christ.

Mr. Donlon is making his second appearance in this production, having played the part of "John," the Apostle, in last year's show. He is a graduate of Boston College and studied dramatics and speech at Emerson College in Boston for one year. With the Boston College Dramatic Society, he has played in "King Henry IV, Part I," "The Imaginary Invalid," "Harvey," "Our Town" and "Ondine." He is also a member of the Arlington Friends of the Drama and the Parish Players of Winchester.

"The Christus" is under the direction of J. Arthur Williams of Dorchester, and the producer is Christopher L. Gambon, Jr. of the Theatre Guild Association of New York. The play will have four performances, Thursday through Saturday evenings, March 21 to 23, at 8:30 p.m., and Sunday March 24 at 2:30 p.m.

Easter Message

Jobless is a grim word, when multiplied by millions. There's nothing to ease the nation's burden, either, in the shame of those millions who once could work and wouldn't - by this time, "unemployable." Yet hope springs again for others, not yet millions, who never could work but now can. This is one joy in rehabilitation.

To build and rebuild vocational fitness, love and care and training have changed crippled children and adults into gainful citizens, now self-reliant or working towards it. These new and future wage earners have traded tax support for self-support. Relief rolls dwindle and morale soars as the physically handicapped rout defeatism and gain productive ambition.

These new pay checks do not dangle magically from trees. They rely on the funds as well as the toil of hope and training organizations like Easter Seal societies, to ripen out of the buds of good intention. Contributions to Easter Seals bring this full flower and fruit - a nationwide investment in humanity.

Wednesday evening testimonial meeting at 8:00 o'clock.

Reading Room, 5 Winchester Terrace (off Thompson Street). Open daily except Sundays and holidays from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Sunday, March 24

A Bible lesson on the subject of "Matter" will be read this Sunday at First Church of Christ, Scientist, Winchester.

Among the many Scriptural selections, will be this citation from II Corinthians (5:8): "We are confident, I say, and willing rather to be absent from the body, and to be present with the Lord."

Other passages will bring out the Christian Science teaching that all matter is a "graven image," a temporary, limited, delusive sense of things that must finally give way before the consciousness of ultimate, spiritual reality created by God. Included is this sentence from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (p. 14): "Become conscious for a single moment that Life and intelligence are purely spiritual, — neither in nor of matter, — and the body will then utter no complaints."

W. H. S. Parent-Faculty Association Presented "Varieties Of '63"

Unusual and amazing talent was revealed on Friday evening, March 15, at the High School auditorium, when faculty and parents presented an entertaining program of song, dance, skit, slapstick, and mood music.

The show opened with "Sayonara," a Japanese number beautifully staged with geishas Mary Osgood, Brenda Fitts, Ruth Morse, Vi Curtis, June Washburn, Lorraine Johns, Priscilla Wheeler. And Randlett, and Esther Johnson kneeling at tea tables under trees of pink apple blossoms.

MARY HAFF AND NOREEN JOHNSON DANCED the opening for the Parent-Faculty "Varieties of 1963" last Friday night on the high school stage, presenting "Sayonara" with Mary Osgood, Vi Curtis, Lorraine Johns and Jean McLean lending that extra bit from the delicate and gracious East in the background.

Winchester has a Dean Martin in the person of Joe Derby of Winton Club show fame, who sang "You're Nothing Till You're Loved" in his casual debonair manner. Joe will best be remembered for his nimble soft shoe in the Ray Bolger style. Next on the program, Mary Jane Anderson created beautiful sight and sound as she artistically played her harp in the traditional strains of "Alice Blue Gown," followed by a jazz-beat syncopation.

A super sixsome of mommys, Margaret Hoffman, Dot Macdonald, Anna McLean, Maxine Kajander, Ann Brown, and Mary Haff brought down the house when they danced and mimickedthrough "Alexander's Ragtime Band."

The all-parent troupe of Two By Fours, Ken Wright, Harry Downes, Fred, Rozelle, Jr., Bill Hopkins, Ed Crabtree, Tom Worthen, Herb Bixler, and Phil Cabot, in their eye-catching red four-in-hands and Black Watch plaids, sang favorite tunes which have kept them famous since 1953: "Muskrat Ramble," "I Had a Dream," "Nobody's Sweetheart Now," "Kingston Town," "Lone Prairie," and "Darktown Strutter's Ball." Next Mary Blaisdell played her very beautiful piano arrangement of "Tenderly."

Then some mommys and daddys presented "Me and My Shadow," accompanied by Frances Lynch at the piano. Orm Hessler's top hat and tails, portraying a style reminiscent of Ted Lewis, was shadowed by Bill Cruwys, Marge La Pointe, Esther Amato, Roger Raudin, and Mary Louise Lunt.

The first act was interrupted at this point when Tom Morse magnanimously awarded three door prizes to the luckiest people in the audience. This act concluded with an hilarious bus skit dreamed up by Janet Dalrymple, the director of "Varieties of '63."

Tom Morse was the determined pilot of the shaky craft on the lurchy road of crossed paths. Henry Fitts dragged his tired frame aboard; Howard Niblock stubbornly read his widespread newspapers; Janet Knight took everyone's eye as the slick-chick; Jane and John McClennan had just "done" St. Thomas; Madame Genicot attempted to carry a week's groceries in a weak bag; Jack Waite brought along all except the house to paint; Eleanor Stabile and Don Dalrymple had broken more than a leg on that ski trip; and Dot Macdonald and Grace Soucek were socially oblivious to the melee.

As the second act began, the most delightful episode in the Varities, "The Prize Play," was portrayed by all faculty: Tom Morse, Jan Collins, George Curtis, Irene Throumoulos, Jack Waite, Ned MacCloskey, Connie Trickett, Bob Kessler, May Milliken, Henry Fitts and Ed Burns. Little minds can run riot!

Opera come to town when Aram Mouradian, James Willoughby, Herb Bixler and, Ben Stewart, accompanied by Mrs. Siron Hovnanian, threw themselves into "Rigoletto." Then a typical (?) school committee meeting was enacted by Irene Lynch Al LaPointe, Kay Connor, Fred McCormack, Bernice Kimball and George Rowe. What's learned in the school was pantomimed by Al Pywell, Henry Knowlton and Ned MacCloskey in "Vas Is Das Here?"

"THE INIMITABLE JOE DERBY" he was billed in the Friday night variety show at the high school. Song and dance man par excellence.

* * *

"West Side Story" came to life when Maria, portrayed by Noreen Johnson, exuberated to the other seamstresses "I Feel Pretty" and danced the tender "Tonight" with Joe Derby. Next, the very talented Jay Sibley created a stage full of people in her exceptional monologue "The Down-East Fire Chief."

Tom Morse, the Varieties faculty adviser, again interrupted the program to thank the entire production committee for their fine cooperative labors, despite the individualist out on a beam! The finale saw the cast in the bleachers rooting for the Bay-Window Hackers. Plumped-up Art Hills had cheerleaders Jane Kittredge, Bunny Bixler, Dur Price and Dot Hills trying to pep up the team, but even Henry Fitts couldn't make the grade till he found his talent in the water bucket.

Can an audience ask for more than such gay variety, talent and friendly cooperation which has again buckled down for Winchester? It was most pleasant and enjoyable theatre to all who are fond of their children's home town.

Parent-Faculty Association Senior High School

Many thanks to Miss Goodrich and her pupils at the Winchester High School Art Class, for supplying the beautiful posters advertising the Variety Show.

To those who purchased tickets, and who attended, sincere thanks, for without this cooperation the Variety Show would not have been successful. We are happy to state the show played to a full house.

To the many participants in the show, who through many hours of tireless effort, gave of their time, showed a Parent-Faculty Group in Democratic action.

To Mary Mears and Betsy Callaham, Ways and Means; to Jan Dalrymple, our director; to the other committee groups; to members of the Faculty, (and who can deny their special talent) many, many heartfelt thanks.

We all hope and pray that next year's show will be another success.

Sincerely
E. B. Rotondi

Winchester Democratic Town Committee

It was "a great night for the Irish," when on Sunday evening, March 17, they packed the Elks Home in an overflow crowd to celebrate the birthday of Saint Patrick.

A warm(friendly, happy gathering first toasted "the day," and then got ready to enjoy the program. Elizabeth McDonald, chairman, thanked all those present for coming out on such a disagreeable evening and then praised the splendid work of the efficient committee which worked under its able chairman, Mrs. Bee Wilson, and her fine co-chairman, Mrs. Helen Nadeau.

In presiding over the pre-program refreshment table, Bill Dailey treasurer, was assisted by Jim Russo and Dan Gaynor.

The first part of the evening's entertainment consisted of a two-part film. It depicted the historic scenes, the great sporting life, fine horses, hurling matches, and rugged, beautifully colored lakes and mountains of Ireland. Then came the picturesque industries, common only to Ireland - the making of the world-famous Waterford glass, the grand Irish linen as the women stretched it out in the sun to bleach, and the weaving of the Donegal tweed.

Through the kindness of TWA, one of our members, Jack Costello, was able to obtain the beautifully colored films and the wide screen with its musical and talkie tracks. Jack operated the projector and there was no other sound in the hall from the time we "boarded" the plane until we landed back in the U. S. A.

Between the two parts of the film there was a musical interlude. With Michael Lonigro of Winchester playing the accordion and Mrs. Winnie McElhinney of Woburn at the piano and two fine soloists from that same city, Mrs. Kitty Stryke and Mrs. Helen Mulrenan, the rafters resounded to the lilting strains of Irish music as the audience joined in the community singing. John Doherty, well-known professional of Medford, contributed some fine step-dancing.

Two other honor guests, City Editor of the Woburn Times, Michael Curran and wife Molly are on an ocean cruise and could not be present. Several friends from out of town including Senator Phil Pellegrini and Mrs. Nancy Pellegrini of Arlington, Gino and Marilyn Porecca and Dan Hurley of Medford and others, were also present.

The buffet lunch, hors d'oeuvres and fruit punch, lobster and chicken rolls, pickles and olives, all prepared by Mrs. Bee Wilson; coffee and dessert consisting of delicious brownies, Irish bread, and cup cakes, all with fancy green icing, prepared by the other members of the committee, rounded out an unforgettable evening.

As we said at the beginning of this article, "It was a great night for the Irish!"

Bill to Increase Interest Rate On Unpaid Taxes Out

The House stood firm last Wednesday in its refusal to increase from four to six per cent the interest rate charged delinquent taxpayers for failure to pay their taxes.

The measure is designed to curb use of the money at a higher per cent of interest before paying taxes.

The bill had passed the Senate.

Rep. Ansel remarked the bill was aimed at the little widow, the little people who are paying a $100 tax rate.

The House voted defeat over Rep. Quinn's insistence that the rate be brought up to par with banks' rates of six per cent.

Howard Niblock of Winchester and Dean Alvin R. Schmidt, at Tufts University President's Day on Saturday, March 30, on the Medford campus. They will discuss "Are We Putting Too Much Pressure on Youth?"

A vast gathering of Tufts and Jackson graduates from Winchester will take part in the day-long program.

Vacation Work For Students

Summer vacation work for students is being offered by the National Park Service for the seventh consecutive year, according to Commissioner of Natural Resources Charles H. W. Foster.

He said the program offers "a splendid opportunity for conservation-minded high school and college students and also those enrolled in graduate schools to work in one of the national parks on typipical natural resource problems." The program is open to men and women candidates.

"The students enrolling in this program are volunteers," Foster said, "and the program is being made possible through the support of many foundations, organizations, and public-spirited individuals who have provided the necessary funds for board and lodging, and supplementing the training and education received through the National Park Service with additional conservation education.

"Qualified students will have an opportunity to assist the National Park Service to carry out its obligations to maintain the natural beauty of the parks and at the same time extend their own education through actual field experience. It will further qualify them for positions in the natural resource field upon completion of their studies."

Foster said the program being offered this year includes work at the following National Parks: Olympic, Port Angeles, Washington; Acadia, Bar Harbor, Maine; Isle Royal Park, Houghton, Michigan; Big Bend National Park, Texas; Grand Teton, Wyoming; Cedar Breaks National Monument, Utah; and Zion National Park, Utah.

Foster said applications should be made immediately since the Student Conservation Program Selection Committee will commence processing application forms on April 1. Applications should be made to the Olympic Natural History Association, 600 Park Avenue Port Angeles, Washington.

Cigarette Tax Boost Is Sought In Education Aid

Because the tax program of Governor Endicott Peabody does not appear acceptable to the Legislature now, other means for relieving the taxpayer should be sought, Senate President John E. Powers told the Legislative Taxation Committee last week.

He proposed increasing by one-and-a-half cents the cigarette tax, to a total of 7.5 cents. The estimated $10,000,000 in new revenue should be distributed to 39 communities in the state which now write off the cost of supplying services to private, non-profit educational institutions.

Educational facilities, he said, should be encouraged to expand. But also, consideration should be given the community that cannot realize revenue from the facility although such services as fire, police and public works projects are at the disposal of the institution.

His plan is to distribute the $10,000,000 on the basis of $100 for each student attending such an institution in a community. There are 39 communities, he said.

Looking at the "cold, stark, realistic facts," he told the taxation committee, "I just don't think that the Governor's tax program, despite its merit and boldness, will be passed. This is an alternative."

By boosting the tax, he declared, Massachusetts would not become out of line with other states in competing for the tobacco business.

Under the distribution return, he estimated Boston would receive $3,642,300; Cambridge would be second with $1,900,000. Senator Powers also listed South Hadley, $164,000; Williamstown, $117,000 and Beverly, $110,700.

Unique Potlatch Project to Be At Art Institute

What's a Potlatch? The Institute of Contemporary Art says "Potlatches were extravagant ceremonial distributions of property among Northwest Coast Indians." At a Potlatch, tribal custom demanded that offered gifts be accepted and that greater gifts be given in return. This exchange was accompanied by dancing and feasting.

The Institute is planning its own version of a Potlatch, in which the public may participate. These Potlatch festivities, featuring the awarding of art treasures, will take place on Monday, April 22. During the five weeks preceding, the awards, in the form of 33 paintings, 2 drawings, and 5 sculptures will be on exhibition at the Institute through April 21.

The public is invited to see these "Contributions" daily (except Mondays) 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Thursday evenings, 7 to 9. Whether or not you attend the exciting Potlatch party on April 22 when the awards are to be made, you will be interested to visit this fine collection of art, free of charge, which 40 artists have so generously donated. The total value of these works is over $40,000, an average of $1000 each.

At the April 22 Potlatch these works will be distributed among those who have responded to the artists' gift-giving with their own donations of cash in the form of tickets bought for the Potlatch. Each ticket purchased (whether or not used for attendance on April 22) will help to recover the Institute's threatened financial stability.

The Institute requested major art works from those artists to whom it had given special recognition in the past. Among these donors are Albert Alcalay, Will Barnett, Howard Gibbs, Ruth Cobb, Panos Ghikas, Gyory and Juliet Kepes, Karl Knaths, Laurence Kupferman, Donald Stoltenburg, and Jack Wolf.

For further information or Potlatch tickets contact Mrs. William J. O'Malley, 14 Emerson Road or Mrs. Ronold King of 92 Hillcrest Parkway.

Concerts Committee

Summer Music Festival At Castle Hill

The Summer Music Festival, consisting of five concerts, has been announced by the Music Committee of the Castle Hill Foundation. The Festival will be held in the Italian Garden of the beautiful 350 acre Castle Hill estate in Ipswich. The now famous John Alden Carpenter Memorial Theatre will be the center of this series of outstanding presentations which will begin on July 12, with a piano recital by Claudio Arrau.

Arrau, one of the foremost interpreters of Beethoven, Brahms, Hayden and Mozart, has been enthusiastically received in Boston, having given several recitals as well as having played with the Boston Symphony Orchestra both at Symphony Hall and Tanglewood. His world wide stature has recently occassioned the following comments: "Mr. Claudio Arrau stands unique among the front rank pianists of the present day." The London Times, June 8, 1962, "One of the world's foremost virtuosos." - Newsweek, November 12 1962.

The second concert to be given on July 19, will be the Robert Jeffrey Ballet, which is now on tour in Europe, the Middle East and Southeast Asia under the sponsorship of the Rebekah Harkness Foundation and by invitation of the U. S. Department of State administered by the American National Theatre and Academy. "L'Orient," a newspaper with the widest circulation throughout the Middle East, reported, "Sensational!" "If the word were not overlyused by publicists, that is exactly what should be said about the quality of the Extraordinary Performance by the Robert Joffrey Ballet last night."

An Invitation To Stoneham Concert

Mr. Clinton Jonas of 164 North Border Road and Mrs. Ronald Davis of 8 Fernway, members of the board of directors of the Stoneham Community Concert Association, announce that the week of March 25 through March 30, will be the Community Concert Membership Drive, with campaign headquarters at Mr. Norman Houghton's, 422 Main Street, Stoneham, for those interested in purchasing a ticket for the 1963-64 concert season.

There will be two outstanding headline attractions offered: The Hungarian Ballet (Bihari), a group of fiery, spirited gypsy dancers and instrumentalists, named for the famous gypsy violinist composer of yesteryear, Janos Bihari. This newly formed group by Nora Kovach and Istvan Rabovsky, Budapest's leading dancers, have drawn the members of Ballets Bihari from among the finest free Hungarian artists now resident in the United States for a program wherein folk dance and ballet meet and are blended.

The Virtuosi diRoma is the second. This ensemble of fourteen of Italy's most celebrated virtuosi instrumentalists are often emulated but never equalled and are returning to North America for their seventh tour in the Spring of 1964 under the direction of its maestro Renato Fasano.

The Community Concert member will be privileged to see and hear these two outstanding concerts and two more throughout the season; plus a bonus concert - the last of the 1962-63 season - the Robert De Cormier Folk Singers. Robert De Cormier, who excels as a conductor and choral arranger and who was both conductor and musical director to Harry Belafonte, has formed a group of nine men, three women and three instrumentalists, who present folk songs from every corner of the globe. The unique quality of this chorus is the combination of beautiful solo voices, staging and lighting which set the group apart from all others.

There is a seat available for you if you purchase your season ticket during the week of the campaign, March 25 through March 30 and remember that your ticket entitles you to attend concerts in other neighboring communities, if by some chance you miss a Stoneham Concert.

How many concerts would the price of this season encompass in Boston? How much more pleasant to enjoy a leisurely evening, encounter friends and be privileged to sit among other music lovers, all within driving distance, all nearby.

Converse	16	48	10983
Hoboes	8	56	10489

The Gelatin took on the Mill Hillers and after the Mill Hillers winning the first string, the power of the league took over and pushed the Mill Hillers down the ladder to fourth place. Ozzie McClay anchored the Gelatin with 96-129-95 for 320. Bruce Kelley with a 307 was high for the losers.

Grandma's Teeth ran scared as J. H. Winn started out strong, but the second place team took on new color and won 6 to 2. B. Sipp 123-101-103 for 327 was outstanding in this match. J. Moise and F. Bernard held up J. H. Winn but not high enough.

The Post Office continues to be the team to watch this second half as they have come out of hiding and are now up with the leaders as they bombed the Converse who could not cut the mustard. Ken Griswold 332, and Art Griswold 337 with Len Landry a 300, were to much for the Converse. This places the Post Office in third place and are all fired up to stay within playoff position from now on in.

Strike Lanes are pushing for position as they rolled over the Hoboes 8 to 0. Richie Smith and Paul Avakian led the home team as Dave Napier came back strong for the losers with a 300.

The Brothers-in-law were high above the Giant Killers in a tightly contested match with J. Russo leading the way for the winners. Phil Dresser curved his way to high man for the Giants.

The 49ers continued to keep pace as they took six from St. Mary's. B. Wilson 315, L. Story 302, Al Coleman 296 were up for this series for the 49ers. Joe Cussen and Henry Barry maintained an even keel for St. Mary's and Leo, too.

As the league gets into the critical stage for position in the playoffs, we see teams other than the first half winners up on top.

The Atlantic Gelatin and Grandma's Teeth seem to be up there, but the Post Office, the Mill Hillers, Strike Lanes and 49ers are off and running as they bump heads and see who will be there for the May playoffs.

Come see the fun every Tuesday night at Strike Lanes, as the best are tested.

S. O. I. Bowling League

With one meeting left in the second half of the schedule, Alabama has clinched first place in the standing. However, any of the next five teams can earn their way to playoff contention, depending upon the outcome of this week's games. They are Yale, Holy Cross, Georgetown, Bates and Boston College.

Last week Alabama beat Boston College by four points. Joe Petitti was Alabama's only member to hit 300 when he rolled 109-86-108. B. C. had two in the 300 mark with Gaspar Lentine leading the pack with 101-100-105 followed by Big Ted Peluso with 117-93-94.

Second place Yale lost by a 1-3 score to seventh place Harvard, but Yale's position was not altered while Harvard climbed from eighth to seventh. Helping Harvard in a big way were Tony Lentine's 92-126-112 and Capt. Babe Tofuri's 119-117-97. Getting good scores for Yale were Capt. Richie Bucci 100-117-116 and Joe Capone 119-105-105.

Holy Cross still holds onto third place as it beat eleventh place Notre Dame 4-0. Top performers for the victors were Rudy Fiore 101-107-109, Arka Amico 93-106-110, Capt. Mose Bellino 88-86-134 and Phil Ardagno 96-105-92. Notre Dame's highest total was 279 and Al Malatesta owns that score by rolling 94-93-92.

Georgetown moved up one to fourth after taking Bates by a 3-1 score. Bates is now in fifth slot and helping to defeat Bates were Joe Marrone who hit for 104-129-112, Capt. Dick Trabucco 103-117-112 and Chick Vespucci 86-115-109. Tops for defeated Bates were Bob Fiore 106-104-122, Jake Ciarcia 91-94-112 and Mario Mascioli 86-95-115.

Army was bombed 3-1 by California which kept the latter in ninth place while the loss dropped Army from seventh to eighth. Four bowlers for California hit over the 300 mark but Frank Figlioli. He has reason to be low man with 88-80-82 because he and the Mrs. became parents for the fourth time; a girl to make the family two girls and two boys. Our sincere congratulations to all of you from all of us.

Those going strong for California were Capt. Muskie Tofuri, who had 109-121-114, Tony Bavuso 89-102-120, Carl Bertolucci 105-110-91 and Paul Gangi 94-104-104. Army had three in the 300 class and they were Woozy Giacalone 124-99-107, Capt. Tony Saraco 115-101-95 and Dom Gallello 100-96-110. Pat Bruno just missed with 100-87-106.

Capt. Choppers Gangi led his Navy team in a 3-1 victory over Maryland. The teams both remain in tenth and twelfth positions, respectively. Capt. Choppers was high man for the winners with 123-93-131 and was followed by Tony Chefalo's 107-105-96. Maryland's lone 300 hitter was Maxie DiMambro who had 98-98-105 but missing by one pin was Dan Mistretta who ended up with strings of 78-110-111.

St. Mary's climbed out of the cellar again by winning over last place Penn by a 4-0 shutout. Capt. Max LaCarubba had much to do with the win by rolling excellent scores of 115-91-121 although anchor man Mingy Frongillo was right up there with 88-129-90. Penn's top bowler was big Giro Cerulli who hit for a comfortable 91-113-100.

Big matches this final week are first place Alabama against second place Yale; third place Holy Cross facing fourth place Georgetown; fifth place Bates going against eleventh place Notre Dame and sixth place B. C. going against seventh place Harvard. The results of these games can make a big change in the standings and a chance for playoff position for the championship. The playoffs will get under way next Tuesday and the games promise to be extremely exciting.

Remember Social Night, Saturday, March 30! Come on down and enjoy an evening of dancing and making new friends.

Vote for Bob Fiore or Art Dunbar this evening for your next Venerable. This is your duty and obligation!

Kay Pizzo, what did you do? We are so proud of you. Glad you bowled 108. Wish everybody could have seen it. You were so nervous. "I bet you are still on Cloud 9.

Heard Ann Cullen bowled in the 90s again. Good work Ann.

Did everyone see the final score of the Springs and Kents game. Imagine taking four from the Kents. I bet the Newports hope they can take four next week. With all the potentially good bowlers on the Springs they should have been on top from the beginning.

We have two new members for the 100 Club, Kay who did such a good job and Bobbie who finally made it. Guess you will have to wear a skirt next week too, Bob.

Only two more weeks to go. Is there going to be a rolloff? Are the Newports and the Kools going to be real lucky and stay in first and second place? Wednesday night should tell a lot. Good luck to everyone.

Oh, by the way, Newports have the highest total pinfall so far. It was a lucky 1319. That's quite an achievement.

Louise Vigorita has all her troubles behind her now and is well on the road to recovery. Louise, did the doctor ask you if you were growing your own bowling balls.

Marks to Captain Hamilton Six For Second Year

Ted Marks, son of Dr. and Mrs. George A. Marks of 32 Foxcroft Road, has been elected to be co-captain of Hamilton College hockey team for the year 1963-64, according to an announcement just made there by athletic director Donald M. Jones.

Ted, a goalie, receives a special honor by this vote, having captained this year's six through a very successful season, which concluded last week by defeating a strong Middlebury team 2-1. In this game Ted kept Middlebury's all-American representative scoreless.

Ted was an area all-star in New York last year and is expected to get this honor again this year.

According to his family here, although it was reported recently that he got his hockey start at the Choate School, where he completed his secondary education, in fact Ted is a product of a strong Winchester hockey start.

He began his career with the local Pee Wee League under Scott Parrot, and he mad his real start in competitive hockey at the high school under Coach Frank Finigan, whose coaching prowess Ted holds in high regard.

Local Badminton Club Racks Up New Records

In sweeping nine out of the ten individual doubles matches against the Maugus Club of Wellesley at Maugus on Monday night, March 18, the Winchester Badminton Club not only compiled the most outstanding local record in many years but also established several Massachusetts Badminton Association League records to boot.

Ending the regular season with a record of 50 doubles victories and only 10 defeats, the local badminton team swept all divisional titles (men's, ladies', and mixed), established a perfect record on their home court of 30 wins without a single loss, rewrote the record books with three consecutive shut-out victories, and are now awaiting notification as to what team they will meet to challenge for the state "D" League championship.

The winning doubles combinations who helped to close out the regular season's League play in a spectacular manner against Maugus, and the scores by which they defeated their opponents, were as follows:

Men's doubles: Bill Macneill and Russ Meade (15-9, 18-15); Lloyd Butterfield and Jay Gottesfeld (15-9, 15-11); Bob Gallant and Bill Macneill (15-13, 11-15, 18-13); Al Kajander and Russ Meade (15-5, 18-17).

Ladies' doubles: Alison Hersey and Maxine Kajander (15-9, 15-5); Paula Di Iorio and Stella Gallant (15-1, 15-1).

Mixed doubles: Lloyd Butterfield and Paula Di Iorio (15-11, 14-18, 15-13); Al Kajander and Alison Hersey (15-11, 15-3); Brad Hersey and Lois Hersey (9-15, 15-9, 15-11).

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur P. Bonney, Lexington, formerly of Winchester.

VFW Post 3719 Auxiliary Bowling

Lucy Corsetti is our headliner this week, with a 332 total, the highest bowled this year. With only four more weeks of bowling, it will be interesting to see if anyone can top this. Lucy's 332 included strings of 100, 120, and 112. Congratulations, Lucy. With your help the Spades topped their own record high triple of 1329 with a 1354. This total consisted of team strings of 453, 464, and 437. Wonderful bowling by the whole team.

Even with the Spades doing so well, the Diamonds managed to win the third string. It was close, 443 to 437. No doubt Stina's 107 string was the deciding factor. The Hearts won all four points over the Clubs, again by very slim margins. If the club's missing player had been there, it might have been quite a different story.

Lucy, of course, was high bowler this week. Eleanor was second with 92, 102, 99, to total 293. Stine was second with 89, 90, 107, total 286. Rosie D., not yet up to par after her California trip, came in fourth with 265. This week was much better than last week, so maybe you'll be on the beam again by next week, Rose.

Was Ruthie Kidding when she said she should be allowed six balls each time because she was bowling for two?

Howard Johnson's At Fresh Pond Re-Decorated

The Howard Johnson Resturant at Fresh Pond Parkway, operated by Edward T. Peabody, is celebrating its 15th anniversary with complete redecorations in its two dining rooms, the cocktail lounge and the luncheonette.

Ten years ago Mr. Peabody found it necessary to expand to properly serve the increased volume of patrons who enter the restaurant. Two additions have been made in the past ten years, and this Spring the exterior will be remodelled.

The main dining room and the adjoining Blue Room have been completely redecorated with new wall-to-wall carpeting, booths and furniture, and new ceilings and lighting fixtures. The popular, cozycocktail lounge has received a similar treatment but here the walls are paneled in boards taken from a Vermont barn purported to be over two centuries old.

This Howard Johnson restaurant is now feauring a special cocktail hour from 4 to 7:30 p.m. The bar is open from noon to midnight.

Mr. Peabody also operates the Howard Johnson restaurant at 1120 Soldiers Field Road in Brighton, next to Radio Station WBZ.

A Fish Story

Most readers of the Star know about the Dade summer home on Lake Winnipesaukee, they would also know, we should suppose, about the little group of thinkers whom "Ernie" from time to time entertains at his hospitable camp. Among them are the Elliotts, "Syd" and "Al, "Nick" Fitzgerald and "Charlie" Murphy, to name a few. Stories of this gang run the gamut from bear hunting to gin rummy, with plenty of fishing yarns thrown in.

Now "Ernie" takes his fishing seriously, and he likes to be able to back the stories he tells of his prowess with rod and reel. To this end he has had a nice little salmon mounted and placed in the living room of the camp over the fireplace to substantiate the Dade contention that he fishes well.

Now the fish has made no especial imprint on "Al" and "Syd" Elliott. They had, they said, seen bigger fish, and recently while on a round of second hand shops in Malden to see what they could come up with for the Rotary Auction they saw another fish considerably larger in every way than the one above the Dade fireplace in the living room.

As a matter of cold fact this fish, mounted on a board the way such fish are, was only slightly smaller than the whale that swallowed Jonah. The measurements must have been very close. In fact they were close enough so that "Al" had an idea. You know "Al," he is always full of ideas!

"Al" thought it would be a good thing to buy that mounted fish and removing the one above the Dade fireplace, substitute for it the gargantuan job that was the pride of the Malden second hand shop. The more "Syd" thought about it, the more he found himself in agreement with his brother! Both were sure that "Nick Fitz" and "Charlie" Murphy would be in favor so there was nothing left to do but buy the fish.

This took a bit of doing, for the second hand man had a knowledge of mounted fish, and was not disposed to let this one go cheaply. "Al" and "Syd" had to really pull out the old vox humana and give it the business to buy the fish for $10. Some non-fishing enthusiasts may think this was too much to pay for the fish but to the Elliotts this was dirt cheap. "For Ernie," they figured, "Well, now I ask you!"

So the sale was made and the brothers returned to Winchester, feeling they had done a good night's work. "Nick Fitz" and Charlie Murphy supported this thinking and the upshot of it all was that the big fish was swathed in paper and accompanied the "fearless four" to New Hampshire the first time an invitation was at hand.

Now the idea was to remove the Dade fish from its place above the mantel and substitute the big job. "Won't Ernie be surprised," quipped "Al"!

Now the brothers felt that something of a subtle approach would be in order, which meant it was necessary to get Mr. Dade out of the house for a while. This is where "Nick Fitz" came into the picture. On the pretext of doing some necessary shopping, in the consummation of which only Mr. Dade could help, he succeeded in getting "Ernie" to ride to the village with him. The brothers and Mr. Murphy acted quickly in their absence.

When "Ernie" and "Nick" returned to the Dade camp the modest little fish Mr. Dade had hooked had been removed and in its place hung the Leviathan of the deep for which the Elliott boys paid $10 in Malden.

Everyone was of course innocent and easy. There were no remarks about fish or anything, and Mr. Dade seemed not at all aware of the change in sea food. In fact he paid absolutely no attention to the Elliott's big fish during the remainder of the normal day much to the "fearless four" schagrin. The quintet retired for the night without any comment from the host.

The next day "Ernie" broke down and wanted to know about the fish, saying he had spotted the swap at once, but had thought he would keep still about it for a while! Both sides seem satisfied with what happened, though the Elliotts paid the most for their share of the joke. Whether the big fish will eventually find its way into the Rotary Auction remains to be seen. Maybe "Les" Whittaker could use it at the Conservatories.

Allyn Opening Draws Crowd

SOCIABILITY AND CULTURE WERE THE BYWORDS Saturday as more than 200 persons visited the newly re-opened offices of the A. C. Allyn Co., investment brokers at 47 Church Street. Interest in both the expanding firm and the special exhibit of works of 23 local artists ran high. Among others Aram Mouradian and branch manager Maurice Bird can be seen in the photo.

WHS Swimmers Take Third Place

For the first time recorded, four Winchester High School swimmers represented the school in the State Meet held last Saturday at the Waltham Boys' Club.

They took third place out of 22 team entries and Barry Littleton, one of the four, tied with Tom Morse of Brookline for individual high honors.

The boys were complimented by the meet officials for their spirit and sportsmanship swimming against well organized teams which had just completed regular meet schedules. With 21 points they came in behind Brookline, with 52 and Boston English High with 44.

The hastily put together team which had very little time for practice was made up of John Cheever, Bruce Erikson, and Harold Mugford in addition to Littleton.

Harold Mugford won a third place in the 100 yard freestyle with the good time of 58.5 seconds for three points. The four boys took third place in the 200 yard freestyle relay for six points, and were barely nosed out for second place.

Barry Littleton took a first place in the 50 yard freestyle in the fast time of 24.2 seconds which equaled the time in the Massachusetts state meet a few weeks ago. Barry also scored a first place in the 100 yard butterfly with the excellent time of 58.6 seconds, three seconds later than the time in the state meet.

The Individual High Point Trophy was awarded to Morse rather than Littleton on the basis of his team's higher finish in the 200 yard freestyle relay.

Girl Scout Troop In Knot Tying

Troop 513 is to be congratulated for its participation in the "living window" which was held at Hevey's Pharmacy during last week's celebration for the Girl Scouts of America.

The troop gave a performance in knot tying with each girl doing a square knot, a bowline, a sheepshank, and a clove hitch. They also placed in the window a large board illustrating and describing the knots they tied. Their demonstration attracted considerable attention and praise from passers-by.

Those girls participating in the activity were: Marina Cincotta, Mara Downes, Patricia Jewell, Victoria Kinley, Mary Longo, Carol Malthaner, Heidi Newman, Mary Putnam, Carol Vallee.

CAPITOL COMMENT

By YOUR CONGRESSMAN
BRAD MORSE

Although the legislative breakthrough has not been impressive, the days that have elapsed since the 88th Congress set up shop on January 9th have been fast moving for Congressmen.

Congressional Committees have set a rapid pace on the domestic, national and international issues related to their respective jurisdictions. The Foreign Affairs Committee, to which I was appointed in January, has assumed an important and active role in this first-session early burst of energy.

A great deal of history has been made since Congress convened, the continuing Cuban crisis, President De Gaulle's objection to Britain's entry into the Common Market, uprisings in Iraq and Syria, immediately come to mind. The Foreign Affairs Committee, through daily subcommittee hearings have kept a watchful eye on all of these developments. I have been privileged to take part over the past several weeks in extensive hearings held by the Subcommittee on Inter-American Affairs, dealing specifically with Communist subversion and infiltration in Latin America. The testimony which I heard, much of it top secret, offered little encouragement.

I will have an opportunity to gain further insight into the problems which face us in Latin America this week as one of the American delegates to an Interparliamentary Conference which will be held in Mexico. Twenty-four Members of Congress, including Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, will participate in the Conference. We expect to meet with Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos, who President Kennedy visited last year.

The domestic pot has been boiling, too. Last week the House itself got down to business in authorizing $15.8 billion for procurement of armaments such as missiles, planes and naval vessels, and for research development and testing in the coming fiscal year.

Hearings have been held almost daily by the House Ways and Means Committee on the President's tax proposal. Although it is not possible to predict at this time what the final outcome will be, I can report that there is a sense of uneasiness here in Congress about plunging the nation more deeply into the red - an inevitable result unless significant cuts are made in Government spending. The tax bill will indeed be the "great debate" of the First Session of the 88th Congress.

A variety of critical matters are being considered by other committees - the Mass Transportation Bill which by the way, the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce has endorsed; the Youth Employment Act, and the Domestic Peace Corps to mention a few. It's going to be a busy year.

Mrs. Earl Reed Forum Speaker

At the chapel service this Sunday at the First Congregational Church, Mrs. Earl Reed, director of Religious Education of the church, will speak to The Senior Forum on the subject "Our Father, Our World." Chaplains for the service will be Charles Irwin and Charles Baldwin. Bruce Carpenter and Peter Hessler will serve as deacons and James Batten and Stephen Kajander as ushers.

Mrs. Reed has been interested in youth for many years as a worker in denominational and local church programs. Mother of three, she has been in close touch with the attitudes and actions of young people through their growing-up years. She has taken active part in the leadership of youth conferences and summer camps and leadership training groups. At present she serves as chairman of the Mass. Congregational Conference Committee on Christian Education. This committee is responsible for setting up a total of twenty youth conferences for the young people of Congregational churches in Massachusetts. Mrs. Reed is a good friend of Forum, having spoken previously in the chapel program and having served as discussion leader for the 1961 Spring Conference at Purity Spring.

Registrations for the April 15-18 Spring Conference are being received at the Forum office by Jonathan Moody, assistant treasurer. This three-day trip to Purity Spring, East Madison, N. H. will afford Forum young people a good time in the recreation facilities of the resort as well as conference periods under the inspiration of guest adult leaders. Gwen Eugley and Larry Archibald as co-chairmen are making final arrangements for the event.

Tickets for the Inter-Church Lenten Rally to be held in Chidley Hall on March 31 may be secured from Janet Millican or Dorothy Williams or at the Forum office. Rev. Robert Little of Keene, N. H. will speak.

Forum members will conduct the Youth Lenten Service next Wednesday morning at 7:15 at Meyer Chapel at the Unitarian Church.

Ecumenical Story Brought Here By Monsignor Lally

An overflow audience at St. Mary's Hall was kept at peak attention last Thursday evening by the lively, on-the-spot report of this fall's Ecumenical Council in Rome as seen through the eyes of one of the best speakers in the Diocese, the Right Reverend Monsignor Francis J. Lally, editor of the "Pilot."

Msgr. Lally spoke here at the St. Mary's Holy Name annual Communion supper following a 7-p.m. Mass at the church, celebrated by the Reverend Martin J. Dolphin, spiritual director of the Society.

He gave the group a colorful and detailed report of the attendance of the Boston group at the meetings which included many sidelights as well as interpretive points about this important worldwide gathering of the church.

The evening was a complete success. The St. Mary's Holy Name Choir rendered hymns during the church services directed by James Henry with Miss Kay Roache, organist. Following the Mass all adjourned to St. Mary's Hall where a delicious roast beef dinner was served. The beautiful floral arrangements on stage were the responsibility of Robert Costello, member of the committtee.

Honorary chairman society president Richard Hines started the speaker program by welcoming all. He expressed hope that the Society would increase in membership and keep the high standard of attendance at monthly meetings that it has achieved. He called upon each member of the committee to stand and be recognized. The program was then turned over to the program chairman Gregory Sacca who introduced the speaker for the evening who in addition to editing the "Pilot," is a member of the Boston Redevelopment Authority, vice chairman of the U. S. National Commission for UNESC-

The Family Supper was under the able direction of James F. Henry and Vito Giarrizzo as co-chairmen and John M. MacDonald, ticket chairman; Gregory Sacca, program chairman; Robert Costello, publicity; and John Looney, treasurer; and the following ticket committee: Leo Roache, George Ross, John Fitzgerald, Hugh Fay, Frank Antonuccio, John Waite, Frank Grabiec, Bernard Delorey, John Dolan, Fred Fiumara, Arthur Sampson, Arthur Duffy and William McGaragle.

Homemade Bomb Explodes, Injuring Three Local Youths

Three Winchester youths were injured on Tuesday, March 19, when a home made bomb they were constructing out of an empty CO2 cartridge and cut match heads suddenly exploded in front of them. Richard Thuma, 15, of 2 Allen Road suffered severe injuries to his neck and hands, Paul Hooker, 13, of Highland Avenue sustained a severe laceration of the right wrist, and Paul Robinson, 13, of 12 Ledyard Road received lacerations about the right rib. The three boys were treated for their injuries at the Winchester Hospital. Dick Thuma was admitted for removal of a piece of metal from his neck, and was released on Sunday.

The police were alerted by an emergency telephone call from the Thuma home at 4:03 p.m. Desk Oficer William Callahan dispatched Officers William Nash and James Cogan who were on patrol car duty to the scene. On the way to the Thuma home the two officers were flagged down by a passing motorist at the intersection of Highland and Madison Avenues. The woman was transporting the three boys to the hospital. The officers transferred the injured youths to the police cruiser and on the way to the hospital, police said, the boys were crying and getting very hysterical. Meanwhile, a call was sent out for doctors and the blood bank was notified.

In the police investigation of the accident Paul Robinson related this account of what happened:

"After school while walking home with Jeff Schlener we met with Dick Thuma and Wayne Carpenter. Dick and Wayne were talking about making homemade bombs out of match heads and CO2 cartridges and I was invited to come over to the Thuma house after I changed my clothes and help.

"After I changed my clothes I told my mother where I was going and she told me to be careful as it was very dangerous.

"I walked from my house to Dick Thuma's and rang the front door bell. Mrs. Thuma came to the front door and told me that the other kids were in the basement.

"When I went into the basement Jeff and Dick were cutting the heads off of paper matches and I began to stuff the match heads into a CO2 cartridge that was in the bench vise. After I put a few heads into the cartridge I began to pack them in with a pin and banging the pin with a hammer.

"After I had been there for some time Paul Hooker came in.

"Both Dick and I packed the match heads in the cartridge. Before the explosion I was packing the heads, Dick was standing in front of the vise, and Paul was standing nearby.

"When the cartridge exploded I heard Dick scream and run upstairs to his mother. I ran upstairs after him and all I can remember is that I saw a lot of blood on the floor.

WHS Bomb Scare Is Second False Alarm in Month

More than 1,000 Winchester Senior High School students, teachers, and administrative personnel were forced to evacuate the High School building at 9:59 o'clock Tuesday morning after an unidentified caller telephoned the principal's office and said there was a bomb in the school.

It was the second bomb scare at the High School this year, and came exactly one month to the day after the first one on Tuesday, February 26.

Howard Niblock, principal of the High School, sounded the fire alarm to abandon the building as quickly as possible, and called the Fire and Police Departments.

After a 20-minute search did not locate "the bomb," the students were dismissed for the day by Mr. Niblock.

"We have enough things to worry about without this sort of thing happening," Mr. Niblock said.

"After the three boys were injured in a bomb explosion last week here in Town," he added, "some of the girls were really shaken up by this, thinking it might be for real."

The decision whether to return the kids to school or whether to dismiss them for the day used to rest with the Fire Department, Mr. Niblock said. However, he

GOING OVER THE ACCOUNTING AND LEGAL ASPECTS OF THE WARRANT are Town Accountant James Costello and Town Counsel Vincent Clarke. Both of these town officials are kept busy during the entire Town Meeting proceedings due to the shifts called for by the action of the meeting. Mr. Costello has to adjust the relationship of accounting figures, while Mr. Clarke has to check the legal wording and correctness of every article and motion that is passed.

Town Accepts Comptroller Act $4,986,000 In Budgets Passed; Town Building Comm. Created

In the second two sessions of the annual Winchester Town Meeting for 1963 the Town (1) Voted to accept the Act passed by the State Legislature for establishing the office of Comptroller in Winchester and abolishing the office of Town Accountant; (2) Voted to approve 64 departmental budget appropriations amounting to approximately $4,986,000, including a record high $2,260,944 School Department budget; (3) Voted to approve further Chapter 90 Highway construction and maintenance on Ridge Street; (4) Voted to accept as a Town Road the section of State Highway located on the northerly side of Route 3 after certain improvements are made (Cambridge Street, between Pond Street and the Woburn line); (5) Voted to continue the overall improvement in the lower floor of the Town Hall; (6) Voted to construct a permanent honor roll memorial for World War I, II and Korean War veterans in back of the flag pole at the Town Hall; and (7) Voted to establish a permament building committee to oversee all future municipal construction and reconstruction.

The appointment of a Town Comptroller will be made by the Selectmen, and according to the terms of the Act, should be made as soon as possible after the adjournment of the Town Meeting. The Comptroller will be the chief accounting officer of the Town, and will have more power (through the Selectmen) to determine efficient accounting, clercial, equipment and supplies, and personnel deployment policies in the operations of the Town.

This year's departmental and board budget appropriations of $4,986,000, is approximately $200,000, or one-fifth of a million dollars, higher than the 1962 appropriations of $4,792,000.

Out of 223 Town Meeting Members, 184 showed up for the Special Town Meeting on Thursday, March 21, in the Memorial Auditorium of the Senior High School. At the regular meeting that followed the special session, 163 of the total 223 Town Meeting Members stayed. At the fourth session on Monday night, March 25, 184 out of 225 Town Meeting Members attended.

March 21: Special Session Comptroller Act Accepted, Appointment To Be In April

The unusual Special Town Meeting called within a regularly scheduled annual Town Meeting met on last Thursday night to determine whether the Town would accept two special articles: (1) Chapter 57 of the Acts of the General Court, "An Act Establishing the Office of the Comptroller in the Town of Winchester," and (2) Chapter 54, Section 16A of the Acts of the General Court, to see if the Town would take any action in relation to vacancies. "appointments by City or Town Clerks to fill." Both of the special articles were unanimously passed by the Town representatives.

The early Special Town Meeting was called by the Selectmen as a result of Governor Endicott Peabody's signing into being the Comptroller Act on February 20. The Act was passed by the Legislature after the 1962 Winchester Town Meeting voted to petition the State for permission to make the local change abolishing the post of Town Accountant and replacing the position with a Town Comptroller.

The Town's acceptance of the Act means the new Comptroller will be appointed for a three year term by the Board of Selectmen as soon as possible. The term of office for the new Comptroller will begin on April 1, 1963.

The Comptroller will serve as the Town's chief accounting officer. He will have no independent policy making power and will be responsible to the Selectmen, who may remove him from office as the appointing authority upon evidence of cause. His duties will be to assure the most efficient use of personnel, equipment and supplies in the administration of Town business, and to maximize the efficiency of Town accounting procedures.

COMPTROLLER DISCUSSION

Shortly before 8:00 p.m. the Special Town Meeting was called to order and Rev. John O'Donnell of St. Mary's Church offered a prayer. Then, Rae Anderson, chairman of the Methods and Procedures Committee, reviewed for the representatives how the Comptroller Act emanated from the committee's study of the clerical and accounting work done in the Town.

"Some people's likening the Comptroller to a Simon Legree is an over-statement," Mr. Anderson said, "for it is entirely an accounting position.

"Bookie Joint" Film Gets Boston Showing

The famed television documentary film "Biography of a Bookie Joint" was shown on Channel 5 last Wednesday night despite an injunction attempt in Federal Court by two of the convicted bookies to prevent its being shown on the grounds that it would be an invasion of their privacy and would tend to place them in public ridicule.

Federal Judge George C. Sweeney denied the injunction, saying that the public has a genuine interest in such a place (the notorious key shop in Boston) and has a right to know the personnel of such hangers on and such persons are subject to public scrutiny and public comment.

The film, which was shown nation-wide over the CBS network in 1961, was blacked out in Boston because of legal cases still pending in the courts.

The showing of the film caused a furore across the nation, but a furor of a different type took place in Boston.

One of the chief features of the film was an interview with Rep. Harrison Chadwick of Winchester, who had formerly (1953 to 1957) served on the Massachusetts State Crime Commission. His remarks caused an uproar in the State Legislature, and eventually House Speaker John Thompson brought about the censure of Rep. Chadwick by his colleagues.

Rep. Chadwick's "trial" was televised in Gardiner Auditorium. Although it was the first public censure by the Legislature of one of its own in about 45 years, it did not keep the 17-year veteran representative from being reelected to the 29th Middlesex District.

On the evening of the showing of the documentary film in the Greater Boston area for the first time, House Speaker John Thompson called an unusual mandatory special evening meeting of the House. The members of the Legislature who had censured Rep. Chadwick were unable, therefore, see the film for which the representative was "put on trial." Even after the trial was all over the Legislators had voted on the censure without having even seen the film.

Increase In Sexual Promiscuity Among Younger Set Decried

In a sermon to a full church last week, Rev. John W. Ellison, of the Church of the Epiphany, spoke out against the evident signs of increased sexual promiscuity among the teen-agers and young men and women of Winchester. He indicated that the signs were not just feelings or opinions, but statistical facts that he had checked with other Winchester clergymen and physicians.

Because of the nature of the sermon, and due to the amount of interest expressed in it, the Star is printing below the full text of Rev. Ellison's sermon:

Introduction:

Promiscuity in Winchester

It would be difficult, if not impossible, to give much specific information about by own knowledge without betraying confidences brought to me by people in trouble. One fact only from my knowledge of promiscuity in Winchester will be given, but be assured that my convictions are based upon many facts which I cannot reveal. The one fact is this, in the last fourteen months more cases of promiscuity resulting in pregnancy have been brought to my attention among the young pople in this parish than in the eight preceding years added together!

Recently, at a clergy conference, when I mentioned this, several men replied: "You and every other priest in the diocese!"

Upon double-checking my experience with a number of physicians in Winchester, they revealed that they, too, had been aware of a great increase here in the last year or two.

Other Relevant Data

Many sources have been documenting this same trend. (Some who would rather avoid the problem, saying that there is no problem here which has not always existed, will quibble about the reliability of these sources and their scientific methods. Do this long enough and you won't have to act.)

First Source: Adoption agencies. Last year on three different occasions and from different people, the clergy were told: "If you have parishioners who have applied for a baby to adpot and have been turned down, please have them reapply. We have a greatly increased supply of babies to place and we have difficulty finding the right homes for them."

March 21: Third Session Town Votes $2,265,432 In School Education Budget

Immediately after the completion of the Special Town Meeting at 8:20 p.m., the Town Moderator called the regularly scheduled Town Meeting to order. Fred Stockwell, chairman of the Finance Committee, made a motion that the Town Meeting hold a session on Saturday, March 30, to help speed up the business. "Interest wanes as the meeting drags on, and this will expedite both Town Meeting action and the number of sessions," he said.

Several Town Meeting Members quickly rose in opposition to a Saturday meeting. Robert Winn said he had not missed a Town Meeting in eight years, but he could not leave his business to make a Saturday meeting. James Cullen said he saw no reason for such a change, especially since some of the representatives had run for office on the basis that they could plan on attending any number of meetings on Monday and Thursday nights.

The motion for a Saturday meeting was voted down by the Town Meeting members.

OBSERVERS

The town moderator interrupted the meeting to tell the assembly that a group of students from Jamaica Plain High School who were studying problems in democracy were attending the meeting as observers, and that members of a Winchester High School course were similarly observing a Jamaica Plain town meeting.

SANITATION BUDGET

The deferred Sewer Budget was quickly passed when a correction was noted, but the discussion of the Sanitation Budget waxed long and strong.

Arthur Hewis asked what the $250 telephone bill at the town incinerator could possibly be so high for. The town moderator said the town engineer was ill and not able to attend the meeting so the question could not be answered that night. Mr. Hewis said he had asked a question and was not satisfied.

"I still do not see how they could have charged up a $250 telephone bill at the town incinerator unless they run a bookie joint there," Mr. Hewis said. This brought howls of laughter from the assembly, including the town moderator, Rep. Harrison Chadwick.

THE SELECTMEN

Paul C. Dunn, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, defended the Sanitation Budget. He said over half of the overtime registered was for garbage collection, especially during the summer when collections have to be made six days a week.

Regarding the incinerator, Mr. Dunn said the volume of trash going to the incinerator has surprised everyone connected with it. "Forty to fifty per cent of the town's trash goes to the incinerator on Saturday," he said. He indicated that the overtime had to be put in during the week so the pit would be open to receive Saturday's rush.

ARTHUR HEWIS

Mr. Hewis called the Sanitation Budget "palatial billing." There are fires there continually that the Fire Department is called upon to answer, he said, and the high costs of maintenance are ridiculous.

"Give me a salary of $10,500 and I'll set a schedule that'll eliminate the overtime," Mr. Hewis said. He charged that the Superintendent of Highways was not overseeing the huge amounts of overtime being put in.

DELETE 5,000

Frank D. Hawkins said the overtime on the Sanitation Budget exceeded that of both the Police and Fire Departments.

Mr. Hewis made a motion that $5,000 be struck out of the overtime for the Sanitation Budget.

Robert P. Bigelow motioned that the meeting table the previous motion until the next meeting when the Town Engineer could be present to explain the item.

Mr. Hewis objected.

THE VOTE

The town moderator put the motion to table Mr. Hewis' motion to a vote; and the vote was negative. The next vote was on Mr. Hewis' motion, and the "ayes" carried the motion 97 to 68.

RECONSIDERATION MOTION

Mr. Dunn immediately moved for reconsideration of reducing $5,000 from the $11,091 overtime for the services part of the Sanitation Budget. Such a reconsideration would have required a two-thirds majoriay vote to be reconsidered.

Mr. Dunn charged that "Those of you who voted may not know what you are talking about.

"The Board of Selectmen has confidence in the Highway Department superintendent," he said. He said the town could run the incinerator without there being any overtime, but it would have to be closed two days of the week. (Editor's Note: The Selectmen have this week ordered the incinerator closed on Mondays and Fridays.) He said the Selectmen were not aware of any major breakdown or maintenance problems at the incinerator. "A big operation like this requires high cost and big maintenance outlays," he said, "at least for the first few years."

Mr. Stockwell said the Finance Committee had studied the overtime problem in the running of the incinerator, but had satisfied itself that after the shakedown period steps had been taken to reduce the overtime put in.

Eugene B. Rotondi said there was no question the overtime could be solved with an efficient manpower schedule.

Mr. Hewis said there are six men at work at the incinerator. "Five of these men come under the Sanitation Budget," he said, "but rumor has it that the sixth is a part of the Highway Department's Budget."

RECONSIDERATION VOTE

The town moderator brought the question to a vote, but the reconsideration motion was defeated 96 to 74.

On the main motion to pass the budget as amended, striking $5,000 from the overtime under personal services, the Sanitation Budget was passed.

THE LAST WORD

Mr. Hewis chimed in at the end of the vote taking that he hoped as a result of the vote of the Town Meeting the Finance Committee would not grant the Sanitation Budget an additional $5,000 from its control of the reserve funds.

March 25: Fourth Session Budgets Passed, Town Hall Renovations Are Approved

The fourth session of the annual Town Meeting was opened with a prayer by Rev. Joseph E. O'Donnell, Jr. of the First Baptist Church and then the school athletic and school lunch budgets were taken up to polish off the School Department appropriations.

Art Johns, chairman of the School Committee, made a motion to amend the Finance Committee's recommended athletic budget by adding $2,000 for continuing soccer, wrestling and indoor track.

Mr. Johns said 30 to 40 kids joined the supervised soccer program when it was started in the fall of 1961. Another 20 to 25 kids joined the wrestling program last winter. And the indoor track team that was started in December of 1961 has won many indoor track meets.

"These are all kids who for various reasons were not eligible or able to play the regularly scheduled sports," he said. They had a good time, were getting good exercise, and were not out riding around in automobiles or knocking over cans in the center for something to do. "If you think we did the right thing," he concluded, "vote for the amended motion to the High School athletic program.

FINANCE COMMITTEE

Fred F. Stockwell, chairman of the Finance Committee, said the committee was opposed to the amendment to the recommended budget.

SPECIAL SPEAKER

A Town Meeting Member moved to have David Bird, a member of the senior class at the High School, speak to the assembly. The move was seconded.

David Bird urged that the Town Meeting allow the three new sports to continue in the High School program by voting for the amendment to the athletic budget. There were 97 boys who were not able to play football, basketball, or hockey but who did participate in the three sports under discussion, he said.

"The cost per boy participating in these sports," he said, "was $20 a boy, as opposed to over $200 a boy playing in the other major sports."

THE VOTE

On the motion to amend, the affirmatives carried the amendment, and on the original motion as amended, the "ayes" had it and the athletics budget with $2,000 added for the three new sports was passed.

SCHOOL LUNCHES

Art Johns explained how the Town must appropriate money to run the school lunch program in anticipation of income and expected expenses. Included in the budget was the cost of three upright freezers to make more and better use of the Federal surplus program.

The high cost, he said, was due to the increasing school population. About 70 per cent of the average daily attendance at the Lynch, McCall and High Schools are served hot lunches, he noted.

"The cost of the meals must be kept at 25 cents to be able to participate in the Federal program," he said. "But we lost money on each meal served," said Mr. Johns. In 1962 there were 204,000 hot meals served, he said, but in 1963 an expected 246,000 hot lunches will have to be served.

The school lunches budget was passed by voice vote without any opposition.

PARKS AND RECREATION

Albert A. MacDonnell, chairman of the Park Commissioners, motioned for an amendment to the Park and Recreation budget to include $605.00 for a softball program.

Mr. Tofuri said that softball has been a part of the Park Department program for 25 years, and that it should not be eliminated by cutting it from the budget.

Mr. Stockwell said the Finance Committee was not against having the softball program, but in the interests of economy, thought it could be cut from the budget.

Arthur Hewis said references to the budgets are increasing. "We had this out last year at the Town Meeting," Mr. Hewis said, "and the Finance Committee should have taken the policy view from the Town vote at that time and not brought it back again this year."

THE VOTE

On the motion to amend the budget by adding $605.00 for softball, the "ayes" had it, and the whole budget was then passed.

SCHOOL GROUNDS ATTACKED

Richard Merrow told the assembly that about five or six years ago the "maintenance" of the Town's school grounds was transferred from the School Department to the Park Department.

"But the Wyman, Lincoln and Mystic school grounds are all in poor shape," he said.

There should not only have been transferred the maintenance, which consists of mowing the lawns and cleaning up leaves and paper, but also the improvement of the grounds should have been transferred, he said.

"If the property looks poorly then the children will treat it poorly, and there have been a fantastic number of windows broken in the Mystic School in the past year," he said.

If the Park Department has a manpower problem, Mr. Merrow said, then the work should be subcontracted to a private landscaping business.

Mr. Merrow made a motion that the Park Department should be made responsible for the improvement of the school grounds as well as the maintenance of them.

ALBERT MacDONNELL

Mr. MacDonnell said the Park Department's agreement with the School Department was to cut the grass and shrubbery and general cleaning up. The permanent men are busy with other chores about the Town, he added, including the common, the parks, the beaches, and other Park Department properties.

"The Park Department is not going in there and make major policy changes," Mr. MacDonnell said. "We only made one agreement, to cut the grass, and any other major expenses and changes must come from the School Department," he said. "Our agreement says nothing about improvements," he added.

Spring Days Bring First Brush Fires

The first week of spring brought a rash of brush fires in themselves reminders that one warm day can dry the top layer of brush enough to ignite it with ease.

Tuesday afternoon the Fire Department went up to the Locke Farm on Ridge Road in response to a brush call, also to a fire near the snow dump bridge on Mystic Valley Parkway.

Yesterday morning the firemen were again busy along the Parkway, nearer to town and by the river.

Art Glass Study At Antiques Group

Art Glass existed in antiquity. Decorations used then were used in making nineteenth century glass. This point was brought out by the speaker at the March meeting of the Antique Study Group which was held at the Rich Room of the Library.

Miss Hilda Sanderson told of loopings, threading etc. of ancient glass and then concentrated on nineteenth century Art Glass. She told how color was put into glass, which metal produced which color and the part reheating played in producing a two toned glass.

Using a mother-of-pearl vase shading from blue to white she explained air traps, crimping and how the soft satin finish was accomplished.

Numerous glass houses producing Art Glass were mentioned and the type of glass produced by each was each brought out by the telling of patterns and licenses.

The speaker explained and showed various types of decoration. Gilding, enamelling and cold painting produced colorful outside decoration. Acid etching and cutting were extensively used. Apdplied decorations were beading such as Corelene, molded designs of flowers or fruits. There were impressed designs made when the glass was blown or pressed in a mold. Cameo designs were cut by hand through cased glass by skillful artists. This being a very expensive method the acid etching was used to produce a less costly article. Early threading was done by hand.

Much decoration was done by hand tooling plastic glass applied to an article. The lily pad decoration of New Jersey Glass is an example, loopings were often done by hand tooling. Cased or plated glass was used extensively as the foundation for colorful decoration. The method of producing cased, plated and overlay glass was discussed. Mention was made here of the beautiful sandwich overlay lamps. A hand lamp of blue overlay cut to clear was shown.

Among the pieces of Art Glass on display was a satin salt which showed painting combined with enamelling. An English cased vase showed very heavy enamel decoration. A basket of outstanding design and color was cased. The handle applied to the inside added interest as did the turned down rim, a type not often seen. A beautiful piece of Quezal with its lovely coloring showed why, this glass was named after the Quezal bird of Central America seldom seen by travelers.

A Webb Corelene bowl made in England with box pleated top was outstanding because of color and design. A KewBlas shade allowed members to see a type of iridescent glass made by the Union Glass Co. of Somerville, Mass. An Amberina finger bowl was attributed to the New England Glass Co. of Cambridge while an Amberina pitcher was thought to be of mid western origin. All were happy to see a marked cameo piece made by Galle of France. A small vase with lining of blue showed an applied base which had been acid treated. A small toothpick and a basket of spatter glass were examples of a technique previously discussed when the speaker mentioned embedding particles of glass and metals and the three types of glass produced.

The next meeting of the group will be held on April 16 at 7:30 p.m. in the Rich Room of the Library. Miss May E. Day will speak on "Doll and Costume Accessories."

Optometrists Hear Talk By Dr. DiNapoli

John A. DiNapoli, O.D., of 36 South Gateway was a featured speaker at the 41st annual congress of the New England Council of Optometrists recently in Boston.

Dr. DiNapoli, who is coordinator of eye testing in the Medford public school system, was chosen to speak to over 100 optometrists and invited school administrators and school nurses from the New England area, due to the excellence of the visual screening program in Medford.

His report on the general mechanics, use, and desirability of these devices followed a talk by Dr. Mary C. Austin, of the Harvard-Carnegie Reading Study, on the reading problems, causes, and treatment of children. Dr. DiNapoli's report stressed the importance of a good visual screening program in its ability to detect the visual defects of children in early school years. It is vitally important that parents be aware of this undertaking and cooperate with school authorities in taking steps necessary, through professional help, to gain the solution to a problem which many school children have.

$400,000 In Notes Sold By Town To Two Local Banks

The Town sold $400,000 in notes which are to be dated April 1, 1963, and which will mature on November 1, 1963, in anticipation of revenue, last Friday according to Marguerite H. Troop, town treasurer.

Miss Troop said she was pleased to announce that the accepted bids averaged 1.32 per cent interest to the Town, which is an extremely low rate of loan interest. Current private bank loan rates of interest usually range between 5 per cent and 7 per cent. Winchester is one of six towns in the state that has a Triple A credit rating.

Miss Troop said the Winchester National Bank won a bid for $200,000 at a rate of 1.30 per cent interest, and the Winchester Trust Company won a bid for the other $200,000 at a 1.34 per cent rate of interest.

The losing bid from the Winchester National Bank for $200,000 was at a rate of 1.40 per cent interest, and the losing bid from the Winchester Trust Company for the other $200,000 was at a rate of 1.38 per cent.

Other bids were received as follows: The First National Bank of Boston, 1.35 per cent; the State Street Bank and Trust Company, 1.39 per cent; The National Shawmut Bank, 1.38 per cent plus a 10 per cent premium; The New England Merchants National Bank, 1.37 per cent; and the Boston Safe Deposit and Trust Company, 1.38 per cent.

Ex-Communist Speaks April 3 At Marycliff

On Wednesday, April 3, at 8 p.m. Douglas Hyde will lecture in the Marycliff Auditorium. A former communist leader in England and a recent convert to Catholicism, Mr. Hyde will discuss the ways in which the Free World can combat communism.

The lecture, sponsored by the academy and the parents' associations, will show how Mr. Hyde has helped in the fight against communism by visiting and living with prisoners of war all over the world, and by his writing.

He is a former editor of the "Daily Worker."

Strong Challenges House Speaker To Let House See Film

Dwight S. Strong, executive secretary of the New England Citizens Crime Commission, yesterday hurled a potent challenge at Rep. John F. Thompson (D) of Ludlow, Speaker of the Massachusetts House.

Mr. Strong, in an open letter to the Speaker, maintained that the calling of the night session of the House for 8 p.m., March 20, when the film, "Biography of a Bookie Joint," was shown over CBS television, was "an interference of the basic democratic process of the free flow of information." He also charged "the House members were denied all the facts in their proper context."

Mr. Strong asked Thompson to arrange for a private showing of the documentary film to members of the House.

He charged that the remarks of Rep. Harrison Chadwick (R) of Winchester, the basis of which were grounds for the 1962 censure of Rep. Chadwick, were not presented to House members before they voted on the resolution to "reverse" the censure.

Despite the 116 to 100 vote, in favor of taking action to somewhat vindicate Rep. Chadwick, Mr. Strong supposed the vote still may be against Rep. Chadwick, but he thinks the Legislature should see the film that has been shown the public.

"Romamsterdam" Is Gay Night At The High School

The student body turned out Saturday night with 18 birthday cakes and a lot of good wishes in a "Romamsterdam" dance tendered by them to their foreign guests, Anna Sant'Elia of Rome and Robert Ten Have of Amsterdam.

With a large windmill and a leaning tower of Pisa constructed by the Student Council committee to give the continental touch, the dancers got off to a full evening of fun.

The birthday cakes were in honor of Miss Sant'Elia, whose birth date the committee discovered came last week. And not to forget Robert, the group also presented him with a colored photograph of last fall's soccer team on which he played an important part.

Ron Keane, Judy Tofuri and Lynn Anderson headed a large committee of workers to whom the guests were all indebted for a highly successful party.

House Sentiment For Vindication Favors Chadwick

State House, Boston. The sentiment of the Massachusetts House was recorded last Thursday as opposed to the 1962 House censure of Rep. Harrison Chadwick of Winchester for his remarks suggesting a link between legislators and bookies as broadcast coast-to-coast in 1961 in the CBC documentary, "Biography of a Bookie Joint."

On a resolution to have the House "reverse" the 1962 action, 116 Representatives voted to suspend rules to admit the matter, and 100 voted not to suspend rules. A two-thirds vote was needed.

The half-hour debate on the censureship of last year featured charges and implications from both sides of the aisle.

Rep. William Finnegan (D) of Everett, former Democratic whip who argued for censureship last year, charged that Rep. Sidney Q. Curtiss, Republican Floor Leader, was insincere in offering a resolution to vindicate the Winchester Republican of the censorship.

Finnegan pointed out that the matter could have been offered directly through the House Rules Committee, rather than by offering it from the floor thus requiring a two-thirds vote to advance it to the committee.

The resolution, he said, was politically motivated, because of animosity between Chadwick and the GOP leader.

Finnegan then pointed out that "every other member of this House" knows that a Legislative body can only "regret" the action of a previous body, not reverse it, and he charged that Curtiss realized the rule.

"Was I mistaken when I said that this resolution was politically inspired?" asked Finnegan.

He said it was offered by the floor leader "who just a short time ago was at such odds with the gentleman from Winchester that you could almost feel the violent hatred if you walked between them."

"The minority leader was completely motivated by politics—there is no other interpretation to make."

He then charged Chadwick with irresponsibility. Referring to a night session the House held Wednesday, Finnegan declared, "He (Chadwick) couldn't accept the responsibility of a responsible legislator. He had to be down with the members and friends and guests at the New England Citizens Crime Commission, wallowing in self-adulation and self-commendation so he could review a thing he knew very well.

"I don't care who the person is, I am of the firm conviction that legislative immunity was never devised to allow a person to make wholesale condemnations without any proof, and that is just what happened in this matter."

Finnegan continued, when Rep. Benjamin H. White (R) of Groveland asked how much time was left for debeate, "Anyone in here who wants to stand up here and give names of any member who is actively engaged in the illegal operation of the booking business, I'll yield to them without hesitation.

"This resolution is an insult to the membership of this House because he (Curtiss) knows the House cannot do what this resolution is asking."

He then suggested that Curtiss "may be under the arm and hammer of Mr. Dwight Strong," director of the New England Citizens Crime Commission.

Rep. Curtiss took the floor with six minutes left for debate.

He then quoted excerpts from the 1962 Rules Committee report that urged censureship of Chadwick.

In the report, Chadwick was charged with:

—making "wild and irresponsible statements."

raising "a foul cloud of suspicion."

—presenting a "sordid record of fanatical deceitfulness."

—"arrogant, willful misconduct."

—being "smug, self-righteous and sanctimonious."

—implying "a pious fraud."

—"consuming an overpowering ego."

—"overriding conceit."

—"contemptuous behavior."

Three other excerpts Curtiss underlined read:

—dastardly despicable."

—"when his deceit and treachery were fully revealed in all their unmitigated boldness," and finally —"Sincerity cannot be allowed to become the mask behind which this slanderer, this liar, this hypocrite shall be permitted to hide his ugly face from the public."

Said Curtiss, "I think it is amazing that the great tradition of this House should be sullied by the use of words like that in an official report censuring one of its own membership.

"Never before has there been such a report of censureship as this one."

Curtiss then recounted the Chadwick appearance before the Rules committee:

He said counsel for Chadwick was denied the right to question witnesses at the hearing; he was not permitted to make a statement although counsel for the committee was allowed to; Chadwick was denied to testify through oral examination by his counsel; Chadwick was denied the right to present his views unless responding to a question; his counsel was denied the right to call witnesses; his counsel was denied the right to participate except when material was not put on the record; a document was introduced improperly; counsel for the committee violated procedure and gave his personal views on the case, and questions asked of the committee by Chadwick's counsel were never answered as agreed originally before the hearings opened.

After citing phrases of the committee report and charging the hearings were not conducted properly, Curtiss began,

"And even today, even now, you permitted your former leader to speak for over 20 minutes, to occupy almost all the time that is allocated to . . ." Bang.

The gavel came down and House Speaker John F. Thompson announced that time for debate had expired. Immediately, he put the matter to a vote.

On the question of suspending rules, with a two-thirds vote required, to allow the resolution reversing the censureship to be introduced, voting "no" was Rep. John Thompson of Ludlow, speaker of the House, who had instigated the censureship proceedings.

Rep. Chadwick did not vote.

Leftovers From Rummage Sales?

Officials of Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries announced today they would gladly pick up all of the unsold articles left over after rummage sales in the Greater Metropolitan Boston area.

Henry E. Helms, executive director, said, "Any usable repairable clothing or household articles would be gladly accepted because it would help maintain the current daily work force of 450 handicapped people now employed at Goodwill Industries.

"These unsold items make time cards for handicapped people," Helms continued. "It takes 1100 filled Goodwill Bags each day to provide gainful employment for our handicapped workers who want 'A chance and not charity.' We will be happy to pick up the unsold items any time, any day and request only a little advance notice. All rummage sale officers, when planning the dates, please contact Miss Marguerite Eaton at Morgan Memorial by letter or phone HUbbard 2-1894."

Wins Place For Local Director

Carlene Samoiloff of 314 Highland Avenue, director of the Children's Theatre School here, has just directed the Concord Hawthorne High School's production of "The Miracle Worker" to top place in the Weston section of the State Drama Festival.

The place was shared with Weston High's "Romeo and Juliet," and three of the "Miracle Worker" cast won spots on the All Star Cast.

Mrs. Samoiloff who has directed three senior plays and who has held acting classes at Rose Hawthorne High for two years has had to prepare three versions of this play. First was the full version for the Senior play in February; then a forty minute cutting with the men of the cast for the CYO Festival in Braintree, where they won in the preliminaries and will compete this Sunday for the finals of the CYO in Concord; and a forty minute version with all girls for the state festival, for which the finals will be held at John Hancock Hall April 5 and 6.

The emotional projection of these young players is remarkable and as more than one critic exclaimed, "a completely enthralling and believable performance in which we joined the actors with our tears." The magic power of communication which came through Annie Sullivan's perserverance in the teaching of little Helen Keller brings a new inspiration and new light of hope and desire for achievement to the audience as this drama unfolds on the stage.

Mrs. Samoiloff hopes that any members of the Children's Theatre School wishing to attend this Sunday, will contact the Rose Hawthorne School.

Winchester High School results at the festival will be reported in detail next week.

Lively Physical Fitness Show For Mystic Parents

Friday evening, March 22, was a gala night at the Mystic School. The Mothers' Association sponsored, for their early spring evening meeting, a physical fitness demonstration by the pupils of the Mystic School.

Parents crowded into every corner of the auditorium as Physical Education supervisor, Mrs. Gale Montgomery, and Miss Margaret Deloury who has been teaching the fifth and sixth grades this year, put the children through their paces.

Grade 1 did a ball handling routine to music. Grade 2 performed as tumblers. Grade 3 had a lively square dance, "Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight." Grade 4 girls demonstrated rope jumping and the boys, physical fitness to music. Grade 5 girls did a creative dance to the "Skaters Waltz" and the boys made spectacular pyramids.

Grade 6 girls did stunts and tumbling, and the boys took a demonstration physical fitness test which left their parents panting with exhaustion on the sidelines! The grand finale was a beautifully executed "Bamboo Dance" by five 6th grade boys.

This was indeed an evening to remember and an impressive demonstration that the Physical Education Department of our schools is doing an excellent job of making physical fitness fun for our children.

Children's Play Due Here Next Week Wednesday

Pink tickets for the morning performance and blue tickets for the afternoon. This is the latest word from the sponsoring group of "Greensleeves Magic," to be presented for all town children Saturday, April 6, at the High School.

Tickets have been sold in the elementary schools but there may still be some available at two of the Winchester drug stores - Hevey's and McCormack's.

In contrast to the other presentation sponsored this year by the Community School Association, this play, a delightful folk tale written by Marion Jonson will give the children of our community an opportunity to see a play for children performed by a company of adults - the Emerson College Strolling Players.

Scheduled for 10:30 in the a.m. and two in the p.m., "Greensleeves Magic" promises to be a delightful treat for all youngsters and, of course, some of the proceeds will go to the Winchester Scholarship Fund.

Have you ever flipped through the pages of an IDEALS book? You will enjoy it. These books are beautifully bound, hard or soft covers — for the young and adults. Give one for a birthday or as a delightful gift for a shut-in. At the Winchester Star.

Fireside Dining Services 1 in 40 Local Residents

During its first week of business, Fireside Dining, Winchester's new weekly residential dining service, delivered dinners to one resident in every forty in Winchester.

The residential dining service is a new concept in "dining out" in your own home, and Fireside Dining is the first of its kind to be in operation in the Greater Boston area.

Patterned after similar operations in Miami, New York, Washington, D. C. and the West Coast, Fireside prepares dinners for residents and delivers them to their homes. Weekly menus are available and customers select from a choice of 7 individual entrees each day. Minimum subscription is three times per week, and residents may receive Fireside Dinners as many as 6 times in the week, excluding Sundays. Menus change daily and weekly, and customers are only obligated for the week they select. Orders may be changed on sufficient notice.

All cooking is done during the day from orders taken the day before. At approximately 4:30 p.m. the food is transferred from the ovens to individual aluminum containers which are then sealed and delivered between the hours of 5 and 7 p.m. to residents in their homes. If the customer wishes to eat dinner at a later time, he may warm the food in the containers for a few moments in a 350 degree oven.

Fireside Dining also accepts orders for individual days of the week providing there is 24 hour notice.

Residential dining services are designed for many different types of persons. Wives and mothers seeking a vacation from the kitchen, older persons for whom cooking is a bore, retired persons or persons who are very busy and need more hours in the day to do what they wish.

The two principals in Fireside Dining are Robert Mathews of 26 Grove Street in Winchester and John Vernon of Lexington. Their head chef, Chef Charles, has spent over 43 years in many of the most exclusive resort hotels in the Miami area, and in fact was the head chef of the largest residential dining service in Miami until he joined the local Fireside Dining establishment.

FIRESIDE DINING DINNER READY TO GO. Robert Matthews of 26 Grove Street and John Vernon of Lexington prepare a hot four-course dinner for customers of the new Fireside Dining residential service that is now available in Winchester. The new establishment already boasts that it serves one out of every forty Winchester residents in its first two weeks of business.

From Winchester, Fireside will be branching out to cover the entire Greater Boston area, and should you have any inquires, Fireside can be reached at WE 3-7260 on Salem Street in Woburn.

Bomb Scare

said, the Fire Chief notified the School Department about two weeks ago that in any future incidents the responsibility for the decision would rest with the School Department. "And with the incident of last week still fresh in our minds, I didn't want to ask the kids to return to their classrooms," Mr. Niblock said.

Mr. Niblock pointed out that the High School students might have to attend a special Saturday session or chop a day off of the regular vacation schedule to make up for the classes missed.

Notice To Vehicle Owners

The Registrar has made the following regulation, effective today:

"Under the provisions of Section 6 of Chapter 90, when two number plates are furnished by the Registrar, one number plate must be attached at the front and one at the rear of said vehicle. In the calendar year 1963, however, only the number plate required to be attached to the rear of said vehicle need be legible and not mutilated."

This is to be interpreted to mean that both number plates must be displayed in the customary locations on each motor vehicle, but that only the rear plate on each vehicle must be legible.

Therefore, vehicle owners must for their own protection and that of the public retain the front plate on the motor vehicle regardless of its condition.

Under no circumstances will a sticker be issued unless two plates are displayed on the vehicle.

Explosion Art Exhibit

Joanne Meade's picture of "An Old House" was sold for $35.00; and Dorothy Howard's picture of "The End of an Era" was sold for $80.00. Mr. Bird said he planned to donate his painting, "Fish Boat," to the Rotary Auction, with the benefits going to the Winchester Scholarship Foundation, along with the selling commissions from the other two paintings.

Other local artists contributing to the exhibit included: Mary Louise King's "John;" Ada Storer's "Winter House;" Valia Downes' "Forms;" Emily Marks' "The Greenhouse;" James Cullen's "G. Washington;" Jim Jones' "Seascape;" Robert Storer's "Sea Gulls;" Marianne Knowlton's "Off Shore;" Peggy Waters' "A Bit of New England;" Russell Mann's "Down East;" Elizabeth O'Malley's "Figures;" Eileen Wolf's "Fairground;" Ardys Cairncross' "Roof and Tree Patterns;" Cynthia Cooley's "Antiques;" Pauline P. Hall's "Portrait of Kenneth Hall;" H. Dudley Murphy's "Crimson and Gold;" Nancy Van Roosen's "Hugh;" and Koko Boodakian's "Fisherman."

Mr. Bird said that due to the number of persons who have asked to have the art exhibit continued, the show has been extended until Saturday, March 30.

Bomb Explosion

"Mrs. Thuma asked me to call the hospital and ask for help. When I called the hospital they told me to call the Police Station for an ambulance.

"Mrs. Thuma took Dick in her car to the hospital and I had someone at the house call the police.

Jeff Schlener, the only one of the four boys making the homemade bomb who was not injured, told the police that while packing the cartridge one of the boys made the remark that he had heard of some boy losing his head as the result of a homemade bomb exploding in the basement of a house.

Sgt. Andrew Crawford and Fire Chief James E. Callahan went to the Thuma home to check on the bomb explosion. Sgt. Crawford took six empty cartridge shells and the partly exploded bomb to the hospital to show Dr. Garcelon, who was treating the injured youths what the bomb looked like and what parts were missing.

Later Sgt. Crawford remarked to the Star, that the whole incident reminded him of the accident in October of 1958, when Thomas Bell of 15 Ledgewood Road, then lost two fingers from his right hand while making a similar type bomb in the cellar of his home.

The Winchester Star

Established 1880 by Theodore P. Wilson, Sr.

Editorials:

Awake, Thou That Sleepest!

The Star has reprinted the complete text of Rev. John Ellison's sermon of March 17 on the front page of this week's issue. It is, without question, a front page story.

The problem of increased sexual promiscuity among the younger set in recent years is a big problem. At the same time, especially in the New England region, it is a delicate, touchy and explosive issue. It is hushed and hidden by most, adults and youth alike. Yet this is the very worst way to treat the problem.

Rev. Ellison's continual repetition of the Biblical quote "Take no part in the unfruitful works of darkness, but instead, expose them," is rather the better approach to properly handle such a social problem.

Let us be clear on one thing before too many teenagers and young people take offense. This is less of a problem here in Winchester than it is in any of our surrounding neighbor towns, or even in the state or nation-wide in general. However, the fact that we do not live in a real "Peyton Place" does not mean that we are immune to the goings on in Peyton Places. In fact, according to Rev. Ellison, several Winchester physicians, and several persons who have come into the Star office on occasion to talk about the subject, the promiscuous activities engaged in by many Winchester people has gone beyond "the innocent exploratory stage," and has even gone so far as to express itself in more young pregnancies in Winchester in the past year than there have been in the preceding eight years added together!

For the younger set, early maturity is a goal. And the fact that there has been over the years a general relaxation and freer expression of formerly strict moral mores, has acted as a catalyst on the younger set's striving to be older and more sophisticated sooner. The almost drive-like determination of younger people to get ahead of themselves often leads them into situations formerly considered dangerous, but now held as "something to be done."

The younger set's philosophy that "young body, young mind; means mature body, mature mind," is fallacious. Winchester youth receive a good education, and to get that education they spend much of their time either in school or at home, or at least mostly in the town. They are more than just tax dependents, they are true dependents upon the home shelter. And for this reason, that they have not had to work and fight to survive and meet the responsibilities of their actions, they are not the fully mature and responsible individuals most of them believe themselves to be.

Granted, most of the younger set in Winchester are well-behaved, good, intelligent kids. However, transform a boy or girl's body into that of a young man or woman over the space of a few short years, and let them allow themselves to think that they have the maturity of mind and responsibility that goes along with being a fully grown man or woman, and that person is ripe for thinking he or she is big enough to handle potentially dangerous situations which he or she has never had to encounter before. The progression from small to big encounters is quick. The encounters, unfortunately, have led to a greater number of premature marriages and births in this town than the average citizen is aware of.

The Star joins with the Rev. Ellison in saying to bemused Winchester parents and youth, "Awake, Thou That Sleepest!"

Responsibility Is To Whom . . . As What Is To What?

The Winchester School Department was confronted with the second hair-raising bomb scare in exactly one month on Tuesday.

The Star sympathizes with the plight of the school official who is responsible for the safety of his charges in such a predicament and under such duress.

This time the students were dismissed from school for the rest of the day. In conjunction with the old American proverb "It is better to be safe than sorry," it was a wise decision to dismiss the student body in the interests of their safety. Ten out of ten such occasions would in all probability be a fake arousal. However, there are cases on record of bombs being set off in school buildings by eccentrics, the case in Chicago a few years ago being one example.

The question then comes to mind: Why were the students not dismissed on February 26 when a similar bomb scare was hoaxed? After the Fire Department searched the building that time, the students returned to their classes for the rest of the school day.

The explanation given the Star was that on other occasions the kids were let back into the school after the Fire Department had checked the building out against any bombs. The OK by the Fire Department officer in charge was apparently regarded as sufficient notice of assumption of responsibility by the Fire Department for any consequences.

However, Fire Chief James Callahan checked with the State Fire Marshal's office on bomb control. The fact that some bombs can have clock fuses lasting up to 12 hours would be a haunting thing to assume the responsibility for, where a number of human lives would be involved. Chief Callahan found that the responsibility to the school children was not really that of the Fire Department, but rather that of the School Department, and he so notified the School Department two weeks ago.

After the Fire Department had searched for the supposed "bomb" on Tuesday, Captain Frank Amico told the high school principal that he was "glad you have the responsibility and not me." After some deliberation the students were dismissed for the day.

Two things are clear. The Fire Department acted correctly in not continuing to assume responsibility that rightly rested with another party. And the high school principal acted correctly and wisely in dismissing the students from either the danger or the threat of danger that existed.

But one thing is not clear. Why the inconsistency and inconstancy of policy in such a serious situation as this? Why were the students not dismissed in the first bomb scare, and then dismissed in the second bomb scare? Should the recollection of the three youths who were injured by a home-made bomb explosion just last week be a crucial factor in the determination of the policy in this instance? It shouldn't be.

The line of responsibility in an emergency of this nature should have been clear cut and well known. The responsibility of school officials to the school children during school time should naturally extend to emergencies, and this problem of whose responsibility their safety encompasses should never have arisen.

The Bomb Exploded . . . And Who Is To Blame?

Well, we're back on the old subject again. Sometimes the Star wonders just how many of its readers take seriously what it says. For a number of weeks now the Star has been printing editorials, guest editorials, and letters to the editor on how more of the parents in this town should take an active interest, and supervision where needed, in what their children do.

And now look what has happened. Did you read the front-page story "Homemade Bomb Explodes, Injuring Three Local Youths?" If you haven't read it yet, do so. There are three parts of it that should not be missed.

To wit: (1) One of the boys who was injured told his mother where he was going and exactly what he was going to do. As the youth put it, "I told my mother where I was going and she told me to be careful as it was very dangerous." Nice of her to say so.

(2) The youth continues with "I walked to Dick's house and rang the front door bell. His mother came to the door and told me that the other kids were in the basement . . . When I went into the basement the kids were cutting off match heads and stuffing them into CO2 cartridges for home-made bombs." And the mother of the household upstairs all the time, can you imagine that?

(3) Another youth said that while they were packing the bomb, "one of the kids remarked that he had heard of some boy losing his head at the result of a home-made bomb exploding in the basement of his house." Some people will never learn by example.

It is the writer's opinion that no further editorial comment is needed here. The bang of the explosion was heard loud enough.

Book Reviews

By Ann M. Anderson, Winchester Public Library

The Race To The Year 2,000

Dr. Fritz Baade is a distinguished economic philosopher with a world reputation. His book's subtitle, Our Future, a Paradise or the Suicide of Mankind, is indicative of his intent in this work. On the whole he is optimistic and this is a welcome change from the overabundance of alarmist writers who doubt that anyone will be here to see the year 2,000.

The race, as he sees it, is between the Western world and the East, or Soviet-Chinese bloc, and deals with their competition for food, space, manpower and sources of energy, and in education. In contrast to so many who fear the population explosion and its consequent effect, Baade feels that if mankind behaves in a rational way there is really no need of the present panic in the minds of so many.

Population growth proceeds according to a definite "population law:" first, a soaring birth and death rate, hence a very slow increase; next, a rapid decline of the death rate and a constant birth rate with a subsequent rapid increase in population; third, the death rate continues to decline but births also fall off sharply, so that the general rate of increase is curtailed; at last, both birth and death rates become stabilized so that population increases vary slowly, if at all.

Past experience shows that industrialization and a rise in the level of education of a country are decisive factors in stabilizing the birth rate. This runs counter to the long-accepted theory of Thomas Malthus which states that population can be arrested only by poverty and starvation resulting from increasing numbers of people outstripping their sources of food. On the contrary, facts prove that a certain amount of education and prosperity encourage a capacity for intelligent family planning. Perhaps, instead of widespread dissemination of birth-control information, our function here is to increase pressure to raise the standard of living and educational level in backward countries.

As for food and living space for the population, which Dr. Baade concedes will rise to around 6½ billion by 2,000, he states that the earth's arable land can easily be tripled in area, there are billions of acres of jungle land which could be utilized, the possibility exists of tremendous improvement in yield from scientific farming methods, and the food reserves from the world's oceans have barely been tapped. All these methods are in addition to the possibility of synthetic foods which in all likelihood will be achieved by then.

In reference to sources of energy to keep up the necessary increase in production and mechanization of industry, the author again goes contrary to popular opinion in stating that there is no urgent need to step up the use of atomic energy. Conventional sources such as coal, oil, gas and water power will last for centuries rather than a few years as has been previously predicted.

In the education race, Russia is rapidly outstripping the United States, especially in science. Although reports of this were first deprecated, we are now becoming uneasily aware that their scientists and engineers overshadow ours in training and in intensive knowledge in almost every field, and that their schools are turning out many thousands more each year than we are.

The author concludes that the world of 2,000 could indeed be a Utopia provided people become mature enough to behave in a rational and Christian manner toward each other. Otherwise the possibilities are terrifying.

Spec. Meet.

"Dictatorial practices and policies are eliminated by the fact that it is an appointed post, supervised by and responsible to the Selectmen," he said.

The establishment of a Comptroller will effect more efficient and economical accounting supervision of all departments and boards, especially in the clerical and office methods used, he told the group.

Fred F. Stockwell, chairman of the Finance Committee, said the committee had studied and talked with Comptrollers in several towns that had established the post and had determined it would be advantageous for Winchester to have one.

Paul C. Dunn, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, said the creation of a Comptroller's office in Winchester would be in the board's opinion a step in the right direction for efficient business-like management of the Town's accounting.

Art Johns, chairman of the School Committee, said the School Department does its own accounting, "but we really don't care who does it," he said inferring that a Comptroller would be welcome to assume the task.

OPPOSITION

"I'm not awed by the unanimity of the Town board's on this," he said, "everyone knows what the seventh Precinct is." The creation of a Comptroller limits the Town Departments," he added, "for it centralizes the purchasing of supplies and management of personnel, which usurps that power from the department heads.

"What is really being called for here," he said, "is the grabbing of power from the departments and boards."

Mr. Hewis said that in some of the other communities that had a Comptroller the officials had wanted to give the Town Accountant a raise but were not able to, so they had the office of Comptroller established and reclassified the pay schedule for the Town Accountant.

"They don't dare tell you the pay will exceed $10,000 by going from a Town Accountant system to a Comptrollership, when the present Town Accountant earns $9,100," he said.

"We've had a previous instance of this when we had an Administrative Assistant here," he said.

THE VOTE

When all discussion had ceased, the Moderator called for a voice vote, and the "ayes" carried the motion with just two dissenting "nays."

ARTICLE TWO

Mr. Dunn spoke in favor of Article Two, which he said would allow the Town Clerk to appoint wardens at elections.

Mr. Stockwell said the Finance Committee also favored the second special article.

THE VOTE

Without exception the "ayes" carried the passage of Article Two, and the Special Town Meeting was adjourned at 8:20 p.m.

Spring Flowers Reign Midst March Snowfall

On Wednesday, the 20th of March, the Winchester Home and Garden Club met at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church. It was a memorable afternoon for the members and their guests. Refreshments were found in the Ladies Parlor where the committee of Mrs. Edmund Wright, Mrs. Herbert Morris, Mrs. George Lemay, Mrs. Clifton Shea and Mrs. Peter Nazaritian served delicious cake.

By turns Mrs. Charles Hart, Mrs. Hazen Ayer, Mrs. Edward McDevitt and Mrs. Kern Folkers poured coffee and tea at a table decorated with a spring bouquet of iris, snapdragons and narcissus arranged by Mrs. James MacDonald.

All were warmly welcomed by Mrs. Joseph Vaccaro, president of the club, at 2 o'clock in the Parish Hall. Mrs. Neil MacLaren of Hamilton, president of the Garden Club Federation of Mass. and Miss Esther Lovejoy of Malden, director of the East Middlesex District, were the first of a number of distinguished guests of this "Presidents' Day" to be introduced, followed by the presidents and representatives of the District.

Mrs. Gerald Hills introduced Mrs. Ruth Kistner from Long Island, the eagerly-awaited speaker. Mrs. Kistner's theme was "Flower Arrangements in Yesterday's Treasures" which she demonstrated with great charm and skill. The compositions of flowers in heirloom bowls and trays were a reminder that our heritage can be used to enhance our present. Especially appreciated was Mrs. Kistner's custom of walking around the room with a just-finished arrangement so that all might see it at close range and ask questions without delay.

This meeting was a highlight of the season and well worth braving the March snowfall.

"Literature Day" At Fortnightly

The combination of a beautiful, mild, spring day and the attraction of a book talk by Marion Rudkin brought out a large attendance of Fortnightly members and guests Monday afternoon, March 25, at the Crawford Methodist Church.

In the hallway piles of books and magazines (donated annually) awaited the arrival of a truck to take them away for Merchant Marine distribution. Nearby, the social committee, Ruth Albee, chairman, served coffee, tea, and a dessert during the social hour beginning at one o'clock; Mrs. Ralph R. Meigs and Miss Corinne Mead acted as pourers.

A food sale for the benefit of the philanthropy fund was also in progress in the main hall, under the chairmanship of Mrs. T. Parker Clarke. Several members assisted her and the proceeds amounted to about $122.

At two o'clock the regular business meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Herbert D. Thompson. She reminded members to get their bills for dues and their luncheon tickets for the annual meeting to be held at the Country Club April 9. The last Club Institute of the season will be on April 4 in Boston.

Mrs. Paul H. Howard announced that Stephen Gray, one of the Winchester High School students who exhibited in our Art Contest March 11, won First Prize in the Massachusetts State competition for his painting, "Ever Onward." The Second Prize went to Dianne Burnham for her arresting "The Light of Hope" and an Honorable Mention was given another Winchester student, Carol Butters, for her well-executed "Framework of the Future." We are justly proud of the achievement of these promising young artists.

Miss Mead, chairman of the nominating committee, read the club slate for the coming year 1963-4. This concluded the business meeting.

"Literature Day" seems to be a favorite with everybody and keen anticipation was evident as Mrs. Everett D. Littlefield, chairman of the Literature Committee, introduced Mrs. Marion T. Rudkin who spoke in her delightful way on "The Best of the Latest Books."

From the first, "The Glass-Blowers" by Daphne du Maurier, she gave a reading of its introduction. It is a historical novel set in France and largely based on the lives of some of the author's forebears. Among other current books commented upon and recommended were "The Moonflower Vine" by Jetta Carleton, "Fail-Safe" by Burdick Wheeler, "The Quality of Mercy" by Margaret Banning, "The Boy in the Pool" by Camilla Bittle, "The Nonesuch" by Georgette Heyer, "Nobody Told Me How" by Mira Michal, and "Forgive Us Our Press Passes" by Elaine Shepard. In biography: "The Rogers and Hammerstein Story" by Stanley Green and "Joan Sutherland" by herself. In lighter vein, "A Little Better than Plumb" by Henry and Janet Giles.

Mrs. Rudkin's presentation of the stories gives them a distinct appeal and whets ones desire to read them. As, once again, she closed her program with a lovely little poem from her repertoire, her audience felt refreshed and gratified.

Winchester Started As A Part Of Charlestown In 1633

Woburn Town Records Valuable

The Woburn Town Records often refer to the work of the early settlers. These records are dated 1640, although it has been seen that Woburn was not incorporated until 1642, the first town officers chosen in 1644 and the bounds established in 1650. It is now believed by the best authorities that these early records are made up of original private memoranda of events written by Edward Johnson, the first town clerk of Woburn (1644), and transferred to the town books at a later date. They are written in the past tense, not the present, but are certainly the most complete and interesting records of early local history possessed by any city or town.

On February 10, 1640 (O.S.), "The first bridge was laid over the Aberjona River over against Edward Converse' house and called 'Could Bridg.'" The site of this bridge was at the present center of Winchester on the spot where the bridge later stood at Whitney's Mill Dam. It was called "Cold Bridge," probably because is was built in mid-winter, during severe cold weather.

This spot was also called below the bridge "The King's Ford." A few days later forty persons came from Charlestown to the place where the village was to be located. These persons spent their time in marking trees and laying bridges, say the records, but the difficulties before them seemed so great and "the way being so plain backwards, that divers never went forward again."

It is further recorded "On the 25 of 6 mo, 1641. Things going heavily on and many blocks in the way especially some of their own company disheartening, this day was sett apart for humble seeking the Lord by fasting and prayer whom they found gratious in keeping upp the spirits of some of the work."

Bridge Built

By the next entry (the next day) it seems that those whose "spirits" were kept "up by the work" engaged in the arduous undertaking: "26 of 6 mos 1641: A bridge was made across Horn Pond River; though the place was so boggy it swallowed up much wood before it could be made passable, yet it was finished and called Long Bridge." The location of the bridge was, beyond doubt, on the ancient highway from Woburn to the Converse Mill in the rear of what was later the home of Mr. Sullivan Cutter in Winchester.

Later than the day last mentioned (1652), Edward Johnson, the author of "The Wonder Working Providence," writes that "the situation of the Town of Woburn was in the highest part of the yet peopled land" and "full of pleasant springs and a great variety of very good water."

The abundance of water, he remarks, "the summer heat causeth to be more cooler and the winter cold maketh more warmer." The meadows were not large, but "lie in diverse places to particular dwellings;" the same "doth their springs." There was no great quantity of "plain land" in any one place and the land was very fruitful in many places, and the rocks and swamps yielded "very good feed for cattle." The people, says Johnson, are "very laborious — if not exceeding — some of them."

First House

Not much is known about the building of the first house. It was built during the year 1640 and on January 4, 1640 (O.S.) a meeting of the settlers was held in it. Its location was near the site of the late Deacon Benjamin F. Thompson's house on Main Street in Winchester. It was on the easterly side of the road and between the road and the river. The mill was on the opposite side of the street, later Whitney's Mill.

In 1702 this house was overshadowed by a large and shady elm, standing on the same side of the road with the house and immediately in front of it as is common with ancestral shade trees. The tree was cut down about 1841. Sewall speaks of this tree in his diary (1702). After the Converse occupancy of this house for several generations, Abel Richardson, in 1774, became the owner of it, probably the same house built, owned and occupied by the original Edward Converse.

Abel Richardson, a soldier of the French and the Revolutionary wars, died in Winchester at great age, in 1831, and in a few years his estate was sold. There is a description of this house as it appeared in 1798 and a picture of the same.

First House Worth $650

It was 35 feet by 30, area 1,050 sq. ft. There were nineteen windows and 155 square feet of glass. The house had two stories in front and one at the rear. With the land on which it stood it was valued at $650. The other buildings connected with the estate were an old wood-house, a chaise-house, a barn, and a grist mill. By 1841 the old house had disappeared. It must have stood for about 200 years.

Thursday Session

HIGHWAY BUDGET

An interesting debate broke out between the Board of Selectmen and the Finance Committee over whether the Highway Department should increase its equipment account by $4,200 for new trucks.

Mr. Dunn said the Highway Department should turn in three 4-ton trucks and two 2-ton trucks as the Finance Committee has suggested in its report.

These trucks are used by all the departments under the Town Engineer, including the Highway, Parks, and Water and Sewer, Mr. Dunn said. "In the interest of economy," Mr. Dunn added, "this measure follows a Finance Committee policy of avoiding high peaks and valleys of capital outlay by planning for new equipment purchases over a spread of years."

Mr. Stockwell said the Finance Committee was against the Highway Budget proposal. If the three oldest 4-ton trucks and the oldest 2-ton truck are all turned in this year, he said, the oldest 4-ton will then be of 1960 vintage, and the oldest 2-ton of 1959 vintage," which means we'll be having a very young fleet," he added. In addition, he said, the Finance Committee had allotted $500 for maintenance of the oldest vehicle for the coming year.

OTHER SPEAKERS

One Town Meeting Member said the $500 for maintenance was a "false economy." He said he had been in the auto business for 30 years, and the $500 would be wasted because it was a non-returnable sum so far as trade in value was concerned.

Another Town Meeting Member said he was confused and wanted to know if the issue being debated was the money or the trucks.

Mr. Stockwell said the Finance Committee had cut $24,600 for equipment in the Highway Budget. He said the 4-ton trucks cost about $7,200 each, and the 2-ton trucks cost about $3,200 each.

Mr. Hewis said the Finance Committee had looked into the matter, and the Town Meeting should go along with its advisory committee.

A motion was made to amend the budget and add $3,700, but it was lost on a voice vote.

MATH AND MONEY

When the Town Moderator asked for discussion on the main motion of the Highway Budget, Mr. Rotondi got up and stunned the assembly with a motion to deduct $26,370 from the budget category of sidewalk construction and maintenance.

Mr. Rotondi explained the going commercial rates for sidewalk and curb construction according to the footage called for in the appropriation request. When he had finished the cost estimates, he subtracted his figures from the budget request, and said the apropriation should be reduced by $26,370.

Mr. Stockwell said the Finance Committee does not go over every penny of the appropriation requests, leaving the responsibility for accuracy to the department heads. He suggested that the representatives wait until another meeting to decide this issue when the Town Engineer could be present.

Mr. Dunn noted that there were many badly neglected sidewalks in the Town, and that there is a heavy program of repair planned for this year.

TABLE MOTION

Alfred Elliott finally moved that the Highway Budget be tabled until a later date when the Town Engineer could be present to defend his budget. The motion was carried.

SNOW AND ICE BUDGET

The Snow and Ice Budget was also asked to be deferred by Mr. Dunn because new figures would have to be accounted for due to the Wednesday night snowstorm. The motion was carried.

EDUCATION BUDGET

Art Johns, chairman of the School Committee, addressed a 20 minute brief to the Town Meeting Members on the overall School Department Budget. Spiced with humor and allusions, Mr. Johns' review of the school situation in Winchester brought appreciative applause from the bemused assembly who may have expected a dry dissertation on the schools.

ART JOHNS

"The School Department Budget is an attempt to make Winchester's good school system into a better one," Mr. Johns began.

"We have a rather fast growing school population," he said, "and we face constantly rising costs."

The increase of $200,000 over last year's budget represents a 10% rise, he said. Of the total $2,260,944 asked for this year, $1,925,000, or 85% of the budget, is for personal services. This is $165,003 more for personal services than that spent last year, an increase of 9%, he said. "But this is the smallest rise in personal services since 1935," he hastened to add. In 1962, he pointed out, the Town voted to increase the school personal services by $169,000 to equalize the male and female teachers pay.

TEACHER LOSS

"Last year the Winchester schools lost 37 teachers," Mr. Johns said. "This represents 18% of our teaching force," he said, "and this is a larger number than has ever left before in one year." Fifteen of the teachers that left went to other teaching positions, which is equal to all the losses in the School Department in the preceeding eight years, Mr. Johns indicated.

TEACHER PAY

"Last year Winchester dropped from being ranked among the top few Towns in the state as far as teachers salaries was concerned, to a position this year as seventh for teachers with masters degrees, and 13th for teachers with bachelors degrees," Mr. Johns said.

Traditionally Winchester has been about $400 below the top salary leaders in the state, he pointed out. "This year we propose to put our school system back into a competitive position in the high paying echelon," Mr. Johns said. "This will place Winchester back in the running as far as recruitment and retaining the best teachers is concerned," he added.

HISTORY

Mr. Johns reviewed how the state had raised the teacher salary minimum in 1959 to $3,600; in 1960 to $4,000; and in 1961 to $4,500. Before the state started raising the minimums Winchester used to enjoy a substantial gap between our position in the top three per cent of competitive salaries offered and that of most of the rest of the Towns in the state that were way below Winchester's starting salary.

'However," Mr. Johns noted, "while the state minimum is now $4,500; our starting bachelors salary is only $4,750."

"We have fallen behind in relative position to other towns comparable to Winchester," Mr. Johns said, "but if we accept the proposed increase we will be back on a par with Wellesley, Lexington, Brookline, Natick and Needham."

To show the Town Meeting Members that Winchester's 46% of the tax dollar going to schools and education is not too excessive, Mr. Johns quoted statistics from several other towns: Weston, 68%; Wellesley, 56%; Newton, 47%; Concord, 69%; Natick, 54%; and Westwood, 57%.

To show that Winchester residents were getting their money's worth in the huge School Department expenditure, Mr. Johns enumerated several facts of interest: the kindergarten is more advanced than it ever was, teaching far more than just fingerpainting; the elementary team teaching experiment is proving highly successful; the Junior High School now teaches languages, biology, typewriting, SMSG math, and even accelerated courses in many of the standard subjects; and the Senior High School, in addition to having accelerated courses, teaches courses in math, English chemistry, biology and physics for advanced college placement credit.

"In addition," Mr. Johns said, "Winchester is one of 10 schools noted nationally for its physics course."

COLLEGE PREPARATION

"Winchester enables its students to meet competition from the best secondary schools across the United States," Mr. Johns said. In 1962 approximately 75% of the High School graduates went on to institutions of higher learning, and of these, 46% went to four-year colleges, Mr. Johns calculated.

The others all had the opportunity to learn bookkeeping, drafting, power mechanics, electronics, shop and shorthand.

"And if we can help even one of these children rise above their limitations then we feel we are doing our job," he said.

INTERRUPTION

At this time the bell rang to signify the end of the time limit for the speaker. The Town Moderator asked the speaker: "Well, Mr. Johns, how is the report coming along?"

"I wish I knew," Mr. Johns retorted.

A motion was made to grant the speaker an extensional time. Mr. Hewis objected, saying the speaker did not need to review the whole school situation at the Town Meeting, but the time was extended.

"As Lady Godiva was heard to say, 'I'm nearing my clothes (close),'" Mr. Johns quipped.

MORE ON SCHOOLS

"Whether you know it or not," Mr. Johns announced to the assembly of parents and adults, "we are coming close to having a full solid school year here in Winchester." Last summer, the speaker pointed out in his conclusion, the summer school taught 150 students.

FINANCE COMMITTEE

"We've had many disagreements over this budget," Mr. Stockwell said, but the School Committee and the Finance Committee have about come to terms that this budget is the best we can make it, he added.

Mr. Stockwell read from the Finance Committee's report:

"The built-in-cost effect of the new pay rate for next year's budget is approximately $106,000 due to the one-third this year, two-thirds next year allocation of annual pay raises. Adding $13,000 for step-rate increases which are presently automatic, $39,000 for two-thirds the cost of new teachers, the 1964 Personal Services budget for the School Department will be approximately $158,000 higher than this recommended budget if no further change in pay schedules is made.

"The Finance Committee gave particular scrutiny to the School budget for 1963 because of the substantial increases requested in every category, including the cafeteria and athletics. Even without athletics and the cafeteria, the cost per pupil for the calendar year rises from $440 in 1962 to $466 in 1963—an increase of 5.9%. Looking at this from another angle, the amount spent in 1962 for education represented 45% of the Town's total budget expenditures. In 1963 our schools will take a larger popportion of our tax dollar and will account for 46.8% of budget expenditures.

"The Finance Committee feels that the School Committee has presented a good budget, and we have accepted the idea of a salary schedule competitive with that of the top-grade school systems of nearby cities and towns. We agreed a little more reluctantly to the expanded programs which the School Committee is requesting on the basis of recommendations of the Citizens Advisory Committee on Secondary School and College relationships, which will lead to continued increases in costs."

HERBERT LORD SPEAKS

"May I have equal time with Mr. Johns," a voice squeaked from the back of the hall.

Herbert Lord walked down the aisle and addressed the Town Moderator. "First I would like to congratulate you on your position in the movie . . ." Mr. Lord started, but the Town Moderator ordered the speaker to stick to the issue under discussion.

For some unknown reason, the Town Meeting Member that always sits in the front row near the press box, stopped his snoring and woke up to see what the commotion was about.

Mr. Lord read an article from a national magazine written by Hyman Rickover. The article was mostly about how American schools have the shortest school days and year of any country in the world; how many American schools teach so many things that can be learned outside of school time instead of concentrating on the traditional three "R's"; how American schools should require more exacting teacher qualifications, and not just masters degrees, etc.; and how America is the only country where administrators run the school systems and the teachers, rather than the scholars as in other countries.

The vote of the meeting refused the speaker 10 more minutes.

Mr. Hewis asked to grant the speaker five additional minutes, and the meeting accepted the motion.

The Town Moderator asked the speaker if he "would kindly devote the five minutes to the item under discussion."

LITTLE RED SCHOOLHOUSE

Mr. Lord said the pay raises under consideration does not necessarily mean that the teachers will be any better than they would be without the pay raises. "Mr. Johns talked about 'competitiveness,' but I speak about dedication," Mr. Lord said.

He then began to read the letter he had tried to read at the first Town Meeting session, but had out-talked his alloted five minutes before he got started.

In his letter, Mr. Lord attacked the motivations of school teachers in Winchester, saying they were teachers merely for the money involved and not because of any sense of professional ethics or dedication.

Mr. Lord would have continued reading his letter, which the Star had declined to print in its Letters To The Editor column because of what the editor termed "statements made in poor taste, containing unfounded generalized attacks against the school system, teachers, and administrative personnel, and which contained elements of potentially libelous character," but the bell signifying the time limit for the speaker interrupted him at about the half-way mark.

"May I speak to you, Mr. Moderator," Mr. Lord said.

"At the end of the meeting, thank you," said Mr. Chadwick.

"Please don't thank me Mr. Harvard man," ranted Mr. Lord.

Mr. Lord then attempted to harangue the Town Moderator, but Mr. Chadwick ordered him to go back to his seat or leave the hall, and then recognized another speaker who wanted to talk on the school budget.

ARTHUR HEWIS

Mr. Hewis got up and said "we've got to stop this spiraling of the School budget somewhere."

"We should pay what we can afford to pay; and not pay otherwise," he said. "We should not reward poor teachers who merely hang on here; but we should get away from the present tenure system and go onto a merit system," he added.

ART JOHNS

Mr. Johns answered several questions from the floor. He said that the frequency of step rates for teachers is once a year. He estimated that there is one teacher for every 26 pupils in the elementary schools, one for every 20 in the Junior High level, and one for every 16 in the High School level.

In response to a question asking how long Winchester can continue to compete in the upward spiral of increased costs of education, especially in the area of teacher salaries, Mr. Johns turned the question around: "It is better to ask how long can you afford not to?" he said.

"We on the School Committee don't think we are overspending your money," he began.

"The Citizens Advisory Committee advised that we compete nationwide with the top school salary leaders," Mr. Johns said, "and not just with the leaders in this state."

"We must compete if we are going to remain among the best because when word gets around that we're satisfied with less than the best it will hit us even harder . . . the school system will be affected, it will deteriorate; and your pocketbooks will be affected, for your property values will drop with the deteriorating school system."

THE VOTE

The Town Moderator put the School Budget to a vote, and the $2,260,944 budget was unanimously passed.

The meeting was forthwith adjourned until Monday night.

Monday Session

EARLE LITTLETON

Earle Littleton, a member of the Planning Board, said the agreement was made on an experimental basis "and it doesn't seem to be working out." Mr. Littleton said he wanted to know what the $14,900 in the Park Department budget was there for "if it is a job they can't seem to do."

ARTHUR HEWIS

This is a criticism against the School Department, Mr. Hewis said. "It was an experiment, and now it is being made to appear to be the fault of the Park Department, which it isn't; and they should break the agreement," he said. The School Committee by law should be taking care of its grounds, Mr. Hewis added.

Mr. Hewis then moved that Mr. Merrow's motion be amended to insert that it would be the responsibility of the School Department and not the Park Department to oversee the improvements.

AUSTIN BROADHURST

Austin Broadhurst, a member of the School Committee, said that it didn't make sense for the Town to have to buy power lawn mowers for all the schools and have the custodians cutting the grass when they have other school duties to attend too.

The Park Department has the equipment to do the job, he said, and if it needs to be subcontracted then it should.

Mr. MacDonnell said the Park Department has the equipment but not the manpower. "What we need is for the Park Department, School Committee, and Personnel Board to get together on this," he said.

THE VOTE

Mr. Merrow's motion was defeated in a voice vote (and therefore Mr. Hewis' motion was simultaneously voted down).

WATER BUDGET

Arthur Hewis asked for an explanation as to why there was a special article in the Warrant for a water item.

Mr. Stockwell said the Finance Committee wanted to separate the capital expenditures from the regular Water budget and the Water Board agreed. It is for long term construction (Article 22) and the cost should be spread out over the years of construction by a bond issue, he said.

Olcott Hooper said the Water Department's regular force of 15 persons, the same number as was employed by the department in 1940, has been unable to keep up with the demand for new construction, and a lot of it has been having to be done by outside contracting.

The Water budget was then passed by a voice vote.

SNOW AND ICE

Paul C. Dunn said the Selectmen had deferred the Snow and Ice budget due to the storm last Wednesday, which necessitated raising the appropriation to $124,000. The 1962-63 winter has been the worst ice season in Winchester for many years, he added.

"There is some dissatisfaction about the amount of salt being used," Mr. Dunn said in heading off expected questions and arguments from the floor.

"This is a program approved by the State," he said, "for it is cheaper and better because it dries the ice and snow on the pavement quicker than does sand."

"It is a little harder on the cars, but they seem to rust just as quickly down in Florida," he said. "And there is no known proof that the salt adversely affects the shrubbery," he added.

Mr. Dunn said the reasons the salt was being used more extensively than sand was that it was cheaper to purchase, it holds down the Highway budget, it is safer in the long run and prevents accidents, and it requires fewer personnel to clean up than does the sand.

Richard Freeman, Jr., said he was appalled at the amount of salt being spread on the streets and walks this year. "A number of trees and shrubs are dying beside the roads," he said.

The Snow and Ice budget was passed by a voice vote.

HIGHWAYS AND BRIDGES

Eugene B. Rotondi got up and said he wished to have his motion of the preceeding Thursday night defeated. "In talking the budget over with James Wakefield, the Town Engineer, I have been fully satisfied that his budget is justified in every way," Mr. Rotondi said.

The amended motion was put to a vote, and Mr. Rotondi's wish that it be defeated was complied with. After some discussion of some figures in the Highway Budget, the entire budget was passed.

GARDNER BRADLEE

Gardner Bradlee got up and said he wished to commend Mr. Rotondi for talking with the Town Engineer about the budget, and getting the answers to his questions directly. "More Town Meeting Members should get the answers to their questions in this same way," he said. "I must say," he added, "this is the dullest Town Meeting I have ever attended."

ARTICLE 9, 10

Articles 9 and 10, which regularly appear every year, were quickly passed.

ARTICLE 11

Article 11, which deals with the Town's acceptance of Mayflower and Plymouth Roads, and Pocahontas Drive as Town ways, was postponed indefinitely upon the Finance Committee's recommendation that the requirements of the Subdivision Law have not been met by the developer.

There was no opposition to this action on the article by residents of the area. The residents who petitioned for the Town acceptance of these roads, in fact, withdrew their petition.

ARTICLE 12

Article 12 is this year's Chapter 90 program. It pertained to the fourth section of the rebuilding of Ridge Street, between Johnson Road and Wincrest Drive. Under the Chapter 90 program, the State pays 50 per cent, the county 25 per cent and the Town 25 per cent. Winchester's share for this section will be $9,800. The article was unanimously passed.

ARTICLE 13

Article 13, which deals with the Town's acceptance of $47,331.76 from Federal funds for road improvements, was quickly passed by the Town Meeting.

Mr. Dunn said the money would probably be allocated to having work done on Hutchinson Road, but that the choice of a street could be made later when the funds are actually made available.

ARTICLE 14

Article 14, to see if the Town would accept as a Town Road the section of State Highway located on the northerly side of Route 3, was approved by the Town Meeting.

In discussion of the article, James Cullen asked if the Selectmen had any plans to sell the land they are taking the control over. The reply was a firm "no."

The Planning Board favored the passage of the article.

ARTICLE 15

Article 15 is the article calling for continuance of renovations and reconstruction within the Town Hall. This year's program includes the stairway from the lower area to the first floor as well as the center section. It will cost $16,000, less $996 left over from last year's appropriation.

The article was unanimously approved.

ARTICLE 16

Article 16 concerns the constructing of a permanent war memorial honor roll for the Town's veterans to replace the present temporary structure.

Mr. Dunn said $10,000 should be appropriated for the construction of the new honor roll, and another $500 for the dedication ceremony on Memorial Day. It should be located behind the flag pole in front of the Town Hall, near Washington and Mt. Vernon Streets, he added.

Mr. Stockwell said the Finance Committee has reconsidered its recommendation for locating the honor roll in the foyer of the Senior High School auditorium just to save a little money, "instead," he said, "the Finance Committee agreed with the Selectmen and the Veterans of the Town that the Town Hall location is the most suitable place for the war memorial."

Jake Horn got up to speak for the veterans. He said the Town Hall location was definitely the most suitable, and refuted a suggestion that the World War I statue site was another good location by noting the amount of pranks and vandalism that occurs around that statue. He pointed out that school kids leave papers littered about the site, paint is often splashed on the statue during Halloween and Thanksgiving football season.

Mr. Horn added that the Korean War veterans names would all go on the new honor roll, and not just the deceased ones. "There will be room for 3,000 names," he said.

The article was unanimously approved by the Town Meeting.

ARTICLE 17

Article 17 asks if the Town will authorize the establishment of a permanent building committee to take charge of all future municipal building, construction, reconstruction, and additions, and to set forth the powers and duties of such a committee.

The Town Moderator read the motion prescribing the character of such a permanent building committee. It would always have one contractor, one engineer or architect, one lawyer, and two citizens. The Town Engineer would serve as the secretary of the committee. There would also be appointed temporary members from the boards or departments affected by the building.

Mr. Dunn said last year's committee ran into problems of the makeup of the committee. But this article, he said, had the support of every Town board and department. Such a permanent building committee, he added, will eliminate the problem of stuffing many small building committees, and will be more efficient.

Mr. Stockwell said the Finance Committee favored the passage of the article. Mr. Johns said the School Committee would also favor the article.

Dudley Kimball suggested that a possible improvement in the makeup of the building committee might be to add one member from each of the six precincts.

David Larson questioned whether such a committee would have the power to receive and let contracts, and if it did, would it be responsible legally.

The Town Moderator said the description of the committee's powers includes "general supervision over the design of projects and be able to enter into negotiations for the plans and contracts on the authorization of the Town Meeting."

The article was put to a vote, and the "ayes" carried the motion, thereby establishing a permanent Town building committee.

Top Honors At H. S. Science Fair

THE THREE TOP WINNERS HERE have one foot on the ladder to success in the state-wide science fair which has its regional fair at Brandeis next Wednesday, the state fair to follow at M.I.T. in May. Left to right are Karen Trump, an honorable mention recipient; Brian Kincaid, second prize; Peter Moulton, first prize; Fred Cardin, third prize; Bill Hopkins and Rosemary Leary, honorable mention.

Urban Transfers To New Post

Mr. J. J. Urban of 1 Robinson Park, has been elected executive vice-president of the Cincinnati and Suburban Bell Telephone Company.

Mr. Urban has been Personnel Vice President of the New England Telephone Company since June 1962.

A graduate of Dartmouth College in 1939, he was an instructor in English at Elgin Academy, Elgin, Illinois, until his employment by the New England Telephone Company in June 1942.

During World War II he served as a Navy Lieutenant.

After the war he worked as traffic manager at Portland, Maine, and then held various assignments in the personnel relations and comptroller departments of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company.

In January 1955 he joined the Indiana Bell Telephone Company and was named operating vice president in 1959.

Electronics, Photography Win At H.S. Science Fair

The science rooms at the High School reverberated with information and exposition Friday afternoon and evening as four hard worked judges and many interested friends and families asked and shared information with the 17 exhibitors in the school's Science Fair.

Quality of endeavor and accomplishment was the keyword in this small but effective demonstration of talent, and the results of the judging will send the three top winners to the state regional fair at Brandeis on April 5.

Peter Moulton won top honors with "Telemetering System," a device similar to orbiting satellites in that it transmits information about temperature and light (containing 17 transistors, 7 diodes, 7 batteries, a miniature tape recorder, and a high strung entrant):

Second prize went to Brian Kincaid for his exhibit "Feedback Shift Register," which can be used as a long term timer for satellites in that it will shut itself off after a definite amount of time has elapsed.

Third prize went to Fred Cardin for his exhibit, "Some Advanced Aspects of Photography," which contained some magnificent photographs of microscopic life, showing both his expert photography and knowledge of the field.

Honorable mentions, not preplanned but brought about by the excellence of the projects, went to William Hopkins for "Crystal Coupled Amplifier," a device to limit the band width of a radio signal; to Rosemary Leary for "Microscopic Organisms Found in the School," including a demonstration of the Gram stain; and to Karen Trump for "The Effect of Radiation on Seed Germination," showing its benefits up to a point where it turns harmful.

The judges, who were scheduled to work from three to five in the afternoon but who were unable to conclude their job until almost seven-thirty, were Everett Learnard, head of the science department at Norwood and chairman of the state science fair committee; Dr. Keigo Iizuka, from the Gordon McKay Laboratories at Harvard and Paul Andrews and John Limongiello of the science department at McCall.

Exhibiting with the High School Fair, but not eligible for competition on the state level, were the top 9th grade winners from the McCall School science fair which preceded that at the High School: Edwin Cushman, Stuart Myers and John King.

Miss Helen Crawley of the High School science department directed the fair and especially commends the work of the student committee under the chairmanship of Neal Baker for its efficiency and cooperation. Miss Crawley, herself a former vice-chairman of the state fair and former chairman of state fair judging, is looking forward with high expectations to the competition of the three winners in the succeeding regional and state-wide fairs.

Mr. Scharper appears frequently on the TV programs, "The Catholic Hour" and "Look Up and Live." His talk will be the final lecture in the current series of Christian Culture Lectures sponsored by the Paulist Fathers of which Mr. and Mrs. Maurice T. Freeman of 11 Lorena Road are patrons.

Winchester Art Association

Sue M. Thurman, director of the Institute of Contemporary Art, will be guest speaker at the April 2nd meeitng of the Winchester Art Association, in the Rich Room of the Library at 7:45 p.m.

Mrs. Harold Thurman has directed a highly original program at the Junior Art Gallery in Louisville, Kentucky, from 1952 to 1956. From there she went to the directorship of the Isaac Delgado Museum of Art in New Orleans. And in 1961 she came to Boston.

Few women in the U. S. have leading positions as museum directors. Sue Thurman trained at the University of Kentucky and did graduate work in Fine Arts at the Columbia University in New York City.

Exhibit at Library

During the month of April there will be an exhibit of the work of George Dergalis in the Winchester Library. Many persons may have seen the recent large exhibit at the DeCordova Museum in Lincoln.

Dergalis, like many modern artists, is preoccupied with men today in time and space. He symbolizes men struggling to conquer his changing existence and the emotions of this experience. This concept is unique among many contemporary artists who are concerned with portraying universals in abstract.

In technique Dergalis' paintings use traditional oil modified by marble dust and glue, and metallic and wooden objects as well as pottery make for rhythmic patterns and sculptural relief shadows of a sensitive and imaginative statement.

The Art Association is indebted to Mrs. William O'Malley of Emerson Road for arranging a most interesting meeting and exhibit this month.

Five Here Take Part in Tufts Political Forum

Five of a total of 101 leading Bay State citizens who have been invited to participate in the fifth annual Tufts Assembly on Massachusetts Government on April 2, 3, and 4 are residents of Winchester.

The program, which has been increasingly catching the interest of key state political figures, is under the direction of another Winchester man, Dr. Franklin Patterson, of 3 Herrick Street, head of the sponsoring organization, the Tufts' University Lincoln Filene Center for Citizenship and Public Affairs.

The five local participants are Sumner R. Andrews of 25 Ridgefield Road, Boston attorney; Harrison Chadwick, of 24 Everett Avenue, state representative and Town Meeting moderator; Don S. Greer of 82 Arlington Street, president, J. W. Greer Company and Associated Industries of Massachusetts; Gilbert H. Hood, Jr., of 6 Everett Avenue, president, H. P. Hood and Sons; and Mrs. Leonard C. Mead, legislative chairman of the Winchester League of Women Voters, a former resident.

The 1963 assembly will deal with the theme, "Public Confidence and Political Parties in Massachusetts." A series of provocative background papers written by eminent political scientists have been distributed to the participants.

Participants will be engaged in three days and nights of exhaustive study and debate prior to a plenary session at which a set of resolutions representing the official positions of the Assembly will be hammered out.

Although each of the participants holds an important position in business, government, the professions, or prominent organizations, they come to the Tufts Assembly and speak as private citizens eager to contribute valid suggestions that may help to improve Bay State government. The Assembly banquet will hear an address by Governor Endicott Peabody on April 3.

Democratic Committee Notes

The Democratic Town Committee is trying to arrange a night during the early part of May when its guest will be Gerard Doherty, the new chairman of the Democratic State Committee.

The chairman is much in demand and must be signed up well in advance in order to assure his attendance. He has already appeared before several of the town and city committees and expects to have visited all the communities in the state before November, 1964. The Winchester committee is in fine shape, financially, socially and in sub-committee set-ups.

We are extremely pleased to announce that one of our outstanding members, Mrs. Susan Winn, 11 Kirk Street, has returned to her home from the Winchester Hospital, and is convalescing well after a severe attack of pneumonia.

Our local treasury received a fine lift as a result of our participation in the national food survey project which was conducted on Tuesday March 12. We are very grateful to Mrs. Helen Gaynor who not only arranged the survey but opened her home during a bad day of inclement weather so that 82 members and their friends could be interviewed.

We are grateful, too, to the 10 committee members who drove the ladies to the survey that day. The money raised will be used in a special fund to provide attractive refreshments on our meeting nights.

Final returns have been received and turned over to Treasurer, Bill Dailey, by the Irish Night committee. The financial success exceeded all of our expectations, supplementing our best social success to date.

Lenten Music At Unitarian Sunday Service

On Sunday March 31, at 10:40 a.m. the Winchester Unitarian Choir, under the direction of Mary Ranton Witham, will present a program of Lenten music from the works of the great masters before the regular service. Soloists will be Estelle McNeely soprano; Margaret Worcester contralto; William Jeffrey, tenor and Sidney C. Blanchard, Jr., baritone.

The program will include "Blessed they" and "Ye now are sorrowful" from the Requiem by Brahms; "Lacrimosa" and "Recordare" from the Requiem by Mozart; the 1st Anthem, "Sanctus" and the 2nd Anthem, "In Paradisum" from Faure's Requiem and the "Fantasy in A Minor" by Bach as a postlude.

"Praise the Lord"

What would the world be like without all the art and music created in praise of the Lord? This was the question put to the minds of the attending congregation by the Reverend Robert A. Storer, minister of the Unitarian church at the special music vesper service there Sunday afternoon.

He quoted to listeners also from the evocative lines of the 150th psalm, appropriate to the theme and feeling of the afternoon and ending with "Let everything that hath breath praise the Lord. Praise ye the Lord."

Dr. Storer himself praised highly the choir and soloists who presented an especially beautiful afternoon of Easter music ranging in time from Palestrina and Vivaldi through Vaughn Williams and Rheinberger and including excerpts from the Brahms "Requiem" and Dubois "Seven Last Words of Christ." They were under the direction of Mary Ranton Witham.

After the service there was tea, coffee and a showing of the greatly varied art works of choir member, Imelda Gentile.

Of Writers And Writing

By Frank Procopio

So You Want To Become a Writer?

I talked to a young man once who told me he had written a six-hundred page novel, all of it in drudge longhand, and had taken it that way to a Boston publishing firm. An editor received him, as most editors do, seeking new talent, and the young man eagerly handed him his bulky package. The editor read the first paragraph, then scanned several others. Finally, he looked up and there was a pained expression on his face.

"This is terrible," he said flatly, "absolutely terrible. Just what on earth prompted you to bring this to us?"

Stunned and hurt, the young man shifted around nervously in his chair, unable to answer. His confidence, which had been sky-high when he walked into the editor's office, had suddenly plummeted down onto the hard rock of reality.

More or less, directly or indirectly this same scene is re-enacted every day in thousands of editorial offices across the country. Book publishers, magazines and newspapers are constantly on the receiving end of a deluge of words that stagger the imagination. True, the men's magazine, receives as many as 25,000 submissions in a month. Although True prints only completely factual articles it nevertheless finds some 3,000 stories of fiction in its mailbag each month too. Of the 25,000 manuscripts, about a hundred have promise; of these, some ten or fifteen will actually be published. Still, every manuscript, whether it was sent by John Steinbeck or John Smith, has to be acknowledged so long as it is accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed return envelope. To the editor, it's as though the whole world was against him. Wearily, he wonders why so many people who attempt to write have no concept whatever of what writing entails. Then he takes a paper clip and attaches a small, but awesome, piece of paper to the unsatisfactory manuscript.

There are three kinds of rejections: the form rejection slip, the more intimate letter that encouragingly suggests revision, and the telephone call for a work that has immediate promise. The rejection slip is the editor's ultimate weapon, and the writer's most challenging setback. Some writers would rather suffer the loss of their little finger than receive a rejection slip.

Rejection slips are sometimes filed away neatly in alphabetical order; sometimes, with a sense of comic resentment, pasted on walls. I heard of one writer who waited until he had collected twenty-five of them, then designed a three-dimensional, Picasso-like face of his own particular anxiousness, and hung it from the ceiling with a sorrowful modernistic flourish.

Jack London stabbed his onto a steel hook on his writing table. Eventually, the stack grew to be two feet high. Rejections were a constant nemesis for him. He threatened suicide so often his friends got used to it, and ignored him. He finally poisoned himself at the age of forty, success behind him.

Sinclair Lewis, the thin man from Main Street with the sallow face, sardonically recalls having submitted a tireless crop of verse, short stories, and essays over a five year period. He worked on them every night, including Sunday, and says that while their artistical value left something to be desired he averaged an astronomical forty dollars a year.

In 1893, Stephen Crane wrote an unprecedented book called Maggie: A Girl of the Streets. He failed to interest a single publisher in it. Undismayed, he borrowed a thousand dollars and published it himself. It sold so poorly that visitors to his meager room complained of having nowhere to sit except on copies of Maggie.

Robert Louis Stevenson never wanted to do anything but write, though he suffered continually from ill health. At thirty-three he launched a successful career with Treasure Island; eleven years later he died of tuberculosis.

Some writers, especially our own contemporary writers, have oddly reversed the generally accepted pattern procedure. For them, success came so swiftly and with such dramatic suddenness that it left them a little dazed. It is often a harmful thing to achieve your goal on your initial effort; there is a tendency to believe yourself quite capable of infinite accomplishment.

James Jones was an instant success with From Here To Eternity. He since hasn't scribbled a single interesting sentence. Norman Mailer exhausted himself of so many philosophical dissertions in The Naked and the Dead, that he now spends his time crashing private parties and post-fight interviews in a desperate effort to regain some of the prominence he once enjoyed.

Primarily, people want to write because they want to express themselves, or have an insatiable desire to leave some sign of their having been in this world like Faulkner's "kilroy" on the wall. So rather than leap off the Brooklyn Bridge in the Steve Brodie fashion they pick up a pencil and a piece of paper, and try to assimilate some of the half-million or so words of the English language into comprehensible order. Somehow, they think it's easier than jumping off a bridge.

One-Act Operas To Be Performed

The Boston Conservatory of Music Opera Department will present a double bill of 20th Century one-act operas on Friday evening, March 29 and Saturday evening, March 30, in the Boston Conservatory Auditorium at 31 Hemenway Street. Performances on both evenings will begin at 8:30 p.m.

The operas to be coupled together for these programs are Hugo Weisgall's Purgatory, receiving its New England premiere, and Giacomo Puccini's Gianni Schicchi, first performed in 1918 at New York's Metropolitan. The operas are cast from students and alumni of the Conservatory and will be staged by visiting director, John Moriarty, former faculty member of the New England Conservatory of Music and presently Artistic Administrator of the Santa Fe (New Mexico) Opera Company. Conductor on both evenings will be Attilio Poto of the Boston Conservatory faculty and former member of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

"The Red Shoes" At N. E. Hall

The opening performance of the Boston Children's' Theatre production of "The Red Shoes" is scheduled for Saturday afternoon, April 13 at New England Life Hall.

"The Red Shoes" is the charming fairy tale by Hans Christian Anderson, which has been dramatized by Hans Josef Schmidt into a delightful three-act play. The production will be given on Saturday afternoons, April 13, 20, 27, and May 4. A morning performance has been scheduled for Saturday, April 27 at 10:30 a.m. This is in addition to the regular 2:30 p.m. show.

"MEMOS" FROM YOUR Stylist

By: "Woody"

The well-groomed woman should treat colors with a wary eye, favoring those kind to her hair and complexion and avoiding those which are uncomplimentary. Orange is the warmest color, but not a flattering one in general. Blue is kind to blonde and brunette alike; yellow favors the brunette, but only blondes can wear the warmer shades of brown which tend to give darker-skinned persons a washed-out appearance.

However, blue with disappointment, green with envy, or red with rage are emotions you should never experience when you entrust the care of your hair to WOODY'S HAIR STYLES. From a shampoo to the latest in hair styling, outstanding operators and stylists are ready to serve you at WOODY'S HAIR STYLES, 573 Main St., Phone PA 9-3065.

Master point night on March 20 saw Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jones join a selected group of old pros in sharing the laurels in a well balanced two section field.

Section A completed an 11 table, 22 board movement which produced an average point total of 110.

North-South
Ida Finlay and Lee Mitchell	138½
Betty Slade and Robert Haskell	136½
Gerry Lawrence and James Curley	127½
Herb Wood and Jock Olmsted	118
Ruby White and Ellen Schofield	113½
Roger Locke and Thomas Wilder	111½

Mr. and Mrs. William Wheelock	118½
Edward Mansfield and Gerald Barrett	116½
Barbara Sawyer and Fredna Perkins	114½

Section B played 21 boards in a 9½ table field. Results showed that only three North-South pairs finished above average! Here were the leading percentages:

North-South
George Coffin and Al Oszy	.581
Arthur Bibby and Harold Brown	.560
Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Root	.546
East-West
Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jones	.606

Dolly Pasquale and Frank Stewart	.521
Peg Sanderson and Ralph Atkinson	.510

The bridge editorial this week is written by new member Tom Wilder and includes reference to the so-called "unusual" no trump overcall. This requires close partnership understanding, as many Norths would not take a call of one no trump by South in this situation as "unusual."

"NOTHING" HANDS

Perhaps one of the most interesting characterizations of duplicate bridge is the large number of different contracts played with hands where neither partnership has a chance for a game, and where both sides have approximately the same high card strength. The bidding and playing of such deals are almost always quite lengthy, for players realize that it is this ornery type of hand which usually produces the major swing of match points in tournament play. A case in point is the deal described below.

Board No. 20, Section A
Both sides vulnerable
West dealer

North
♠ K 6 3 2
♥ K 10 2
♦ 9 8 7
♣ 10 8 6

West
♠ A 9 8
♥ Q 8 7
♦ Q 6
♣ A J 9 7 3

East
♠ 7 4
♥ 9 6 4
♦ K J 5 3 2
♣ Q 5 4

South
♠ Q J 10 5
♥ A J 5 3

♣ K 2

At most tables the bidding probably started out in straight-forward fashion with West opening 1 C, North passing, and East responding 1 D. At this point South had to bid, of course, but what he bid was probably the major factor in determining the final contract, regardless of the declarer. He may have doubled, which is standard enough, but then he may have preferred to mention one of his major suits, probably hearts, since he could do so at such a cheap level.

Finally, he may have chosen the unusual 1 NT overcall, which indicated good strength in both of the unbid suits, asking his partner to choose between them. The reader may find it interesting to guess what the different Souths bid, in view of the final contracts and results which are described below.

Three Wests were declarer in a final contract of 1 NT, one making two (for a top), another making the one, and the third being set three tricks (for a bottom). One other West landed in 2 C, and went down one. One South bid 2 H, making three. Three other Souths bid 3 H, but only one made it, the others being set a trick. A fifth South bid 2 S, down one. Finally two Norths were declarer at 2 S; one making two, the other making two plus an overtrick!

Thus for the 11 times this hand was played, there were 6 different contracts, 10 different results, for 7 different scores! It is also conceivable that East may have stepped into the picture in 2 D! Not spectacular — just typical of these so-called "nothing" hands which can be so dull in rubber bridge.

H. S. Musicians Perform In All-State Concert

Five Winchester High School students who were chosen in December state-wide auditions, were in Springfield this past weekend to perform in the Massachusetts All State Music Concert, a climax each year to the annual state Music Educators conference.

Attending the conference along with Winchester music supervisors and director Wendell S. Withington, were three who played in the All State Orchestra under the direction of Robert Steffason of the Springfield Symphony, Joan and Robert Wilson, violinists, and Betty Hauck, violist. Singing in the All State Chorus, under the direction of Warner Dawson of the Tuskegee Institute in Alabama, were Janet Niles and Robert Chase.

K of C Communion Breakfast Sunday

On Sunday, March 31, Winchester Council No. 210 Knights of Columbus will hold their 66th annual communion breakfast.

A special Mass will be celebrated at 8:00 a.m. in St. Mary's Church by the Chaplain Father James Kenny. The men will march from the K. of C. hall to St. Mary's church at 7:45 a.m. led by Marshal Bill Dailey.

After Mass, a catered breakfast will be served in the K. of C. hall. The guest speaker is Father B. J. Finnegan, S. J. of the Campion Hall retreat house in North Andover. Father Finnegan is a former Navy chaplain and a gifted speaker.

A large committee has been active in making this annual affair a great success under the direction of Grand Knight Frank Farley, general chairman Jim Henry and ticket chairmen Dick Fiore and John Mulrenan.

M.I.T. Matrons To Sing at The Gardner Muesum

The Technology Matrons, of M. I. T. are looking forward to a special date, Saturday, April 6. The Technology Matrons and Dames Choral Group, directed by Mrs. George Scatchard, will present a program at the Isabella Stewart Gardner Museum, Boston at 2:45 p.m. The concert is open to the public.

MRS. RICHARD LAWRANCE

This choral group was organized at M. I. T. by Mrs. Karl Compton in 1932. Membership is open to M. I. T. Matrons and Dames and to Harvard Newcomers. There is no voice test for applicants.

The approximately 40 singers devote themselves to a wide range of the best in choral literature from all periods and styles. The program on Saturday will include "Happy Flocks In Safety Wander" by J. B. Bach featuring two flutes with the chorus and piano; two Spanish folk songs, "Neath An Oak Tree" and "The Girl Who Cares No Longer" transcribed by Joaquin Nin and "Come In" the poem by Robert Frost which has been set to music by Randall Thompson.

When it's time to think about getting your boat ready, why not buy your letters and official numbers at the Winchester Star. Reasonably priced 2 for 25c. Black or red. Self adhesive.

Local Teacher In National Science Study Group

Mrs. Ruth E. Graham, third grade teacher and science specialist for the team teaching group at the Parkhurst School has just been chosen to be one of a group of 50 science teachers, educational researchers and scientists from across the nation who will study and report on elementary science teaching procedures and curricula for the Elementary Science Study group this summer.

The Elementary Science Study Group (ESS) is supported by the National Science Foundation (Ford Foundation money) the same group which developed the PSSC (Physical Science Study Committee) physics course, currently replacing or supplementing high school physics study across the nation. It is administered by Educational Services Incorporated (ESI).

The telegram received by Mrs. Graham this week from ESS director Wallace Sawyer in Watertown, in effect offered her a fellowship for an eight weeks special study project to be held at ESI headquarters this summer as the second consecutive summer study there in the interest of developing a more meaningful and standardized approach to the study of science for the nation's elementary schools.

In its first study session last summer the project drew to Watertown such familiar local names as Dr. Mary Bunting, president of Radcliffe, Dr. Jerome Bruner, noted educational psychologist at Harvard, Dr. James Killian, of M. I. T. and comparable scientists from as far away as Canada and even Africa. This year the group will sponsor a school for about 150 children of various ages and Mrs. Graham will be teaching in this school.

Mrs. Graham has headed the science presentations at Parkhurst for the team teaching groups in grades 4, 5 and 6 in addition to teaching the third grade there. She is also a member of the local schools' Elementary Science Review Committee, chaired by Parkhurst principal, Albert F. Sutula and including Mrs. Ruth F. Graham of Washington, Miss Margaret Millican of Mystic, George Greer of Vinson Owen, A. Lovell Parsons of Lynch and John A. Limongiello of McCall. This group meets to assess and co-ordinate elementary science study on the local school level.

Chosen for this national honor from hundreds of applicants, Mrs. Graham is a lively mother of three quite in love with her subject and carried away with the desire to impart it to others. She lives at 8 Charles Street, Woburn. Her oldest son is 21 and at Michigan State University, she has another boy 18 and one 10. She is a recent addition to the teaching faculty in Winchester having joined the Parkhurst group in 1959 under the teaching assistants' plan designed to bring just such persons as herself into or back into teaching.

Her introduction to teaching was in the field of kindergarten work. She is a Leslie graduate, currently working for a master's degree at Tufts. She has worked gradually into the field of science teaching while at Parkhurst and is herself completely in favor of the basic principle behind the ESS philosophy of teaching science that of giving to the young students the opportunity of self discovery.

Enormous Bake Sale

The Senior Class at Winchester High School is having a gigantic Bake Sale this Saturday, March the thirtieth. Nine o'clock the doors are open at both Converse Market and the First National. The variety of baked goods will be fantastic: all types of cookies and cakes, also brownies, rolls, cream puffs, banana bread, and many things more. Come and look at the selection. If you decide to buy, you will find the price fair.

The Senior Class is trying very hard to raise enough money for graduation. We all hope the citizens of Winchester will take advantage of this fine opportunity to taste tempting goodies and at the same time help the Class of 1963.

W. H. S. Artists Win Top Places In State Contest

It is with great pride The Fortnightly extends congratulations to three young artists of the Winchester High School who showed their original paintings in the Art contest sponsored by The Fortnightly.

After these artists' paintings were judged in Winchester they were exhibited at the State contest where they won top recognition as follows: Stephen Gray, first prize for "The Tractor"; Dianne Burnham, second prize for "The Light of Hope" and honorable mention to Carol Butters for "The Framework of the Future."

The paintings of these artists will go on to Washington to compete for the National prize.

Such proceedings are outlined by the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs which The Fortnightly Art Committee adheres under the direction of Mrs. Paul H. Howard. The talent of these students has been properly guided by Miss Pauline Goodrich, the supervisor of the Art Department of the Winchester High School who shares in the glory now bestowed

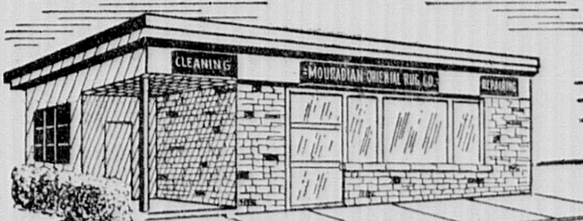
WEDNESDAY, APRIL 3
10 A.M. to 3 P.M.



For our safety, tons and tons of salt and sand have been spread on the streets and sidewalks of our town this winter. Certainly, this is a very necessary service.

But, when some of these harmful minerals are brought in onto our rugs, they can do much damage.

"Ordinary" cleaning will not rid your rugs of imbedded sand and grime. This year, more than ever, they need special treatment and quality cleaning such as we are accustomed to give.

If you are not already familiar with our services, we would appreciate a call and the privilege of helping you in your spring cleaning.

Increase In Sexual Promiscuity Among Younger Set Decried

Second Source, not scientific but responsible: The Episcopalian chaplain at a major Boston University. Attractive girls with high standards say they refuse to date because it is taken for granted that all dates end by going to bed in the boy's room; "Motel" parties with four or more couples freely having relations in the same room at the same time; the calculated estimate of the girls in one dormitory that one in three of them had an abortion that year (1961-1962).

Third Source: A recent (3-day-old) report from the national headquarters of the Florence Crittenton Association. The number of teen-age unwed mothers is up greatly, but so is the number of teen-agers. However, among post-college young women, the rate has gone from 19.9 per 1000 to 44.9 per 1000, an increase of 125% in the last ten years.

Fourth Source: A local Doctor. He began questioning girls to see if drinking had been involved in their suspected pregnancy. Not one admitted it, but every teen-age girl said that she had gone steady with the boy for at least a year. Not much can be learned in ten minutes, but this was the one thing they had in common.

Fifth Source: The current issue (March, 1963) of the Ladies' Home Journal, which quotes from a national YWCA survey and a study by Dr. Lee G. Burchinal at Iowa State University.

Dr. Burchinal found in one study that the pre-marital pregnancy rate among high school-aged marriages was 87%, and that 81% of those had conventional weddings. (Almost half the non-pregnant girls eloped!) Apparently today people no longer regard the white bridal gown as a symbol of purity and virginity. I have known of weddings where parents and grand-parents were announcing the birth-date-to-be before the wedding took place, and the bride still wore white. No sense of shame here.

In a later study Dr. Burchinal stated that from 30% to 50% of all young marriages involved premarital pregnancies. He lists nine findings about those girls, which can be summarized by saying that they started dating and going steady earlier.

The YWCA study centered its attention on going steady. (I would be one of the first to admit that many young people have high enough standards for their own behaviour that they would behave properly in any situation. Our concern is for those who cannot hold up to high standards—but how do you tell which is which?)

A sixteen-year-old junior boy said, "When you go steady, you feel obligated to go a little farther on each date. It's just naturally expected of you." Eventually, there is a time when only one thing remains to be done.

A seventeen-year-old girl told of her difficulty of holding her morals and the affection of the boy at the same time. He had demanded that she prove her love for him by going to bed with him—when she was only 15. "I don't think a girl at 15 should have to think about that, but stupidly enough I thought I was in love with the guy."

In the YWCA study, 44% of the girls agreed that going steady did make it more difficult to hold onto their moral standards, and only 28% felt that it made it easier.

On far slimmer evidence than this, when disease threatens, swimming pools are closed, water supplies are shut off, vast areas are sprayed with insecticides, killing countless birds and fish and useful insects, as well as causing great inconvenience to thousands of people. We do not hesitate to take drastic action to save a dozen or a hundred people from a disease. But we are afraid to apply restrictions to young people in order to protect them from moral disease.

Some young people can handle freedom and do not need restrictions. Also, some people are immune to this or that disease. But for the welfare of those who are not immune, the liberty of all is restricted. We know of some of the situations which lead to promiscuity. Certain potentially-dangerous situations should be forbidden. Social pressure to conform to these prohibitions will be necessary. It must, of necessity, begin with a minority of parents who are willing to take a stand and stick to it.

What Can Be Done In Winchester?

First, the young people who have high moral standards can make the beginning. They can avoid dating people with reputations of going as far as they can. You are judged by the company you keep. You yourself may behave as you should, but the other person's reputation will rub off on you.

In former times, premarital pregnancy was usually held to be the girl's fault. Today, we are inclined to say that they both share the guilt. In one sense, the latter view is correct. However, the physiology and psychology of boys is different from that of girls. The majority of boys will go as far as the girls will let them. It is clearly up to the girl to draw the line and to stick to it. Many boys will use every skill they know to seduce a girl, even protesting that he loves her dearly. If a boy does not take the girl's first "no" for the final answer, she should demand that she be taken home immediately and insist upon it, walking if need be, and she should refuse to date the boy again. She should let it be known among the girls that she will not date him again because he tries to go to far. She should frankly tell her parents, and if they see fit they can communicate it to the boy's parents.

A boy and a girl may think that they are deeply in love. He may ask that she show how deeply she loves him by permitting him freely to explore her body and at last to possess it. But this is passion, not love. If he truly loves her, he will want the best for both of them and their marriage-to-be. True love requires total commitment of each to the other, and it is only in this context that sexual love is intended by its Creator to be expressed. (Playboy magazine sets forth a view popular among young men not yet ready for commitment that the desirable relationship is one that makes no demand except lots of sex, with no commitment on either side, each free to break off at any time with no recriminations.) But true love requires commitment, complete, total, life-long commitment, assuming full responsibility for the other person's welfare. Teen-agers simply are not ready for this total commitment even when they think they are.

The boy who claims to love a girl and who asks her to go all the way with him in order to show her love for him betrays that love by his very request.

Decent boys can let it be a point of honor not to put a girl's affection to the test, never asking or suggesting going beyond proper limits to prove their love for each other. Do not treat the girl as a "thing," using her just to get an experience for yourself. Treat her as a person, to be respected but not used. When a girl has a reputation for being fast, don't date her for any reason.

Now for the parents. Many contemparary studies of behaviour, pointed up by the Florence Crittenton report, show that the weak link in the chain is in the control of the parents. The teen-ager is not yet an adult; he is striving for adulthood and may have arrived at physical maturity; but in many ways he is still a child needing parental supervision and protection. Too many parents try to hasten the process of maturity, and they thrust freedom upon a child before he is ready for it. Too many parents fail to set the limits for their children, limits which the children themselves sometimes openly ask for, almost universally desire, and universally need.

The young people may often push to the limit of parental approval, but this is usually done only to determine exactly where the limit is. It is a small minority which blatantly defies limitation altogether.

Both Mr. Batten and I have been astounded at remarks from parents like this: "I don't know what is wrong. My daughter is in the sixth grade and she hasn't had a date yet." Frankly, it would not hurt your daughter if she graduated from high school without having had half a dozen dates. I have watched a number of such girls go through Winchester High School with few dates, without a blemish on their psyches. In or after college they have found Prince Charming and have happily married.

A Few Suggestions for Parents

1. No boy-girl parties during elementary schools. Plenty of time later. Most 7th grade and 8th grade private parties (birthday, etc.) should be for all boys or all girls. The girls may be ready for it but few of the boys are. Why rush them into this, when this early pairing off and dating sets the probability higher for teen-age promiscuity and pregnancy? Postpone it as long as possible, never encourage it.

2. Do not try to rush your child into maturity — no matter what your friends or your daughter's friends do! Sophistication may be desirable among college girls, but it is repulsive in a junior high school girl and usually to a senior high school girl. Your daughter may have a cute figure, but keep it hidden until she is 18 or 20. There is no excuse for any high school girl wearing a low-cut or revealing gown. Fashions be damned! Get straps on those dresses and keep the neck-line high! What possible excuse to do otherwise except to make her look sexy?

3. Know where your child is when she is out at night. Forbid "just driving around." Forbid the attitude that "when we pick up some other kids we will decide what we will do tonight." In such a case, insist that the meeting take place at a specific home, and that when the group decides that it will go to a movie, bowling, or whatever, then your child will telephone you to tell you which movie or which bowling alley, and when he will be home.

4. All parties must have specific, written invitations which state the beginning and ending hours. Guests should not be free to come and go as they please but are to come at the beginning and stay to the end. If invited to two or more parties on the same evening, the guests must decide which of the parties to attend; no drifting from party to party. If the party is a large one (30 or more guests), hire an off duty policeman to be on hand. The decent young people will respect the parents for wanting an orderly party.

5. No more open houses for teen agers in private homes. (An open house is an adult-kind of party with written invitations, anyway.) If your child claims to be invited to one, call the other parents whether you know them or not, express surprise that in view of the situation in Winchester they would consider having such a party without written invitations, ask them what steps they are taking to assure an orderly party; don't be buffaloed by them for they are the ones at fault for not having made this all evident through a proper invitation. Make your final judgment about whether your child may attend only after you have the facts. Do not think that saying "no" will ruin your child's future. If you have any doubts, say "no."

6. Never admit an uninvited guest (unless it is an unexpected out-of-town house guest of a regularly invited guest) to a party in your house. Treat party crashers with severity, especially the class officers and varsity club members who seem to think that their positions convey immunity for them. (Within the last few months, two families in this parish allowed their children to have after-the-play parties "for the cast." In each case, over 150 young people arrived. The president of one class was quite indignant with the host's father, whom he knew, because the father said, "You are not one of the invited guests and you are not coming in." In both cases, uninvited members of the Winchester football and basketball squads pushed their way in.)

7. Except where a party precedes a dance, plan to have a different number of boys from girls, to discourage pairing off.

8. Outlaw going steady, certainly for more than three or four months. This is the single most-frequent source of wrong sexual behaviour—treat it like the threat of an epidemic disease. No high school student is going to carry wounds on his or her poor little soul because she was not allowed to go steady! At least not for long, and not at all if enough parents declare that going steady is out—not out just a little bit but way, way out.

9. Take a long, dim, disapproving view of the after-the-dance parties, especially the Senior Prom and its all-night parties unless they are strictly all-boy or all-girl parties. Quite a number of Winchester young people have candidly said to me, "If the adults had any idea of what goes on after the Senior Prom, they wouldn't allow another after-the-dance party." The number of babies born in late February-early March to youngsters attending the previous Senior Prom, whether in or out of wedlock, is probably more than coincidental. Especially the "well-chaperoned summer home" all-night parties are dangerous. Who knows how early they left the dance or whose unchaperoned summer house they visited before arriving "on time" at the chaperoned party?

Conclusion

Set limits for your children. Many young people need far stricter limits than I have suggested.

Do not be afraid of your children's wailing that you are harsh and unfair. (If it continues, consult your physician or your minister.) It is their way of testing to see if the limits are real limits, or if you will back down. Be secure in knowing that you are doing it to protect them in ways where many young people (perhaps not yours) cannot protect themselves. For the sake of the weaker ones, rules must be imposed on all. It is dangerous to be rigidly severe with young people, allowing them little freedom at all, no dates and no parties; parents who do this are setting up a situation where their child will be in open rebellion. But when a child has some freedom and privileges in keeping with high standards in the community, strict rules will not hurt him or her, but rather will be a real help. Not all the whims of youth must be served!

Many young people chafe at restrictions, saying, "But everybody else is allowed to do it." It is difficult for parents to combat this, if it should be true that everybody else is doing it. Therefore, somebody must begin by taking a public stand, to which other parents can repair.

If any parents feel that the above points are a good beginning for standards in this community, let them send me their names and addresses. I will compile the names and addresses, sending each one a list of the others so that he will know which other parents in the community are ready and willing to take a stand. If they desire, at a later date those parents could have a meeting to draw up a specific code which they would agree they would all administer to their own children.

Shakespeare Play For Students At Theatre-in-Round

Its first annual Shakespeare Program has been announced by the North Shore Community Arts Foundation, now planning a professional production of the historical classic Julius Caesar at the North Shore Theatre in Beverly. The special performances - intended primarily for students and teachers - will open with a matinee on Monday May 20, and continue for two weeks.

This marks the first time a major professional theatre in this area has planned a program of such cooperation between the performing arts and the schools. The Foundation, which is a non-profit organization, hopes that this year's Shakespeare Student Program will mark the beginning of an extensive theatre-educational program. A discussion period will follow each of the Shakespeare performances, with a member of the professional company on stage to answer any questions relating to the production. Performance and discussion period are designed to provide an audio-visual aid to the study of literature, arts and social sciences.

The North Shore Theatre's arena stage - a fully enclosed and roofed theatre-in-the-round is ideally designed to give a contemporary feeling to the presentation of Shakespeare's plays. Further to add authentic color, Julius Caesar will be costumed in Elizabethan dress, in line with Shakespearean custom.

Public, private and parochial schools throughout the New England area will be invited to participate in this new cultural program. All performances of Julius Caesar to be presented Monday through Saturday - will begin at either 3:00 p.m. or 11:15 a.m., to integrate with existing scholastic schedules.

Library Reveals New Service

The Winchester Public Library in cooperation with the Middlesex County Extension Service announces a new service to the community. Librarian Mrs. Lois G. Smith describes the new service as of particular interest to home owners. Through the County Extension Service a "Horticultural Guide" has been developed to answer the problems relating to a wide range of subjects. There are 139 different bulletins and leaflets covering such items as animal pests, bulbs, carpet beetles, dwarf trees, earthworms, fertilizer, grapes, hedges, lawn weeds, mushrooms, old house borers, propagation, rock gardens, soil testing, termite control, vegetables, winter injury and zinnias and many more.

This new service is being initiated throughout Middlesex County Extention Service, Concord. On commenting on the Horticultural Guide, J. T. Brown, director of the County Extension Service, said "The library is the logical place for citizens to find the information they need. We think that these factual bulletins and leaflets from the United States Department of Agriculture and the University of Massachusetts ought to be available in every city and town. This plan can supplement and extend the educational program we offer immeasurably. We are pleased that the Winchester Public Library is our partner in this endeavor to serve the citizens of Winchester more effectively."

Man's preoccupation with the solving of his ills has taken many strange routes down through the centuries. In ancient Babylon, for example, it wasn't uncommon to exhibit sick people in the street in the hope that passers-by might recognize an illness and thus offer worth-while advice and treatment.

Later the progressive Babylonians pursued further their interest in sickness and cure and professional physicians, even specialists, appeared to take the place of the transient amateur doctors.

Nothing, however, can take the place of accuracy, care and experience in the proper filling of prescriptions. You are assured of the highest quality at McCORMACK'S APOTHECARY, 568 Main St. Phone PA 9-2700.

Sunday, March 31

Freedom from materiality, bondage of any sort, will be emphasized at Christian Science church services Sunday.

Highlighting the Scriptural selections from the Lesson-Sermon on the subject "Reality" will be this passage: "The night is far spent, the day is at hand: let us therefore cast off the works of darkness, and let us put on the armor of light" (Rom. 13:12).

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy this citation will be read: "Perfection underlies reality. Without perfection, nothing is wholly real. All things will continue to disappear, until perfection appears and reality is reached" (p. 353).

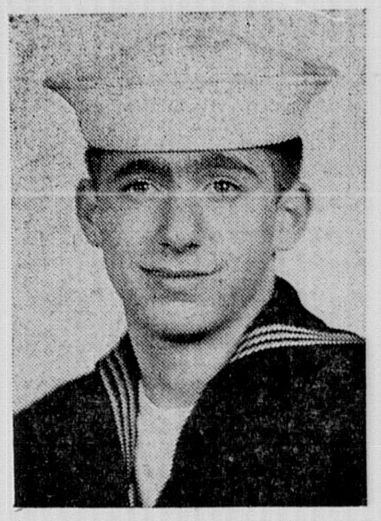
Two Here Recent Naval Recruits

John Towle MacLellan, son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. MacLellan of 7 Parker Road and Carlton Dix Hoyt, son of Mrs. Dorothy Hoyt of 711 Washington Street, recently enlisted in the U. S. Navy for a period of minority years.



JOHN T. MACLELLAN

CARLTON D. HOYT

After completion of basic training at the U. S. Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Illinois, they will receive leave and then report to their first duty assignment. Both young men enlisted at the area Navy Recruiting station, City Hall, Medford.

Begins Training

Pvt. Nicholas J. Rosa son of Mr. and Mrs. James N. Rosa 24 Glenwood Avenue has begun his Basic Combat Training at Fort Jackson S. C., where he has been assigned to Company B, 9th Battalion, 2nd Training Regiment of the U. S. Army Training Center Infantry. try.

PVT. NICHOLAS J. ROSA

During his basic training he will be introduced to a wide variety of infantry skills, along with intensive physical conditioning. He will attend classes in the traditions of the service, character guidance, and the role of the Army in the world today. Many of his instructors are combat veterans of World War II and the Korean conflict.

Fort Jackson uses the U. S. Army's Trainfire method of teaching rifle marksmanship. Simulating actual battle conditions, Trainfire enables the Soldier to become a better rifleman in less time. Under the program, the trainee fires at pop-up targets at unknown distances on terrain which duplicates combat areas..

Other highlights of his intensive basic training schedule include squad tactics, bayonet drill, hand-to-hand combat, and a night problem against an "agressor" force.

He will also crawl the infiltration course while live machine-gun fire pops overhead.

During his seventh week of training, he lives in the field under conditions similar to a combat zone. Here, moving over rough terrain, he has a chance to participate in realistic combat situations and to apply his new skills.

Basic training is climaxed by a graduation review before the commanding general of Fort Jackson. Outstanding performances are recognized in a ceremony that is open to parents and invited guests.

Noonan Assembly Covers Science, Music Studies

Running the gauntlet from a story of the early discovery of buoyancy to a charming Polish folk song called, "Village Talk," Mrs. Mary L. Butler's Noonan School fourth grade entertained a full audience of schoolmates and parents on Tuesday afternoon in the Noonan auditorium.

The assembly, designed to tell the story of some of the class activity in the fields of science and music, began with the youngsters in turn telling of the many properties of water. This part concluded with an amusing little saga of an early discovery of buoyancy by a Roman king in his bath, presented by Jane Thompson, Charles Nurnberger and Martin Erb.

In song, the class then took the audience on a choral trip starting in the American West and concluding with European songs and some dances and marshal airs from the U. S. A.

A violin solo, Mendelssohn's "On Wings of Song," played by Martin Erb, was a highlight of the afternoon.

Jane Thompson directed the rhythm band and the chorus was made up of Joan Haggerty, Edward Cataldo, Bradford Brooks, Larry Richburg, Linda Bearden, William Babin, Mark Sinclair, Karin Bell, James Dexter, Dennis Lawton, Deborah Lawton, James Chute, Ann Lombard, Valerie Davis, Robert Govostes, Kevin Haggerty and James Ferguson.

W. S. C. S. Guest Afternoon

The women of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church will entertain guests from other churches at their meeting on Thursday afternoon, April 4. Vivian Worman, nationally-known charm consultant, fashion model and commentator on women's styles and appearance, will speak on "Passport to Beauty." Miss Worman will underline her deep conviction that charm is an ageless thing and that each and every woman, regardless of circumstances, possesses the potential to be eminently attractive.

As a grandmother herself, her charm and appearance make convincing proof. Miss Worman gives hints on how each listener can take a personal inventory and by using simple inexpensive aids, add to her charm and grace. Highlights of the program will be the utilization of a simple black dress as the basis for proper morning, afternoon and evening wear through the use of proper accessories.

Mrs. Harry L. Emmons, president of the W. S. C. S. will open the meeting at 2 o'clock. Devotions will be led by Mrs. Lewis G. Curtis. The Epworth Circle, under the direction of Mrs. Alfred W. Poole will serve dessert at 1 p.m.

Mission Union Study Meeting

The final meeting in the Mission Union Lenten Study Series will be held in the Palmer Room of the First Congregational Church next Thursday, April 4th. Coffee and tea will be served at 9:30, the meeting starting at 10. The speaker, Mr. Charles Yue, is a graduate student at Tufts University.

Mr. Yue, a native of Hong Kong, attended the Mission School and is a graduate of the International Christian Union of Japan where he studied physics and theology. He will talk on the Mission School and what Christians might do for the people of Hong Kong.

Mr. Yue was a guest of one of our church families over Forum's International Week-end and made an outstanding impression on those who met him at that time.

The worship service at this meeting will be conducted by Mrs. Wesley Mallery. All women of the church are cordially invited to attend. Babysitting will be provided for a nominal fee.

Annual Art Fair At St. Mary's

Sunday afternoon, March 17, saw several hundred spectators arriving to view the work of Saint Mary's children in their annual Art Fair. For several months great preparations had been underway.

Children from Grades One through Eight had been absorbed in the techniques involved in the use of various media. Water color, tempera, cut paper and India ink produced the amazing results which were exhibited amid the atmosphere of a gay and lively Irish theme. Irish lads and colleens marked off the various grades and judges awarded the winning ribbons to the lilt of Irish melodies.

Mrs. William Diegelman, Mrs. Gerald Houghton and Mr. John Killian served as competent judges together with Sr. M. Antonine, C.S.J., community art supervisor for the Congregation of the Sisters of St. Joseph. They based their decisions on originality, creativity, skillful use of media.

The awards were as follows:

First prize in grade one to Theodore Phipps; in grade two to Donald Carey; grade three, John Killian; grade four, Philip Sampson; grade five, Margaret Hilkert; grade six, Kevin Cleary; grade seven, Anne Cause and grade eight Jeanne DeConto.

Other winners were: grade one, William Boylan, Rosemarie deMars, Thare MacDonald, Jean Mottolo, Karen Trabucco. Grade two, John Cleary, Judith Coughlin, Linda Mottolo, Richard Mountain, Patricia Rooney. Grade three, Richard Beaton, Mary Dobbins, Matthew Lambert, Lawrence Penta, Jeanne Shanley. Grade four, Pamela Capone, Janice Cleary, Andrea Mountain, Marianne Penta, Karen Sylvester. Grade five, John Campbell, Laura Equi, Doris Farnam, Elaine Fitzgerald, Maureen Sullivan. Grade six, Frances Equi, Carl Hilkert, Claire Lyon, Marcella Sheehy. Grade seven, Paul Capone, Elizabeth Dolan, Shane MacDonald, Marcia Stygles and grade eigh, Kathleen Curran, Brian McKenna, Elizabeth Moran and John O'Neil.

Mills Will Speak On Mass. Politics At League Lunch

From his many years' experience of political reporting, and from his practical political experience, Edgar Mills will draw the material for his speech to members of the Winchester League of Women Voters on "Timely Facets of Legislation and Politics in Massachusetts" at the League's Legislative Luncheon tomorrow.

From newsboy to City Editor oversimplifies the career of Mr. Mills of the Christian Science Monitor. In the 41 years since 1922 when he started as a newsboy for the Monitor, Mr. Mills has reported and interpreted the colorful Massachusetts political montage of issues, personalities, and campaigns.

He began his reporting career in 1934 at the City Hall, then moved on to the State House during the first year of Governor Curley's administration. Since 1950, Mr. Mills has served as New England Political Editor of the Monitor. In 1953, for his series of articles on redistricting, he received both the Amasa Howe and the Hayward Brown awards. Twice Mr. Mills has taken leaves of absence from the Monitor. During the last few months of 1942, he served as publicity director of the Emergency State Conservator who had charge of meeting the problems of the critical wartime oil shortage; in 1949, he served as Senator Saltonstall's Chief Secretary in Washington, D. C.

There are still a few tickets available for the League Luncheon to be held at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church on Friday, March 29 at 12:45 p.m. Mrs. Theodore von Rosenvinge, PA 9-3799 and Mrs. Nelson Fontneau, PA 9-4026 will accept reservations.

Foreign Mission Honors Go To Miss Leavitt

In the summer of 1917 Gladys Leavitt of Winchester, still in her teens, took a two-week job with a foreign mission board in Boston.

This week, some 46 years later, she will retire from the job (she now lives here at 5 Hancock Street).

Gladys Leavitt's "temporary" job was with the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, overseas agency of the Congregational Christian churches. For many years she was secretary to Dr. Harold B. Belcher of Melrose, then board treasurer.

When the American Board, now part of the United Church Board for World Ministries, moved most of its offices to New York last spring, Miss Leavitt moved, too, and continued her work there as supervisor of the payroll department.

Miss Leavitt was honored by the mission board on two separate occasions this week: on last Thursday afternoon, the United Church Board for World Ministries' staff in New York held a tea for her; on Monday evening, a dinner in her honor was held by old friends and colleagues at 14 Beacon Street Boston.

Miss Leavitt is soon exchanging the world-wide horizons of the mission board for a smaller horizon, a blue one filled with lobster pots and white caps - at Cape Porpoise, near Kennebunkport, Maine. A "summer complaint" there for many years, she will begin a new life as a "year-'rounder."

For the past several years she has made her home with her sister Mrs. Marion Batten, at 5 Hancock Street here. In a year or two, when Mrs. Batten retires herself, she too will become a Cape Porpoise year-'rounder.

The Atlantic Gelatin seem to have secured first place, but second through sixth place are up for grabs. Strike Lanes, Grandma's Teeth, Mill Hillers, Post Office and the 49ers are only six points apart. This should make the best finish in the life of the league.

Due to injury to Joe Consalves, the Grandma's Teeth are finding it hard to keep going at the pace they have maintained up to now. The Atlantic Gelatin defeated them 8 to 0 in a match which saw the "Gelly" roll 1589 for total.

Ozzie McClay 337, Oscar 329, Bud and Joe Nash each 313 were the big guns, as Eric Robertson 320 and Bill Sipp 301 were men of the losers.

Strike Lanes took on the Post Office to fight for life, as these two teams were not in playoff position in the first half. The winner Strike Lanes 8 to 0, that put Strike Lanes in second place and sent the Post Office to fifth. Richie Smith 333 and L. Ricker 303 led the winners. Ken Griswold 306 and M. Donovan 302 were high for the losers.

The Mill Hillers trying to keep pace with the leaders took six of eight from the Brothers-in-law. Ellie Fuller 323 and Bruce Kelley 307 led the match, with Al Fiorilli 303 pushing hard all the way for the losers.

The 49ers rolled over the Converse to keep in the first division, and ready to push the newcomers out of the playoff. Although no one of the winners were over 300, they were all close, as the Converse were led by Harold Faulhefer but to no avail.

St. Mary's moved back into first place in the second division as they downed the Hoboes, 6 to 2. Jim Caulfield 300 and Joe Cussen 297 led the way as Dave Napier was high man for the Hoboes.

In a close match, J. H. Winn subdued the Giant Killers 6 to 2 with pinfall a close 1353 to 1336. Ralph Jury has found the range as he rolled 109-99-102 for 310, as Phil Dresser finished strong for the Giant Killers.

S. O. I. Bowling League

The regular season has ended and this week starts the roll-offs for the championships with the teams ending in the first three positions of each half competing against each other.

In the last game of the second half the first and second place teams, Alabama and Yale, respectively, rolled to a 2-2 split. Alabama was led by Bill Fiore who hit for 104-102-122 and close to him was his brother Correction, who finished up with 110-81-103. Yale's top performer was Joe Capone with scores of 89-138-99 and he was followed by Capt. Richie Bucci with 83-106-124.

Fourth place Georgetown took third place Holy Cross by a 3-1 score with some fine bowling by the winners Joe Marrone who had 113-122-132 and Capt. Dick Trabucco who hit for 119-92-106. Captain Moose Bellino led his Holy Cross team in a losing cause when he connected for 109-130-100; then came Arka Amico 111-102-120, Rudy Fiore 105-94-98 and Phil Ardagno 96-95-100.

Bates ended up in fifth place after defeating twelfth place Notre Dame 3-1. Highest bowler for the victors was Skitchy Fiore ending up with strings of 95-121-127. Doing well for N. D. were Capt. Dickie Tofuri who had a good night in hitting for 111-113-108 and Al Repucci with 111-95-95.

B. C. and Harvard remained in sixth and seventh spots after B. C. winning 3-1. Leading the winners were Capt. John Mangano with 117-115-82, Slim Lentine 94-88-114 and Big Ted Peluso 87-103-102. Ted missed the encouraging words of his kid brother Gary who was a one-man cheering section. Capt. Babe Tofuri led the Harvard unit with 87-119-121 and next to him was Tony Lentine 90-106-98.

Navy moved up two notches to eighth place after winning over tenth place Army by a 4-0 shutout. Going strong for Navy were Frank Gangi 126-128-107, Roundy Fiore 121-120-92, Tony Chefalo 94-115-109 and Paul Amico 101-97-97. Army had no roller in the three hundred mark as Johnny Dattilo did best for them with 85-101-92.

Penn remains in last place after being taken 1-3 by ninth place California. Best performers for the top team were Capt. Muskie Tofuri 121-106-102, Charlie Gangi 94-105-97 and Frank Figlioli 77-90-125. Penn's Mike J. Saraco was top bowler for his team with 112-107-100 and coming a close second was Gero Cerulli with 94-107-97.

St. Mary's climbed to third from last after winning 3-1 over next to last place Maryland. Having a big hand in the victory for St. Mary's was good old anchor man Mingy Frongillo finishing up with 122-90-112. Doing best for Maryland were Sonny Mistretta having 95-110-99 and Maxie DiMambro 92-103-108.

The roll-offs for the championship got underway on Tuesday and results of same will be seen in this column next week.

S. O. I. Women's Bowling League

I would like to announce to the world that Polly Gicalone bowled 113. I'll bet you were so nervous. Are you up on Cloud 9 with Kay. By the way, Polly also took high triple for the nite.

Terry Walsh is a newcomer to the club. She bowled 101. Glad you made it. It looks like there aren't going to be any roll-offs. The Alpines and the Kools are the only teams that could possibly create an upset. It sure was exciting last week. By the time you read this everyone will know what happened. Eleanor Lucci is back on the Top Ten list. Good bowling, Eleanor. "Little Angie" caused a half a dozen gray hairs last week with her sweet delicate screams. Gee Angie you looked so cute in your "ivy league" knee socks.

Sorry to see Pauline Cerulli had to leave. Same trouble as Vi. Hey Charlie, are you giving it to them.

So happy, Eleanor Russo found everything better than she thought it would be when she had to leave early last week.

Rose, I swear that wiggle is getting worse. At this point I don't think they call it body English. Are you sure it helps the pins go down.

Hey Peggy, heard you are going to have to change your hair-do now that you are "first lady." Congratulations, Bob.

Lots of warm wishes for a lovely trip across the ocean, go to Florence Ciarcia and Company.

National Guard Launches All-Out Recruiting Drive

The National Guard, both Army and Air, has launched an all-out recruiting drive, Major General Donald W. McGowan, Chief of the National Guard Bureau, announced recently.

Calling last year's Berlin mobilization "the most successful in National Guard history," General McGowan stated that the Guard, both Army and Air, now occupies a position of greater importance in the defense posture of his nation than ever before.

Consequently, he said, it is vital that the Guard's strength be maintained at its maximum authorized level.

Dubbed "Operation Big Push," this recruiting drive has been described by Guard officials as a Total effort requiring every Guardsman to do his best to help the campaign along.

The Army National Guard is aiming at four men per unit per month for each of its 4,600 units during the next four months, while the Air National Guard's goal is two men per unit per month for each of its some 700 units through June 30.

General McGowan concluded that, "as it has in the past, the National Guard will once again meet the challenge."

Army Processing H. S. Seniors

The Armed Forces Examining Station (AFES) at the Boston Army Base officially announced this week that special arrangements are being made to process high school seniors during the coming spring vacation. According to Sergeant Bateson, Army recruiter in Medford, especially high priority is being given to applicants for the Army's recently-opened pilot training program.

With applications for the "Warrant Officer Flight Training Program" already exceeding expectations, Sergeant Bateson said that he anticipates a record number of young men will take advantage of "pre-processing" during their vacations next month. Pre-processing allows high school seniors to determine their eligibility for various fields, select schools or assignments of their choice, and then reserve them until graduation in June.

These reservations are actually guaranteed, Sgt Bateson explained; "They're guarantees in writing that a young man will receive the training for which he qualifies." This also holds true for Army helicopter or light aircraft pilot training.

Young men who want to make June graduation their first step toward an Army pilot's wings, or toward a career in any of the Army's hundred-plus technical areas, can arrange testing schedules for themselves by contacting Sgt. Bateson at 49 High Street or by calling him at EXport 6-5777.

Since the qualifications for pilot training include a special flight physical administered by aviation medical officers and flight surgeons, additional aptitude tests, and screening by a Warrant Officer Flight Training Examining Board, Sgt Bateson suggests that interested young men file their applications at the earliest possible date. The first group of seniors and graduates who qualify for Army Aviation training can begin their Army life in the first week of July.

VFW Post 3719 Auxiliary Bowling

Barbara is our bowler of the week with strings of 88, 103, and 100 for high triple 291. Rose was second with 93, 92, and 103 to total 288. Marsha was third with 103, 95, and 85, total 283. Blanche fourth with a 280 total which included a 114 string.

The Spades added four more points to their win column. Their second string total of 470 ties their team high single rolled on January 31st.

The Diamonds also won four more points. Marguerite O's 251 was a big help in winning.

With three weeeks to go, Rose has a high average well established, but it looks as if second place won't be decided until the very last night of bowling. Eleanor and Marsha have a real close race going. Lucy holds high triple 332, and it will take an unusual amount of luck for anyone to top that. Lucy and Marsha each have a high single of 120. A couple of bowlers have come close so anything can happen in the weeks to come.

Magda, it looked as if those pins were glued to the spot, they just wouldn't fall. What happened to you, Stina, not counting any more?

A. F. Announces "Patriot's Flight"

Sergeant Thomas Kearns of the area Air Force office at 19 High Street, Medford Square, has announced the formation of a special buddy group of USAF enlistees for Patriot's Day. The group of young men will be enlisted on April 19 as the "Patriot's Flight."

This marks the third year that the Air Force has granted permission for the enlistment of such a buddy group. Vacancies will be filled on a first-come, first-serve, basis.

Sergeant Kearns is now accepting applications for the buddy group. Young men may completely process for the flight and remain at home until April 19. Men accepted for the "Patriot's Flight" will travel to Texas together, and live and train together at Lackland Air Force Base. The Medford office is open every night, Monday through Friday, until 8:30 p.m. and on Saturdays until noon.

Dads' Club Plans Little League "Kickoff"

New President, "Al" La Pointe held his first meeting of new officers of Dads' Club of Little League to effect one of their major responsibilities, the Kick Off meeting, to be held Thursday night at 7 p.m. April 25, at the Winchester High School auditorium.

The officers for 1963 are: Jim Caudill, vice-president American League (also mgr. of the Pirates); Bob Wild, vice-president National League (also coach of the Lions); Bob Heileman, secretary; and Bill Ross, treasurer.

Since 8 year olds will no longer be accepted in Little League and their number will flow into Cap League, it was felt that stronger liaison should be established as the Dad's Club sponsors Cap League. As "Liaison Agent," Ralph Atkinson, treasurer, umpire, and a coach of Cap League since its inception was duly elected as a member of the board. His efforts herein have been highly regarded.

Mr. LaPointe was confident that the new board will serve Little League and Cap League to great advantage for the ensuing season.

Report in From The Red Cross In Kentucky

Mrs. Moulding, who left two weeks ago for the stricken area, is serving at Prestonburg, Kentucky as a case worker.

A veteran of previous disaster operations, she has had ten years of experience with the total Red Cross picture and is using all of this experience in her present situation. She is working in the area with some 227 Red Cross disaster staff personnel coming from 46 states.

Record floods in many areas of Eastern Kentucky and Southwestern West Virginia and Southwestern Virginia have driven thousands from their homes, creating extreme hardship. Latest count shows that over 18,000 families suffered loss.

The biggest job remaining in the disaster area is the re-establishment of homes. Those who need more than temporary aid have applied for Red Cross help. All aid is given based on need and as an outright gift of the American people through Red Cross.

Scouts Visit Star

Den 6 of Cub Scout troop 524 came into the Star last week to watch the presses roll and do a little research into the many vocations relating to the publishing of a newspaper.

Den mother Mrs. Edward Sullivan accompanied Den chief Ricky Nelson; Daniel Robinson, Daniel Martignetti, Eddie Sullivan Jim Riccardo, Bill Mumma, Bruce Mullin, Christopher Paccetti, Bill Arnold and Simon Majahad, all of whom will read the Star with more understanding and interest from now on.

CORRECTION

In last week's Burlington Rentool Service ad captioned "HOMEOWNERS — BARGAINS IN TOOLS" the Star erroneously printed "We are now liquidating; merely replacing a few well-kept tools." The sentence should, of course, have read, "We are not liquidating, etc." Many of the tools are still for sale and a complete line is, as always, available for rental.

Old Winchester Fire Station Leaves Town

With the razing of the old Excelsior 3 Hose House on Swanton Street near Washington Street, Winchester lost another of its links with the past. The Black Horse Tavern, the old Myopia Club House, the Shu-Shu-Gah Boathouse on Bacon Street, at the Parkway, the Cannonball Hotel, the old dog cart in the square, are others that have gone before.

What tales the old Hose House could tell if it could speak of the past and tell the stories of the men who dragged the old hose-wagon over the sidewalks of the town to fires within the community's borders.

The old hose house stood on historic ground to begin with. Previously the site had housed the old Adams School and many a boy or girl of the district learned to read, write and figure there.

The hose wagon, a light, hand-drawn wagon of the hand-tub variety, was acquired by the town December 14, 1874. It was at about the same time that the town broke down and bought the steamer, "Mary Ann," which became a legend in the town through the years.

The Excelsior Hose was stationed on Swanton Street near Washington Street. The other hose-wagons, the Black Horse Company, manned by the Symmeses and Goddus, was located in a small house near Symmes Corner. The West Side Company, manned by the Purringtons, was on Cambridge Street and the Rumford Company, manned by men of that district covered the town along upper Main Street.

The hose companies were strictly volunteer and a good deal of spirit went into the service that each gave the town. Getting first to a fire was something to be gloated over for weeks and it is recorded that seldom, if ever, was the Excelsior Hose second at a blaze in town.

There was a lot of speed in that Hose 3 Company and running strictly on the sidewalks they were pretty likely to get to the fires as soon as any one.

Making up the company were Pat Craughwell, James J. Fitzgerald, James Vincent O'Connell, known familiarly as "Butch"; Dan J. Kelley, Tim Callahan, Andy Harrold and a man named Grant whom no one seems to know. "Butch" and Dan Kelley were later for many years members of the Police Department. Pat Craughwell drove a Board of Health wagon for years.

"Butch" O'Connell, "Paddy" Craughwell and "Big Jim" Fitzgerald could run like the very devil and the other members of the company were not far behind. Many stories are told of the prowess of these men as runners in the old July 4th outings or for side bets. The company always claimed the record run to a fire and who will say they did not hold it.

The men took their duties very seriously and when at one time they signed on a new man, and he reported with an umbrella in a shower of rain at his first fire he was summarily discharged on the spot.

It wasn't for some time that horse-drawn hose wagons replaced the old hand-drawn reels. "Dave" DeCourcy, later Chief of the Fire Department for many years, was a driver at old Hose 3, but generally speaking the men best known for this job was "Mike" Nagle. "Mike" drove the hose for years, with big Jack Flaherty covering for him on "days off." Whether the horses had a fondness for Jack because he used to feed them chewing tobacco is a story for which we can not vouch.

The old Hose 3 House was used at the rear by the water department. The two-horse hitch went out the rear door to exercise, and out the front door to go to fires. The second floor of the house was used by the company for sleeping quarters. A brass pole led from the second to the first floor.

The old Hose House went out of existence in the early twenties, and after being used for a short time as a store, the house was bought by the Sons of Italy for use as a club house, continuing in this capacity until the Lodge built the fine new club house on the plains.

As we said before, what tales the old hose house could spin, of the old days of the big fires, the speed of the crew and the "collations" that always followed the fires that were actually put out by the firemen.

Memorial Gifts To Heart Assn.

Thirteen recently-deceased residents of Winchester have been honored by memorial gifts to the Massachusetts Heart Association's Greater Boston Chapter, it was announced today.

The gifts, representing a growing trend in this community, will honor the memory of the departed by making possible programs of research, education will give lifesaving aid to others.

Diseases of the heart and circulation account for more than half of all deaths and an uncounted but extremely high toll of disability here, and across the Commonwealth.

Allen L. Frederick, M.D., president of the Chapter, expressed the organization's gratitude to those who "so thoughtfully have remembered those no longer with us by giving living memorials."

"In this way," he said, "we act constructively in the face of loss and sorrow and in paying homage to the past provide new hope for the future."

Those honored were: Maria Capobianco; Hyman Ginsburg; Paul H. Howard; Elinor Davis Hughes; Ivan A. Jacobs; Pauline P. Kinsley; Floyd E. Lever; Henry C. Marcionette; William H. Maxwell; Oscar E. Merrow; Edward H. Nowell; Mr. G. Tateosian; and Merrill Wells.

Mounted Police Coming To M. S. P. C. A.

At its next meeting, on Monday April 8, the Winchester Auxiliary of the M. S. P. C. A. will welcome Seargent John Lynch of Station 16 Boston, who will talk on the much-publicized mounted police horses. He will tell a bit about their training and habits and about the controversy which arose when some economy-minded city fathers wished to do away with these picturesque and traditional beasts, which seem to be loved by strong men as well as "little old ladies."

Mrs. Harry Damon Jr. of 70 Arlington Street will open her home for the meeting. The usual pleasant closing social hour over the tea cups is promised. Members and friends are invited.

Old Fire House

OLD FIRE EXCELSIOR 3 HOSE HOUSE on Swanton Street near Washington Street is being torn down to make room for a small business establishment. It is another in a long list of local historic buildings and sites being changed with the passing of the years and the influx of new families and businesses into Winchester. The old Hose House used to service hand-drawn and horse-drawn fire wagons before the Center Fire Station was built for automotive fire engines.
